Wilson, Owen (White)
March 26, 1926 – May 15, 2011

Owen (White) Wilson, age 85, passed away peacefully at his home in the village of Hobart, surrounded by family members, on Sunday, May 15, 2011.

Owen was born on March 26, 1926 in Wyeville, WI to Agnes (Eagle) and Felix White Sr. He was raised in the Wyeville/Tomah area and Black River Falls. He attended the Tomah Indian School and the Neillsville Indian School. He received an associate degree from Mount Scenario College, Ladysmith, WI attended the University of Wisconsin – Stout, the University of Wisconsin – River Falls, and the University of Wisconsin – Stevens Point.

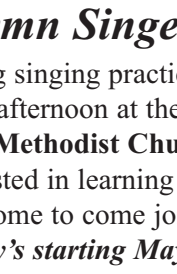
He worked as a welder in Chicago for years. While working in Chicago, he met and married Vera Skenandore. Owen and Vera had four children, Donald (Paula) Wilson, Bernard Wilson, Priscilla Wilson Shegonee, and Diane Wilson.

Vera and Owen later returned to Black River Falls where they lived and worked for several years. While living at Black River Falls, Owen worked at Jackson County Forestry Service while Vera worked as a nutritionist.

They next moved to Oneida, WI, where they remained until Vera passed away 3½ years ago. Owen continued to reside at Oneida until he passed away.

Owen was a comical philosopher of life. He enjoyed golfing, traveling, the Green Bay Packers, watching tennis, and wood carving. He will be greatly missed by all.

In addition to his four children, Owen is survived by his grandchildren, Matt Wilson, Palmer Hall, Christopher Hartman, Nicholas Wilson, Lauren Hartman, Jamison Wilson, Danielle Wilson, America Hartman, Ricky Wilson, Wyatt Wilson, and Brooke Wilson; 10 great grandchildren; a sister, Ellen Rose Snowball; and numerous other relatives and friends.



In addition to his wife, Vera, he was preceded in death by his parents, Agnes and Felix White Sr., brothers, Henry Smoke, Felix White Jr., Woodrow White, and Eugene White, and sisters, Roxanne Masquot and Gertrude Duffey.

Traditional Ho-Chunk services were held at 12 noon on Wednesday, May 18, 2011 at the District One Community Center and burial was in Decorah Cemetery both in rural Black River Falls. George Garvin was the presiding elder.

The Buswell Funeral Home, Black River Falls, is assisting the family with arrangements.

Stevens, Julie Ann
April 8, 1965 – May 6, 2011

Julie Ann Stevens, 46, Green Bay, died Friday afternoon May 6, 2011, at home, surrounded by her family. She was a proud Native Woman of the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin. Julie is the daughter of Abraham (Sandy) Stevens, Sr. and the late Patricia (Harold) Huff.

She enjoyed spending time with her granddaughter, hanging out with friends and family, cooking for her family, watching movies, doing beadwork, listening to music and doing crosswords.

Julie is survived by her fiance, Eldon Wheelock, Green Bay; children, David "Daniel" Stevens, Green Bay; Becky Stevens, De Pere; Tracey Stevens, Oneida; Eli Matson, Elroy, Wis.; and her grandchildren, Aydin and Acacia. Survivors also include her father, Abraham (Sandy) Stevens, Sr., Oneida; her brother and sisters, Sue (Brian) Pickett, Seymour; Sharon (Ralph) Cornelius, Oneida; Patricia "Bo" Stevens, Green Bay; Michelle Adams, Green Bay; Carmen Vallecillo, Green Bay; Joseph Stevens, Oneida; Amanda Stevens, Green Bay; and several nieces and nephews, whom she dearly loved. Julie was preceded in death by her mother, Patricia (Harold) Huff; brother, Abraham "Nick" Stevens, Jr.; nephew Gerald Smith; and niece Luna Flor Martinez-Stevens.

Funeral services were held at 5 p.m. Monday, May 9, 2011 at RYAN FUNERAL HOME AND CREMATORY, 305 North Tenth Street, De Pere, WI.

CenturyLink offers telephone assistance to individuals living on Tribal Lands

CenturyLink is energizing its efforts to inform residents of two assistance programs that provide discounts on initial telephone installation and basic monthly telephone service to qualifying low-income consumers. Link-Up helps these consumers pay the initial costs of getting telephone service. Lifeline provides certain discounts on monthly service for qualified subscribers.

Lifeline and Link-Up are available to qualifying consumers in every U.S. state (territory and commonwealth). Qualifications for participation vary by state. States with their own programs have their own criteria. In states that rely solely on the federal program, the subscriber must participate in one of the following programs: Medicaid, food stamps, Supplemental Security Income (SSI), Federal Public Housing Assistance or the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP), Head Start, the National School Lunch Program's Free Lunch Program, Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF) or if the Household annual gross income is at or below135% of the federal poverty level.

The amount of the discounts also varies by state. Link-Up helps qualified low-income consumers to connect to the telephone network. This federal program offsets 1/2 of the initial hook-up fee, up to $30, for qualified households.

Residents of American Indian and Alaskan Native tribal lands may qualify for an additional $25 of enhanced Lifeline support monthly and up to $70 of expanded Link-Up support beyond current levels. An individual living on tribal lands may also qualify for Lifeline and Link-Up discounts if he or she participates in one of the above programs or one of the following federal programs: Bureau of Indian Affairs General Assistance or Tribally-Administered Temporary Assistance to Needy Families.

Individuals living in a CenturyLink service area should call 800-201-4099 or visit www.centurylink.com/lifeline to inquire about eligibility.

Oneida Business Committee wrap: May 11, 2011

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Present – Vice-Chairwoman Kathy Hughes, Secretary Pattie Hoeft, Treasurer Tina Danforth, Chairman Rick Hill, Council Members Ed Delgado, Trish King, Ron Tehassi Hill, Melinda Danforth.

Excused – Councilman Brandon Stevens

The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) started off the Wednesday, May 11 meeting by swearing seven of eight people for five boards. Chris Cornelius and Al Manders took the oath of office for the Oneida Environmental Board; Jodi Cornelius was sworn in as an Oneida Election Board Alternate; the Oneida Child Protective Board had Beverly Skenandore take the oath; Michael Hill and Carol Silva swore in for the Oneida Nation Veterans Affairs Committee; and Wayne Metoxen and Wilbert Rentmeester joined the Oneida Total Integrated Enterprises Board.

The OBC addressed a request from Oneida citizen Gerald Doxtator to investigate how to improve Behavioral Health's operations to better serve youth and see clients sooner.

"I always got to go out of Oneida to get services for our own kids, because I can't get (Behavioral Health) to follow through or get appointments fast enough," said Doxtator. He complained of redundant paperwork to get services and a three month wait for appointments.

"If anybody with a right mind can't get through there, how's someone with a wrong mind get through that mess?" Doxtator asked.

"We think we have excellent staff over there, good councilors, we think they're doing a good job with what we give them, unfortunately, we can't give them the funding to do the job that they really would like to be able to do," replied Vice-Chairwoman Hughes. "But with every system, there is always room for improvement, and we have asked management to look at case management for one."

Hughes requested Doxtator work with Behavioral Health to improve its systems.

"It would be even more helpful now if you could work with that same staff that's assessing the system to identify the bureaucracy that you feel in your mind could be made maybe a little more streamlined," she said.

General Manager Debbie Thundercloud suggested that the new ombudsperson could gather customer input to create an action plan.

"We're going to be working with the Business Committee to work on the eligibility requirements because we can never provide enough services, and we have a three to four month waiting period right now," said Thundercloud.

Secretary Hoeft made a motion to direct the General Manager to bring back a report on the concerns raised about the ability of Behavioral Health to meet the community's needs by the end of June which was approved.

Minutes

The OBC approved the April 27 OBC minutes.

Resolutions

The OBC passed a resolution that repealed a 1984 resolution that required annual tuberculosis (TB) screening for all tribal employees. The resolution requires that the Employee Health Nursing Department establish which positions in the tribe should continue to get tested periodically.

Board, Committee and Commission quarterly reports

Amelia Cornelius presented reports for the Oneida Land Commission and the Oneida Land Claims Commission.

For the Land Commission, Cornelius reported Oneida reacquired 73 acres this quarter.

Cornelius stated that the Oneida Land Claims Commission was planning a special event on the Oneida Treaty History Series in June.

Both reports were accepted by the OBC.

Debbie Danforth of the Oneida School Board presented the board's report, which was accepted. Danforth also requested for an exception for the school to the policy that requires newly hired employees to be paid a starting salary that's 5% below their regular salary during their 90 day probationary period.

"That poses a real definite problem in our process in terms of hiring," said Danforth. The request was deferred to the next OBC meeting for a legal review.

A report from SEOTS was accepted via telephone conference.

Standing Committees
Legislative Operating Committee

The OBC accepted the April 20 Legislative Operating Committee (LOC) minutes. The committee also reserved Chapters 400-499 in the Code of Laws for education-related laws. The OBC accepted amendments to the LOC bylaws.

Finance Committee

The May 6 Finance Committee meeting minutes were approved by the OBC.

Community Development Planning Committee

The OBC approved the April 7 Community Development Planning Committee (CDPC) minutes.

The OBC also supported a plan called Adapt and Grow that would make Tsyunhéhkwʌ Retail Stores self-sufficient within five years.

Travel Reports

The OBC accepted a travel report from Vice-Chairwoman Hughes on a Tribal Technical Advisory Group (TTAG) meeting held April 20-21 in Portland, Oregon. TTAG is an advisory committee to the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS).

General Tribal Council

The OBC debated when to set the General Tribal Council (GTC) Meeting for the FY2012 budget. Secretary Hoeft stated there are no Saturdays available and suggested two Sunday dates and a Monday date.

Councilwoman Danforth stated there was a 1989 OBC resolution that required budget meetings be held in September. The item was deferred to the next OBC meeting.

Follow ups/BC directives

The OBC accepted a report from the General Manager's Office concerning Oneida's advisory boards. The report recommended doing annual reviews of the boards starting in the next budget cycle.

The OBC accepted a report on Sole Source Contracting for Oneida Indian owned businesses.

New Business Requests

Councilman Delgado made a motion to reinstate a hiring freeze for entities under the General Manager.

"Hiring is perhaps maybe going back to our old habits," said Delgado. The motion failed.

Secretary Hoeft made a motion to request the Joint Executive Team (JET) to bring back a report on the number of total employees at beginning of fiscal year and to date, and cost of those employees, and the impact of the severance plans. The motion was passed.

The OBC approved a letter to Senators Ron Johnson and Herb Kohl regarding Oneida's opposition to bill S771-Tribal Gaming Eligibility Act; approved a Review and Approval of compliance inspection reports for Oneida gaming facilities; issued facility licenses for the Packerland One Stop and Mason Street and Oneida Travel Center gaming facilities, and approved a contract with Getty Images US Inc. for graphic art image subscription.

Division Director of Environmental Health and Safety Pat Pelky gave a report on progress

Chairman's Corner...

Rick Hill
Chairman

Earlier this month here in the Green Bay area, I was present to hear Governor Scott Walker announce the State of Wisconsin's plan to seek an interstate designation for Highway 41 from the federal government. The intent is to boost economic development along the highway and to increase traffic safety for passenger and commercial vehicles.

Back in 2005, Wisconsin Congressman Tom Petri secured language in the federal transportation law to have Highway 41 designated as a future interstate highway. Seeking an interstate designation requires the State to meet a number of federal requirements and standards before the Federal Highway Authority grants its approval, such as weight load limits, lane/shoulder widths, and overhead bridge heights.

The Highway 41 corridor is approximately 142 miles between the cities of Green Bay and Milwaukee. Of that, less than one mile of Highway 41 is located within the exterior boundaries of the Oneida Reservation at the intersection of Highway 54/West Mason Street, one of the busiest intersections in the Green Bay area. It is possible that Oneida is the only tribe in the United States to have a major highway intersection within its reservation boundaries.

In 2010, the Highway 41 and Mason Street intersection averaged more than 70,000 cars per day, with the traffic count much higher on Green Bay Packer game days. It is anticipated that once the Highway 41 expansion is completed, the traffic count has the potential to exceed 100,000 cars per day.

At the federal level, the interstate designation also has the support of new Congressman Reid Ribble, who was recently appointed to the House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee earlier this month. Locally and regionally, more than 20 Brown County municipalities along Highway have adopted resolutions of support for the interstate designation. The State will begin the interstate designation process and consult with all the affected communities by holding public informational meetings to keep the public informed.

Because a portion of the Oneida Reservation is part of the Highway 41 corridor at the Mason Street intersection, any infrastructure improvements to the highway have the potential to affect Oneida and our economic interests in a positive manner. This in turn helps to support our governmental programs and services to the Oneida membership.

By working together with the local, state and federal government agencies on the Highway 41 corridor improvements and interstate designation, we can bring all of our resources together from all our respective governments to improve the Green Bay region and traffic safety of our citizens and visitors, and more importantly improve our respective economies to sustain our communities.

OBC Forum...

Shekólih,

Along with the transition into spring, many community events and organizational issues are starting to take shape quickly, and while I cannot cover them all, there a few I would like to recognize or address.

Elections

First, a huge Yaw^ko to the Oneida community for participating in the first ever Oneida Primary Election on May 7th. It was absolutely exciting to see approximately 1200 people exercise the right to vote! I am pleased to announce that I have successfully made it through the primary and am determined to work hard to retain your support.

Unfortunately, this campaign season has already been filled with a lot of misinformation, unrealistic promises and vicious rumors, so I urge you to confront the candidates about their plans to make their promises a reality and to seek out the truth to rumors circulating amongst the community.

As always, the community can expect a very professional, respectful and dignified campaign from me, and I am always open to hearing your concerns and recommendations. The General Election is scheduled for July 16th and once again I humbly ask for your support.

Budget

The Oneida Business Committee is once again engaged in budget discussions and continues to face challenging circumstances to balance the budget. In the upcoming months, the Business Committee will be reviewing the budgets and address the foreseen shortfall. I will do my best to provide a point of view that balances the three major budgeting areas we look at: Labor (wages, benefits, etc.), Direct Services (Social Services, health care, elderly services, etc.) and GTC Mandates (per capita, higher education funding, etc.).

Melinda Danforth
Councilwoman

Constitutional Amendments

Regarding the requested Secretarial Election to complete the constitutional amendment process, we continue to be in a holding pattern, awaiting a decision from the Department of Interior. The decision makers in Washington D.C. have been lobbied and made aware of the outstanding questions we have for the Secretarial Election.

As stated during the community information sessions and in mailings, we will do our best to continue distributing information as timely and accurately as possible. We also anticipate an addition to the Tribe's webpage which will contain information. Questions be directed to my office directly or be sent to constitution @oneidanation.org

Congratulations Graduates!

Graduation season is upon us and I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate all the Oneida graduates from Headstart, Elementary School, High School & College. A special congratulations to my son, Everett Danforth, for graduating from Oneida Headstart and a huge Yaw^ko to the Oneida community for always placing education a top priority!

Science Fair Winners

The Oneida Tribal School participated in the 24th Annual AISES Science Fair which is held in Albuquerque, New Mexico. While the competition took place in March, as one of the school liaisons, I would still like to take this opportunity to congratulate everyone who participated. 4 students participated as follows:. Loiusa Mehojah, grade 7; Sheila Stevens, grade 8; Guadalupe Martinez, grade 11 & Ululani Nunies, grade 12. The students were sponsored by ONSS with the support of the Oneida Nation School Board and the endorsement of the Oneida Nation Business Committee. 3 of the students placed in their perspective categories, 2 of the students won 2nd place and one student won 1st place. Ululani won 3 special awards and Guadalupe Martinez won 1 special award. Also, I extend a special Thank you to Oneida Nation School System staff Yvette Peguero and Laura Studee and parents chaperones Jack and Debbie Mehojah, for chaperoning the students.

Community Events

If you have the opportunity to read the Kalihwisaks, please take note of some upcoming community events. There are several taking place every month and May and June are no exceptions. Two upcoming annual events are:

- The Elder/Youth Fishing Event on May 21st at Culture Heritage, and Taste of Oneida (aka Family Carnival) will be held on June 3rd and 4th.

Please feel free to continue send me your questions and feedback. I can be reached through email at: mdanforj@oneidanation.org or at www.facebook.com search: Melinda J. Danforth.

Yawʌ́ko!

Memorial Day

My step-father, Willard E. Lamere, was a World War II veteran. He normally did not talk much about his role as a medic in the invasion of Normandy. I know he had memories that affected him deeply. The few things he did say about those days have caused me to stop and think about those veterans who fought and died for our country. Willard was a Winnebago. He did tell us when we were young about Mitchell Red Cloud. Mitchell Red Cloud, also a Winnebago, received the Congressional Medal of Honor.

The Congressional Medal of Honor is the highest U.S. military decoration awarded. More often than not, a Medal of Honor is granted posthumously because the action performed while earning the Medal is so self-sacrificing and courageous that it results in the soldier's own death. Mitchell Red Cloud, the record says, was a Corporal in the 19th Infantry in Korea. On November 5, 1950, Red Cloud was on a ridge guarding his company command post when he was surprised by Chinese communist forces. He sounded the alarm and stayed in his position firing his automatic rifle at point-blank to check the assault. This gave his company time to consolidate their defenses. After being severely wounded by enemy fire, he refused assistance and continued firing upon the enemy until he was fatally wounded. His heroic action prevented the enemy from overrunning his company's command position and gained time for evacuation of the wounded. This Memorial Day, I'll be remembering Mitchell Red Cloud, my step-father Willard, and all veterans who have sacrificed.

Tribe Continues to Spend

At the May 11th Business Committee Meeting, the BC approved a six month contract for a full-time attorney to help the Legislative Operating Committee close out the legislative initiatives for this term. In an effort to reduce costs, I voted against the hiring. Tribal Treasurer Tina Danforth and Tribal Secretary Patty Hoeft also voted to save the money to help balance the budget for 2012.

Wage Petition Update

To date, the Business Committee continues to propose a 1.8% wage increase. In July, the General Tribal Council will approve, disapprove or modify a petition request for a wage increase of .75 cents per hour for all employees making $60,000 or less per year. In my last Legislative Forum, I said that if I were a slot-technician making about $38,000 annually, and had children to feed and diapers to buy, I'd vote for the larger wage increase. As a Business Committee member, I hope we can identify the funds to increase the 1.8% to something more reasonable and acceptable to our employees who have not received a wage increase for 3 years.

OHA Rentals

Many Oneidas who want to know why OHA renters have to pay rent at a much higher rate than non-renters. Renters currently pay 30% of their adjusted income. I support a lower rate. Below is the rate paid by other tribes in Wisconsin:

Public Hearing Notice

9:00AM Norbert Hill Center (BCCR)

May 23, 2011

Purpose:
Amendments to the Child Custody, Placement and Visitation law to Address a Parent Move.
The intent of these Amendments is to require a parent with physical custody of a child to provide notice to the other parent prior to moving outside of the state. The Amendments also provide a mechanism for the non-custodial parent to object and a hearing to be held. The Amendments are based on a request submitted by the Oneida Appeals Commission.

Purpose:
Oneida Tribal Regulation of Domestic Animals Ordinance Amendments.
The purpose of these amendments is to grandfather in those individuals who have more animals than allowed under the Tribe's law, if they had those animals on the land before they became subject to the jurisdiction of the Tribe. The amendments would also allow an individual to operate a kennel on land zoned residential, if he or she obtains a permit from the Land Commission which allows the kennel. Finally, the amendments clarify the type of land the Ordinance applies to and allows individuals to appeal fines and citations to the Environmental Resource Board.

Purpose:
Amendments to Address Guardians Ad Litem Appointments and Conflicts of Interest.
The intent of these amendments is to prevent conflicts of interest in the appointment of guardians ad litem. The provisions for appointing a guardian ad litem are located in the Child Custody, Placement, and Visitation law. Under the amendments, a person would be disqualified for appointment as a guardian ad litem for a particular case if he or she is related to an interested party, an actual party, a Commissioner for the proceeding, or to an appointing Commissioner. Amendments to the Paternity law and Child Support law are also included in order to reference the Child Custody, Placement and Visitation law's standards for guardian ad litem appointments.

Purpose:
Hunting, Fishing and Trapping Law Amendments.
The purpose of these amendments is to update the Hunting, Fishing and Trapping Law for the 2011-2012 season. The Amendments would allow ten and eleven-year olds to obtain a sportsman license to hunt after completing a hunter safety course, if he or she remains within arms grasp of a mentor while hunting; obeys all hunting laws and regulations; and obtains the necessary licenses, permits and/or tags. The Amendments also outline the requirements that a person must meet in order to be a mentor to a ten or eleven-year old hunter.
In addition, the Amendments would allow tree stands to remain up until April 1st, as opposed to two weeks after the end of archery season; require a buck to have at least 4 points in order to be harvested; limit a designated hunter to hunting for one elder or disabled person; legalize colony traps; require individuals to obtain a permit before possessing or releasing birds for dog training purposes; and allow non-Indians to obtain a predator's license to hunt fox, coyote and raccoon on the Reservation.

Purpose:
Indian Preference in Contracting Law Adoption.
The Indian Preference in Contracting law would replace the current Oneida Indian Preference Law, which was originally adopted in 1998 and last amended in 2003. The purposes of the law are to 1) expand the application of preference in contracting, thus increasing economic opportunities for tribal businesses, and 2) to prevent increased Tribal costs due to misuse of Indian preference entitlement.

Purpose:
Amendments to the Per Capita Ordinance.
The intent of these Amendments is to:
- Adopt a fine of 1/3 of the balance of the trust account to penalize those individuals who submit fraudulent proof of a diploma when claiming their trust account funds.
- Prohibit someone who is dually enrolled in the Oneida Tribe and another Tribe from being eligible for a per capita payment.
- Outline how a Tribal member may refuse a per capita payment or trust account payment.
- Clarify how prior payments may be claimed and how they are distributed.
- Prohibit a per capita payment to a Tribal member whose date of death occurs before the payment is distributed.
- Authorize the Trust Committee to establish additional payment dates, as needed, with Oneida Business Committee (OBC) approval.

Purpose:
Voluntary Severance Law Adoption.
The purpose of this law is to govern voluntary severance by creating the authorities and responsibilities of various Tribal entities when a voluntary severance is available to employees of the Tribe. The Law allows the Oneida Business Committee to reduce the Tribe's workforce, based on financial conditions, through the enactment of a voluntary severance. Under the Law, the Human Resource Department and the Executive Managers are responsible for informing employees of the voluntary severance and making the final determination as to whether an employee is eligible to receive a severance. The intent of the Law is not to terminate employees based on performance issues and applies only to those employees who voluntarily resign from the Tribe.

June 23, 2011

Purpose:
Zoning and Shoreland Protection Law Amendments: Nuisance Provisions.
The intent of the proposed amendments is to expand and clarify the nuisance provisions of the Law. The Amendments add an intent statement to the public nuisance section of the Law and additional categories to the public nuisance section. The intent of the Amendments is that even though certain conditions may exist, they will not necessarily be a public nuisance. The definition of "public nuisance," along with the intent of the public nuisance section and the discretion of the Zoning Administrator will be used to determine whether a public nuisance exists.

Public Hearing Process
Testimony:
Oral: There will be a 5 minute limit for all oral presentations. Each participant is encouraged to provide a written transcript of his/her oral testimony, to be submitted while present at the public hearing or within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the below named individuals.
Written: For those who cannot attend the scheduled public hearing or do not plan to speak at the hearing, the Oneida Tribe encourages those to submit written testimony. A maximum of ten (10) pages, doubled spaced, can be submitted within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the Tribal Secretary (Patricia Hoeft) or Tonya Boucher, Legislative Reference Office at the Norbert Hill Center, 2nd floor or mail to PO Box 365, Oneida WI 54155.
If you would like to obtain a copy of the above proposed law or have any questions as to the public hearing process you may contact Tonya Boucher at the Legislative Reference Office, via GroupWise tboucher@oneidanation.org Or call 1-800-236-2214 or 920-869-4240*. (Greetings to All)

I am Jodie Skenandore, your Burial Benefits Specialist. This is the second article in a series regarding burial benefits for the Tribal Membership.

This article will focus on situations that can and have resulted from not submitting an OLIPP (Oneida Life Insurance Plan Plus) Beneficiary Designation form.

Our goal is to get every adult Tribal Member to complete a Beneficiary Designation Form. In the coming months you will see me and/or other representatives from the Enrollment Department at various community events to help achieve this goal.

1-800-571-9902 or 920-869-6202
or by email at:
JSKENAN7@oneidanation.org

The following burial benefits are available to the membership:

Children's Burial Fund

Eligibility Criteria:

- Children ages 0-5, not enrolled but eligible for enrollment or children age 6 who have been recommended for enrollment but have not yet been approved by the Business Committee
- Available at no cost

Requirements:

- Requests for assistance must be received within 365 days from date of death.
- Original invoices must be provided to the Oneida Enrollment Department for payment within 365 days from date of death.
- Specific documentation must be on file prior to processing of invoices for funeral expenses.

OLIPP (Oneida Life Insurance Plan Plus)

Total benefit $15,000

Eligibility Criteria:

- Enrolled Tribal Member
- Available at no cost

Requirements:

Requests must be received within 365 days from date of death. If no Beneficiary Designation form is on file, the following naming sequence will be used:

- Widow or widower
- Child(ren) (natural or legally adopted)
- Grandchild(ren)
- Parent(s)
- Brother(s) and sister(s)
- Member's estate

Oneida Tribal Cemetery
TSIʔ TYEYAʔ TATALIH (Where They Bury a Body)

Plot Cost: Currently $100 per plot

- Plot marking, opening/closing fees determined at time of burial

Mark the Box!!!

Simply put, we're encouraging members who have not completed a Beneficiary Designation Form to:

(a) Obtain a Beneficiary Designation form
(b) Complete the Beneficiary Designation form
(c) Return the Beneficiary Designation form to the Enrollment Department

If you are undecided as to who should be your beneficiary(ies) we suggest you do the following until you determine who will be your beneficiary(ies).

(a) Complete section A
(b) Check mark the Enrollment Department box
(c) Sign and date section D

In the event of your untimely death, by check marking the Enrollment Department box, this ensures that your funeral home invoice is paid (either up to the life insurance benefit amount of $15,000 or $7,500 if married, unless spousal waiver has been signed). Any remaining monies under the $15,000 would then be paid to eligible beneficiary(ies) as identified in the following naming sequence:

(a) Widow or widower
(b) Child(ren) (natural or legally adopted children)
(c) Grandchild or grandchildren
(d) Parent(s)
(e) Brother(s) and sister(s)
(f) Member's estate

Most importantly, once you have determined your beneficiary(ies), you should complete a new Beneficiary Designation form. This can be done by requesting a new form by picking one up from the Enrollment Office or printing one from our website (www.oneidanation.org/enrollment). This will ensure that your final wishes are carried out by those who you entrusted to take care of your final expenses.

The following examples are being provided to encourage every adult to take a proactive role in assuring that their life insurance benefits are used for the purpose it was intended, your funeral/final expenses:

Scenario #1

- A single Tribal Member who had minor children.
  Because there was no Beneficiary Designation form the life insurance policy naming sequence had to be enforced. The legal guardian of the minor children received the proceeds. Unfortunately, no one was allowed to assign any portion to the funeral home. Therefore, the funeral expenses did not get paid and whoever signed the contract with the funeral home was responsible to pay the bill.

- A widowed Tribal Member had numerous adult children.
  Because there was no Beneficiary Designation form the life insurance policy naming sequence had to be enforced. According to the policy (naming sequence), the children were determined eligible to receive the proceeds in equal shares. The insurance company had to locate all children to make payment, which took more than 6 months. Some children assigned their portion towards the funeral home expenses, leaving responsibility of payment of the remaining balance to whoever signed the funeral home contract.

Scenario #3

- Numerous occasions have occurred where the naming sequence was followed due to no Beneficiary Designation form on file. The person(s) who were determined to receive the proceeds did NOT use the monies to pay the funeral home bill, leaving the responsibility of payment to the person(s) signing the funeral home contract.

Scenario #4

- Unfortunately, there have been numerous occasions where a Tribal Member did have a beneficiary form on file and the beneficiary(ies) they designated did NOT use the monies to pay the member's funeral home bill, leaving responsibility of payment to the person(s) signing the funeral home contract.

This is why it is highly recommended that you check the box to have the Enrollment Department designated as Primary Beneficiary. This way your funeral home bill will get paid first and any remaining monies will be paid to either your designated or undesignated beneficiary(ies).

Letters & Opinions...

Code Name Geronimo

Does it ever end? The latest is the announcement that Osama bin Laden (among the most hated men in the HISTORY of the world) was given the code name – Geronimo. When U.S. forces killed Bin Laden and communicated it to our President, the message was "Geronimo EKIA" (enemy killed in action).

The origin of this code name has not been attributed to any specific person or administration. If the Obama administration did not create this code name, Tribes would certainly expect that this President would discontinue its use? This is very disappointing Mr. President.

Geronimo was a famous Indian war leader against invading Mexican and United States troops. Injured many times by bullet and buckshot wounds he became an icon. He defended his land and people aggressively and against great odds with just a handful of followers. He was by all accounts very elusive and feared, resulting in him being named "the worst Indian that ever lived" by white settlers.

So, why would the United States government resort to giving Bin Laden the code name – Geronimo? Geronimo was brave and fought for his and his peoples survival. Bin Laden was a coward who bought the lives of children and men to become terrorists, suicide bombers, and murderers of innocent people. In today's era of enlightenment, where discrimination and racism cease to exist, how can this happen? I wish I had an answer. Like the defenders of Indian mascots, maybe the President believes this is a way to "honor" and "show respect" for our culture.

Mr. President: Can you provide the young Indian children who went to school on the Monday after Bin Laden's death with a teachable moment as to why they should endure their classmates scorn and ridicule (yes, kids can be mean)? What is our "take away" from this?

I am a proud tribal member who is here because my forefathers were able survive against all odds. My fellow tribal members remain proud, surviving, and continuing to make great contributions to society. We will be relentless in guaranteeing our right of existence, and the fair and respectful treatment of all. That is the very least we will accept.

The Oneida Legislative Affairs Office and Oneida Business Committee should be in the process of demanding a formal apology.

Thank You for the Support

We would like to extend our appreciation to al those who supported my daughter Cheyanna Metoxen in the 2009 National American Miss Pageant in Middleton, WI. This pageant was a true blessing for us and a great growth opportunity for my daughter. Without all you help my daughter wouldn't have taken advantage of the opportunities the pageant offered. We love and appreciated Kerry Metoxen and the ONVAC Committee, Cletus Ninham and the Oneida VFW #7784, Brandon Stevens and family, Grandpa, Grandma, Jeannie Way, Uncle Roger Metoxen, Uncle Cary Metoxen, Lori Metoxen, Pat Cornelius and the Oneida Farm, members of the CFFC Church in Milwaukee, WI, Cathy Metoxen, Mike Debraska and family in Milwaukee, and Geraldine Danforth and the donation committee.

Again, thank you to all that I may have missed. If it wasn't for your help this opportunity would not have become a reality. Love you and God bless you all.

Tribal responsibility on any business

Seven Generations $19 million loan request information given I believe is wrong. I wish that I could just sit quietly by and not get involved, but I want all the tribal members to know that what they have been told by the Business Committee and by our good attorneys is incorrect.

You were told that the Tribe would not be liable if the 7 Generations Project failed. That is wrong. The Tribe set up this Corporation and the Tribe is ultimately responsible if it fails! Regardless of their Charter. Here is how it works:

The Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) sets up the Rules (25 CFR 103). The Indian Finance Act tells how the money is to be released. The Guaranteed Loan Program only promises the loaning institution they will get their money back. Now read the fine print. It is the fiduciary responsibility of the Federal Government to recover the lost money from the Tribe. In other words, the Tribe has to pay it back. The tax payers must be assured. Congress is our boss. Congress set up the Tribes and Regulations. Follow the flow chart:

Bank: Loans the money
Tribe: Spends the money
Upon default:
Bank forecloses: Takes the business
BIA Guarantees loan: Pays off the mortgage
BIA owns business: Tax payers don't want the business
BIA collects from the tribe: Works out a payment plan based on how much our casino makes and the Tribe pays a percentage of the gross amount until the loan is paid in full
The Tribe pays: Our money is gone

It is the responsibility of the Elected officials to check this out before we have another Nature's Way or Plexus Plan where we lose money and we never go after it to protect all the Tribal members. Don't listen to our good attorneys. Get a second opinion. Check with the BIA solicitor and read 25 CFR Part 103. I respectfully request that every Tribal member who wants to protect our money to call Mr. Steve Ruda in Denver at 1 (720) 407-0610. He is the one who administers the program for the BIA, representing the Government. Find out that the Tribe is ultimately responsible. Be informed – please.

Sincerely,
Frank Cornelius

Issues facing the GTC

Dear Editor,

Recently, I submitted a petition for the GTC meeting scheduled to resolve items previously tabled, and the Judiciary is one such item. On May 23rd, I will ask the GTC to take the Judiciary Act off the table and vote on the qualifications of judges and the disciplinary panels for several reasons.

First, and most important, the will of the GTC has been done. The February 5th motion required an open forum of community members to discuss the options, come to a more precise recommendation regarding educational standards and disciplinary panels, and return to the GTC. It is my understanding this has been done.

Second, the GTC is ready for this positive change. Aside from the arbitrary and confusing last minute motion to table issue on February 5th, the GTC reached the point where it seemed finally (after years) ready to vote to approve the law that establishes our tribal court. The tribe has outgrown the "Appeals Commission" (AC) especially with recent expansion in jurisdiction.

Last, and related to both above points, is my concern regarding ethics. According to Oneida's own "Code of Ethics," a law that applies to elected or appointed government officials including Appeals Commissioners:

"A government official shall create and maintain an independent and honorable political system, and shall observe high standards of conduct toward achieving this goal, including, but not limited to

(1) encouraging separation between. . .[e]ntities of tribal government, and. . . [avoiding]contact. . . that violates. . .[s]eparation. [and]

(2) avoid[ing]participation in action or decision making. . . that would present an appearance of conflict of interest or actual conflict of interest."

When Appeals Commissioners openly admit to participating and attempting to influence a volunteer citizen group discussing the proposed judiciary, the Code of Ethics is violated in two important ways: violation of the separation of powers and undermining the public confidence in governmental affairs by attempting to influence an outcome for personal gain.

Appeals Commissioners, in order to maintain the system of checks and balances (separation of powers), do not belong in any place attempting to influence the creation of law in this way. This is a foundational legal principal—one which any legally educated person would understand.

While an Appeals Commissioner could claim a future law does not create an ethical conflict -- it most definitely does. If the discussion focuses on setting educational/ experience standards for Judges that a current Appeals Commissioner can't meet, then attempting to influence the conversation has a direct impact on their future income and employability.

In such a case, the Code of Ethics is violated in the most basic and selfish way. Oneida needs officials who understand ethics, follow them, and will face true consequences for not abiding by them. This is vital to our confidence in our public officials and legal system.

I ask you to attend the May 23rd meeting with open minds and hearts. This is an important issue of sovereignty, public confidence, integrity, and credibility.

Sincerely,
Loretta Metoxen

OHA works hard to keep units in shape

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The responsibility of a landlord is to provide a safe living condition for their tenant. The Oneida Housing Authority's (OHA) rehabilitation and maintenance crews make sure that responsibility is met.

A widely forgotten aspect of the OHA' program is the updating units when a family moves out and new family moves in. Shane John, OHA Rehab Coordinator since 1994, is responsible to ensure the process is as smooth as possible.

"On the maintenance side it is pretty consistent. A lot of patching walls and doors and repainting," John said. "On the rehab side, we do big projects at one time like siding, roofing, and flooring."

John acknowledges concerns about varying time frames each home has when it is rehabbed but explains there is a reason.

"Each house is going to be different. It depends what tenants lived there. Sometimes it just takes a fresh coat of paint and we are out of there in a week or week and a half," John said. "Sometimes we will be there for a month because of the excessive damage like patching holes patching doors, or replacing floors. It just varies from unit to unit."

According to John the OHA rehabbing process never seems to end. "We do so many different large projects on 25 to 30 homes at a time. By the time we get done in Site II we go to Site I and it's time to come back to Site I for something else. It seems like a revolving door," John said.

John wants tenants to know that simple maintenance self-sufficiency is encouraged.

"We don't want them messing around with water heaters but sometimes we get calls to tighten screws on a doorknob," said John. "They can change their own light bulbs, check furnace filters. They are expected to keep their grass cut and shoveling (snow) unless they are elderly."

The busy workload might affect morale but that is not the case at OHA.

"The guys we have like what they are dong and enjoy it. They get a lot of satisfaction out of it," John said. "We are not looking for recognition. The guys get it from themselves and us when they fix up a unit. We know what we are doing and we do a good job."

Tribal members head to the polls to make history

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Tribe took a historic step during the first ever primary elections held Saturday, May 7.

The primaries narrowed the field of Oneida Business Committee (OBC) members to 15 while setting up two-person races for the Chairperson, Vice-Chairperson, and Secretary positions. The Treasurer position was not on the ballot as the field only consists of current Vice-Chairwoman Kathy Hughes and current Treasurer Tina Danforth.

The General Tribal Council adopted new election laws allowing the first ever primary election during the January 3 Annual meeting. Elections for the OBC are held every three years.

Top vote getters from the primary election may not carry over to the July 16 general election as turnout was lower than the consistent average that the primary election has. The primary election saw 1,215 total voters with 136 of those coming from Milwaukee. According to the Oneida Election Board Chairperson Leyne Orosco voter turnout should increase for the July elections.

"(There) were not as many, about 400 less than a general election," said Orosco. "In 2008 there were about 1.600 voters in the general election. In 2005 there were 1,508 and in 2002 there were 1,704."

The primaries did create some extra preparation by the Oneida Election Board.

"(We made) the members aware of the upcoming primary about six months prior to the election. We developed a fact sheet for the members to answer questions in advance of what to expect and what the primary would accomplish," said Orosco. " "The rest of the preparation was basically a duplication of services; verifying primary candidates, notifying the candidates of eligibility, developing a sample ballot, notice of election, a lot of logistics behind the scene preparing for the election. Because of the primary, we did have to rent an extra Accu-Vote tabulator twice, once for the primary election and once for the general election."

Oneida tribal members took to the polls to make history in the tribes first ever primary election. Voters narrowed the field in Oneida Business Committee positions and will select the committee during the July General Elections.

As expected, voters had more than the usual amount of questions for Election Board members.

"I believe it was because this was the first primary for Oneida. A lot of the questions surrounded the two round system. Many didn't understand why they couldn't pick two candidates to go forward in the officer positions and 15 in the council section. After an explanation of how the primary works and what we were trying to achieve, they understood it better," Orosco said.

The July 16 General Election will not only set the OBC for three years but also fill open positions on the Oneida Tribal Judicial System, Oneida Commission on Aging, Land Commission, Land Claims Commission, and the Parent Position on the Tribal School Board. Referendum questions regarding stipend payments to on-the-clock employees, absentee balloting, and the election of the Chief of Police will also be considered.

Oneida Community Library hosts open house

It may have been cold and rainy outside on Saturday April 16th, but inside the Oneida Community Library it was "chili". The Oneida Community Library held its Annual Open House and "Staff Chili Cook Off". Every year we hold an Open House for patrons to come in and check out all the great innovations going on at the library, with the added bonus of sampling some great chili and fry bread made by the staff. Our featured author this year was Mercer Mayer the writer of the popular Little Critter Series. We celebrated his work by sharing stories, games, and activities based from his stories. The chili and fry bread maybe gone, but all the wonderful resources offered to our patrons at the libraries are not! We have two great locations to serve you, Oneida Community Library at 201 Elm Street Oneida, Wi or Green Earth Branch Library W1273 Redtail Drive (located in the Green Earth Mobile Home Court). So come check us out.

Oneida to Host Gaming Risk Management Conference

By Ernest L. Stevens III

When:July 14th and 15th (stay tuned for the times and schedules)

Where: Radisson Hotel and Conference Center

Oneida's own Risk Management department landed us a host gig for a very important, very well attended event. The Annual Gaming Risk Management Conference is a concerted effort to bring tribes from this regional area together to address common risk issues associated with gaming and hospitality activities, share knowledge and experience for the benefit of all tribes represented. It is also a collective initiative to promote fellowship, share new ideas, instill trust and create new friendships among all tribes involved. It attracts tribal representatives from within the five state region of Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota.

Attendees will include all those who work with various programs for their tribes in Risk Management, Security, Human Resources, Safety/Loss Control, Claims, Insurance, and so forth. Also, tribal vendors will have an opportunity to attend, which include but are not limited to insurance brokers, claims administrators, and other consultants.

Guest speakers will include professionals in areas of all related expertise including Emergency Management, health care, safety/loss control, food & hospitality, training, workers' compensation and return-to-work program managers, occupational health, and nursing professionals.

"There is an expected attendance of 80, or more," said Risk Management Director Bob Keck, "so we have an opportunity to not only share with these tribes how we manage risk, but also how we do business overall. It is also a great opportunity to share with them some elements of the Wisconsin Oneida community."

Oneida's centralized location may make it easier and more affordable for more attendees than in the past. "The attendee mailing list from last year's host numbered around 90 names," adds Keck. "I have increased it to around 120 by making sure all WI tribes were on the list, plus I added several names as a result of my having many MI connections. My hope is that this will be the most well attended conference ever."

Bob had attended these conferences in the past and felt they were great learning and sharing opportunities for him, his department, and the tribe as a whole. It is an opportunity again to meet, network, and potentially engage in business with our neighboring tribes to share and gain knowledge. Beyond that, the opportunity comes down to simple economics. "I participated in the Revenue Generation Committee meetings that were held in early 2010 and felt that volunteering to host the 2011 annual conference would be a good revenue opportunity, so with the support of the RG Committee, I went ahead with it. And here we are."

This will be a great opportunity to showcase our facilities as well, and we plan to work with the Enterprise entities to offer golf packages to attendees at Thornberry, among other efforts to maximize the opportunity.

The conference itself is free for attendees, and ALL our conference costs will be paid for through sponsorships, so there is NO cost to the Tribe to host it. "I solicited sponsorship donations from our Risk Management associated vendors and those vendors who have been financially supportive of this conference in the past," adds Keck. "It all worked our perfectly for everyone. I am excited to be a part of it."

Organization and planning efforts by Risk Management have been greatly assisted by our own representatives from the Radisson, Gaming, Marketing, Tourism, Thornberry Creek, Employee Health Nursing and others. A special Yaw^ko for all of your help!

Follow-ups/BC directives

An update on Three Fires, LLC was accepted as FYI.

A Complimentary Items and Services Compliance Audit was deferred to the next meeting.

Councilwoman Melinda Danforth volunteered her office to do the performance evaluations of executive managers excluding the Chief Financial Officer Larry Barton, and to have them done by May 25.

Audit Committee

The OBC approved minutes from the March 17 and March 29 special Audit Committee meetings, and for the March 31 Audit Committee meeting.

An Internal Audit Report with Attachment A was approved by the Council.

The OBC also approved Compliance Audits for rules for Black Jack, Minibaccarat, and Three Card Poker.

New Business/Requests

The Oneida Business Committee approved a contract with McKesson Healthcare with a limited waiver of sovereign immunity, and approved Oneida Seven Generation Corp. – Life Settlement Investment.

Additions

The OBC approved travel for any OBC member who wished to attend the National Congress of American Indians (NCAI) conference taking place in Milwaukee June 13-16.

The OBC accepted a report from Gaming Commissioner Amelia Cornelius on gaming vendor licensing for contracts under $50,000, and deferred the item to the Legislative Operating Committee.

A six-month contract for attorney Scott Wilson was accepted by the Committee.

Councilwoman Danforth put in a request for the Chief of Staff Bill Gollnick to do an update on the Oneida Land Claims in New York at an upcoming GTC meeting.

Fish wins seat in 2011 World Poker Tour Championship

Keshena, Wisconsin – April 25th, 2011 – A memorable once-in-a-lifetime expedition to Las Vegas, Nevada may generate an abundance of wealth for a local Menominee man. Winning was "in the cards" and the Menominee Casino Resort recognizes Kenneth "Bum Bum" Fish, of Keshena. Mr. Fish is the first enrolled Menominee tribal member to have the opportunity to compete in the World Poker Tour (WPT) Championship on May 14th – 20th, 2011 at the Bellagio in Las Vegas, Nevada.

The total prize package is valued at $29,568.00 and it consists of the $25,500 entry fee, a weeks' stay at the Bellagio, airfare and $2,000.00 in spending money. The stakes are high as a total of 681 privileged participants will compete for the top prize of 1.65 million dollars over the course of 4 days of continuous play.

A 10-week World Poker Tour (WPT) Satellite Tournament took place on Friday evenings in the Poker Room at the Menominee Casino Resort. 50 seats were available for the admission fee of $65.00 per seat. Each week, the top two players would qualify to compete in the WPT Main event. The Menominee Casino Resort is the only local venue to actively participate therefore, this is an extraordinary opportunity for Mr. Fish.

World Poker Tour is one of the most recognized names in internationally televised gaming and entertainment with brand presence in land-based tournaments, television, online and mobile. Leading innovation in the sport of poker since 2002, WPT ignited the global poker boom with the creation of a unique television show based on a series of high stakes poker tournaments. WPT has filmed more than 350 hours of programming broadcast in over 150 countries.

"It is an honor and privilege to represent the Menominee Casino Resort and its poker players in the World Poker Tour Championship. It's even MORE gratifying to represent the Menominee Nation and the Menominee people," said Mr. Fish. The Menominee Casino Resort would like to congratulate Mr. Fish on his remarkable achievement.

thing there will be layers in the video. There are no layers. Any editing of special effects you do on film creates layers and you can't hide them from analysis."

Many in the community don't require video or audio evidence to prove paranormal activity inside the Norbert Hill Center as they have first-hand experience with something out of the ordinary.

Charlie Doxtater tells about an experience he had as a freshman in the high school as the basketball team's manager.

"One night after we returned from an away game and the coach sent me in to put the clip boards and (basketballs) in his classroom. I put the key in the door and I seen something out of the corner of my eye. When I looked I seen three full bodied apparitions of a priest and two nuns standing at the end of the hallway," he said via Facebook. " I threw the stuff in the room slammed the door and walked away as fast as I could. I was so freaked out that I didn't lock the door. That place definitely has something there."

Oneida Business Committee member Melinda Danforth also has an experience lacking explanation.

"Nine years ago, I was working in my office at about two a.m. I was doing my homework to finish up my Bachelor's degree. I saw a figure walk by and I looked up in time to see half of the body, and it looked like it was Bill Gollnick," said Danforth. "I called out to Bill to say what are you doing here this late at night, and I received no response. The next day I saw Bill and asked him what he was doing working so late at the Norbert Hill Center, and he replied that he wasn't even here in Oneida, that he had just returned from Washington D.C."

Mae wants to assure that fear should not be felt when entering the Norbert Hill Center and not everyone will have a ghostly experience.

"They're not going to pop out at every person that walks through the door. No one has to worry about walking through the doors. There should be no fear-factor," said Mae. "They may do it to some people depending on how sensitive they are to the paranormal world. The people that aren't sensitive will not be bothered. Every person has control over their own body and their own space. The spirit world has rules that they have to follow, they can only bother you if you let them, so don't let them."

If the show is not aired nationally, the footage will be posted on Youtube to allow community members to view it.

Prior to being purchased by the Oneida Tribe in 1984 the grounds were used as a federally supported boarding school for Oneida children. It then was bought by the Green Bay Catholic Diocese in 1924 and used as a seminary and boarding school called Guardian Angels.

Senate Indian panel to discuss racial concerns

By Susan Montoya Bryan
Associated Press

The U.S. Senate Indian Affairs Committee didn't know when it scheduled a hearing on racial stereotypes that members would have such an emotionally charged name to discuss. But the use of the Apache leader's moniker as a code name for Osama bin Laden has appalled many Native Americans and drawn calls for an apology.

The legendary warrior was known for his ability to walk without leaving footprints, allowing him to evade thousands of Mexican and U.S. soldiers, much like bin Laden evaded capture for the past decade.

But for Native Americans, there's an important difference: Geronimo was a hero - not a terrorist.

Statements of disapproval from tribal leaders, a call for President Barack Obama to apologize, and scores of angry comments on social network sites have surged since the issue came to light after bin Laden was killed.

Thursday's hearing was scheduled long before details about the Geronimo code name became public. However, the committee will address the matter, said Loretta Tuell, staff director and chief counsel for the committee.

Many Native Americans say that while they are angered, they are not surprised. They say the code name is yet another insult in a long, tumultuous history with the federal government.

"The government does what it wants when it wants. The name calling is going to stay around forever. But when you think about it, this is an insult," said Leon Curley, a Navajo and Marine veteran from Gallup, New Mexico.

Jeff Houser, chairman of Geronimo's Fort Sill Apache Tribe, noted in a letter to Obama that the decision behind the code name stemmed from an ongoing cultural disconnect, not malice. But the damage is the same.

"We are quite certain that the use of the name Geronimo as a code for Osama bin Laden was based on misunderstood and misconceived historical perspectives of Geronimo and his armed struggle against the United States and Mexican governments," Houser wrote.

"However, to equate Geronimo or any other Native American figure with Osama bin Laden, a mass murderer and cowardly terrorist, is painful and offensive to our Tribe and to all Native Americans."

The White House referred questions on the matter to the U.S. Defense Department, which said no disrespect was meant to Native Americans.

The department wouldn't elaborate on the use of Geronimo's name but said code names typically are chosen randomly and allow those working on a mission to communicate without divulging information to adversaries.

The Apaches are not alone when it comes to battling the impact of stereotypes.

The Seminole Tribe of Florida is still waiting to for an apology from Obama over a court brief filed earlier this year that compared the tribe's ancestors to al-Qaida. The Defense Department clarified the use of the Seminole reference, but it wasn't enough for the tribe, Chairman Mitchell Cypress said in a letter to the president Wednesday.

"Once again, our nation's native people were categorized as terrorists," he wrote, referring to the Geronimo code name. "The time has never been more appropriate and necessary for you to issue an apology to Native America."

The U.S. military has a long tradition of naming weapons and helicopters after American Indians and has a history with the word Geronimo - American paratroopers in World War II started using it as a war cry.

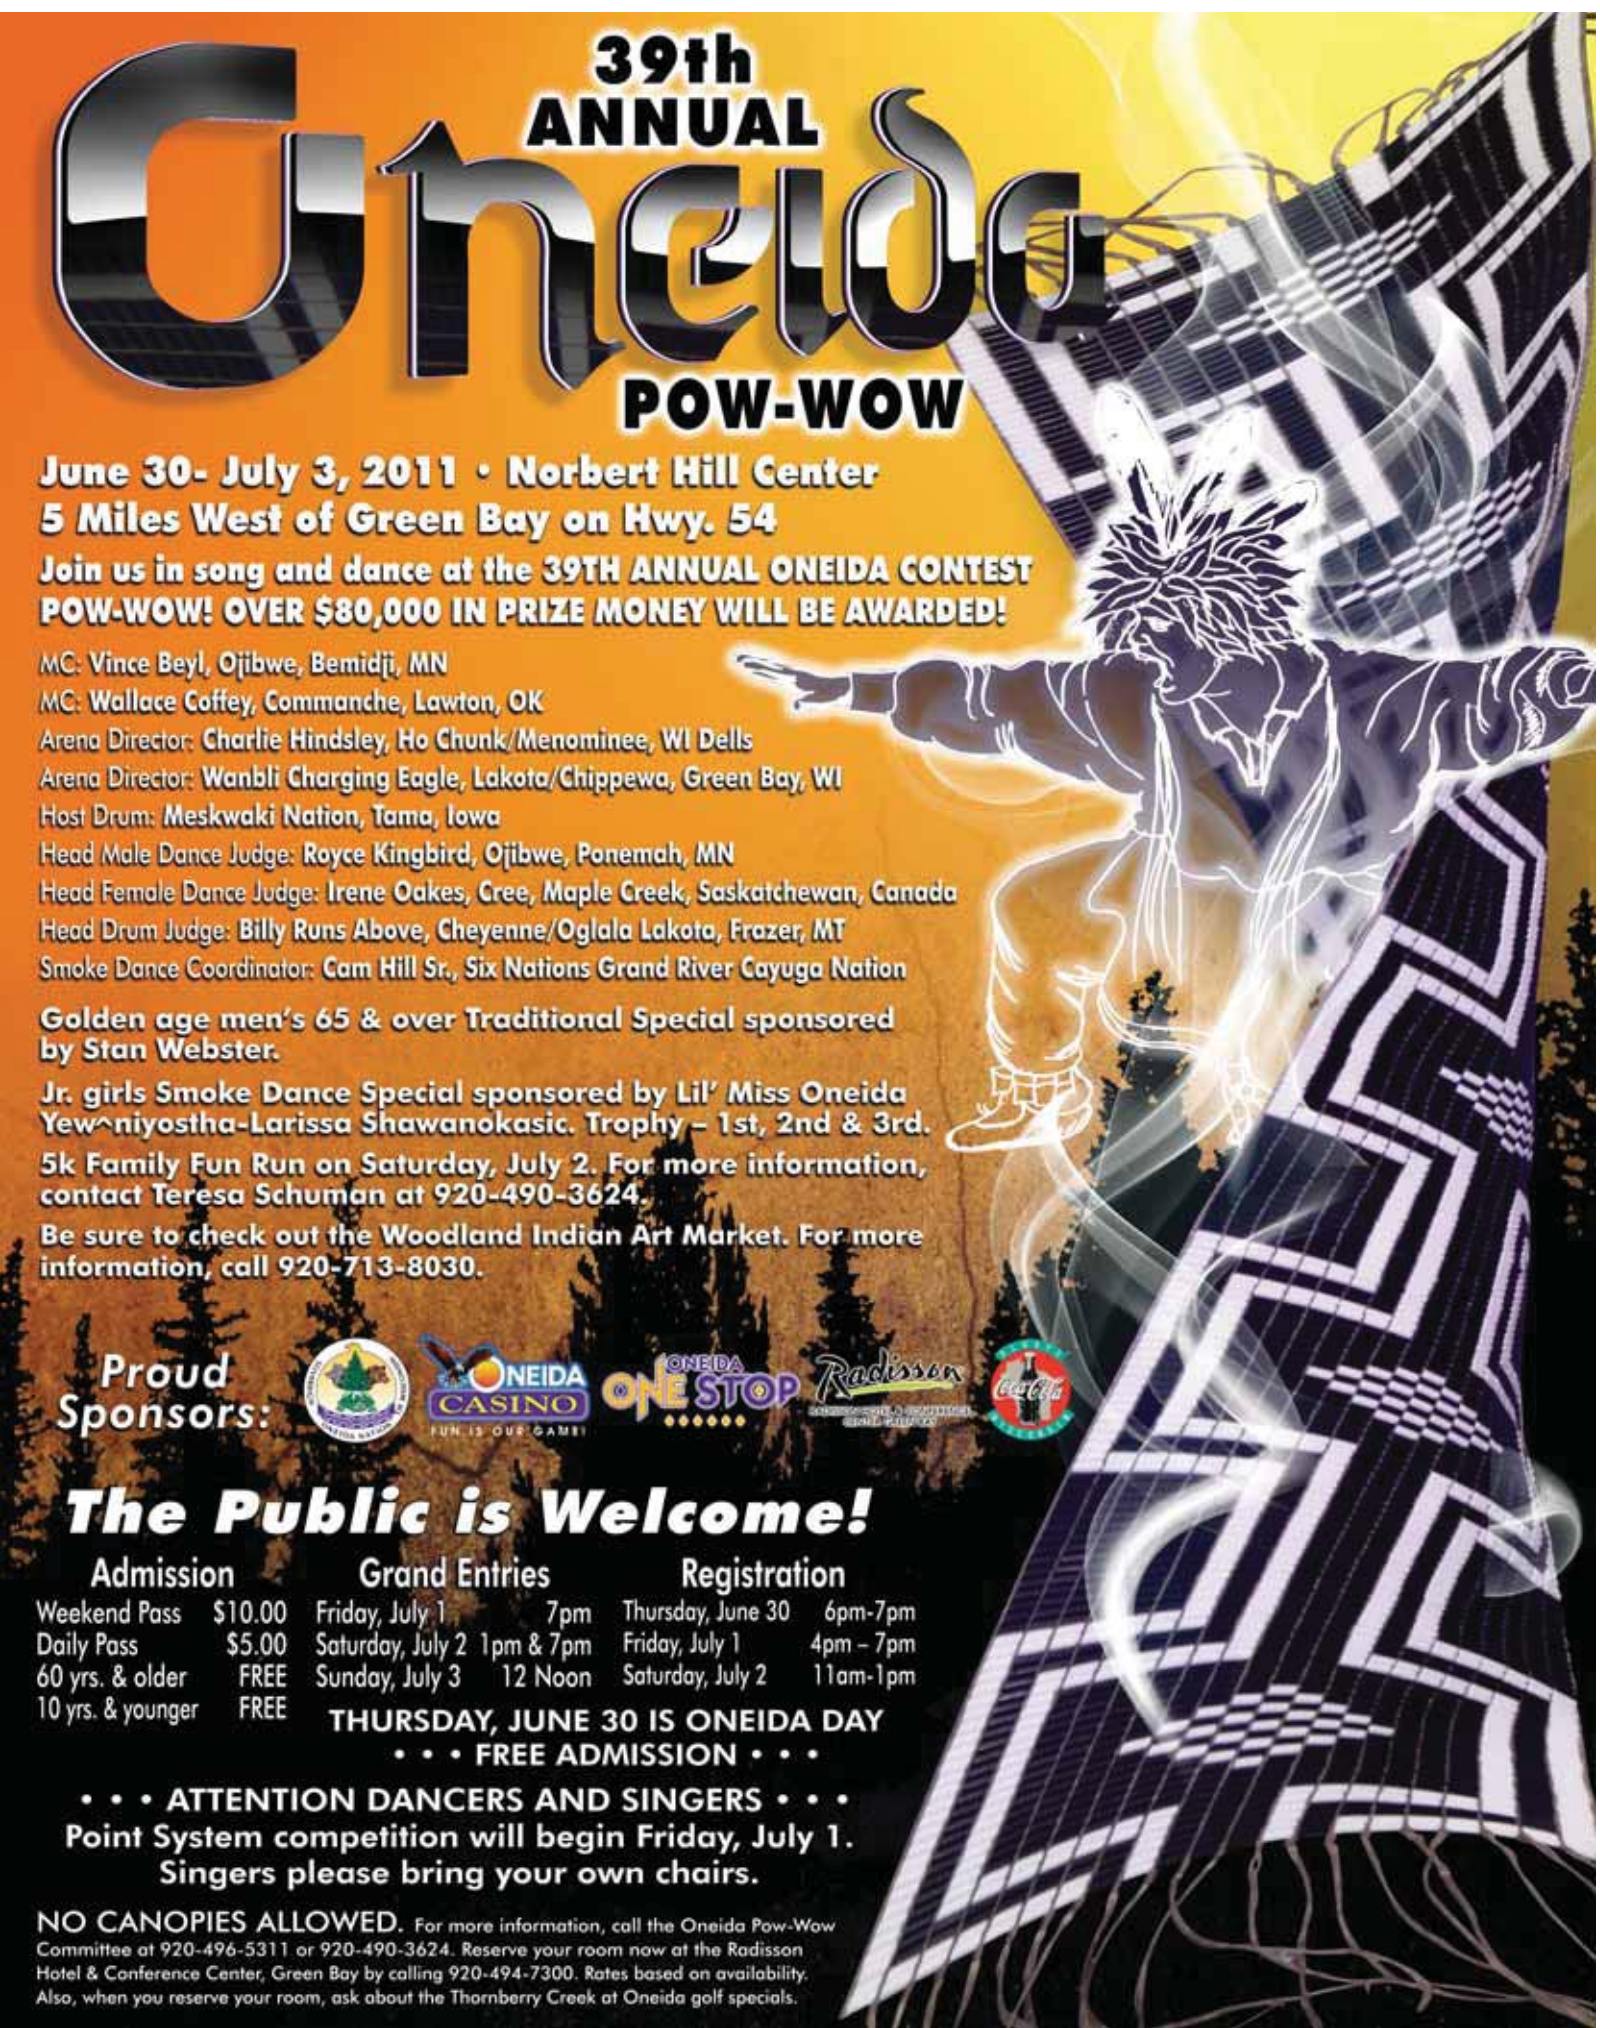
The reason behind the name's use in the bin Laden raid has been the subject of much speculation.

Some think it's because the al-Qaida leader, like Geronimo, was able to elude capture for so many years. Others say it's because the government considered both men terrorists, and some have suggested the guerrilla-style raid on bin Laden's compound was reflective of the Apache's fighting techniques.

Louis Maynahonah, a Navy veteran and chairman of the Apache Tribe of Oklahoma, said he doesn't believe the code name was meant to be derogatory. He pointed to the name's use as a paratrooper war cry and to the fleets of military aircraft named after Indian tribes, including the Apache helicopter.

"It's symbolic to me of the Army at the time trying to capture Geronimo," he said of the code name. "They had a heck of time because he used to slip back across the Mexican border. This bin Laden has been slipping from us for 10 years."

Whatever the reason behind it, many in Indian Country say the code name was simply a bad choice that opened old wounds.



"The name Geronimo is arguably the most recognized Native American name in the world, and this comparison only serves to perpetuate negative stereotypes about our peoples," the Onondaga Nation Council of Chiefs said in a statement issued Tuesday.

"The U.S. military leadership should have known better," said the council, from the Onondaga Nation near Syracuse, N.Y.

Morning Star Gali, a member of the Pit River Tribe in California, agreed. Part of Gali's family is descended from Geronimo's tribe, and she has made it a point to share that history with her three young children.

Future of Oneida Food Pantry in hands of Community

Ernest L. Stevens III
GM Administration

Providing a food pantry is a crucial part of providing needs to the community, but it will take community involvement to breathe much needed life into such a project. At this point, the tribe has been utilizing a card system that services roughly 150 people a month, but that is not a pantry. The people want a pantry, but again, it is the people that need to create one.

A recruitment process is underway to gain the interest of the community in starting the process, and creating something that we can be proud of. The Oneida Tribe Grants Office has offered its assistance with applying for 501c3 (non-profit) status, which will allow the pantry to apply for grants to purchase food, equipment set up for the storage of fresh, frozen and canned goods. There are many community members who are anxious to provide assistance through either past experience or by directly assisting with future operations. We need those people to step up.

"There was a few individuals who were very interested, but once they found out it was not going to be a paid position, they lost interest," says Pre Leverence, Director of Community Economic Support. "Members must understand that at this point, we need volunteers to come forth."

Given our budgetary fallbacks from state and federal government cutbacks, it is likely we will not have access to as many funds for Social Services programming, at which point we will need to prioritize direct services to community members over things like the card system. In that case, we will not be able to utilize tribal contribution to fund the current system. It is time for us to create our own Pantry, in the same way all pantries are run. It will take volunteers dedicated to create the 501c3, and to keep it running in a way convenient to the community.

You may have also heard that "location is everything", and that phrase is also true of accessibility to a food pantry. Location has always been an issue and it will as we try to determine the future of any pantry for our community. The General Manager's office will be coordinating some outreach initiatives with Social Services in an attempt to gain interest from the community. We have three community meetings scheduled thus far, so community participation will be of great appreciation. These meetings will also serve as a point of education in the process, the history, and to develop any plans for the future of the pantry.

"We value participation and your voice will be utilized in the ultimate recommendation to the BC, and of course the GTC," says Deborah Thundercloud, General Manager. "We hope that there is as much of a voice on this issue at these meetings as there has been at GTC and BC meetings. We are all accountable."

If you have suggestions or a sincere interest to assist with creating this operation to benefit people in our community, please contact the Center for Self-Sufficiency at 490-6800 with contact information. We will need the participation and assistance from the community to develop a comprehensive process that ultimately meets the needs of the community as this moves forward. Below are the meeting dates and times.

Mailbox Improvement Week Arrives

ONEIDA, WI - The U.S. Postal Service® is asking all Oneida homeowners to inspect and repair their mailboxes during Mailbox Improvement Week, May 16–22, says Postmaster Cheryl Koenig.

"Repairing suburban and rural mailboxes improves the appearance of our community and makes delivering and receiving mail safer for our carriers and customers," Koenig says.

The Postal Service™ makes this annual request because of the wear and tear that occurs to mailboxes every year. "This is especially important after the effects of last winter," she adds.

Some of the typical activities that may need to be done include:

- Replacing loose hinges on a mailbox door.
- Repainting a mailbox that may have rusted or started peeling.
- Remounting a mailbox post if loosened.
- Replacing or adding house numbers.

"If a homeowner plans to install a new mailbox or replace a worn one, he or she must use only Postal Service–approved traditional, contemporary or locking full/limited service mailboxes," said Koenig. "Customers should be careful when purchasing curbside mail receptacles because the use of unapproved boxes is prohibited. Customers may use a custom-built mailbox, but they must consult with my office to ensure it conforms to guidelines applying to flag, size, strength, and quality of construction."

For more information on the use of names or numbers on mailboxes, or answers to any other questions, please inquire at your local Post Office or contact Cheryl Koenig at 920-869-3710.

Music for Oneida Children

It has been an exciting year for the Music for Oneida Children (MOC) program, an emerging professional children's music group of the Oneida Nation Arts Program. Our Oneida Youth Singers performed their 2nd annual concert on Sunday, April 17. The children performed traditional Iroquois Social Songs, Oneida Hymns, and Oneida language songs to a full house of 150 people. Then on Monday, April 18 the group sang at the Anna John Nursing home. Following their performance, the group attended a performance of the Lakota Sioux Indian Dance Theatre at the Fox Cities Performing Arts Center.

Seventeen children participated in the program and rehearsed on Saturdays starting in January. The singers range in age between 7 – 13 years old, coming from 9 different schools in 4 different school districts. Under the caring musical direction of Kal^na Brooks and Eden Denny, the children learned their cultural music, language, and music.

The next opportunity to join Music for Oneida Children is our Summer Camp, August 1 – 12, Monday-Friday, 8:30 – 12:00pm. We have a dynamic team of artists including Wade Fernandez, native flute, Harold Katchenago, pow wow drum, Kal^na Brooks, Iroquois music, and Eden Denny, hymn singing and piano. Students work with our teachers in small groups and then as one large musical ensemble. The camp is open to all children between the ages of 7 – 14. The cost of the camp is $25, with scholarships available for children who qualify for free or reduced lunch.

Special this year, the Music for Oneida Children have been asked to perform on Friday, August 12 at the Wisconsin State Fair. Children participating in the summer camp will have the opportunity to perform at the State Fair.

To help raise funds for the Music for Oneida Children, our dedicated parents group has started fund raising. The parents raised $278 with a basket raffle at the spring concert. A special thanks to our Parents Group and community for your support.

For more information or registration form for the Summer Camp, check out our web site at www.oneidanationarts.org or contact Gabrielle or Dominique at the Arts Program at 920-490-3834.

Survival Skills Workshop for Teachers

Eagle River, WI –Do you have what it takes to make it through a survival situation? Would you like to gain the knowledge, skills, and confidence to become more self-reliant? Develop outdoor survival skills, the confidence to use them and the ability to teach them to your students during this 5-day workshop for teachers. The Outdoor Survival Skills Teacher Workshop is back by popular demand at Trees For Tomorrow and once again taught by well-known Naturalists Joe Panci and Sandy Lotto. The Survival Skills workshop fees are only $350 for the 5-day course. Optional 3 graduate credits are available for an additional $300. Call now to reserve your spot in this class or any of the other workshops offered this summer.

A natural resources specialty school located in Eagle River, Wisconsin, Trees For Tomorrow offers field-based programs that place participants in direct contact with natural resources that support human needs. These programs, including workshops for teachers, develop awareness, knowledge, and understanding of natural resources to help participants make informed decisions regarding the management and wise use of those resources. This experience inspires and promotes stewardship of natural resources for use by future generations.

Taught by a variety of specialists, teacher workshops at Trees For Tomorrow range in length from three to five days. Participants may choose to earn from one to three credits, depending on the duration of the course. The location of the campus enables the participants to take full advantage of the living classroom that the northern forest provides, so each session includes field experiences to give teachers hands-on exposure to the topics of study. This experiential outdoor learning method is a tradition at Trees For Tomorrow. Teachers will leave these workshops inspired with fresh ideas to modify the curriculum for their own classrooms.

Courses offered this summer include: Outdoor Survival Skills; Urban Forestry Education, Natural Resource Education, Nature Photography, and Practical Herbology.

According to Cheryl Todea, Teacher Workshop Coordinator, "Trees For Tomorrow has been offering professional development workshops for teachers for over 60 years. The opportunity for affordable graduate credits combined with top quality instruction makes these workshops in great demand and very successful." Courses fill quickly. Register now!

To receive additional information on the courses or to register, please call Trees For Tomorrow at 715-479-6456. Information is also available online at www.TreesForTomorrow.com.

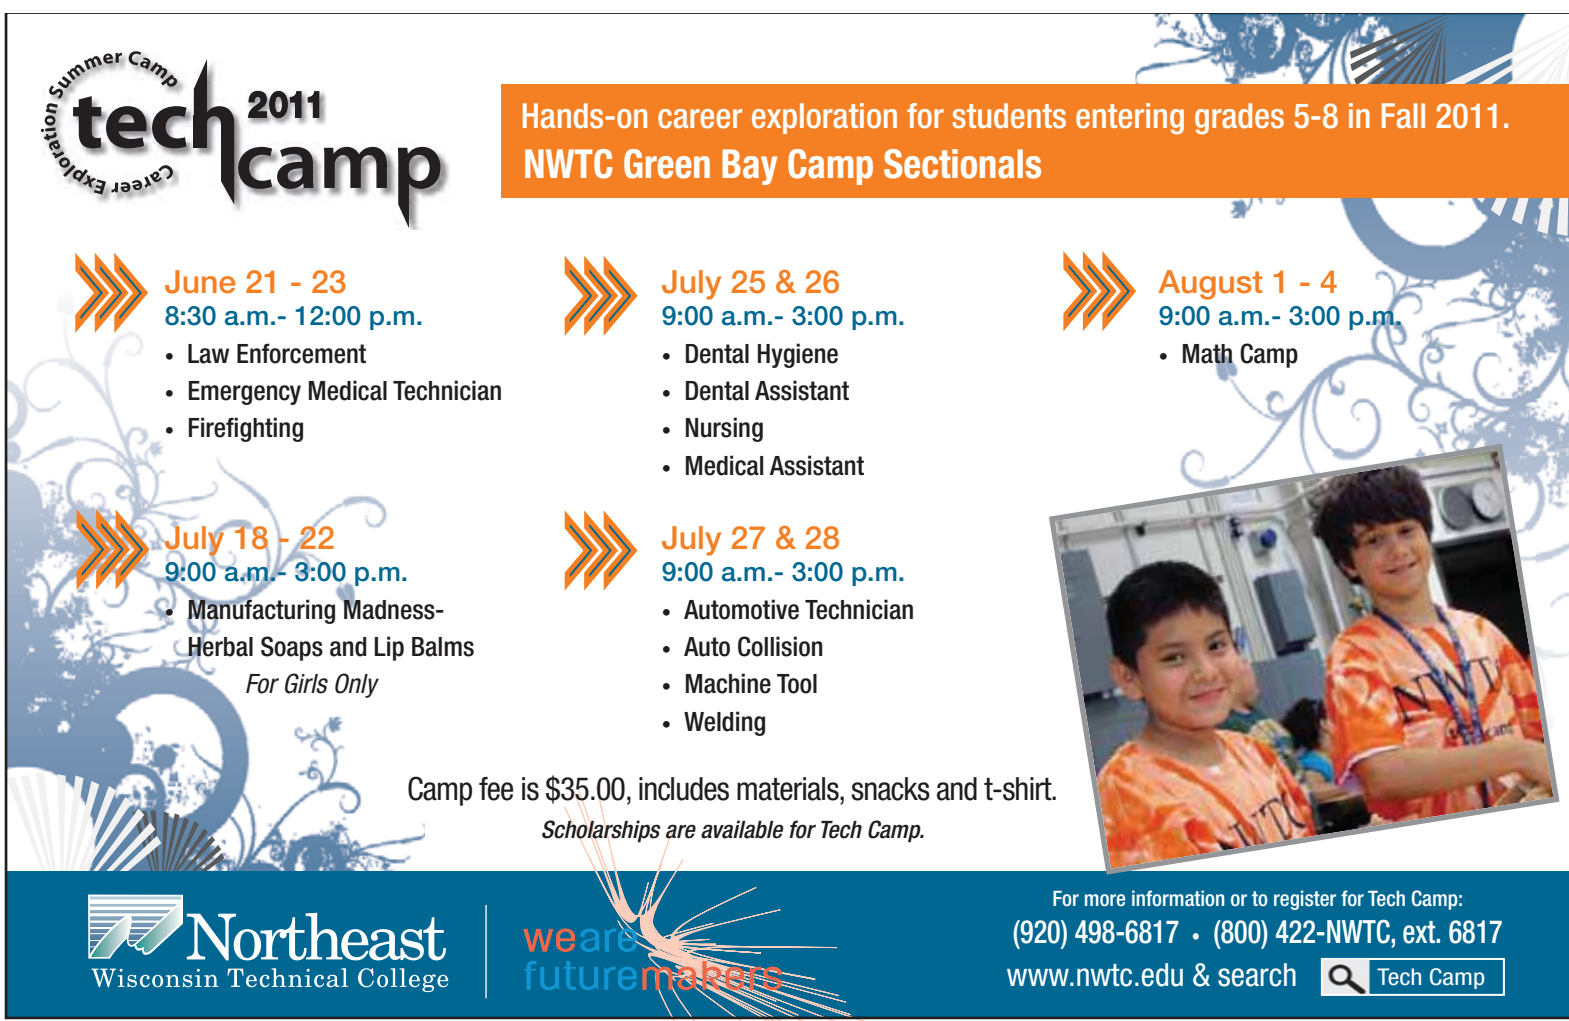
Volunteers needed for Green Bay farmers' market



Green Bay, WI- Searching for some volunteer opportunities or community service? Volunteers are needed for the 2011 season of the Farmers' Market On Broadway. Friendly and energetic volunteers are sought for event set up, beverage sales and event take down.

The eighth annual Farmers' Market On Broadway presented by BayCare Clinic runs every Wednesday evening June through October from 3:00 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. (3:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. in September and October) rain or shine.

The Farmers' Market On Broadway is organized and supported by On Broadway, Inc. (OBI). OBI is a non-profit community-based program dedicated to the enhancement of the Broadway District in downtown Green Bay. The Farmers' Market On Broadway was created in an effort to showcase the best of local goods—from fresh produce to original works of art—and connect them with the downtown community. Market resources are provided by OBI and its supporting volunteers and sponsors. Want to get involved? Call Janna at 437-2531 or e-mail Info@onbroadway.org for more information, or stop at the On Broadway Inc., office 117 South Chestnut St.

Summer Art Camps for Kids

(Oneida, WI) – The Oneida Nation Arts Program is proud to offer a very unique opportunity for children to learn self reliant and cultural skills of sewing and craft in our firs Cultural Arts Camp. The camp runs for two weeks, June 13 - 24, Monday - Friday from 12:30 - 4:30 pm at the Arts Program Cottage, 1270 Packerland (behind the Fitness Center). The camp is open to all children between the ages of 9 – 14.

Cultural Arts Camp Description:

Working in small groups with a talented group of artists, students will learn how to do beadwork, raised beadwork, embroidery, applique, fringe work, cut work, and fabric design. Students will work on individual take-home projects including quilt wall hanging using applique and embroidery, raised beaded barrette or patch, cut work pillow, and their own designed fabric. And like an old fashion sewing bee, together the students will work to create a quilt for public display.

Sample Camp Day:

- 12:30 - 12:45: Opening
- 12:45 - 1:30: Applique, Embroidery with Nancy Daly
- 1:30 - 1:40: Break (light snacks provided)
- 1:45 - 2:30: Raised Beadwork with Coleen Bins
- 2:30 - 2:40: Break (light snacks provided)
- 2:45 - 3:30: Fringe and Cut Work with Lily Plass
- 3:30 - 3:40: Break (light snacks provided)
- 3:45 - 4:30: Fabric Design with Jean Harper

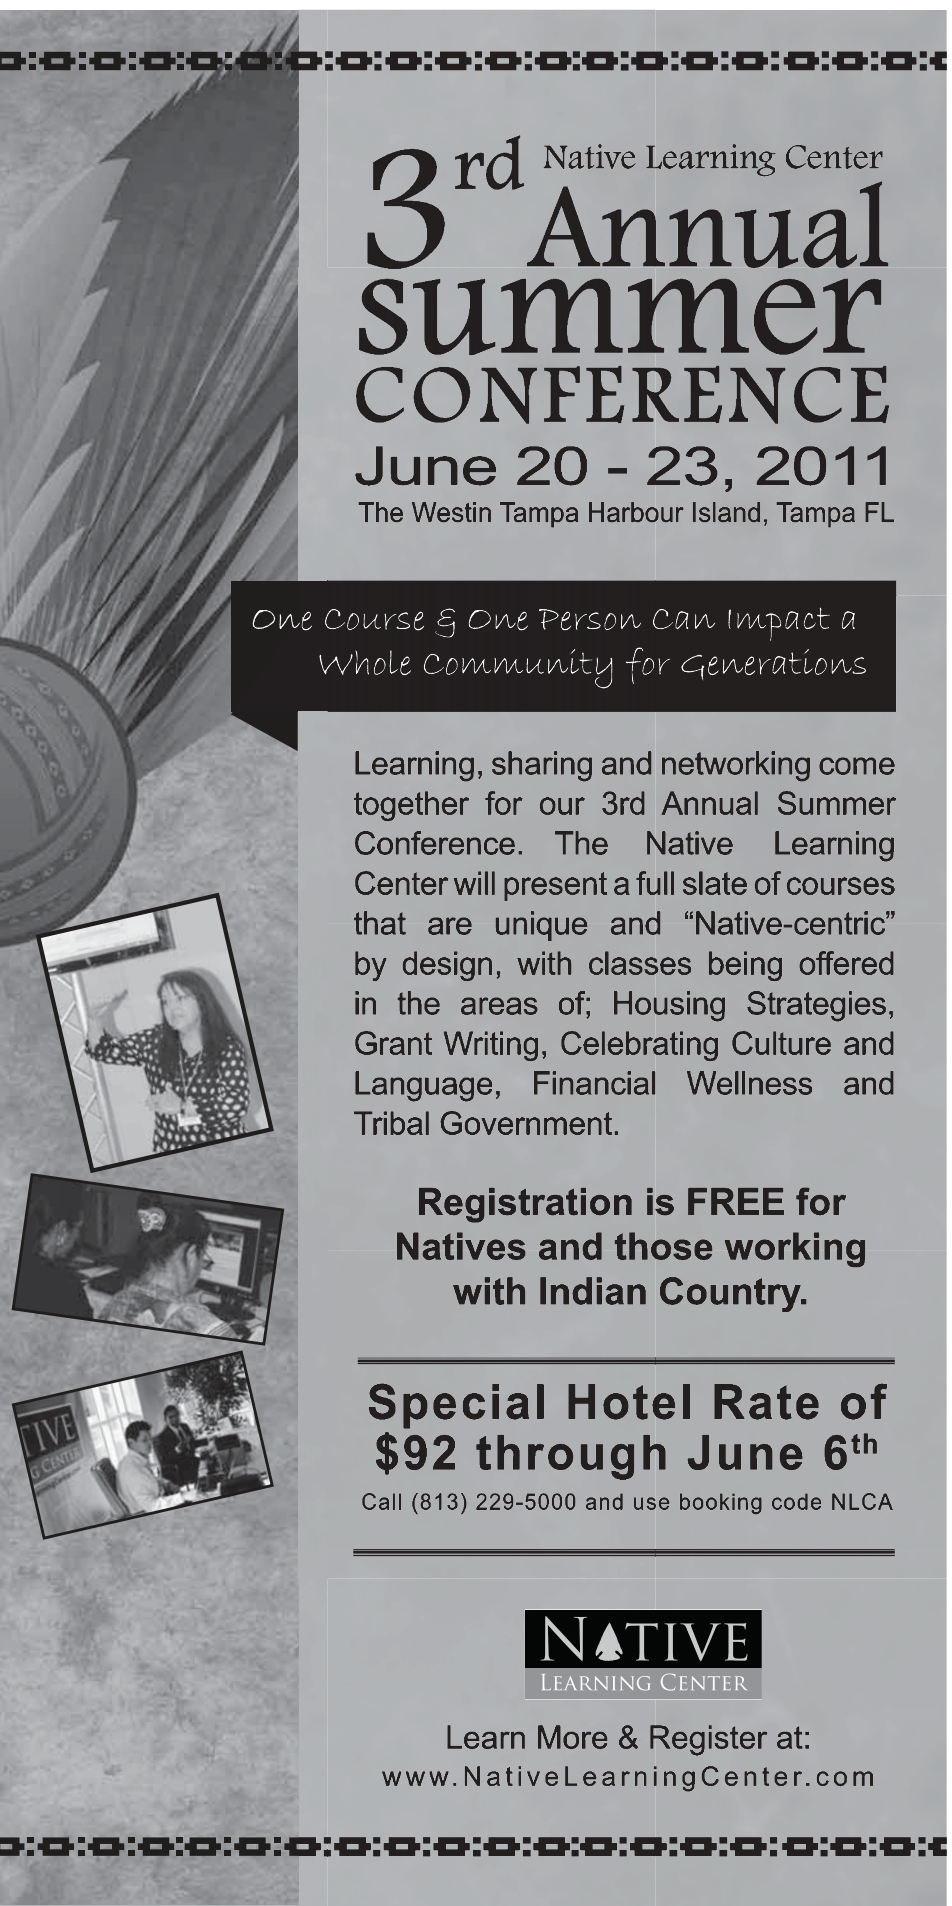
Our instructors include Nancy Daly, Coleen Bins, Lily Plass, and Jean Harper. Daly is an artist in residency from the Madison area. She has worked with children around the state in creating their own story quilts. Coleen Bins is an accomplished Iroquois artist and Oneida tribal member. She is also an artist in residency and has worked with children around the state in Iroquois crafts. Coleen owns and operates Chief Oshkosh in Door County. Lily Plass is an accomplished seamstress and Oneida tribal member. She creates her own embroidered Native designs, ribbon shirts, shawls, and traditional outfits. Lily owns and operates Designs by Lily. And Jean Harper is a retired art teacher from the Shawano/Gresham area. She was recognized as national art teacher of the year. She has traveled around the world studying cultural textile art.

Cost of the camp is $25 per children. Scholarships are available for tribal children who qualify for free or reduced lunch. For more information or registration form, check out our web site at www.oneidanationarts.org or contact the Arts Program at 920-490-3833. This project is made possible by a grant from the Wisconsin Arts Board with additional funding from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Call for nominations: 2011 NWTC Distinguished Alumni Award

College of Menominee Nation (CMN) and The National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) invite the community to the CMN campuses to meet poet Kimberly Blaeser, an enrolled member of the Minnesota Chippewa Tribe. Blaeser will be discussing her book, "Absentee Indians and Other Poems", which the CMN campuses have been reading and discussing throughout this semester.



Blaeser's collection, "Absentee Indians and Other Poems", evokes personal yet universal experiences of the places that Native Americans call home, their family and national histories, and the emotional forces that help forge Native American identities. These are poems of exile, loss, and the celebration of that which remains. Anchored in the physical landscape, Blaeser's poetry finds the sacred in those ordinary actions that bind a community together. As Blaeser turns to the mysterious passage from sleeping to wakefulness, or from nature to spirit, she reveals not merely the movement from one age or place to another, but the movement from experience to vision.

Blaeser will be speaking at CMN's Green Bay campus' commons on Tuesday, April 26th and at CMN's Keshena campus' Culture Building on Wednesday, April 27th. Both events are free, start at 6:30 PM, and are preceded by a light meal. Blaeser's presentation will include readings from the text, a question and answer session, and a book signing.

Blaeser will be visiting as the final speaker in CMN's Literary Discussion Series, which started in the fall of 2010. The Series is funded by an NEH Grant and has the goal of uniting the college and community through American Indian literature and poetry. The central theme of the Discussion Series is to use decorated texts to help initiate discussions about Indigenous people's identity in contemporary American society.

For further information contact Ryan Winn, CMN's Humanities Department Chair at 715-799-6226, extension 3070, or at rwinn@menminee.edu.

College of Menominee Nation is an accredited college serving students from campuses in Keshena and Green Bay. CMN awards associate degrees in a number of academic disciplines and professional areas, and a baccalaureate degree in early childhood/elementary education, as well as select technical and trades diplomas and certificates.

Mother-daughter team hope to spread literacy

Joan McLester and Lauren McLester-Davis discuss their efforts to spread literacy by giving away books

Mother-daughter team Joan McLester and Lauren McLester-Davis helped to spread literacy by presenting books to area schools and other groups through First Book-Greater Green Bay on Friday, May 6 at the Oneida Golf and Country Club.

"We hope to … expand our program in the coming years and add more Title I schools and more places that need the books," said McLester-Davis.

According to McLester, First Book-Green Bay has given away 10,000 books during its four year existence.

McLester-Davis is a seventh grade student at Our Lady of Lourdes, and was named Miss De Pere's Outstanding Teen on February 19.

"That was actually a lot of fun, and I appreciate having this title and being able to use it in helping First Book," said McLester-Davis.

As part of her role as Miss De Pere's Outstanding Teen, McLester-Davis is expected to volunteer at a Children's Miracle Network Hospital. She plans to combine the two programs by reading to children at the hospital who may be waiting for a family member's check-up.

"We encourage other places to reach ours and hopefully get involved in first book because it's a great organization that helps all the kids that need free books," said McLester-Davis.

Schools and community programs that received books at the event were Tank, Howe, Jefferson, Lincoln, Our Lady of Lourdes, YWCA and Oneida Library.

Deadline for Yukhika-latuhse

Notice of Availability

Purpose:
The Oneida Tribe of Indians (Tribe) is proposing to construct an approximately 10,500 square foot addition to the existing casino located at 2514 W. Mason St. The expansion will include a sports bar, food court, poker room, smoke shop, combined with other renovations. The project will be funded by the Tribe. The intent is to improve the economy of the Tribe and increase short and long term employment opportunities.

No federal involvement or action has been identified for this project.

This Environmental Assessment (EA) was prepared for the proposed expansion of the existing casino and is in compliance with the Oneida Environmental Policy Act (2-13-93B) and National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). The EA contains project information, affected environment, project alternatives, consequences, and consultation.

Location:
The proposed expansion is planned to connect on the east end of the existing casino located at 2514 W. Mason Street, on the Oneida Reservation, located in Township 24 North, Range 20 East, Section 29, Brown County, WI.

Alternatives:
Preferred Alternative: The preferred alternative is for the Tribe to construct an addition of approximately 10,500 square feet on the northwest side of the existing. It will include a sports bar, food court, poker room, smoke shop, and other renovations. The addition will be located on what is currently a flat paved parking area; approximately 22 parking spaces will be removed. No additional parking areas will be added with this proposal. Construction will occur on previously disturbed areas. The area of impervious surface is not expected to increase. Construction is planned for Spring 2013.

The applicant expects 20-25 short term jobs during the construction activities and 25-30 full time jobs resulting from the expanded services.

No Action Alternative: To not construct the proposed expansion to the existing Oneida West Mason Street Casino location. This will not assist in the goal of expanding gaming operations and improving the economy of the Oneida Nation.

Comments were requested from the United States Fish and Wildlife Service regarding possible impacts to threatened and endangered species, Oneida Cultural Heritage Department for possible impacts to culturally significant areas, and the Environmental Protection Agency for possible permitting needs regarding in-stream development.

Comments and Availability:
Interested parties may obtain copies of these documents from the address below. Comments regarding the proposed action may be submitted within 30 days of the date of this NOA. Contact Lisa Miotke at (920) 869-4582 or write Oneida Environmental, Health & Safety Division, PO Box 365, Oneida, WI 54155 for additional information.

Vicki Wiese, Outagamie County director of USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) reminds producers that June 1, 2011, is the deadline for the 2011 Average Crop Revenue Election (ACRE) Program or the traditional Direct and Counter-cyclical Program (DCP). Annual contracts are required to be signed to receive program benefits.

"It is critical for producers to complete the enrollment process as soon as possible," said Wiese. "Producers must contact their local county office to set up appointments before the June 1 deadline."

All signatures of producers receiving a share in DCP andACRE payments are required by the June 1, 2011, deadline.

For more information about the DCP and ACRE programs please visit your local FSA county office or visit http://www.fsa.usda.gov.

History Team Earns More Awards at "State"

By Laura Studee
ONHS Social Studies Instructor

As many of you are already aware Kendrick Powless, Kanani Nunies, and Noelle Metoxen have been working diligently this semester on a documentary titled, "A Government of Our Own" for a competition called National History Day. Their documentary addresses the history and the impact of the Indian Reorganization Act on the Oneida community.

The first level of the National History Day competition is the regional. The regional competition was held on April 9, 2011 at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay. At the regional level, their documentary was one of three selected to advance onto the state competition. It was quite an honor, which was unprecedented in the history of ONHS.

The National History Day state competition took place on May 7, 2011 at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Kendrick, Kanani, and Noelle did a fantastic job at representing the Oneida Nation and its history at the state event. They took home 1st Honorable Mention (which is equivalent to third place) at state out of a total of twelve documentaries in their category. They also received a special category award for "Local History" which carried a prize of $125 for the team to split. This award was "cross-categorical" which means that their project was selected out of approximately 60 other projects.

My Scoop

The end is near?

By Joelle Thomas
Thunderhawk Times

Do you believe in the world ending in 2012? How about this coming Saturday?

Well, with it being just a couple of days before May 21 and seven months before 2012, I guess we will know the truth soon enough.

Predictions for the end of the world get people's attention with most people deciding whether or not they are true.

I asked around and some say the world will end, and some say it won't. But with the weather changing cold to warm, and with global warming and other things, it just might be true. Some people believe that the world as we know it has come to the end.

Then, I asked Denis his thoughts, this is what he had to say: "I don't think the world is going to end on Saturday or in 2012. There have been hundreds of "for-sure" predictions that the world would end since it began. There are even predictions that the world will end after 2012, suggesting to me, at least, that these predictions have been made and will continue to be made. We will never know." That's just his opinion.

Lynn Adrian said that, "I think it is just a part of the natural process, that it will end at some point. And I don't really think it will be all that scary." She's right.

A lot of people think it is the end because of all then natural disasters we are having. I guess we will never know for sure when the world is really going to end. Most say next year. Some say hundreds of years from now. All we have left is to wait and find out.

Celebrating Mothers Day

By Jade Doxtater
Thunderhawk Times

Mothers Day is celebrated on various days in many parts of the world, yet most commonly in March, April, or May as a day to honor mothers and motherhood.

I spent this Mother's Day with my mother at the Wildlife Sanctuary. Originally we were going to the zoo, but that was way too crowded to even get inside.

At the wildlife sanctuary there are a lot of interesting animals. I had a really good time, spending my whole day there with my dad, my step-mom, her kids, and my boyfriend. I actually really hope to be able to do it again sometime soon.

The only thing that made me sad was spending time with everybody else's mom but my own. This poem if for My Mom, Stacey Moore:

"Happy Mothers Day"
means more
Than have a happy day.
Within those words lie lots of things
We never get to say.
It means I love you first of all,
Then thanks for all you do.
It means you mean a lot to me,
And that I honor you.
But most of all, I guess it means
That I am thinking of Your happiness on this, your day,
With pleasure and with love.
Happy Mothers Day!

Another Mothers Day Poem
Lulu Bell
By Eva Powless

This woman resembles a super hero in our eyes.
Anyone who tells you differently is telling you lies.
She always has wise words to share,
Even if it's too truthful to bear.
Her character is never in question,
I can promise she always has a good intention.
Her heart is too big for her own good,
Because she would do anything for us if she could.
Her mentality always stays the strongest of the strong,
Even when the entire world does her wrong.
No matter how many mistakes we make,
Or her favorite things
we break,
She'll never give up on us, because she loves us more then we will ever know,
And she always tells us so.
She'll never understand how much we care,
There's no one even close to her you can compare.
We love her with all our heart,
And no one will ever tear us apart.

Meet Tyler Stevens

By Billie John
Thunderhawk Times

One of the freshmen who came from the Oneida Turtle School and now attend Oneida Nation High School is Tyler Stevens.

He celebrates his birthday on October 13th.

He has been going to school in Oneida since Pre-School. He is close to a few of the staff people who work at the high school, which would be "Carol Martin along with Becky Anderson."

Tyler is not a fan of reading, or going to the movies. He spends his spare time "drawing and talking to his friends."

The furthest he has ever traveled away from Oneida would be Canada, but if he could go anywhere in the world he wanted to go to, he would go to Hawaii.

His favorite color is green, his favorite sports team would be the Packers, and his favorite food is chicken and Indian tacos.

He plans on working on his attitude and becoming more independent this summer.

Elks Lodge visits ONES

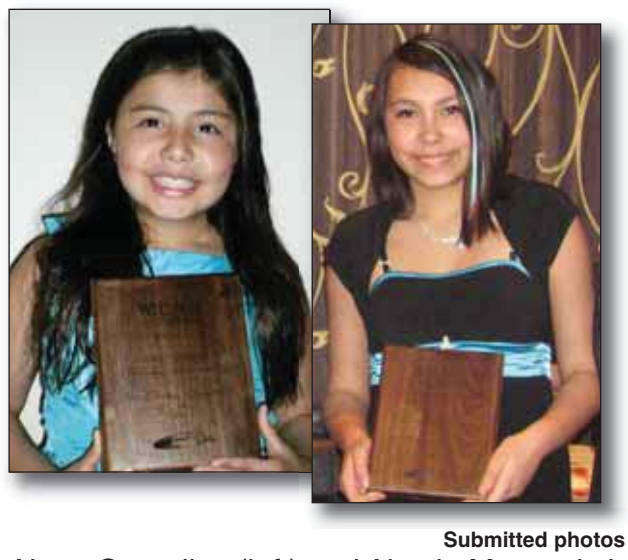
George Harper and Clifford Doxtator (background), both officers of the Green Bay Elks Lodge #259, visited the Oneida Nation Elementary School on Monday, May 16th. The Elks Lodge officers visited third grade classrooms and handed out dictionaries to students that contained a variety of information. The officers also briefly discussed the contents of the books, which featured items such as diagrams of planets, sign language, maps, flags, and the longest word in the English language. The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks also discussed the word benevolent with the students, encouraging them to carry on a kindly attitude.

Oneida students claim top WIEA awards

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks



Oneida students Alena Cornelius and Akacia Muscavitch were honored with the Outstanding Student of the Year award, in their respective age groups, at the Wisconsin Indian Education Association's (WIEA) 2011 Annual Awards Banquet. The awards banquet was held on April 30, 2011 at the Menominee Casino & Resort Convention Center.

The WIEA consists of a board of Indian Educators whose mission is to promote and support education and educationally related opportunities for American Indian people in Wisconsin.

Cornelius, who was awarded the Outstanding Student of the Year award in the Pre-K through Third Grade category, is a second grade student at Third Street School in Black River Falls, WI. Third Street School Art Teacher, LeRoy Amborn, and Kyle Reinke, Director-Individual Case Management AmeriCore Afterschool Program, nominated Cornelius for the award.

Alena received nominations from educators because she consistently distinguished herself from her peers in areas such as academic achievement, respect, sound judgment, character, and cultural knowledge.

"Alena is a very bright young lady with a zest for knowledge. She is inquisitive and quick to grasp new concepts," says LeRoy Amborn. "My job would be much easier if I had a room full of students as motivated and eager to learn as Alena."

Muscavitch, an eighth grade student at Oneida Nation Elementary School, received the Outstanding Student of the Year award in the eighth grade through tenth grade category.

Muscavitch received nominations from several of her teachers, past and present; as well as a nomination from Oneida Elementary School Principal Yvette Peguero.

"She is respectful to her peers, teachers, and elders, and has always strived to do her best no matter what the challenge has been. Without hesitation, she is willing to contribute above and beyond that which is expected of her," says Peguero.

Oneida Middle School Math Teacher Toni Osterberg comments on Muscavitch's cultural knowledge, "Akacia stands tall when it comes to the Oneida Language and Culture. She displays great pride when learning the language and is willing to help other students and staff when assisting with cultural events in school as well as community events."

The educational ambition demonstrated by these young ladies is certainly an encouraging sign for the future of the Oneida Tribe and its culture.

Take a "Bite" out of Needless Suffering

Postal Service Promotes Dog Bite Prevention Week

ONEIDA, WI— Nationwide last year, 5,669 postal employees were attacked in more than 1,400 cities, yet that pales in comparison to the 4.7 million Americans bitten annually — the majority of whom are children.

These statistics are part of the reason the Postal Service recognizes National Dog Bite Prevention Week, May 15-21. The annual event provides dog attack prevention tips and information on responsible pet ownership.

Beyond the needless pain and suffering, medical expenses from dog attacks cost the Postal Service nearly $1.2 million last year. According to the Insurance Information Institute, dog attacks accounted for more than one-third of all homeowners' insurance liability claims paid out in 2010, costing nearly $413 million.

"We often hear two comments relating to the Postal Service, 'the check's in the mail,' and 'don't worry, my dog won't bite'. Given the right circumstances, any dog can bite. Dog attacks are a nationwide issue and not just a postal problem," said Oneida Postmaster Cheryl Koenig, "Working with animal behavior experts, we've developed tips to avoid dog attacks, and for dog owners, tips for practicing responsible pet ownership."

To spread the word that dog attacks are preventable, the Postal Service is working with the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) www.aap.org, American Veterinary Medical Association (AVMA) www.avma.org, and the American Society of Plastic Surgeons (ASPS) www.plasticsurgery.org. Other organizations include the American Society of Maxillofacial Surgeons (ASMS) www.maxface.org, the American Society of Reconstructive Microsurgery (ASRM) www.microsurg.org, Prevent The Bite www.preventthebite.org and the Insurance Information Institute www.iii.org.

The AVMA offers the following tips:

How to Avoid Being Bitten

- Don't run past a dog. The dog's natural instinct is to chase and catch you.
- If a dog threatens you, don't scream. Avoid eye contact. Try to remain motionless until the dog leaves, then back away slowly until the dog is out of sight.
- Don't approach a strange dog, especially one that's tethered or confined.
- People choosing to pet dogs should obtain permission from the owner first and always let a dog see and sniff them before petting the animal.
- If you believe a dog is about to attack you, try to place something between yourself and the dog, such as a backpack or a bicycle.

How to Be a Responsible Dog Owner

- Obedience training can teach dogs proper behavior and help owners control their dogs.
- When a carrier comes to your home, keep your dog inside, away from the door in another room.
- Dogs can be protective of their territory and may interpret the actions of letter carriers as a threat. Please take precautions when accepting mail in the presence of your pet.
- Spay or neuter your dog. Neutered dogs are less likely to roam and bite.
- Dogs that receive little attention or handling, or are left tied up for long periods of time, frequently turn into biters.

Loose Dogs Halt Delivery, Possibly Cause Trauma

The Postal Service places the safety of its employees as a top priority. Letter carriers fearing for their safety due to a loose or unrestrained pet may curtail delivery and ask homeowners to pick up their mail at the Post Office until the carrier is assured the pet is restrained. In cases where a carrier sees a dog roaming and can't discern where it resides, delivery could be curtailed to the entire neighborhood.

"Warm and wonderful relationships are shared between more than 72 million pet dogs and their owners in the United States," said Dr. Lori Teller, who serves on the AVMA's Animal Welfare Committee and is past president of the Texas VMA. "To protect those relationships, everyone must take responsibility for preventing dog bite injuries.

"Half of all children will be bitten by a dog by the time they're high school seniors," said Dr. John Fraser, of the Texas Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics. "It's so important for parents to supervise young children around dogs at all times, and it's just as important for children to be taught from an early age how to keep from being bitten."

"According to the ASPS, 32,961 reconstructive procedures to repair dog bites were performed in 2010, up 8 percent from 2009," explained Plastic surgeon Lior Heller, of the Texas Children's Hospital in Houston, who also represents the ASRM and ASMS. "Unfortunately, the majority of reconstructive surgeries to treat dog bites were performed on children who are frequently bitten on the face, which can result in severe lacerations, infection or scarring."

"Dog bite prevention education cannot begin early enough," said Kelly Voigt, 19, the victim of a savage dog attack when she was seven years old. She endured the pain of 100 stitches to her face as part of her recovery The experience was the catalyst behind the creation of Prevent The Bite, a nonprofit organization that promotes dog bite prevention to young children. To date, Voigt has spoken before more than 10,000 elementary school students.

To help educate the public about dog bites, the AVMA developed an online brochure: www.avma.org/press/publichealth/dogbite/mediakit.asp. The AVMA also maintains a dog bite prevention facebook page.

The Postal Service receives no tax dollars for operating expenses, and relies on the sale of postage, products and services to fund its operations.

ONEIDA ADVENTURES HISTORY STORY...

It all started as one man's dream of pioneering an adventurous and experiential way of viewing life. He came into Oneida with a bag of equipment and a will to see his vision grow..... and grow it did into what is called today Oneida Adventures.

ABOUT US:

It is our mission to provide lifelong learning to the lives of the people who choose to participate in our programs. The Oneida Adventure Experience combine adventure-based educational programs that utilize activities that are challenging and fun, to help stimulate individual growth and team building skills. Our staff understands that people learn best through experience. Our programs are built by customization around our clients, with varied challenges for differing physical abilities.

Cindy Young

Specializing in recreational therapy, Cindy brings a professional edge and firm foundation in the art of working with versatile groups. Her favorite part of her job is seeing people's light shine!

Shannon Steif

With counseling in her background, Shannon cherishes the beauty of the wilderness within and around us. She is passionate about building connection through play, reflection, exploration and laughter. She seeks and helps others to understand the fullness of life at any stage or experience!

Mark Steinbach

As director of Oneida Adventures, Mark brings his expertise in the fields of: kayaking, outdoor education, climbing, and the list goes on! Mark finds great joy in helping people see the outdoor playground/classroom we have all around us.

Kip Miller

From climbing a mountain, to kayaking through Alaskan floating glaciers, Kip brings fun and adventure to every program. Kip loves to see people reach their goals and push beyond their limits.

Leadership Development at the Oneida Community Health Center reaffirms an important Core Value

By Ernest L. Stevens III
Special to Kalihwisaks

ONEIDA, WIS. – A "contagious positivity" in the form of high morale and team "synergy" has been spreading throughout the Comprehensive Health Division lately.

This is the result of an intensive nine-week leadership development process the staff in the medical clinic at the Health Center recently went through, led by InitiativeOne, a consulting and leadership development group.

"There's a new energy at the clinic! It's really exciting to see," said Deborah Thundercloud, General Manager, who had worked with InitiativeOne when she was with a different organization. "Ultimately, our goal is to provide the best service possible to our patients and by going through this process we are well on our way to doing that."

Debbie Danforth, RN, Comprehensive Health Division Operations Director at Oneida, agreed, saying, "We have always had the desire to improve the patient experience, but we weren't always on the same page in doing that. This process creates a synergy that allows us to focus on patients 100%. I am getting comments from patients saying, 'I don't know what's going on, but people are smiling; your staff members are really paying attention to my needs.'"

This high morale has been consistent throughout the entire clinic, and has led to the synergy that all staff has seen and been a part of. "The patients are seeing a cohesive team that is receptive to change," said Ravi Vir, MD, Medical Director. "Our team is providing better care and happier care, and that's leading to healthier patients."

Fred Johnson, D.Min, founder and CEO of InitiativeOne who is leading the process, is equally excited about the results the team has realized. "Our process works to inspire and promote unity amongst team members by establishing a trust-based working environment characterized by open, honest communication and respect," he said. "We try to create positive change in the corporate culture and maximize each person's potential in order to create a motivated, empowered and vision-driven team. But, it's ultimately about each team member's ability to incorporate what they've learned and apply it in their daily work. I'm really excited at how well this team has been able to do that."

The changes have been noticed by the team as well.

"Dr. Fred and InitiativeOne have helped us get to where there is more trust, more open and honest communication, and where the staff members better understand their roles," said Sandy Schuyler, RN, Director of Nursing at the Health Center. "As opposed to someone saying, 'That's your job,' we now say, 'That's my job. I'll get it done.' There's a renewed sense of ownership."

Schuyler also believes the process has helped the clinic staff become better focused on its purpose. "Our patient population base usually has several complications relating to their presenting illness," she said. "I see many of our nurses now taking ownership of knowing the needs of this community. Since going through this process, we have reground ourselves in evidence-based practice. While before we might have been more willing to give patients everything they wanted, we now see our purpose as giving them what they need."

From a business perspective, the changes are also noticeable. Turnover of nursing staff since last summer has been zero and the morale of the staff is at its highest point ever.

Tehassi Hill, a member of the Oneida Business Committee who serves as a liaison to the Health Center, is very impressed. He believes the success is attributable to the fact that the approach itself is an excellent fit with the Oneida culture. "The principles taught by InitiativeOne are inherent to Native Americans' beliefs of trust, respect, belief in people and the web of life, " he said. "It was easy to step into their process because you could easily relate to what they taught. It also applies to our Oneida ways, specifically our Core Values. Kahletsyalusla: the heartfelt encouragement of the best of each of us."

"Coming out of the process, a lot of its really common sense," agreed Danforth. "But we needed an objective point of view, and we needed to practice it from that point on."

So far the process has only been introduced to the medical clinic staff, but the fever is about to spread. In the coming weeks and months, all management at the Health Center will also go through the InitiativeOne classes.

"I'm very excited about what I have seen," said Hill. "The process encourages us to meet the needs of the community in a respectful manner. It will take some time before we all benefit from it, so no one should expect overnight changes, but positive change is coming."

Oneida Health Officer among first to receive new certification

Whitehall, PA – Eric Krawczyk, Community /Public Health Officer at the Oneida Community Health Center is among the first to earn the certification as a Master Certified Health Education Specialist (MCHES).

Eric Krawczyk

The newly created advanced-level certification, MCHES, awarded by the National Commission for Health Education Credentialing, Inc. (NCHEC) signifies that Eric Krawczyk has met the national standards for individual health education practitioners. The MCHES certification attests to the individual's knowledge and understanding of the Health Education Areas of Responsibility at an advanced-level and assists employers in identifying qualified health education practitioners.

"NCHEC developed the advanced-level certification in response to recommendations from the profession that were supported by research indicating the presence of distinct levels of practice in the health education work setting," said William Chen, Chair of NCHEC's Board of Commissioners. "Congratulations to this very first class of MCHES."

"The MCHES certification indicates advanced-level knowledge and skills and is a commitment to the advancement of the health education profession and continued professional development," added Linda Lysoby, MS, CAE, MCHES, Executive Director of NCHEC. This has been a long awaited step in the field of health education, and it's so exciting.

The MCHES Credential indicates that an individual has met three components: academic and experience requirements, passing of a certification assessment, and compliance with ongoing continuing education requirements. The certification is voluntary, meaning that one chooses to earn this credential which is national in scope. The MCHES certification is based on generic Responsibilities, Competencies, and Subcompetencies that have been verified as necessary for advanced-level practice in health education by a national job analysis process, the most recent being the 2010 National Health Educator Job Analysis Project.

This achievement is considered a milestone in an individual's professional development and a testament to the individual's commitment to continuous improvement in the health education profession.

For further information about NCHEC certifications, visit www.nchec.org or contact NCHEC at 888-624-3248 or nchec@nchec.org

Holy Apostles SOS Save Our Sanctuary Oneida Wisconsin

The Hobart Episcopal church in Oneida

By Thelma Cornelius McLester

In 1884, the Sisters of the Holy Nativity of Fond du Lac arrived at Holy Apostles Church in Oneida. They were instrumental in helping to build a more solid foundation in the religious life of the Oneida people. In working with families, they began teaching Sunday school for children, and in 1898 they offered, for the first time, an accomplished parochial school setting. Up to this time, the Priest or members of his family had provided the most basic classes in reading, writing and arithmetic.

The Sisters also helped to initiate the National Sybil Carter Lace Association in Oneida for women. Mrs. Charles Bronson, a representative from the Association provided the initial training and the women quickly learned how to do bobbin lace work and Italian Cutwork lace making. They made lace bed spreads, cushions, doilies, alter scarves and other necessary items for the church. Many of the alter linens for the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City, were made in Oneida, Wisconsin. One important fact to mention is that Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was a member of this National Association and helped handling orders and the sales of all lace work

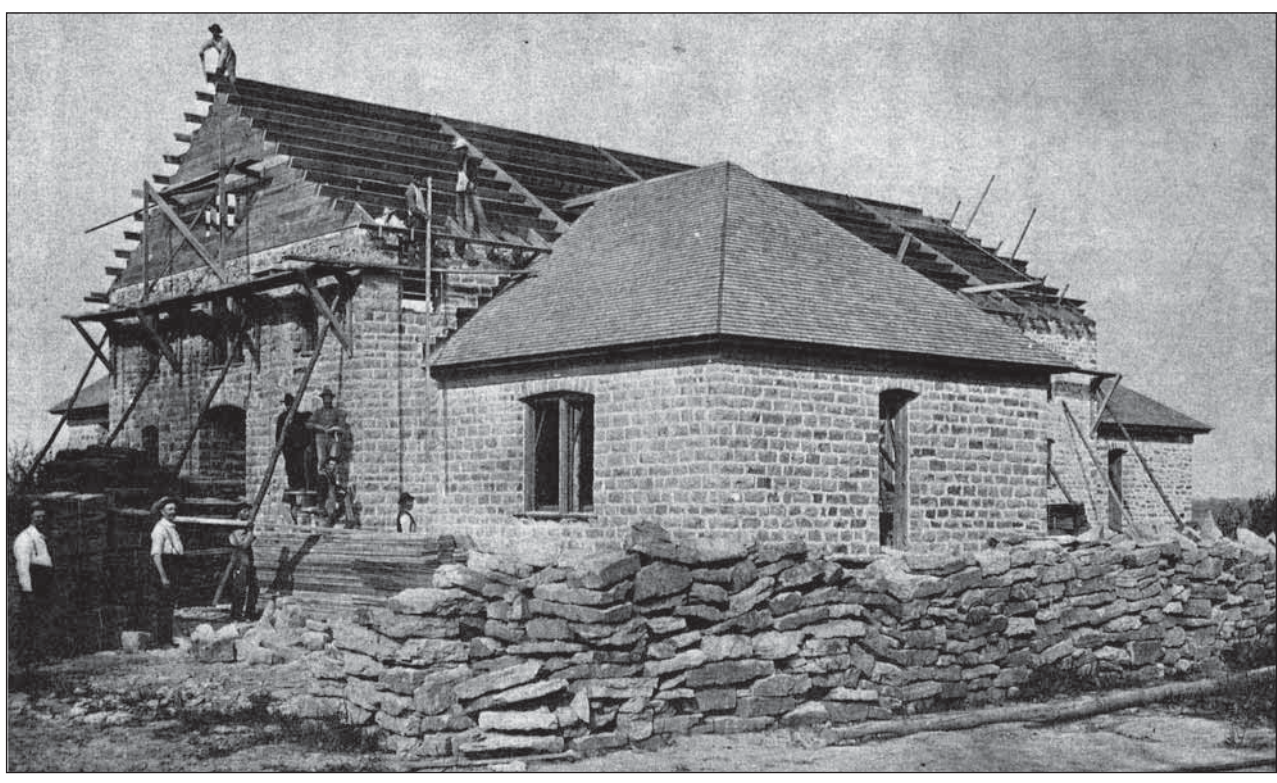
With up to 150 women involved in this craft they used their earnings to contribute to the Holy Apostles Church as well as earning a small income for their families. At the end of five years, the Industry was taken over by an Oneida, Josephine Hill Webster who continued this work for some time, thereby allowing Oneida women to continue earning a small income in addition to helping the church. They also received many awards such as the one where they received first place at the St. Louis Exposition in 1904.

In 1906, the Reverend A. Parker Curtis was appointed to serve at Holy Apostles. During his term, the Grafton Parish Hall was built. He also helped to raise funds to purchase land that was between the church and the cemetery. In addition he helped raise funds to purchase the Celtic Cross for the graves of Cornelius Hill and his wife Cecilia. (This cross is still visible in the front yard of the church where they are buried.)

In the years, 1908 – 1920, the Reverend William B. Thorne arrived from Chicago, Illinois, to serve at Holy Apostles. Reverend Thorne can be credited for helping to maintain the holdings of the church, continue to increase the church's membership and to work for the betterment of the church.

By 1920, the Reverend William Watson followed Reverend Thorne into the priesthood at Holy Apostles. On July 17, 1920, lightning struck the church and after the fire, all that remained were the foundation and the stone walls. Determined to rebuilt, work began almost immediately to replace the structure which was accomplished by 1922. It was consecrated on June 11, 1922 by Right Reverend Reginald H. Weller, who was the Bishop of Fond du Lac.

By 1927, the Reverend Lawrence Grant was appointed to serve at Holy Apostles Church having arrived from California. While he was living in the Rectory, it burned, and a new residence was then built right next to the church.



Reverend Grant was noted as being a fine musician and it was during his stay at Holy Apostles that he wrote a mass which was known as "Father Grant's Mass." This Mass was used during his stay at Holy Apostles and is still remembered by some of the older members today. After ten years, he returned to California in November, 1937.

He was succeeded by the Reverend William F. Christian in 1937 who remained at Holy Apostles for the next 20 years. In addition to all that Reverend Christian accomplished, he is remembered for hosting many a celebration at Holy Apostles.

On May 17, 1942, a celebration was held at Holy Apostles honoring the 240th anniversary of the sending of missionaries to the Iroquois Confederacy in New York by the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, as well as the celebration of 120 years of the Oneidas move to settle in Wisconsin. Invitations were sent out to all who had any affiliations with Holy Apostles. Letters received by the church included those who could not attend, but sent letters of congratulations. They included a letter from the Office of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, the Bishop from the Diocese of New York, the Bishop of Liberia from the Bishop's House in Liberia, (who was ordained at Oneida), and the Bishop of South Dakota from the Executive Council of the Episcopal Church. The guest speaker for this event was Right Reverend William Leopold, Bishop of Quincy, Illinois. A pamphlet was written entitled, "OUR ANNIVERSARY BOOK, THE ONEIDA MISSION, ONEIDA, WIS. 1822-1942," with materials about the history of the church.

In this Pamphlet, the Right Reverend Harwood Sturtevant who was the Bishop from the Diocesan Office at Fond du Lac stated in a letter "You are the largest Indian Church of the Episcopal Church in America." "And that when you moved here in 1822 you brought the Church with you and thus established firmly the oldest unit of the Episcopal Church in the State."

In 1946, a new order called the Sisters of St. Anne arrived from Boston replacing the Sisters of Holy Nativity. The Sisters of St. Anne continued on the work that had been created by the Sisters of Holy Nativity.

Then in 1947, Reverend Christian made arrangements to have the remains of former Priest, Eleazer Williams brought back to Oneida and reburied at the church. This, too, was a major event with visitors attending from the surrounding area.

On May 29, 1949, a celebration was held for the blessing of the Convent of St. Anne at Holy Apostles attended by the Priest, the Bishop of Fond du Lac, Sturtevant, Reverend Henry Brendemihl from the Christ Church at Green Bay, and the head of the Sisters, Reverend Mother Edith.

There were many more events that took place at the Church and Reverend Christian took the time to begin at least 12 to 15 organizations and activities that included youngsters and adults. This was a time of many social events taking place at the Grafton Parish Hall.

In 1957, Reverend G. Colyn Brittain followed Reverend Christian and remained for three years. He is known for attending the first Oneida Pow wow held on the Church grounds.

Oneida Community Integrated Food Systems

Why buy local, why buy Oneida?

Local markets are good for our health, good for our natural resources, good for our economy and good for our community. People enjoy the benefits of local, seasonal and sustainable grown and produced foods. Local markets help small farmers keep their family farms in agriculture rather than selling their land for urban sprawl. Local farmers farming with "Best Use" agricultural practices help keep our soil, water and air clean.

Food security is quickly becoming a priority as we read about food contamination, pesticides, chemicals, hormones, antibiotics, animal diseases, genetically modified seeds, and inhumane industrial farm practices. As food costs increase due to higher fuel costs, there is more hunger and disparity in access to food. Local communities can take the initiative to protect their food sources and the environment around them to ensure a healthy and abundant food supply.

Welcome to the Oneida Community Integrated Food Systems (OCIFS). The OCIFS Members consist of the Oneida Farm/Apple Orchard, Tsyunhehkwa, Food Distribution and Oneida Comprehensive Health Division. The group is tirelessly working to integrate our local food and resources, improve the community's quality of food, educate the people of nutrition related health problems and assist in bringing all people closer together.

The Oneida Farm operates a Cattle and Bison Operation, from our farm to your table. The farm herd consists of approximately 400 Black Angus, with 225 grazed cow/calf operation and 110 Buffalo. The Apple Orchard has 40 acres of orchard which totals approximately 4,200 trees. They have a large variety of meat products such as: Black Angus and Buffalo steaks, roasts and hamburgers. In addition they have a wide variety of fresh produce products such as: strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, sweetcorn, squash, pumpkins.

The Tsyunhehkwa (joon-hey-qwa) program is a culturally and community based agricultural entity of the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin. The program consists of two components, Agricultural & Cannery. The Agricultural component is located on a Certified Organic 80-acre site, which provides grass-fed beef, free range poultry, farm fresh eggs and organic produce. The Cannery processes not only our products, but items produced by other areas of the Nation and the Community. All of our products and services are open to the public.

The Oneida Food Distribution Program (OFDP) provides a well balanced food package, and has been distributing USDA food for over 26 years. They assist low income households and elderly individuals receive a monthly food package. The Food Distribution Program serves: Outagamie, Brown, Kewanee, Door and Manitowoc Counties.

Oneida Comprehensive Health Division assists in the connection between diet and health through numerous departments and projects such as: Wellness Coaching, General Education and the Elderly Diabetic Luncheon.

The Oneida Farmers Market is located at the One Stop parking lot on Highway 54 in Oneida. The Farmers Market runs every Thursday from June - October and operates from Noon - 6:00pm. So buy your natural Black Angus meat from the Oneida Farm, your produce from the Oneida Apple Orchard, and get your certified organic produce and food processing needs from the Tsyunhehkwa program. For more information regarding the OCIFS programs please visit us at our website www.oneidanation.org/ocifs.

Importance of Oneida Hymn Singers

Since before European contact, the Oneidas have told stories about the Singing Societies among our people. One story tells about the Singers going to a family's home to sing at a wake. During this time, there are the clouded minded ones (the grieving family), and the clear minded ones (the support families that help with food, lodging, transportation, singing, and etc.). The Singers would gather together to help the grieving family. People would come to give their condolences and in most cases the Singers would sing all night. The Singing helps us through the time of need or sorrow. The singers try to go whenever or wherever they are asked to go.

In 2008, the Oneida Singers of Wisconsin were awarded with the country's highest honor in the Folk and Traditional Arts from the National Endowment of the Arts. They were chosen for their artistic excellence and contributions to the nation's cultural heritage

The story our people tell is that when the Oneidas made contact with the Europeans we were very surprised by and enjoyed their music. The Oneidas began to take the Christian melodies and put Oneida words to them. In 1649, the English Parliament took action to form a society to work with the Indians of New York on Christianity. In 1709, four Chiefs from the Five Nations of the Iroquois went to England to meet Queen Ann. She ordered that the " Common Prayer Book " & the Hymns were to be translated and printed in the Mohawk language; this was completed in the early 1800's. The Mohawk language is very close to the Oneida language so the Oneida singers used the Mohawk Hymn Book until 1941 when Oscar Archiquette and some other Oneidas translated the hymns into the Oneida language.

In Oneida, the in uence of the Oneida Singers can be traced back beyond written history, but those Singers still live in the hearts and minds of the Oneida community. The Oneida Singers have changed with the times in many respects, but the main constant about the Singers is the understanding that the songs are a gift from the Creator, and are to be shared with one's fellow man in their time of need. When we sing we carry the voices that came before us to keep that sharing alive.

There are songs for all occasions, and the singers have been asked to sing at wakes, funerals, nursing homes, schools, churches, grand openings, military gatherings, and weddings. The requests have come from within the community, the surrounding area, state wide, nationally and internationally.

The Oneida Singers perform a capella, as they have been doing since before America's colonial period. Recipient of the 2008 NEA National Heritage Fellowship Award

Oneida Singers Hymn practice during the summer months, every Sunday from 4 PM to 5 PM at the Oneida Methodist Church Hall.

Requests for singers to perform for any occasion, can be directed to Carol Cornelius 869-3796 or Lois Powless at 833-7745

GTC moves amendments but Judiciary left behind

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The tabled proposed overhaul of the Oneida Tribe's court system will have to wait a little longer as the General Tribal Council (GTC) pulled the topic off the table but quickly put it back after a lengthy presentation.

The Judiciary Act, listed last on the night's agenda, was petitioned to come off the table for further discussion on the qualifications of judges assigned to the court.

"If Oneida people are to trust and support a future tribal court, we must start out with high standards," petitioner Loretta Metoxen said in a statement to the GTC.

"We expect our judges to be fair, honest, and neutral when ruling on cases. This means we expect good character and higher ethic standards from judges."

Metoxen then stepped aside as Kelly Elm-McAndrews from the Judiciary Work Group presented a lengthy outline of the group's recommendations. The group was the result of a GTC directive dating back to a February 5 GTC Special Meeting.

The petition outlined a set of criteria with education and experience standards but as the meeting grew longer patience grew shorter and it was tabled.

The GTC also took three amendments off the table for consideration.

An amendment targeted at strengthen Indian preference in hiring was quickly passed. It outlines the priority list given in terms of preference for jobs posted with the Oneida Tribe. It gives preference to Oneida tribal members, then Oneida Indians eligible for enrollment followed by documented first generation Oneida descendents. The passed amendment then follows with other Native American Indian and non-Indian being last.

A proposed amendment to the current Personnel Policies and Procedures would cap the total combined amount of personal and vacation time an employee has at 280 hours. Concern was expressed when GTC members felt employees may lose hours under circumstances not within their control.

Under current policy, employees who have over 280 hours have that time banked into an account that needs to be used by December of 2012. If the time is not used it would be lost. About 250 employees currently have banked hours.

Several GTC members that supervise tribal employees expressed concern over the availability of time-off for employees as they are functioning under staff shortages.

"When people take vacation or personal time who fills in their time?" asked Kerry Cornelius. "The way it is set up the employee is going to lose out. It needs to be set up so the employee benefits and the tribe benefits."

"My department is short staffed," said Childcare Director Dorothy Skenandore." We can't leave the kids alone and can't give time-off. Are they just

Oneida Veterans honor fallen troops on Memorial Day

Kali photos/Travis Cottrell

The Oneida Veterans spent their Memorial Day remembering the brave men and women who served in the United States Armed Forces. The Veterans visited community cemeteries, visiting the graves of troops who have passed. They concluded their activities at the Oneida Veterans Memorial Wall with a color guard, 21-gun salute, playing of Taps, and dedicating pavers. A lunch of chicken booyah was then served to the veterans, their families, and friends.

OPD and Brown County reach deputization agreement

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Tribe again solidified a relationship with another jurisdiction with the signing of a cross deputization agreement between the Oneida Police Department and Brown County Sherriff's Department.

The agreement deputizes OPD officers and according to OPD Chief of Police, Rich Van Boxtel, creates a safer community for everyone. It was signed during a press conference on Wednesday, June 1.

"The Brown County Sheriff's Department couldn't keep the residents of their community safe by themselves and the Oneida Police Department couldn't keep the residents of our community safe by ourselves," said Van Boxtel. "We need to work together and keep building those bridges and bonds."

Oneida Business Committee Wrap up: May 25, 2011

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Business Committee wrapped up its Wednesday, May 25 meeting with a proposal to open a Tribal Procurement Technical Assistance Center (PTAC) office on the reservation.

Present: Chairman Rick Hill, Secretary Patti Hoeft, Treasurer Tina Danforth, Council Members Ed Delgado, Melinda Danforth, Brandon Stevens, Ron Tehassi Hill Jr.

According to Gwen Carr (Cayuga), the US Department of Defense (DOD) would provide $600,000 in funding for an office that would perform training for individuals interested in selling supplies to the DOD. Oneida would need to put up $150,000 plus $50,000 in kind funds – services or goods.

According to Carr, there is currently no local training available for people interested in learning the complicated process of contracting with the DOD, and most training centers charge fees.

"The tribal PTAC that I'm proposing to house here on the Oneida reservation provides all of this information to Oneida small businesses, potential small businesses and anyone who is interested in a becoming a small business in these particular terminology, what they mean and how they work, and how to use those as successful tool for government contracting for free," said Carr. "What's in it for Oneida? A lot of opportunity to learn about government procurement and contracting."

The OBC approved the center which would be paid for in the FY2012 budget in October.

To kick off the meeting, Secretary Patti Hoeft gave the oath of office to Carol Silva for the Oneida Nation Veterans Affairs Committee.

The OBC honored employees with decades of years of service to Oneida. Celestine Denny was honored for 35 years, Kathleen V. Danforth was honored for 30 years, and Albert R. King, Gregory C. Laehn, Dr. William Stempski, DDS, Wendy T. Bloedorn and Dorreen Perrote were honored for 25 years of service.

Minutes to be approved

The OBC approved the May 11 OBC minutes.

Resolutions

The OBC approved a resolution creating a Quality of Life Standing Committee and its charter. The committee is one of three committees the OBC resolved to create at the beginning of their three year terms. The other committees are the Community Development and Planning, and the not yet formed Finance & Business.

"We wanted to be able to dedicate our dollars to and know where our dollars are going to in terms of terms of social services, health care, culture, language," said Councilwoman Melinda Danforth.

The resolution was passed by the OBC.

Board, Committee and Commission quarterly reports

The OBC accepted a report from Lance Broberg on the Oneida Airport Hotel Corporation. Broberg reported that the National Football League (NFL) lockout is having an impact on the Wingate Hotel.

"Twenty-five percent of the rooms are occupied at the Wingate are part of a contract that we have with the Packers. The Packers would have had historically two minicamps," said Broberg. "The sooner the lock out ends, the better the Wingate's going to do."

Broberg also stated that the construction of a round-a-bout near the Austin Straubel Airport entrance is causing some confusion for Wingate patrons.

"They're actually turning into the old FCC building … and then they get there and they just drive across the lawn to get to the Wingate, so signage is an issue," he said.

Broberg's report also highlighted the high ratings the Radisson and Wingate have received for customer service, environmental practices that will save $100,000 in energy costs, and gaming and golf packages available.

"We have a $50 upgrade that will include 18 holes of golf at the Thornberry Course, and shuttle service to and from the hotel," said Broberg. The package also include rental of premium golf clubs.

L to R: Wendy T. Bloerdorn, Dr. William Stempski, DDS and Doreen Perrote attended the May 25 OBC where they were honored for 25 years of service.

The Committee also heard a report from Bobbi Webster of the Oneida Golf Enterprise. Webster stated the wet, cold spring delayed the opening of the Thornberry Creek at Oneida Golf Course, but revenue was generated through the sale of golf passes. Webster noted that the course enjoys support from the community.

"Ten percent of all our revenues generated at Thornberry come from our enrolled Oneida members," said Webster.

The OBC accepted Webster's report and one from John Johnson of the Bay Bank Corporation. Johnson stated the Bay Bank is doing better than other banks its size.

"We've made some substantial progress, and I expect that will continue to be the case throughout the course of the year," said Johnson.

Butch Rentmeester and Matt Kunstman gave a report for Oneida Total Integrated Enterprises (OTIE).

Rentmeester reported while there are several projects OTIE is pursuing, there are more they would have liked to go after but couldn't due to bonding issues.

"A lot of opportunities come up that we don't have the capital for," he said.

Rentmeester stated OTIE would be upgrading the Oneida area office to a profit center.

"That's primarily because of the work updating the (Highway) 41 project," he said. "As we open this office up here as a profit center, that will be an opportunity to hire more Oneida people."

Skenandore Jr., Ronald Ray
Oct. 25, 1970 – May 22, 2011

Ronald Ray Skenandore, Jr., passed away unexpectedly Sunday May 22, 2011, in Green Bay, Wis.

He was born to Ronald Ray Skenandore, Sr. and Josephine (Cornelius) Skenandore on Oct. 25, 1970, in Milwaukee, Wis. Shortly after his birth, the family moved to the Oneida area, where Ronnie Ray attended school, graduating from West De Pere High School in 1988.

Ronnie Ray had been an over-the-road trucker for the past 20 years and was a team driver with his father. He made many friends around the country with his easy going nature. He always had a smile, and was a very giving person who put others ahead of himself.

He had a passion for fast cars and was an avid racing fan, especially NASCAR. In addition to racing, Ronnie Ray loved all sports.

He loved his family very much and was at his happiest when he could spend time with his nieces and nephews. They were always excited to see their "Uncle Ron."

Ronnie Ray is survived by his father, Ronald Ray Skenandore, Sr., Las Vegas; and his mother, Josie (Tom) Daebler, De Pere; his paternal grandmother, Phyl Skenandore, De Pere; one brother, Mitchel Ryan (Jodi) Skenandore, Oneida; one sister, Kelli Rae (Jason) Widi, De Pere; special uncles, Dan Skenandore and Kerry (Judy) Skenandore. He is leaving behind special friends Cheryle Schommer, Bob Serama, and Bill and Jennifer Skenandore. Additional uncles and aunts are Harry Corneilius, Frank (Nancy) Cornelius, Leonard (Yvonne) Cornelius, Clarence (Sandy) Cornelius, Ben (Gerri) Cornelius and Eleanor Bailey, nieces, Kristia, Rylee, Mia and Kendall and nephews, Clayton, Dylan, and Kaiden as well as many cousins. He was preceded in death by paternal grandfather Norris "Skinny" Skenandore, and maternal grandparents Anderson W. and Lillian Cornelius.

Family and friends may call at RYAN FUNERAL HOME AND CREMATORY, 305 North Tenth Street, De Pere, from 4 to 8 p.m. Wednesday May 25, 2011. Parish prayer service was held at 7 p.m. Visitation continued after 9 a.m. Thursday at Holy Apostles Episcopal Church, Freedom Road, Oneida, until time of service. Celebration of the Mass of Christian Burial was held at 10:30 a.m. Thursday at the church with Father Robert Clarke, officiating, assisted by Deacon Deborah Heckel. Please visit www.ryanfh.com to send online condolences to the family.

Patricia is survived by her 2 sons - Albert Jandreau, Calvin Jandreau; grandson - Knowledge Jandreau; 4 brothers - Clifford (Arlyle) Doxtator, Oneida, Roman Doxtator, Oneida, Alan (Mary) Doxtator, Oneida, Victor Doxtator, Oneida; 4 sisters - Clarissa (Stan) Alexander, Pendelton, OR, Marilyn Danforth, Oneida, Ruth Ann Miller, Lakeport CA, Gloria Doxtator, Green Bay; 5 friends - Arnold Oshkeshequom, Candy and L.A., Nancy Skenandore, Nola Grignon, Stacy Grignon. She is preceded in death by her father, Clifford Doxtator, mother, Melinda Doxtator, brother, Don Doxtator, sister, Rachael Reed.

Services were held at 10:00AM. on Monday, May 23, 2011 at the Longhouse, W370 Reformatory Rd, Oneida, WI. Bob Brown officiated with Interment in Oneida Tribal Cemetery. Please visit www.ryanfh.com to send online condolences to the Doxtator family. The Doxtator family would like to thank the Oneida Health Center, St. Vincent Hospital, St Mary Hospital, and Unity Hospice for all the care shown to Patricia and her family.

Kiefer, Rev. David
February 16, 1936 – May 21, 2011

Rev. David Kiefer, age 75, of Neopit, passed away Saturday May 21, 2011. Born on February 16, 1936 in Green Bay, he was the son of the late Ray and Regina (Schauer) Kiefer. After graduating from high school, Father Dave attended the Junior College at St. Francis Seminary and in 1959 received his Master's Degree in Philosophy from the Catholic University of America. On December 19, 1962 Father Kiefer was ordained by the Archbishop Martin J. O'Connor at Christ the King Church in Rome. The following year, Father Kiefer received his STL Degree in Theology at the North American College and Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome. He later studied Educational Administration at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. In September of 1963 he became the Assistant at the St. Mary Parish in Menasha and in 1966 became administrator of St. Mary Central High School in Menasha. Six years later, Father Dave became the director at the Sacred Heart Seminary in Green Bay and of the Oneida Summer Program and in 1977 was named the executive director of the Office of Personnel. In 1980 he was released to work for The Center for Human Development in Washington D.C. During the next decade he became a member of the Bishop's Administrative Council, first Administrator and then Priest Moderator at the St. James Parish in White Lake and at St. Stanislaus in Langlade while also continuing to serve as Director of Personnel and was appointed Vicar for Priests. On August 1, 1991, Rev. Dave Kiefer answered the calling for a priest at the St. Anthony's Catholic Church in Neopit on the Menominee Indian Reservation. By 2006 his calling had expanded to include St. Joseph Holy Family Parish in Phlox and the Holy Family Parish in Mattoon as well as continuing his role as administrator of St. James in White Lake and St. Stanislaus in Langlade. On September 1, 2010, Fr. Dave Kiefer retired as priest but remained administrator at St. James and St. Stanislaus.

Father Dave is survived by: 3 sisters, Jean Fiedler of Green Bay, Kathryn Peot of Oak Brook, IL, Ann (Roger) Dornburg of Green Bay; 2 brothers, John (Jeanne) Kiefer of DePere, Ray (Nancy) Kiefer of Green Bay; and many nieces, nephews, great nieces, great nephews, and cousins.

Father Dave was preceded in death by: his parents; a brother, Peter Kiefer, sister-in-law, Marianne Kiefer, brothers-in-law; Robert Fiedler and Robert Peot.

Funeral services were held at 1:00 pm on Thursday, May 26, 2011 at St Anthony's Catholic Church in Neopit with Bishop David L. Ricken officiating. Rev. Willard VanDeLoo served as homilist. Reception of the body was held at St. Joseph Holy Family Church in Phlox on Tuesday, May 24 for family and friends. The transfer of the body was held on Wednesday for a reception at the St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Neopit.

A parish wake service was held Wednesday at 7:30pm in Neopit with burial in St. Anthony's Catholic Cemetery, Neopit.

Swedberg Funeral Home in Shawano assisted the family with the arrangements. In lieu of flowers, memorials may be made to St. Anthony's Catholic Parish.

Tears
If tears could build a stairway,
and memories were a lane,
I would walk right up to heaven
to bring you home again.
No farewell words were spoken
no time to say goodbye
you were gone before I knew it,
and only God knows why.
My heart still aches in sadness
and secret tears still flow,
what it meant to lose you,
no one will ever know.

Newly Elected Judicial Officers FAQ's

Submitted by Janice L. McLester
Lead Judicial Officer
Oneida Tribal Judicial System

The purpose of this article is to answer questions individuals may have in regard to their role as a Judicial Officer and the time commitments required within this position. This information is intended to provide a good understanding of the position's expectations.

Prior to being elected, a background check will be completed. As a member of the judiciary you cannot have been convicted of a felony, nor been removed from any tribal board, committee or commission. Once you are elected to the position you can no longer sit on any tribal board, committee or commission. This rule is in place to minimize conflicts of interests. Many of the cases filed at the judiciary involve decisions made within the tribe's system. Being on a board, committee or commission outside the Oneida Tribe is acceptable, however requires disclosure to the Oneida Tribal Judicial System.

There are eleven (11) Judicial Officers. Elections are staggered, with 8 Judicial Officers having a four (4) year term and three (3) Judicial Officers a three (3) year term. The July 16, 2011 election will be for eight (8) seats on the Judiciary. The remaining three (3) Judicial Officer positions will not be up for election until 2012.

Will I be a full-time or part-time Judicial Officer?

Full-time and part-time positions will be determined in October, 2011. Of the eleven (11) Judicial Officers, four (4) are full-time positions, seven (7) are part-time positions. Selection of full-time judicial officers is done by your peers at the Judiciary's October Monthly Meeting.

Will I receive any training on the Judiciary prior to sitting on any cases?

The judicial system has a guiding document that sets forth its training expectations for its judicial officers. Prior to hearing cases, the judicial officer must attend training as outlined in Oneida Tribal Judicial System's Comprehensive Training Plan. The majority of training is offered at the National Judicial College in Reno, NV with courses ranging from one (1) week to two (2) weeks. Two (2) week courses run continuously. The National Judicial College is an internationally recognized college in training judges and other court personnel. Note: You will be required to utilize your personal or vacation time if you are a tribal employee.

Some of the required training consists of Jurisdiction, Essential Skills for Judges, Administrative Law, Federal Indian Law and Decision Writing.

There are other training presenters such as Falmouth Institute, National Indian Justice Center and Wisconsin's Judicial College, who also provide excellent training opportunities.

Which part of the Judiciary will I be on: Trial or Appellate?

Newly elected Judicial Officers will begin their term serving on the Trial Court. This is done to familiarize the Judicial Officer with the operation of the court setting. As part of the training, you will have an opportunity to audit trial court proceedings and learn the administrative functions of the clerk of courts.

What time commitments are required?

Trials and hearings are held on Tuesday and Thursday and begin at 10:00A.M. and continue throughout the day, with the last scheduled trial at 3:00P.M. Judicial Officers are required to be in deliberation prior to the trial/hearing beginning at 9:00A.M. Trials/hearings and deliberations are held during the work day schedule. Part-time individuals may be scheduled for ½ day or the full day depending on the case load.

Prior approval from supervisors is required for any time away from your regular positions within the tribe in order to sit on a judiciary panel during regular work hours.

Deliberations in the Appellate court are usually held at 4:45PM. A deliberation is a meeting held to review an original hearing body decision, to discuss its issues, evidence and formulate the final opinion.

Oneida Tribal employees are required to gain approval from their supervisor to utilize their personal/vacation time or to make arrangements for being away from their positions in order to fulfill judicial responsibilities, if those responsibilities are scheduled within regular work hours.

Avoiding Foreclosure

BayBank Green Bay, Wisconsin

Foreclosure is becoming a word that we're hearing all too often these days. Nowhere is that more apparent than in the front yards of our neighbors and friends, where the "For Sale" signs which have lingered for months may now have an unwelcome addition – the "Foreclosure" sign.

But there are resources available to homeowners facing foreclosure. Just because you may be involved in foreclosure proceedings now doesn't mean you have to lose your home. The most important thing homeowners can do is keep in contact with their lender and work to find a solution.

It's easy to say that the people facing foreclosure bought more house than they could afford, that they bit off more than they could chew. But the truth is foreclosure can hit anyone, and the most common reasons a homeowner faces foreclosure haven't changed the further the economy has fallen into recession.

Job loss, divorce, a catastrophic medical event, or death- each are big factors in many foreclosure cases and they all have something in common: Most homeowners never intend to fall behind on their mortgage, but they do so because of circumstances beyond their control.

If you're having trouble making your mortgage payments, here are some tips to help:

• Call the customer service number of your lender or loan services immediately to make alternate arrangements and avoid having a late payment recorded on your credit report.

• Contact credit card companies to reduce or delay payments so you can pay your mortgage first.

If you've already missed one or more payments:

• Take action right away. Your lender can offer options such as loan modifications or mortgage workouts that may result in a lower payment or reduced interest rate.

• Open and respond to all mail from your lender. The notices you receive will offer advice on avoiding foreclosure.

If you've received a foreclosure notice:

• Understand that your financial institution wants to help you keep your home.

Foreclosures cost lenders tens of thousands of dollars, drive down property Values, and damage the credit of homeowners for years to come, making it difficult to rent or buy another home.

• Don't give up. The Wisconsin foreclosure process gives homeowners extra time to work with lenders to halt the process.

Gunderson receives WIEA Lifetime Achievement Award

Carol Gunderson of Osseo, daughter of the late Tom and Zelda Schuyler, recently received the Wisconsin Indian Education Association Lifetime Achievement Award for her efforts to eliminate stereotypes in educational environments and race-based mascots and logos.

Gunderson, one of six children, was born in Green Bay and attended a Green Bay grade school. The first day of kindergarten, two little white boys chased her and pulled her hair just because she was American Indian, she said; the event introduced her to the trials that American Indians face through discrimination and stereotyping.

Although Gunderson lived and attended school in Green Bay, she frequently visited family and worshiped at the Methodist Church on the Oneida Reservation.

"I had to learn to live in two worlds," she said. "The worlds were very different."

When she was in eighth grade, her family moved to the reservation and she transferred to the Seymour School District.

Gunderson's exposure to politics came during her high-school years; Oneida Tribal Chair Irene Moore asked Gunderson to accompany her to Great Lakes Inter-Tribal Council meetings to take notes. Besides wanting to help Moore, Gunderson possessed a skill that the tribal chair desperately needed. "I could take short-hand," Gunderson said.

Moore also urged Gunderson to represent the Oneidas at the newly established Miss North American Indian Competition developed by the Foundation of North American Indian Culture.

Gunderson became one of 10 finalists from Mexico, Canada and the United States to appear at a pageant in Bismarck, N.D. Surprised at the invitation, Gunderson prepared to compete against American Indian girls who had experience in competing at pageants.

"I dieted like crazy to get my weight down," she said.

At the pageant, Gunderson gave speeches, explained American Indian culture and history, and presented a Hawaiian song and dance for the talent competition. The competitors also dressed in Native dress indigenous to their tribe.

"Mine wasn't all that fancy," she said. "The others had fancy, jazzed-up buckskin dresses."

Nevertheless, in the end Gunderson won the Miss North American Indian 1965 crown.

"It was a surprise," she said. "I didn't expect it at all."

As Miss North American Indian, Gunderson gave presentations throughout the United States; she also spoke at the Department of the Interior, focusing on the importance of education for American Indian youth and the importance of educating non-Native people about American Indians.

During her reign, Gunderson gave a speech at a university and attended a dance afterward with her parents. One curious graduate student poked his head in to see what was going on and thus Carol met her future husband, Harvey Gunderson of Osseo.

"We danced most of the evening," Gunderson said.

Harvey Gunderson was attending graduate school out of state; the pair exchanged addresses so that they could keep in touch by mail. During a school break, he trekked from Osseo to Seymour to see Carol.

"We went on a date and argued the whole time," Gunderson said.

Gunderson admitted that she had assumed her beau to be spoiled as the only child of an older couple; she discovered her assumption to be false and the couple met for a second date.

Discovering how much they had in common and how similar their life goals were, Harvey and Carol became engaged that evening and were married when Carol was 22 years old.

Harvey Gunderson taught math at UW-Oshkosh and Carol worked as a secretary to supplement the household income. But Harvey encouraged his wife to obtain a college education, so Carol Gunderson took her first college course at the age of 34.

Carol eventually completed a degree in sociology at UW-Eau Claire; she also was one of the first students to complete the newly developed minor in American Indian Studies.

As an undergraduate student, Carol Gunderson advised American Indian students while working for Veda Stone and served on the UW-EC American Indian Studies Committee as liaison on behalf of American Indian students.

While Harvey worked for one year as a visiting professor at a St. Louis university, Carol completed a Masters degree in management from St. Louis' Webster University. She then taught management courses part-time at UW-Stout's Psychology department until becoming a full-time teacher in the department of social sciences. She also supported and mentored students in her role as advisor to the American Indian student organization.

When the Gundersons retired from teaching 11 years ago, they looked forward to a "nice, quiet" life, Carol Gunderson said. But retirement was anything but quiet when the couple gradually became involved in efforts to change the race-based American Indian mascot at Osseo-Fairchild.

Carol Gunderson said at first she was asked to be part of a committee to find a compromise over the debate. However, she feared that the effort would set up an 'Indian-versus-Indian' fight between American Indians of opposing viewpoints.

"I told Harvey, 'I don't want to get involved,'" she said.

But people continued to ask the Gundersons to help; Carol eventually warned Harvey about the problems that could await them if they tackled the issue.

"We could end up with crosses being burned in our yards," Gunderson told her husband. "I know what it's like to be chased."

During the years the debate raged, the Gundersons met some of the nicest and some of the most stubborn people in Osseo, she said. They also poured energy into compiling research on the harmful effects of race-based mascots and logos.

Other Wisconsin school districts also sought out the Gundersons for information when tackling their own race-based mascots; Carol leaped at the chance to teach them that stereotyping American Indians hurts.

The Gundersons also established an educational and civil rights organization called Religious Americans Against 'Indian' Nicknames & Logos (RAAINL) to further their goals.

For recognition of her contributions to American Indian education and promotion of civil rights in working for elimination of race-based, American Indian nicknames, logos and mascots, Gunderson received a Lifetime Achievement Award from the Wisconsin Indian Education Association (WIEA).

"I was not expecting that at all," Gunderson said.

Because of ill health, Gunderson was unable to attend the Awards Banquet of the 2011 Annual Conference of the Wisconsin Indian Education Association held at the Menominee Casino Resort Convention Center at Keshena on Saturday, April 30.

A former student accepted a plaque and special raised beadwork piece title "Skydomes" on Gunderson's behalf at the banquet.

"This award motivates me to do even more, and I look forward to healing so that I can return to my work trying to create an educational environment free of stereotypes," Gunderson wrote for her acceptance speech. "We must succeed in creating a stereotype-free educational environment to benefit not only students of today but also the next seven generations of students. That is a legacy that we must all work toward."

Caretakers Corner: A Gift to Your Family

As the Probate Specialist for the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin, some of the most frequently asked questions I get are:

"What documents does my family need if I pass away?"

"What can I do to make it easier for my family to settle my estate?"

I know a lot of people don't like to think about the day they will no longer be on this earth, but it's a reality. One of the hardest things for your family to do after you pass is figuring out what is needed for the funeral, for the probate, and to distribute your possessions. Your family will have to make hard decisions based on what they think you might have wanted.

The best solution to this problem would be to prepare a Death Kit. I know the name can be harsh but you can name it anything you'd like. This kit should hold all the document and paperwork the family will need to settle your estate and distribute your possessions. I'm going to list a few of the most important thing your Death Kit should have. Some of these things you may not have or you may have other things you want added.

- Documents: Birth Certificate, Marriage License, Divorce Decrees, you children's Birth Certificates or lists of their dates of birth, and death, Adoption Records if any child was adopted, Deeds, Lease Agreements Vehicle Registrations, etc. If you don't have these documents then make a record of when and where these events happened. As many of the documents will be required for probate, transfers of title and so on, this will make searching for them much easier.
- Life Insurance Information: Either the policy itself or information where to locate the policy. As a last resort you can also have a list of information as much information you can provide. This includes Insurance Company information, beneficiary information, policy number and amount of policy, etc.
- Bank Account Information: Bank statements, list of banks and account numbers
- Final Instructions: Take the time to write down things you've already taken care of, (ex Funeral pre-arrangements, payment of bills, etc) and things the family will need to take care of (funeral singers, flowers, etc). You can also list any last wishes and final messages for your loved ones.
- Funeral Arrangements: Some people will make arrangements with the Funeral Home of their choosing. There are also companies that sell Funeral Insurance to cover the cost of your funeral. Of course, as Oneida Tribal Members have the insurance from the Tribe of cover most of the expenses but if your spouse or children are not enrolled, this may be a good option for you.
- Last Will and Testament: You Last Will and Testament is a document that lets the world know your final wishes from beyond the grave. Most Probate Courts will only accept an Original Copy of your Will or Certified Copies of the Original.

Please do not keep your original Will in your Death Kit, unless you know it's in a water/fire proof holder. Put a note in your kit that lets your loved ones know where it is located. There are places that will hold your Will for you such as banks but if you're in the Oneida area, I'd suggest the Division of Land Management.

The DOLM has a locked fireproof vault where we store Wills for Oneida Tribal Members. We have them indexed into a data base with your information and personal representative information listed. As the Probate Specialist, I am alerted at the time of a Tribal Member's death. At that time I review the Will data base to see if that person has a Will stored in our facility. The personal representative will then be notified to make an appointment to receive your Will. The opening of the Will is witnessed then signed and dated by the witnesses and the personal representative.

Wills should also be kept up to date. You will need to have your Will updated if you are married, re-married, divorced, have a child, adopt a child, one of your heirs die, you acquire additional property or buy a new home.

All the information listed can be put into a folder, large envelope or a locked box. If you have a fireproof safe or fireproof locked box, they would be the prefect storage places. You should also make sure that at least one other person knows the location of your Death Kit, usually your personal representative.

Hey "Cousins"!!

My name is Karen Newhouse. I am the granddaughter of Moses and Cordelia Wheelock Sommers, who were both Oneida. Cordelia was the daughter of Rachel Williams Wheelock. Rachel went on to marry Cobus Denny, and then Nick Denny.

When my Grandpa Moses died, he had been living in Grimms, Wisc. He died May 14, 1945, at a hospital in Manitowoc of a burst appendix. He was 72.

My family and I have been searching for his burial site. We have worked with Loretta Metoxen and narrowed it down to either St Joseph's Catholic Church or Immaculate Conception in Oneida. The records show that Moses was a member at one time, but their book said he was buried at St Joseph's cemetery. St Joseph's does NOT have him listed in a plot on their map. "Kalihwisaks" is me!! I need to turn to information by "word of mouth".

Is there anyone out there who remembers my Grandpa Moses, and maybe attended the funeral and/or the burial? I would appreciate any information or memories of both of my Grandparents. Pictures would be great! I have some to show and share. They were both from Oneida, just moved around where the jobs were. After Moses' death, Cordelia moved back to Oneida and later met and married Alex Parkhurst.

We have been working on our heritage with very good results…with this exception. Moses' sister was Hannah Sommers, his half brother was Aaron Sommers, and his half sister was Sarah Sommers. Cordelia had a half sister, Celinda Thomas, whom I have been in touch with her daughters.

I also have an Uncle named William Sommers who was adopted FROM Moses and Cordelia, to work on a man's farm. I believe the man and woman's names were Julius and Sarah Webster. He changed his name to William Webster. He was killed by a hit and run driver on the road outside Green bay at the age of 39, about 1952. The obituary listed a survivor...a half sister, Mrs. Hanson Denny. If anyone knows anything about him, also, please contact me.

I go to the meetings and the clinic, so, I am able to come to Oneida, if that is where some of you still live. I know "downtown" like the back of my hand! My sense of humor comes from my uncle, Hyson Sommers.

With great anticipation and appreciation,
Karen Newhouse

OSGC is responsible for loan

Dear editor;

OSGC takes great pride in providing factual information regarding its projects; as is the case with our proposed waste to energy facility. That is why we want to make sure the record is set straight regarding the project loan.

In a previous letter to the editor, Mr. Frank Cornelius is correct when he cites the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) in regards to loan guarantees; however he did not fully read Section 103.26. In S103.26, line (m), it clearly states:

"(m) If the borrower is a business entity, resolutions by the appropriate governing officials and proof of authority under its organizing documents permitting the borrower to borrow the loan amount and offer the proposed loan collateral."

OSGC is a tribally and state chartered business entity, we have authority under our organizing documents and charter, and we are offering the loan collateral for this project; therefore the Oneida Tribe is in no way responsible for OSGC's loan.

We would also like to correct one other piece of information provided by Mr. Cornelius. The person overseeing our participation in the loan program is Shannon Loeve, Southwest Zone Credit Office Manager (505) 563-5471 (We had her in attendance for any questions at the April 11, 2011 GTC meeting). Also, we have been working closely with The Director of Office of Indian Energy and Economic Development Mr. Steve Many Deeds (303)-969-5270. He has personally been in attendance at our Tribal and public open houses.

As always, should you have any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact me or visit our website www.osgc.net for more information: We are looking forward to moving ahead with this environmentally-conscious project which will reduce waste going into our landfills, create jobs and economic development, and generate electricity. We thank the community for its support.

Sincerely,
Kevin Cornelius

THANK YOU !

We would like to thank each and everyone who donated items, volunteered to cook, set up the tents, tables, and most of all we thank the musicians. We also thank all the businesses and people in the community for their donations. We so much appreciate everything that was given to help us out us in our time of need. During Lonnie's illness I didn't have time to think about much else other than him being alive and getting better. I was never scared in my life of losing someone I love. We have spent over 22 years together, been through many ordeals good and bad, and just got married in 2009. I was not prepared to lose him that quickly and I prayed everyday to God our Creator to guide him to better health. He spent over 3 days in Intensive Care Unit and 11 more in the hospital. Our emotions were being put to test. One morning, I walked into St. Marys and went right into the Chapel, I spent 15 minutes in there praying and crying. I was exhausted myself and when Lonnie was released I suddenly became not just a wife, but a round the clock nurse, and still went to work trying to balance our life for the next months. Each day people are faced with struggles such as job losses and illnesses and until you are actually faced with that you never know how hard it can be. To go from living with two incomes to one income can be challenging. But the most important thing is that we have each other.

My heart goes to all the musicians, thank you so much, the music is what makes people feel good. Music is up-lifting and allows your soul to heal. We have so much awesome talent here in Oneida. Thank you to Big Snake, Rockin Daddy's, Big & Tasty, and Cherry Bounce, you all did a great job in supporting us. We also thank cousin Julie King, sister Susie Danforth, and good family friend Fleet for thinking of this benefit and organizing all the things to make it happen, these people have big hearts and caring minds. We thank our family; cousins, brothers, sisters, aunties, uncles, mom (Pat) and dad (Geno) and our friends for their continuous prayers and help during Lonnies hospital stay and while he was sick..

Thank you to everyone. It's not what you have in life, its about the life you live having each other.

Thank you again,
Love Lori and Lonnie
Thomas (est.1989)

Looking for family

I'm requesting a big helping hand. I lost all contact with my younger sister, and the last I know is that she got married and is living in Oneida, WI. We were taken from our parents by the court system and placed in foster homes. We were separated as children and put in different homes. As time went on we lost all contact. Now we are adults. I live way over here in California and am doing time in prison, but I'm striving to better myself and get back on the right path as a Native American. I pray my sister sees this letter and writes to me. Also if anyone would like to write to this Native American brother, please do and I will answer you. Thank you for reading this.

Sincerely,
Dion Rendon

Election Spotlight

Tribal leadership in elections

Tribal leadership in the Tribal elections.....a little more than enrolled and 21 is needed for the strategic service of/for the Oneida Community during these challenging times.

What do we say about leadership?

"Other units of government develop leaders to strengthen communities. They need leaders who show initiative, understanding the breadth of the perspectives on the issues, assume responsibility and exercise sound decision making. Leadership has provided broader vision, an understanding of themselves and the world, as well as a clearer appreciation of the interdependence of issues that impact it. They commonly have the following values;

- building community (growing diverse networks, collaborations and connections)
- encouraging learning (achieving personal growth and professional development)
- foster understanding (respecting diverse points-of-view), (broadening the sense of community), (experiencing and applying a global perspective)
- acting with integrity (enabling personal and professional development based on ethical behavior), (demonstrating a commitment to excellence), (accepting the challenge to act)"

That is what they say about leadership.

What do we say about tribal leadership?

We will have a chance on July Saturday 16, 2011.....CHOSE WISELY.....

Approve Initiative One contract

Sponsor: Debbie Thundercloud.

Excerpt from Feb. 9: Motion by Trish King to defer the Initiative One contract back to the General Manager to bring back on Feb. 23, seconded by Patty Hoeft. Motion carried with one opposed.

Motion by Ron "Tehassi" Hill Jr. to approve the Initiative One contract, seconded by Patty Hoeft. Motion carried with four for and three opposed:

Ayes: Ron "Tehassi" Hill Jr., Patty Hoeft, Trish King, Brandon Stevens

Opposed: Melinda Danforth, Tina Danforth, Ed Delgado

For the record:

Tina Danforth said I opposed the request to do an Initiative One contract extension at $208,000 because it is not a budgeted expense. I also do not support it because we have an Initiative One contract that we implemented last summer and it's to run 18 months and has not run its course. We have not gotten the total evaluation of the benefit of the Initiative One work and so we're gonna do a second phase and third phase of this without the first phase being completed and I do not support that type of lack of planning and we do have Indian preference to do some of this type of leadership work and that has not been considered in this contract as well. Thank you.

For the record: Ed Delgado said I do not support this expenditure because we have now spent close to $450,000 on Initiative One and we just simply can't afford that kind of spending.

Motion by Tina Danforth to table for 30 days, seconded by Ed Delgado. Motion failed with three for and four opposed:

Ayes: Melinda Danforth, Tina Danforth, Ed Delgado

Opposed: Ron "Tehassi" Hill Jr., Patty Hoeft, Trish King, Brandon Stevens

Motion by Ed Delgado to approve the Pardon Committee recommendation to deny the pardon for resolution 02-23-11-F Regarding Thomas Lee Doxtater, seconded by Ron "Tehassi" Hill Jr. Motion carried with one abstention:

Ayes: Melinda Danforth, Ed Delgado, Ron "Tehassi" Hill Jr., Patty Hoeft, Trish King, Brandon Stevens

Abstained: Tina Danforth

Enrollment issue

Sponsor: Ed Delgado

Excerpt from Jan. 26: Motion by Trish King to direct the Law Office to provide a legal opinion on the validity of the base roll of the tribe and the validity of any entity to modify the base roll of the tribe and for that opinion to come back at the Feb. 23 Business Committee meeting, seconded by Patty Hoeft. Motion carried with one abstention.

Motion by Ed Delgado to defer the enrollment issue to the March 8 Business Committee Executive Session meeting for the purpose of providing the Business Committee the opportunity to review relevant written materials with the understanding that the intent of this motion is to protect the constitutional rights of Oneida tribal members, both alive and deceased, as provided under Article II, Section 1(a) and Article VI. of the Oneida Constitution, seconded by Melinda Danforth. Motion carried with one abstention:

Ayes: Melinda Danforth, Ed Delgado, Ron "Tehassi" Hill Jr., Patty Hoeft, Trish King, Brandon Stevens

Abstained: Tina Danforth

For the record:

Tina Danforth said she wanted a time frame on that information to be forwarded to the Committee before the end of the week.

Motion by Ron "Tehassi" Hill to request the information from the Trust and Enrollments Committee regarding this enrollment issue by the end of this week, seconded by Melinda Danforth. Motion carried with one abstention:

Minutes Approved as presented/corrected on March 9, 2011.

From 2A/Oneida Business Committee meeting wrap-up May 25, 2011

The Committee accepted the report.

Kevin Cornelius and Pete King III gave a report on Oneida Seven Generations Corporation (OSGC) and updated the OBC on the progress of the renewable energy facility being built at 1230 Hurlbut St. in Green Bay. Currently, the facility is waiting on approval from the Department of Energy (DOE).

"We have some deadlines that need to be met, and unfortunately we're moving at the speed of government," said King.

The OBC accepted the OSGC report, and deferred a report from the Oneida Library Board.

Standing Committees

The Committee approved the May 4 Legislative Operating Committee (LOC) minutes.

The OBC passed a resolution to adopt a Pardon and Forgiveness law, and another resolution to use emergency action to adopt Gaming Vendor Licensing and Permitting Regulations for six months and schedule a public hearing.

Finance Committee

The OBC accepted the May 20 Finance Committee minutes and the April 7 Community Development Planning Committee (CDPC) minutes.

Travel

The Business Committee approved travel for Vice Chairwoman Kathy Hughes for the Native Health Research conference June 27-30 in Syracuse, NY, and retro-approved travel for Chairwoman Hughes for the US Department of Health and Human Services Secretary's Tribal Advisory Council Meeting May 17-19, Washington DC. The OBC also retro-approved travel for Councilman Brandon Stevens for Haskell Indian Nations University Board of Regents Meeting May 10-13, Lawrence, KS. It was noted that most travel expenses were covered by the respective agencies for all three trips.

General Tribal Council

The OBC moved to defer approval of the GTC semi-annual July 4, 2011 meeting agenda to a special OBC meeting scheduled for Thursday, June 2.

Follow-ups/BC directives

The Committee passed a resolution to exempt the Oneida Nation School System from requiring a 90-day probationary period and five percent wage reduction during that period for new teacher hires.

The OBC accepted a report on establishing a hiring freeze.

The OBC resolved to establish a team to develop a new Oneida Health Board and by-laws and rescinded the 7-21-93C bylaws.

New Business/Requests

A complaint against the Oneida Election Board (OEB) made by Cathy Metoxen was deferred to the OEB.

Metoxen complained that a blind voter was not allowed to be aided by a family member to vote, but instead assisted by an OEB member; which was inconsistent with an earlier incident where an individual was allowed to aid a family member with poor eye sight to vote. It was determined that the OBC meeting was not the proper hearing body for the complaint.

A request to reduce low income rents and integrate low income housing into planning housing sites was deferred to the General Manager. There was debate between the need for low cost housing and how to pay for it. Oneida Housing Authority (OHA) Executive Director Dale Wheelock stated the department's budget is planned with rents to be collected in mind.

"You have to consider the budget. Right now, the Housing Authority is 100 percent rent funded. We balance our budget out for our services," said Wheelock. "If we reduce the amount of individuals rent, who is going to make up the difference? Am I looking at a tribal contribution for a difference?"

The OBC approved the Isbell Smokeshop Renovation and activation of $60,000 for the project. The remodel will update the store interior and move products behind the counter.

A plan to renovate Ridgeview Plaza and activate $1.3 million for the project was deferred to the June 2 CDCP.

The OBC approved the Oneida One Stop Westwind Petroleum equipment upgrade and building remodel and activation of $2.6 million for the upgrade. The project will take place during construction on the Highway 41 and West Mason Overpass.

The OBC approved an agreement between Oneida and the EPA for underground storage tank inspections.

Additions

Action in open session on items from Executive Session Discussion meeting of May 24, 2011

Executive Mangers reports

The OBC accepted an update on the New York Land Claims settlement/negotiations with the Oneida Land Claims Commission, and a report from the Oneida Economic Development Authority. They also accepted the Gaming General Manager bi-monthly report, and a compliance audit on Complimentary Items and Services. Finally, the OBC accepted a report from the Chief Council.

Follow-ups/BC directives

A report from the Oneida Airport Hotel Corporation was deferred for two weeks, as was performance evaluations of executive managers excluding Chief Financial Officer. The OBC accepted an Oneida Golf Enterprise financial report, and a Cage-Vault Year End and Gaming Accounting Operational Audit. A review of legislative aides and executive assistants' job descriptions was withdrawn.

New Business/Requests

The OBC approved a contract with Bloomberg Finance LP and approved 88 new Oneida enrollments and one relinquishment.

The OBC deferred establishing a hiring freeze.

Public Hearing Notice

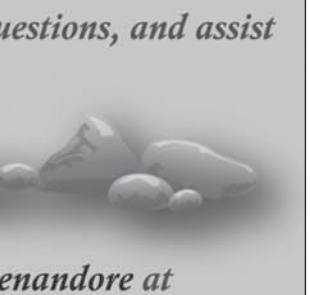
June 23, 2011

Purpose:
Zoning and Shoreland Protection Law Amendments: Nuisance Provisions.

The intent of the proposed amendments is to expand and clarify the nuisance provisions of the Law. The Amendments add an intent statement to the public nuisance section of the Law and additional categories to the public nuisance section. The intent of the Amendments is that even though certain conditions may exist, they will not necessarily be a public nuisance. The definition of "public nuisance," along with the intent of the public nuisance section and the discretion of the Zoning Administrator will be used to determine whether a public nuisance exists.



Public Hearing Process Testimony:

Oral: There will be a 5 minute limit for all oral presentations. Each participant is encouraged to provide a written transcript of his/her oral testimony, to be submitted while present at the public hearing or within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the below named individuals.

Written: For those who cannot attend the scheduled public hearing or do not plan to speak at the hearing, the Oneida Tribe encourages those to submit written testimony. A maximum of ten (10) pages, doubled spaced, can be submitted within ten (10) business days from the date of public hearing to the Tribal Secretary (Patricia Hoeft) or Tonya Boucher, Legislative Reference Office at the Norbert Hill Center, 2nd floor or mail to PO Box 365, Oneida WI 54155.

If you would like to obtain a copy of the above proposed law or have any questions as to the public hearing process you may contact Tonya Boucher at the Legislative Reference Office, via GroupWise tboucher@oneidanation.org Or call 1-800-236-2214 or 920-869-4240*. Life Insurance Beneficiary Designation Form Instructions

SECTION A. Member Information: You must complete every space in this section.

- Name (First, Middle Initial, and Last)
- Date of Birth
- Enrollment Number (If not known, please contact the Enrollment office)
- Mailing Address
- Marital Status

SECTION B. Primary Beneficiary(ies)

This section offers two (2) options. You can elect to use both options.

The first is the Enrollment Department box. Marking the box is optional. If you choose to designate the Enrollment Department as Primary Beneficiary the Enrollment Department will ensure that your funeral expenses are paid before any monies are distributed to your designated beneficiary(ies) (Primary or Contingent). Important Note: If you are married, you may be subject to marital property laws in your state that entitles your spouse to a portion of your life insurance benefit. (For more details please read Section E)

The second is Primary Beneficiary(ies). Primary beneficiary(ies) is/are person(s) or entities (like a church or charity) you wish to receive your life insurance benefit. You are not limited to only two (2) primary beneficiaries. You may designate as many beneficiaries as you wish. If you wish to designate more than two (2) beneficiaries you must provide their information on a separate sheet and submit it with your Beneficiary Designation Form. Be sure to check mark the "More Beneficiaries Attached" box on the form. When submitting a separate sheet of additional beneficiaries please provide the following:

- Beneficiary Name (Birth name only. No nicknames or alias's please)
- The Beneficiaries relationship to you (i.e. mother, father, sister, spouse, charity,etc.)
- Beneficiary Mailing Address
- Beneficiary Date of Birth, Social Security # or Tax ID Number
- Percentage (the % of the proceeds you would like the beneficiary to receive. This is not their blood quantum)

SECTION C. Contingent Beneficiary(ies). A contingent beneficiary(ies) is/are the person(s) or entities (like a church or charity) who will receive your life insurance benefit if the Primary Beneficiary(ies) can not receive the life insurance benefit. As an example, your contingent beneficiary(ies) might receive your life insurance benefit if the primary beneficiary(ies) dies. You are not limited to only two (2) contingent beneficiaries.

EPIC LIFE INSURANCE

Beneficiary Designation Form

A. Member Information:

Name (First, Middle Initial, Last) | Date of Birth | Enrollment Number

Address | City | State | ZIP

Marital Status: ❑ Single ❑ Married ❑ Divorced ❑ Widowed

B. Primary Beneficiary(ies):

I designate the person(s) named below as my primary beneficiary(ies) to receive payment under the policy in the event of my death. The share of any primary beneficiary who is no longer living or is otherwise disqualified by law at the time of my death, will pass to any remaining beneficiary(ies) as outlined in the Term Life Certificate. For more space, use a separate sheet and mark this box: ❑ More Beneficiaries Attached

❑ I designate the Oneida Enrollment Department as primary beneficiary to pay for my burial expenses. Any remaining funds will be disbursed to the primary beneficiaries designated below.

If spousal waiver is not signed, enrollment department will not pay any portion of the funeral expenses. Payment will be made directly to the beneficiary(ies) listed, subject to any applicable marital property law.

1. Name | Relationship | Street Address | Percentage %
   Social Security Number | Date of Birth | City | State | ZIP
2. Name | Relationship | Street Address | Percentage %
   Social Security Number | Date of Birth | City | State | ZIP

SECTION D. Member Signature and Date. The member must sign and date the Beneficiary Designation Form.

- For legally incompetent members, Only a court assigned guardian of the person can sign the Beneficiary Designation Form. This must be on record in the Enrollment Department. (Please contact the Enrollment Department if you feel this applies to you)
- For members who have designated Power of Attorneys (POA), a POA can only sign the Beneficiary Designation Form if the POA document on record in the Enrollment Department specifically authorizes the POA to do this. (Please contact the Enrollment Department if you feel this applies to you)

SECTION E. Spousal Waiver.

This section is provided when a decision has been made by a married member to not designate their spouse as a beneficiary of at least half, of their life insurance benefit.

For Wisconsin residents the law dictates that your spouse is entitled to half of your life insurance benefit. So, if you're not intending to designate your spouse as a beneficiary or designating your spouse to less than 50% of the life insurance benefit, please discuss with him/her about signing Section E so in the event of your death, the life insurance company will know your spouse waived their rights to the amount they would be entitled to by law.

For persons residing in other states, please contact your state regarding any marital property laws that may apply to you.

Some examples when the spouse might sign this section:

- If he/she is not listed as the primary beneficiary and/or they are assigned less than 50% of the life insurance benefit
- If a married member marks the Enrollment Department box as primary beneficiary to pay funeral expenses

Should your spouse not wish to sign the spousal waiver line or is unavailable to sign please know that all marital property laws will be enforced.

Here are some examples of what might happen when a spouse does not or is unavailable to sign:

- If you selected the Enrollment Department as primary beneficiary the Enrollment Department will not notify the Insurance Company the spousal waiver line is not signed. Determination will be made by the Insurance Company as to how much of your funeral bill can be paid in accordance with the applicable marital property law.
- If you did not list your spouse as a primary beneficiary for at least up to 50% of your life insurance benefit, the Life Insurance Company will ensure all marital property laws are enforced.

We realize that some or all of this information may be confusing so please do not hesitate to contact the Enrollment Department for a personalized appointment. We have scheduled ourselves to be in attendance at the following community events and highly encourage everyone to attend. Please continue to look for future articles. Our next issue will contain information regarding the Children's Burial Fund.

How to handle Elder Abuse

Elder Abuse Hurts Report It: How do I make an elder abuse report? Each county has established a county lead elder abuse agency. For those Oneida elders residing within the Oneida Reservation boundaries the report would be made to the Oneida Elderly Prevention Coordinator at Oneida Elder Services. For those enrolled Oneida Tribal members residing outside of the reservation boundaries reports should be made to their county of residence. For those cases where physical abuse is being heard or witnessed and an elder's safety is in immediate danger, a call should immediately be made to the local police department.

Rights to refuse services: Under Wisconsin law, a competent elder or an elder's guardian may refuse services that are offered.

What is elder abuse? Under Wisconsin law, chapter 46.90 (1)a, an "elder adult at risk" is a person age 60 or older who has experienced, is currently experiencing or is at risk of experiencing abuse, financial exploitation, neglect or self-neglect. Within the Oneida Reservation elder abuse is recognized as pertaining to those Oneida Tribally enrolled members aged 55 years and older.

(1) Abuse has five subcategories:

- "Physical abuse" is the "intentional or reckless infliction of bodily harm."
- "Emotional abuse" is "language or behavior that serves no legitimate purpose and is intended to be intimidating, humiliating, threatening, frighten, or otherwise harassing, and does or reasonably could intimidate, humiliate, threaten, frighten, or otherwise harass the individual to whom the conduct or language is directed."
- "Sexual abuse" is a violation of Wisconsin's criminal sexual assault law.
- "Unreasonable confinement or restraint" Includes intentional and unreasonable confinement in a locked room, involuntary separation from his or her living area, use of physical restraining device or the administration of unnecessary or excessive medication to an individual, unless the methods or devices are used in Wisconsin regulated entities in compliance with state or federal law.
- "Treatment without consent" is the administration of medication or certain mental health surgeries or research without proper informed consent or lawful authority.

(2) Financial exploitation: is obtaining an elder's money or property by deceiving or enticing the individual, or by forcing, compelling, or coercing the individual to give, sell at less then fair market value, or in other ways convey money or property against his or her will without his or her informed consent.

(3) Neglect: is the failure of caregiver to secure or maintain adequate care, services, or supervision for an elder, including food, clothing, shelter, or physical or mental health care, and creating significant risk or danger to the elder's physical or mental health.

(4) Self-neglect: is a significant danger to an individual's physical or mental health because the individual is responsible for his or her own care but fails to obtain adequate care, including food, shelter, clothing, or medical or dental care.

Educational Event
Date: June 20, 2011
Where: The Radisson Hotel
Iroquois Room
Time: 8:30 A.M. to 12:00 P.M.

Three speakers will present information on the different types of abuse, the signs to look for if you suspect abuse of an elder, and how to protect yourself from physical and emotional abuse. Familiarization with the investigative process of abuse will be an additional topic and will help to alleviate some of the fear that elder victims may have about an investigation.

This event is intended for elders, caregivers, and anyone else who wishes to learn more about elder abuse.

We will have speakers
Oneida Police Department Detective, Ronald King Jr.
Oneida Domestic Violence Coordinator, Gene Redhail
Elder Abuse Coordinator from Brown County Sexual Assault Center, Bonnie Coenen

Vets help vet injured in hit and run accident

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Veterans from the Oneida area loaded up in a truck and van on Friday morning, May 20, and traveled to Keshena to help with the construction of a new house for Sgt. Forrest Perez. The Army paratrooper was nearly killed by a hit-and-run driver late last September in Fayetteville, North Carolina.

A short drive past Keshena Falls, and the veterans and volunteers arrived at the building site located behind Sgt. Perez's parents' house. The group lined up and shook hands with Sgt. Perez before getting to work.

Oneida Nation Veterans Office Manger Kerry Metoxen organized the work crew after reading about Sgt. Perez in the Green Bay Press-Gazette.

"I took the article into work and I asked the guys how they would feel if we come up here and cook dinner one day, and it just went from there," said Metoxen.

According to Sgt. Perez's father, Derrick Perez, his son joined the Army out of high school and served seven years.

"He served a year in Korea on the line, and then he served a year in Iraq, and when he came home, he served with the Hurricane Katrina effort," said Perez.

After his discharge, Sgt. Perez joined the Army Reserves.

"He called me that Saturday morning and told me that he didn't care for the Reserves. He was going to re-up back into the 82nd Airborne, and that night, he was walking home and was hit by a hit-and-run driver and left for dead on the road," said Perez.

Sgt. Perez spent months recovering from his injuries in North Carolina. His family made the over 1000 mile trip from Keshena to North Carolina to visit him.

"Locally, our tribe, the veterans here, they were helping right from the beginning. When we were traveling to North Carolina, they gave us money to help with the expenses of going back and forth and staying down there. Anytime we've needed anything, they've come forth to do what the can," said Perez.

Eventually Sgt. Perez and his fiancé Heather Koppman moved in with Perez's family. An organization called Rebuilding Together Greater Green Bay offered to build a wheelchair ramp for Perez's house. However, representatives from the organization realized that the small structure needed to be renovated to be wheelchair accessible.

"Then they came back a week later and they said we've decided we're going to build him his own house," said Perez. "From there, it's just been amazing all the people that come forward to donate time, effort, material, things, because he's a veteran, and because he's served his country … It makes him feel good that other people appreciate what he's done with his life."

On that Friday, Metoxen and Robert "Little Man" Webster manned the grill while other lent their carpentry expertise on the new two bedroom ranch house. Sgt. Perez and brother-in-law Marshall Groleau jumped in removing framing and helping to build a basement staircase.

Aloyious Jourdan saws lumber for a basement stairwell while Sgt. Forrest Perez looks on.

"I just like helping the other veterans out the most I can," said Jourdan. He stated he was impressed by the turnout of volunteers.

"It's a good thing. It get's a little crowded at times, but it's still a good thing," he said.

The workers took a break for lunch and everyone lined up for grilled hamburgers, hotdogs and bratwurst. Sgt. Perez saw this reporter out of the corner of his eye.

"This is my girlfriend," he said introducing me to Koppman.

Sgt. Perez and Koppman have been dating for nearly two years. Koppman stayed by Perez's side while he was recovering from the accident. The two plan to marry in July of 2012.

"I can't wait. Still a lot to do, but, I'm doing it," she said with a laugh. "It's rough with everything going on, it's hard to plan a wedding right now."

Koppman said Sgt. Perez shows a new improvement everyday.

"He shocks us with something new probably every day … whoa, we didn't know you can do that, so it's amazing," she said.

going to lose out after being such dedicated employees?"

The amendment was tabled and brought back in four months with provisions that managers must provide vacation time to meet the 280-hour requirement.

The final amendment that was taken off the table for consideration by the GTC was asking for approval to modify the current trade back for cash of personal and vacation time. The changes would allow flexibility based on available money.

The amendment would give the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) the ability to grant trade back for cash and if granted employees would be able to cash in their hours by August 15 of that year. In some circumstances where employees are unable to utilize their personal or vacation time due to staff availability issues, as determined by the Human Resources Manager or designee, hours may be traded in quarterly. The amendment quickly passed.

A spending petition submitted by Cathy Metoxen created confusion as the OBC acknowledged that she was not directly notified of her incorporation into the meeting's agenda.

"I was never notified by any (OBC) members of this," said Metoxen. "I did the petition two years ago. I am not prepared because I was never notified."

Tribal Secretary Patty Hoeft acknowledged that special notification was not given to Metoxen other than the meeting packet that was sent to all GTC members.

A motion to accept a report from the Legislative Reference Office regarding spending concerns and to direct the OBC to continue developing the Budget Appropriations and Management law was accepted with no presentation by Metoxen.

The Budget Appropriations and Management law is set to produce procedures and requirements to be followed by the tribe regarding budgeting and the appropriations of funds.

The meeting adjourned at 9:30 p.m. The next GTC meeting is the Semi-Annual Meeting scheduled for July 4 at the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center. The meeting is set to start at 10 a.m.

added Van Boxtel. "There aren't any questions about authority to act."

Gossage reiterated that safety is paramount and this agreement fosters safer communities.

"Our collaboration with the tribe will remain steadfast and everything we do is for public safety. We can't do it alone and it requires communities coming together for the safety of the people of Brown County," Gossage said.

Oneida Tribe Chairman Rick Hill is pleased to see another government-to-government relationship pay off with an agreement that benefits both agencies.

"It's nice that we could provide a better level of protection and safety for the communities," he said.

Hill addressed how the agreement decreases response time, cuts costs and ultimately recognizes the borders of the reservation. He points to it as a national model that could be utilized across Indian country.

For both Gossage and Van Boxtel, government-to-government agreements are great but public safety is their top priority.

"We need to make sure folks out there are protected, that's what we are out there for," said Van Boxtel.

Let's Move! kicks off in Keshena

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

The Office of First Lady Michelle Obama along with four federal agencies launched the Let's Move! In Indian Country (LMIC) Initiative at the Menominee Nation in Keshena WI on Wednesday, May 25. LMIC is an initiative to support and advance the work that tribal leaders and community members are already doing to improve the health of American Indian and Alaska Native children. As a part of the First Lady's Let's Move! initiative, LMIC brings together federal agencies, communities, nonprofits, corporate partners, and tribes to end the epidemic of childhood obesity in Indian Country within a generation.

Robin Schepper read a letter from First Lady Michelle Obama concerning the event, "Through Let's Move! In Indian Country we have an opportunity to engage Native communities, schools, tribes, the private sector, and nonprofits to work together to tackle this issue head on."

Speaking at the launch was Interior Assistant Secretary – Indian Affairs Larry Echo Hawk, Office of the First Lady Let's Move! Initiative Executive Director Robin Schepper; White House Office of Public Engagement and Intergovernmental Affairs Associate Director Charlie Galbraith, USDA Deputy Administrator for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) Lisa Pino, and IHS Director for Improving Patient Care Program Lyle A. Ignace M.D., M.P.H. Also joining the Administration officials were Actor Chaske Spencer from the Twilight movie series, Nike N7 General Manager Sam McCracken and Nike N7 Fund Board of Directors Ernie Stevens Jr. (who also served as MC for the event), as well as National Congress of American Indians Board Secretary Matthew Wesaw, Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction Consultant for Health and Physical Education John W. Hisgen, and Menominee Tribal Chairman Randal Chevalier.

"We are absolutely honored to be the launch site for this important national campaign for Indian Country. I can attest that there is no better place for this initiative. The Menominee Reservation ranks 72 out of 72 in health factors and outcomes associated with high diabetes and heart disease rates. Becoming a healthier community starts with our children, so I am delighted that we can address these issues in such a comprehensive way," said Chairman Chevalier Childhood obesity is a national health crisis in America. Over the past three decades, rates of childhood obesity in this country have tripled. Today, nearly one in three children in the U.S. are overweight or obese.

American Indian children are twice as likely to be overweight than the general population. These children make up the only racial or ethnic group whose obesity rates increased between 2003 and 2008. The acute nature of this problem in Indian Country warrants a targeted initiative like LMIC to support culturally proficient strategies for ensuring access to healthy food and prenatal services, implementing nutrition and physical education programs, and engaging Native youth, parents, and communities in active, healthy lifestyle choices.

Students of the Menominee Tribal School System attended the presentation and then participated in a wide variety of exercises and games such as: basketball, soccer, lacrosse, jumping rope, sack races, relays, and bike rides. These activities were intended to spark a habit of exercising regularly in the student's lives.

Police looking for Hobart home burglary suspect

On May 22nd, 2011 at approximately 9:50 a.m., the Hobart-Lawrence Police Department was dispatched to 214 Triangle Drive for a call of a Burglary in progress with the offender still in the home, physically fighting with the homeowners. On arrival, the suspect had already fled the scene in a white Chevrolet Lumina with a Menominee Tribal license plate. The vehicle was last seen traveling north on CTH U.

The homeowners, a 70-year old male and his 68-year old wife, had returned home after a short outing and observed a white vehicle parked in their driveway. Not knowing who was at their home, the couple went to the house to investigate. Once inside the home, the victims were confronted by the suspect and a physical fight ensued. The couple was viscously attacked and assaulted in their home.

The male victim suffered some serious injuries and the female victim sustained some minor injuries. Both were treated and released from a local hospital.

The suspect in this case is believed to have injuries consistent with a physical altercation and is currently at large. He is described as a male Native American, approximately 6'1"ft. tall and wearing blue jeans and a gray hooded sweatshirt.

This case of Battery, Burglary, and Recklessly Endangering Safety is actively being investigated at this time. We are asking that anyone who might have any information in this case to call the Hobart/Lawrence Police Department at 920-869-3800, the Brown County Communications Center at 920-391-7470, or Green Bay Area Crime Stoppers at 920-432-7867.

The Hobart/ Lawrence Police Department responded to this call and were assisted by the Brown County Sheriff's Department.

We as Oneida people share common ground on the preservation of our Reservation lands and our Tribal sovereignty; the use of our gaming revenues to build an Oneida community for our people; the ability to provide educational and healthcare benefit; to preserve culture and heritage; and to pursue spiritual strength throughout our Tribe. My Office supports what will benefit all the people and now is the time to protect what we have built together and plan better to continue to grow smart and safely for the future.

It has been made clear to me as a Councilman for the last 6 years and as a candidate for the position of Tribal Chairman, the Oneida people now demand that the era of bad investments end. Fifteen years and 500 million dollars in investments that yielded no profit for the Oneida people, while only benefiting a few in jobs, contracts, finders fees, and other benefits in the early stages, is no longer acceptable to the new and informed General Tribal Council. Each woman, man, child and elder paid their share of the failed investments.

The record shows that my opponent and I do not agree on these issues:

GTC stipends:

My Office supports stipends and a strong GTC

Employee raises:

My Office supports an employee wage increase that is more than the 1.8% wage increase currently proposed

The right to petition:

My Office has demontstrated that I will not support a law making process that deminishes the constitutional authority of the GTC inculding the right to petition for a GTC meeting

Thornberry Creek:

My Office supports the careful use of revenues in conjunction with GTC directives and that is why I did not vote to purchase Thornberry Creek without bringing the matter back to the GTC as directed.

If elected Tribal Chairman, the GTC and the Chairman's office will work together to ensure that your resources are protected and used to enhance the quality of life for all Oneida people. The Oneida Tribe owes its success to the hard work of all the people and the people will work to continue to grow smart and safely today for the future.

Community and Culture Event a Success

Oneida sports teams and community events were sponsored by Tony's Bar during the 1960's and 70's.

By Mark W. Powless

On Saturday, May 21, SEOTS sponsored the Oneida Community and Culture in Southeast Wisconsin event/fundraiser. The event featured stories of the Oneida community in southeast Wisconsin, a welcome in the Oneida language by the SEOTS Language Class, the Milwaukee Oneida Hymn singers, a preview of the upcoming book, American Indians in Milwaukee (due for release on August 15, 2011), and the Longhouse singers and dancers. In addition, Indian tacos (thanks to Annette Wilber and Juana Williams) and Corn Soup (thanks to Deb Ushakow) were available, plus a long list of raffle prizes.

The stories shared the lives of the Savorias family and their ties to the All Saint's Cathedral, submitted by Sue Cornell and Kathy Thomas; the experiences of Opal Skenandore; the contributions of Tony's Bar to the Oneida community, submitted by Dorothy Danforth; and the takeover of the Coast Guard station, shared by Antonio Doxtator. All stories conveyed the sense of Oneida community and neighborly support that existed within the Milwaukee area.

The event concluded with a social dance. Fourteen people from the Oneida Longhouse, most in full Iroquois regalia, danced and sang songs while encouraging group participation. Randy Cornelius eloquently explained all songs and dances of the social. At one point, most of the seventy able-bodied participants at the event were dancing in the social. It was truly a memorable experience that captured the spirit of the Oneida community and culture event.

A big yawʌ́ko is extended to all the presenters, volunteers and participants at the event. Also deserving of recognition is UW-Milwaukee for providing the hall for the event and the many area businesses that provided donations for the raffle.

Change in Annual 4th of July Parade Route

The annual 4th of July Parade on July 2, 2011 will now have a new route.

Due to the construction on HWY 54 and 172 the Oneida Police Dept has instructed us to Change our current Parade route. Because construction will be going on for the next two summers (2011 & 2012) a permit will not be granted to shut down Hwy 54 for the current route. The Wisconsin Department of Transportation suggested that the new route should be a permanent route for all future parades. Therefore, we have decided to change the route permanently starting at Path of the Wolf and going out to Old Seymour Rd to Seminary Road to the pow-wow grounds. This new route is about the same distance as the previous route which always started in Site one going out to hwy 54 to Service Rd and around to the pow-wow grounds. With the new route there will be plenty of seating and parking at the Turtle School. Parade will still began at 10:30AM sharp. Hope to see you there.

The route for the annual 4th of July Parade through Oneida has been changed due to road construction. Instead of starting in Site I, the parade will stage at Path of the Wolf and march down Old Seymour Road to Seminary Road.

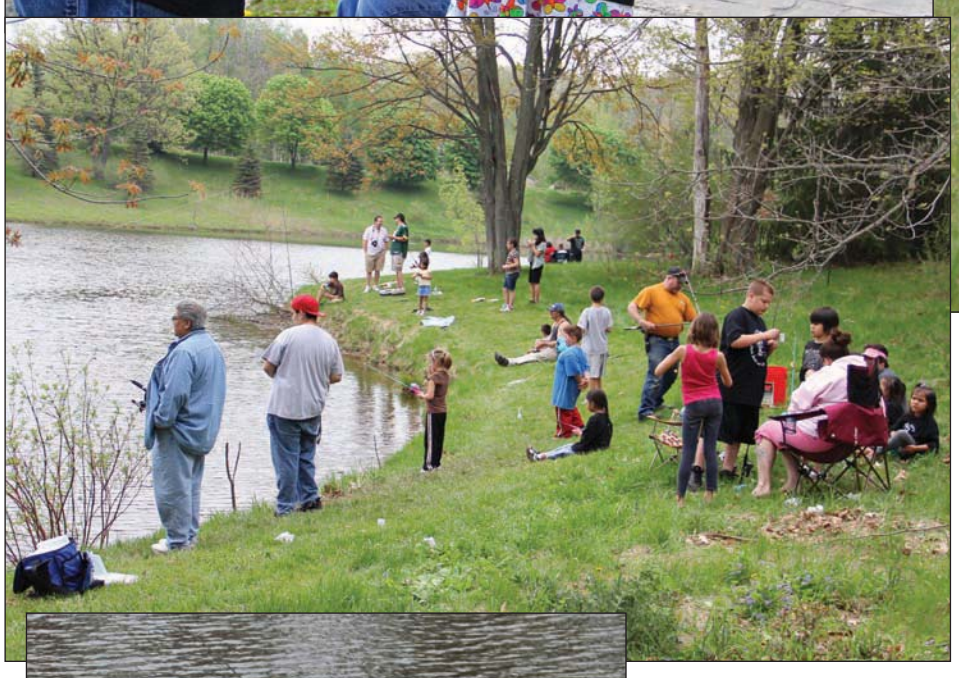
Annual Oneida Youth and Elder Fishing Event

By Sylvia Cornelius
Conservation Project Manager

Another year of good weather held out for Environmental Health & Safety Division's 12th annual fishing day! The rain held off for people to enjoy a day of fishing and fun on May 21 at Osnúhsa? Kanya·tála (Finger Lake). Over 200 community members came out to fish, eat lunch, and spend time with family and friends.



Approximately 700 rainbow trout were stocked in the lake by the US Fish and Wildlife Service prior to the event on Saturay, May 10.

Prizes were awarded to those who caught one of the 10 tagged trout in the lake. Only two of the tagged fish were turned in at the event. Since there are still tagged fish left in the lake, the contest will remain open indefinitely to Tribal members of all ages.

Funding for this year's event came from the BIA, Live, Sustain, Grow Project and an EPA Clean Water Act grant. Yaw^ko to the sponsors of donations: Coca-Cola, Oneida Casino and Festival Foods. Another big thank you goes to our volunteers that helped make this a successful event: Environmental Resources Board members, Junior Miss and Little Miss Oneida.

For information on the Oneida fishery or fishing regulations, contact the Conservation Office at 920-869-1450.

Feds seek comment on Wisconsin River erosion plan

Madison, Wis. (AP) ~ The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is looking for public comments on a plan to combat bank erosion on the lower Wisconsin River in hopes of preserving American Indian burial mounds.

The corps plans to reinforce about 700 feet of shoreline near Muscoda (MUS'-coh-day) to protect the Ho-Chunk Nation burial site. The corps has completed a draft environmental assessment that found the project would have no significant impact.

People can file comments on the plan through June 24 by emailing corps environmental specialist Jonathan Sobiech at jonathan.j.sobiech(at)usace.army.mil or by mail at 180 E. 5th St. Suite 700, St. Paul, Minn., 55101-1678.

Partners in Education

Francour Honored, Recognized

Submitted photo

Nancy Schopf(right), Vice President of Education & Leadership for Partners in Education recognizes Daisee for the 5/12 Scholarship Achievment.

In fifth grade, Oneida tribal member Daisee Francour was selected by Hillcrest School Principal Bill Derricks to be eligible for a Partner's in Education 5/12 scholarship. She was selected in 2004 based on leadership ability and academic potential.

Partners in Education tracks the selected students every year after fifth grade until they graduate ensuring they retain a B average or better. Daisee successfully attained the requirements and will be awarded $1,000 to her choice of post secondary schools.

Daisee will be awarded her scholarship upon graduation at Seymour High School June 5, 2011.

Partner's in Education is sponsored by the Green Bay Area Chamber of Commerce and seeks to award and recognize students with scholarships for post secondary education.

Oneida Graduates among largest CMN graduating class

During commencement ceremonies at 10 a.m., Saturday, June 4, the College of Menominee Nation introduced its newest group of alumni and observed a number of "firsts."

The degree candidate list includes 18 self-identified Oneida Nation members. With 120 individuals as candidates for graduation, this is the largest class in CMN history and brings the number of CMN alumni to nearly 700. Those receiving academic degrees, technical diplomas and certificates of mastery include students who completed studies in December 2010 and May 2011.

The graduation also found CMN awarding its first four-year degrees in Teacher Education and holding ceremonies for the first time in the Five Clans Ballroom of the new Menominee Casino Resort conference center in Keshena.

Elyssa Hawk of De Pere and Marcus Denny, Keshena, were chosen to speak at graduation on behalf of this year's class. The guest speaker for the 2011 graduation was Richard B. "Rick" Williams. Williams is President and Chief Executive Officer of the American Indian College Fund, a national nonprofit organization based in Denver, Colorado, that secures private support for scholarships, endowments and programs for tribal colleges.

Notice of Availability

Purpose:
The Oneida Tribe of Indians (Tribe) is proposing to construct an approximately 10,500 square foot addition to the existing casino located at 2514 W. Mason St. The expansion will include a sports bar, food court, poker room, smoke shop, combined with other renovations. The project will be funded by the Tribe. The intent is to improve the economy of the Tribe and increase short and long term employment opportunities.

No federal involvement or action has been identified for this project.

This Environmental Assessment (EA) was prepared for the proposed expansion of the existing casino and is in compliance with the Oneida Environmental Policy Act (2-13-93B) and National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). The EA contains project information, affected environment, project alternatives, consequences, and consultation.

Location:
The proposed expansion is planned to connect on the east end of the existing casino located at 2514 W. Mason Street, on the Oneida Reservation, located in Township 24 North, Range 20 East, Section 29, Brown County, WI.

Alternatives:
Preferred Alternative: The preferred alternative is for the Tribe to construct an addition of approximately 10,500 square feet on the northwest side of the existing. It will include a sports bar, food court, poker room, smoke shop, and other renovations. The addition will be located on what is currently a flat paved parking area; approximately 22 parking spaces will be removed. No additional parking areas will be added with this proposal. Construction will occur on previously disturbed areas. The area of impervious surface is not expected to increase. Construction is planned for Spring 2013.

The applicant expects 20-25 short term jobs during the construction activities and 25-30 full time jobs resulting from the expanded services.

No Action Alternative: To not construct the proposed expansion to the existing Oneida West Mason Street Casino location. This will not assist in the goal of expanding gaming operations and improving the economy of the Oneida Nation.

Comments were requested from the United States Fish and Wildlife Service regarding possible impacts to threatened and endangered species, Oneida Cultural Heritage Department for possible impacts to culturally significant areas, and the Environmental Protection Agency for possible permitting needs regarding in-stream development.

Comments and Availability:
Interested parties may obtain copies of these documents from the address below. Comments regarding the proposed action may be submitted within 30 days of the date of this NOA. Contact Lisa Miotke at (920) 869-4582 or write Oneida Environmental, Health & Safety Division, PO Box 365, Oneida, WI 54155 for additional information.

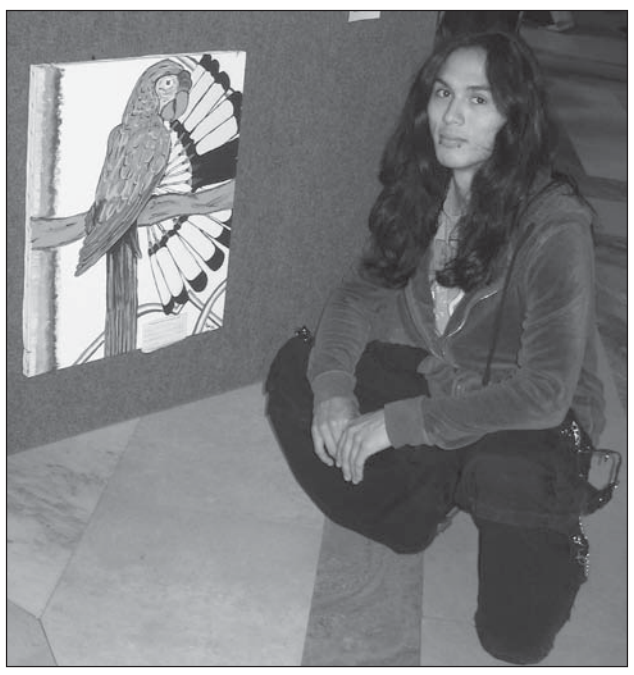
Students enjoy "Mad-Town" Art Field Trip

By Thunderhawk Times Staff

On Tuesday, May 24, art teacher Becky Anderson and resource room supervisor Richard Lambert took 24 ONHS students to Madison for the annual art field trip.

"It was nice day," said Richard. "The students were great the entire time."

Amongst the highlights of the day for the group was joining over 300 other teachers and students at the capitol for the annual state-wide art show at the state capitol building. Making the art show special was seeing the artwork of ONHS senior Eli Ninham hanging at the capitol. Eli has been so honored every year since he was a freshman.



According to Becky, "Eli is the first student in ONHS history to have had his art work selected for display at the capitol all four years of high school."

The students also got to see the area of Madison around the capitol, including State Street.

According to Richard, the group also got to see some of people protesting the collective bargaining issue in Madison.

According to sophomore Damon Danforth, the walk down State Street was "all right. There were some interesting people there."

Students on the trip were: Kalene Beechtree, Emmitt Big Medicine, Anthony Cornelius, Colleen Cornelius, Damon Danforth, Jade Doxtater, Raquel Gonzales, Kommanche Jordan, Guadalupe Martinez, Tony McNaughtan, Diego Metoxen, Freddie Miller, Eli Ninham, Ululani Nunies, Devonte Pointer, Kaylynn Powless, Mason Powless, Matthew Powless, Shane Skenandore, Heather Stevens, Carl Tepiew, Jasmin Webster, Vincent Webster, and AJ Wilber.

"Best of Class"

By Jade Doxtater

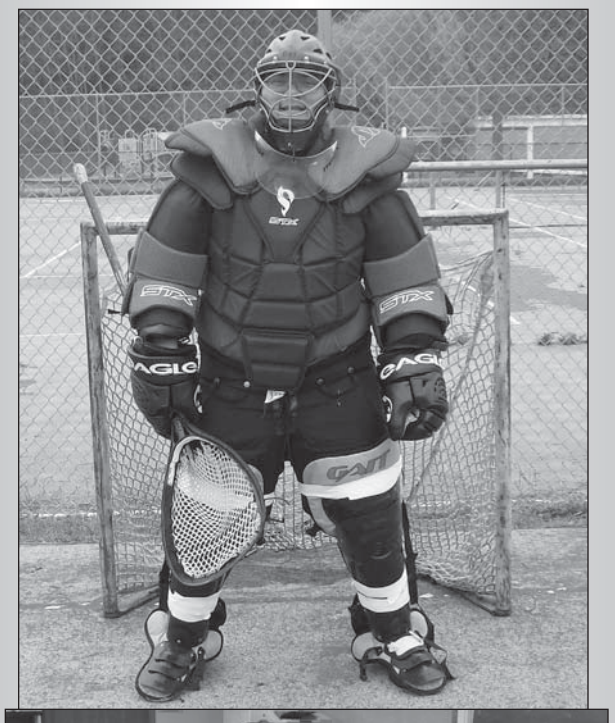
Jade Doxtater

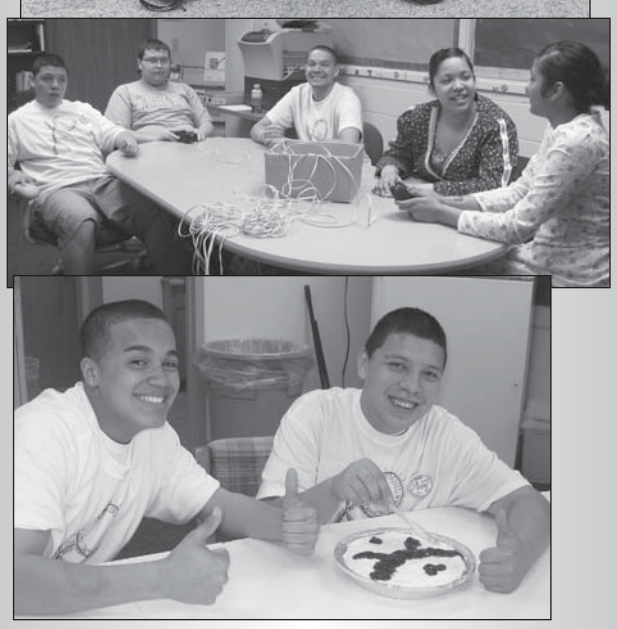
With about twelve days left of school, I'm feeling more and more excited.

After high school, I plan on getting a part-time job and going to college at NWTC for Graphic Arts.

"Graphic Arts" covers a broad range of art forms, and I love art. I love creating and designing things from my imagination. So I figure that this will be right for me.



I also plan on buying a car and getting a place of my own. Just thinking about all this makes me so nervous, yet excited.



Of course I'll miss this high school, especially the teachers. They've been such a big help with—not just school work—but with personal problems. Their ideas and opinions mean so much to me. And so that will definitely be one of the things I'll miss the most.

The highlight of my year is when I found out that I was valedictorian. I also agreed to do the 2011 Best of the Class on Fox 11. I feel like I really made my mom and dad proud.

Advisor's Note: Let me close with a Thank You to Jade for serving as our editor this second semester of the 2010-2011 School Year. As she said, she is representing ONHS on TV on the "Best of Class" Feature, which will be aired on Channel 11 over the summer. Watch for her there.

My Scoop

End of Senior Year

By Jade Doxtater
Thunderhawk Times

On May 19 I attended the 2011 Best of the Class with local TV station Fox 11. I was there to represent my 2011 ONHS Senior Class.

I can honestly say I had a blast! It was more exciting than I thought it was going to be. I really loved meeting all the other Valedictorians from other schools around Wisconsin.

My favorite part of the whole event is when I finally reached the front of the line. I had to wait about a solid two hours in line to do the video taping, which in the end only lasted about thirty seconds!

I did my taping with a girl I met who was from Menominee. She was really cool, but looked just as nervous as I was.

This event started at 10:30am and lasted till around 1:00pm. I wasn't expecting so many kids to show up.

News Anchors Tom Milbourn and Michelle Melby said this is the biggest group they ever had for this event. There were about 250 kids that showed up. So it was pretty packed.

If it was possible to be given another opportunity like this, I definitely would do it again.

End of the Year

By Jason Skenadore
Thunderhawk Times

The school year is coming to an end, but the days are long and boring for me. I don't know how the other seniors feel, but that's how I feel.

We're done the third of June. I can't wait for the day I walk across the stage and I'm done with this stuff.

My plan after high school is to join the Marines to give myself a challenge after school. I don't want to be here two or three yeas after I am done with school.

I'm trying something new for me. I am joining the Marines because of my uncle and grandpa. My grandpa passed away this last June and he was in the Army and he told me a lot about life and what I should do with my life.

So far, I'm doing what I want and I hope he's proud of what I am doing.

This is Jason Skenadore from Journalism class saying, "I am the class of 2011."

School Year Winding Down

By Thunderhawk Times Staff

Students and teachers starting "x-ing" off the days on their calendars with just a few days left in the 2010-2011 school year.

"This year went by fast," said freshman Tyler Stevens. "It was a good year," added 9th grader Shawntel Skenadore.

After returning to school following the long Memorial-Day weekend, classes at ONHS were engaged in prepping for semester exams which were scheduled to take place on Wednesday and Thursday.

Seniors will have graduation practice at the Radisson on Thursday afternoon.

The annual awards program is planned for Friday morning and the entire school is going bowling Friday afternoon. Graduation follows at 6 o'clock on Friday evening.

Monday, June 6 is the annual sports day with 3-on-3 basketball, Frisbee golf, softball, and other activities.

Then, students head home after lunch and teachers close out the school year, cleaning their classrooms and turning in grades and reports.

Have a safe and great summer, from the T-Hawk Times staff.

LeBron James summary

By Billie John
THT Times

With the NBA Finals underway, it's time to give LeBron James his due.

Hand over the trophies now, we all know the Heat is going to take this in four straight! Then the haters can stop posting all those false things on Facebook about LeBron and the Heat.

As of this writing, they had defeated the Mavs in Game One, 92-84.

Here, for the record, is a breakdown on LeBron:
Best Basketball Player Ever; Besides Michael Jordan.
Has His Own Fashion Line - $$.

Meet Alexia Silva

By Joelle Thomas
THT Times

Alexia Silva, AKA "Lexi," is known for doing nails. Not just that, she's also really good at doing hair and makeup.

When I asked her where she learned to do hair, nails, and make-up…this is what she had to say:

"I really don't know. I guess I just did my nails one day like last year and it turned out I was really good at it."

Lexi is a junior at Oneida Nation High School. She wants to go to beauty school.

All of us here at ONHS agree that Lexi can do it. She has done many people's nails. And… there are many more to be done. So, if you want your nails done, ask Lexi.

The quest to grill and marinade Kan^stóhale

By Lindsey Merkel
UWGB Dietetic Intern

Residents of Wisconsin are famous for their passion for grilling. Local legends tell of brave and slightly crazy souls who shovel paths through the snow out to their grill.

For the rest of us, grilling season has just begun. Grilling is an excellent way to cook food even for people who are not pyromaniacs; it can be a very fun and healthy preparation method and that imparts flavor and creates texture without added fat.

Marinades can be very important for grilling. Using acidic marinades can help prevent the formation of potentially cancer-causing substances that are formed when food is charred. Marinades can also make the meat more tender, and obviously more delicious.

Making your own marinades at home can save you money and you can also make them healthier than store-bought ones because you have control over how much sodium is in it. Here are some easy ideas for the sour/acidic ingredients in your marinades:

Lemon juice
Orange juice
Lime juice
Wines
Vinegars
Salsa

Herbs are also important and healthy components to include in your marinades. Recent research has shown that herbs from the Lamiaceae family (Basil, Mint, Rosemary, Thyme, Oregano, and Sage) used in marinades significantly reduced the formation of the potentially dangerous heterocyclic amines.

Sometimes marinades need a little bit of oil, but truth be told, they do not need much. The best oils to grill with are peanut oil and canola oil because they stand up to high heats well and contain healthy monounsaturated fats.

During my stints as a Dietetic Intern both at the Oneida Health Center at the WIC office and in the Health Promotions and Disease Prevention department, I have heard a lot about Tsyunhehkwa and made a few trips over to the retail store. I have become hooked on Kan^stóhale (Oneida cornbread). I love that it is made so locally, and from such simple, healthy ingredients. Warming it up is simple, and it is so versatile! Which got me to thinking, can Kan^stóhale be grilled?

I am pleased to say that this culinary experiment was a success! I began by slicing the Kan^stóhale into 3/4 inch thick slices. It should marinade for at least an hour for maximum flavor. Grill it long enough to develop a nice crust, and you will be delighted by the crispy outer texture and soft inside. Do not flip more than once to avoid the chance of it breaking, although I will say it is quite sturdy.

I used two simple marinades with delicious results: plain salsa from a jar with a little worchestershire sauce for added flavor depth and also some low-fat ginger sesame dressing kicked up a notch with a homemade hot sauce containing fiery Thai chili peppers and more ginger.

How could you not get excited about this nutritious and very local grilled temptation? The protein from the corn and beans is complementary to each other, making it a great choice for vegetarians and omnivores alike! There is almost no fat or sodium in the Kan^stóhale itself, so if you use a low fat/low sodium marinade, it is not only a delicious but also heart-healthy component of your next cookout! Get on over to Tsyunhehkwa retail and pick up some Kan^stóhale today!

New policy for Behavioral Health Service aimed at improving customer service

By Ernest L. Stevens III

Effective June 7th, 2011, Behavioral Health will be using a new policy that focuses on "No Shows" appointments in a way that improves the intake process, but most importantly, improves service to all patients. We define "No Show" as when the client does not communicate 24 hours or more in advance to Behavioral Health that an appointment cannot be kept.

"We understand that our patients experience emergency situations and unforeseen circumstances that prevent them from coming to their scheduled appointment. We understand these rare exceptions. However we must work together to decrease the number of times we have made appointments for community members and then there is a "no show" for the appointment. We allow clients communicate to us at (920) 490-3790 when they are unable to keep an appointment up until 24 hours before the appointment, said Behavioral Health Services Manager Mari Kriescher. "Our focus is on providing the best service for the patients who do follow the scheduling process, and those who come to their scheduled appointments." Behavioral Health "No Show appointments can be up to 25% of our scheduled appointments- We wish to serve the community- this is an area in which we need your help! If we know you are not going to make your appointment, the policy will allow us to call another client and see if they would like to fill the open appointment!

The Comprehensive Health Division which includes Behavioral Health has reviewed the need to implement a policy that not only provides accountability, but also improves the process in the cases of missed appointments. "Many of our clients live within Brown and Outagamie County, and many of them tend to wait patiently for appointments to open up," continue Kriescher, "it is our job to let them know of those opportunities in a timely manner, this policy is a process by which you, our community members can help others who need services when you cannot make your appointment time.

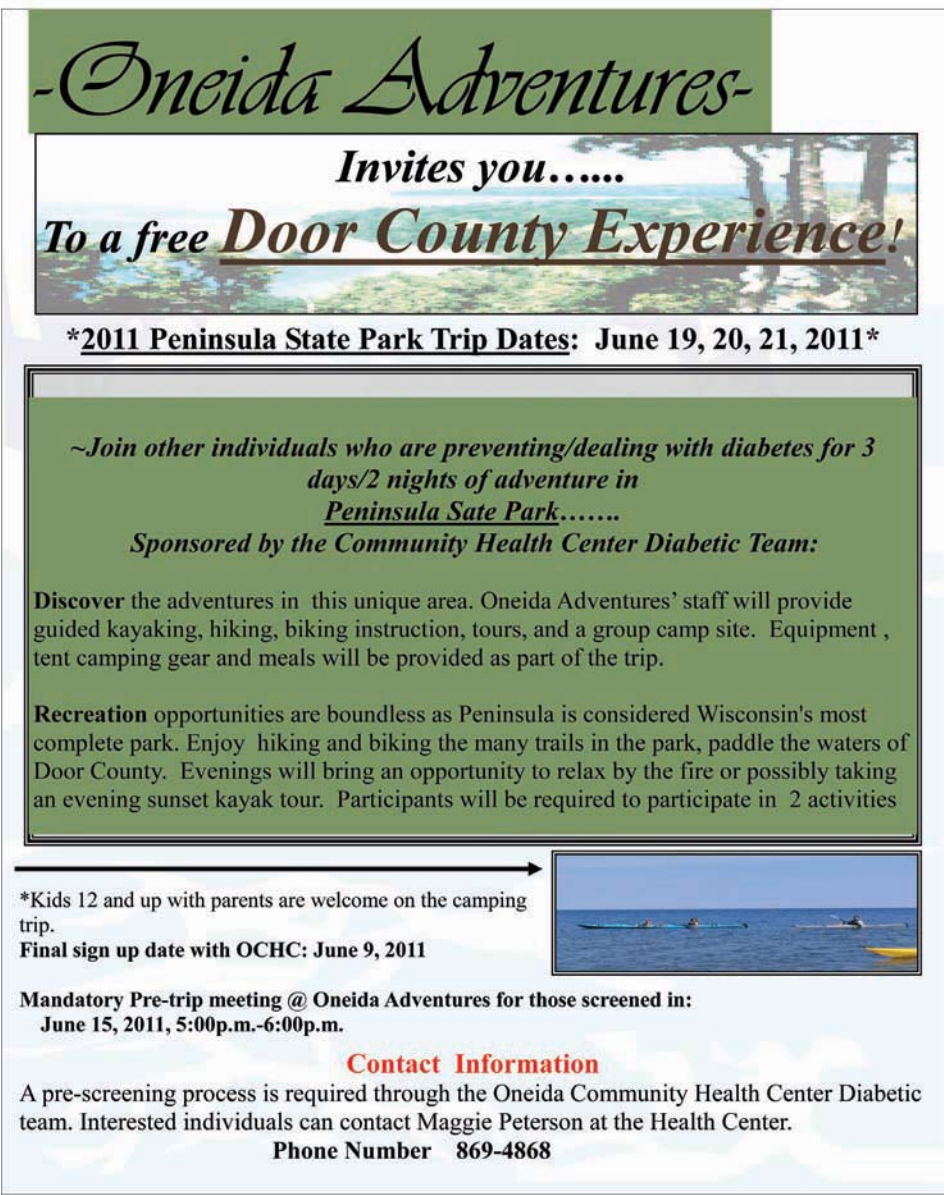
This policy is also a strategic one. New guidelines in the policy mandate "triage consults" with staff to educate them on our intake process and ensure they understand and agree to follow our appointment scheduling procedures. For example, if a client misses an appointment and does not notify the staff 24 hours, they are to participate in a "triage consult." They will receive a letter, and must attend this consult within 30 days of being notified, and they will again be reminded within 10 days of the expiration date. If they do not attend this "triage consult", they will not be able to receive services for 6 months.

"This may seem harsh to some clients, it's not meant as punishment but rather to educate on the importance of coming to your appointment, communicating your absence, and especially on keeping commitments. "It's a second chance, and a forgiving one, as we all know things do happen that we can't avoid. But, we need to meet our patient demand for more appointment times sometimes can't be avoided. We are asking the community members and our clients to assist us in this policy implementation – please call us 24 hours in advance if you are unable to make your scheduled appointments. If you do not notify us, we will ask you to come in and talk with triage and work with you to reschedule your time."

Additionally, Behavioral Health is offering "Wellness Support Services" to all of its customers. You are welcome to join us at any time for this service! This 90 minute service is composed of two parts:

One part of group provides an opportunity for it's participants to speak freely in a safe, confidential environment about their immediate needs, issues and concerns.

The second part of group is to provide information, educate, make referrals and teach participants self care skills. Participants are welcomed to attend group as often as therapeutically needed; no formal referral or requirement needs to be fulfilled to attend. All they need to do is "drop in" as needed for continuity of care. Participants do not need to check in at the receptionist desk, all we ask is that they please wait in the waiting area and a facilitator will get you when group starts. The following are the days and times for these services:



Monday 1:00 p.m. - 2:30 p.m.
Tuesday 10:30 a.m. – 12:00 Noon.
Wednesday 10:30 a.m. – 12:00 Noon
Thursday 2:00 p.m. -3:30 p.m.
Friday 10:30 a.m. – 12:00 Noon

Main (920) 490-3790
Triage (920) 490-3860
Prescription Refill Line (920) 490-3871

We are working to improve our customer service," says Kriescher. "In that we are asking everyone to be proactive in scheduling and maintaining appointments. This will assist us in improving access to our services for those who might be waiting for an earlier appointment. This effort, along with some exciting group programs as our Wellness Support Services- are efforts to improve the Behavioral Health of our community!

For any questions, please contact Mari Kriescher at (920)490-3790 EXT: 3737.

Also, in immediate crisis the Brown and Outagamie Crisis Centers are available 24 hours a day. Family Services Crisis Center number is 920-436-8888 or Outagamie County Crisis Center (920) 832-4646.

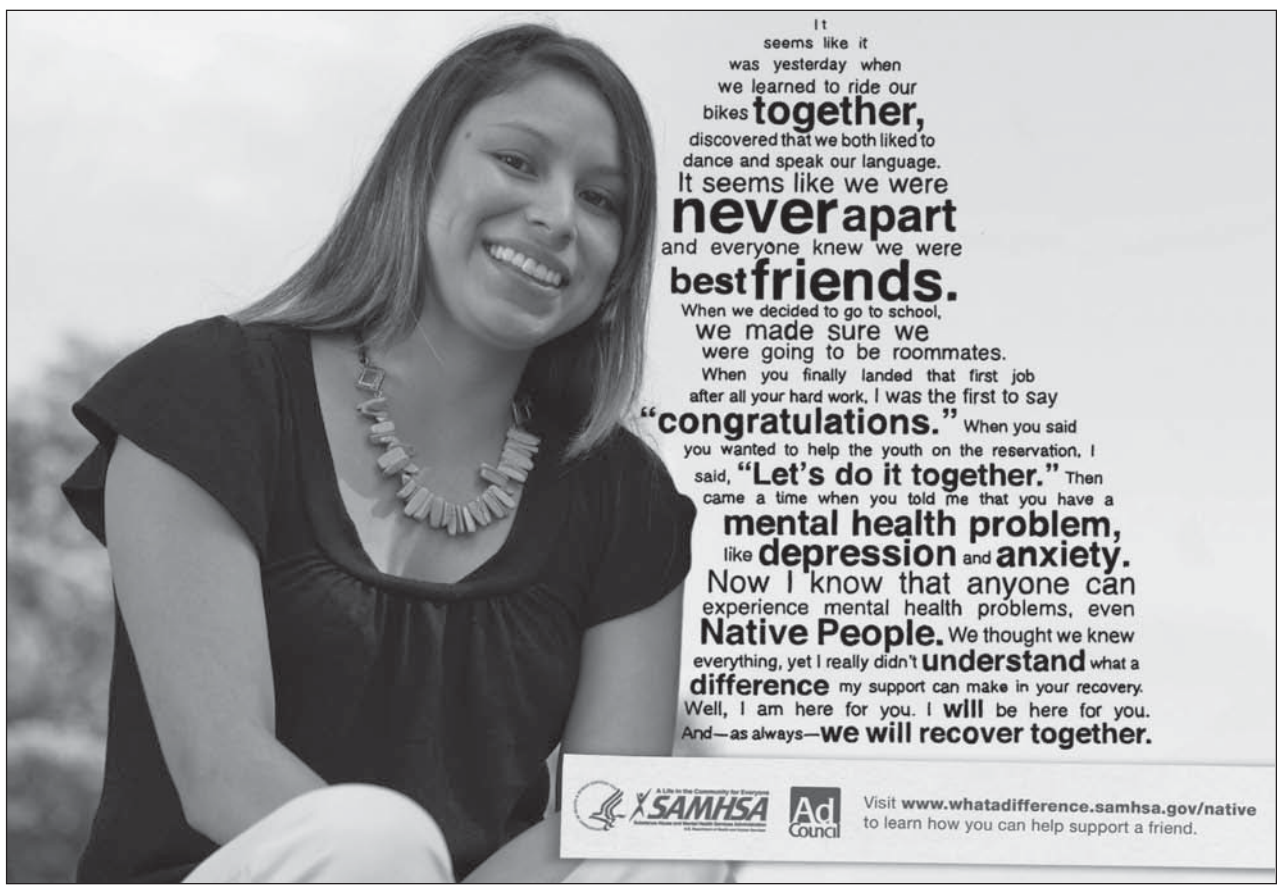
Woman first American Indian female to receive statewide award in Wisconsin

Gwen Carr, a member of the Cayuga Nation of New York, Heron Clan, and resident of Appleton, Wisconsin, is the first American Indian woman to receive a 2011 Virginia Hart Award.

The Virgina Hart Award is named after Virgina Hart, the first woman to serve in a Governor's cabinet. The award named after Mrs. Hart is for women in government who have exemplified excellence in public service and whose contribution to the public may not be highly visible but is substantial.



"I am deeply honored to be nominated and to receive an honorable mention award this year" said Ms. Carr, I am humbled to be recognized for the work I have done in Wisconsin to provide opportunity for American Indians and other communities throughout the state"

Ms Carr first worked at the Wisconsin Department of Commerce and created significant American Indian business opportunities for the first time. Ms Carr then became the first Wisconsin Department of Transportation Tribal Liaison, serving under Governor Jim Doyle and Secretary Frank Busalacchi. Ms Carr created the first American Indian programs at DOT and served as its primary American Indian policy and intergovernmental affairs liaison from 2004 to 2008. Since then, Ms Carr has been working on the US 41 Project in NE Wisconsin, making history in the creation of American Indian, minority and women owned businesses, tribal relations and community sensitive design on a 1.6 billion dollar project. The US 41 Project has become a national model of excellence in Indian Affairs and has won national awards because of Ms Carr's vision and dedication.

Before coming to Wisconsin, Ms Carr worked for the White House in the Clinton Administration, was the first political director of American Indian Affairs at the Democratic National Committee, in Washington, D.C. Ms. Carr is also the founder and Chair of the Wisconsin American Indian Democratic Caucus.

"Gwen's extraordinary vision, creativity and dedication to her People and to tribal sovereignty have made her a role model for leadership. We are fortunate to have her here and I am very proud of her achievements" said Ada Deer, Menominee, the first woman Assistant Secretary, Indian Affairs, Department of Interior and Distinguished Lecturer Emerita, School of Social Work and Director, American Indian Studies programs , University of Wisconsin, Madison,

"We are very proud of Gwen, we honored her with the first Business Advocate of the Year award in 2010, said Craig Anderson, Dakotah, President of the American Indian Chamber of Commerce of Wisconsin. "Her work on behalf of American Indians in Wisconsin is one of the prime reasons Indian businesses have had opportunity and unprecedented success in the last eight years. Gwen never gives up"

Stamping Out Hunger in Oneida

Food Collected for Local Charity

ONEIDA, WI – The annual National Association of Letter Carriers (NALC) Stamp Out Hunger Food Drive, with the help of rural letter carriers, other Postal employees and numerous volunteers, resulted in millions of pounds of non-perishable food delivered to deserving charities nationwide.

"For 19 years, the Postal Service has stood proudly to help Stamp Out Hunger in America," said Oneida Postmaster Cheryl Koenig. "Our carriers have demonstrated once again that service to the community doesn't end at the mailbox. The Postal Service's commitment to this worthy cause has never been greater."

Stamp Out Hunger — the nation's largest one-day food drive — annually collects non-perishable food to help more than 35 million people, including 12 million children, who face hunger every day in America. Despite a continued downturn in the economy, Americans have continued to support this outreach effort.

The Oneida carriers collected non-perishable food donations left by mailboxes which were delivered to the Salvation Army in Black Creek and these Brown County locations: St. Mark's Church, St. Anne's Church, the Christian Outreach Center and the Freedom Pantry.

"This year's food donations collected by our carriers demonstrates the generosity of our customers and the determination of our employees to come to the aid of fellow Americans in need," said Koenig. Thank You for your help!

West De Pere students get leg up on college application process

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The college entry process may be a daunting task but two West De Pere High School students are putting in work to make the path a little clearer.

Sandra Lee Thomas, entering her senior year, and Terrance Huff, entering his junior year, will be taking part in College Horizons, a summer program aimed at aiding students in preparing for college entry. The nonprofit organization provides pre-college summer programs for Native American students entering their junior or senior years. The program couples students with college counselors and admission officers to assist with the application process, essays, test-taking strategies, and financial aid assistance.

The program is very competitive as 320 applications were received for 200 open spaces.

For Thomas, college was in her future at an early age. "As soon as I entered sixth grade I knew I wanted to pursue a career that required me to go to college," she said. "I wanted to make a difference in the world and I knew that would mean a lot more schooling after high school."

Terrance Huff (left) and Sandra Lee Thomas (right) have been accepted to participate in College Horizons, a college prep program.

Thomas and Huff will attend the program in June at Colorado State University.

"I heard about College Horizons from Jeremiah Powless (an advisor from the Oneida Higher Education Department) when he came to West De Pere High School to talk about the Oneida Higher Education Department," Thomas said. "I believed that it would be a great opportunity and because College Horizons would improve my chances of getting into any college of my choice."

Huff has aspirations of being a surgeon has already targeted a doctorate degree.

"I see many different and great colleges look for people from this program," Huff said. "I decided to pursue higher education when I was in middle school. I want to study biology and human anatomy and probably minor in business."

Thomas, who has a 4.0 grade point average hopes to utilize her future degree with employment in the tribe but is aware of the current job market.

"I enjoy helping people, but I also love to solve problems. I would want to either be a general practitioner or an engineer. I would prefer to work for the Oneida Tribe but I believe that if any opportunity to help people comes up in the medical field, I will take it," she said.

Over 1550 students have attended College Horizons with 50 tribal nations represented. And 40 percent of program participants are first generation college students. Visit collegehorizons.org.

Oneida post office services moving online

ONEIDA, WI – With nearly 100,000 places to buy stamps, ship a package or renew a passport, the U.S. Postal Service is expanding customer access to its products and services. It's not about brick-and- mortar Post Offices anymore, as postal products move online and into retail outlets, grocery stores, office supply chains and pharmacies.

Responding to changing customer needs and a business plan that calls for expanding access to Postal Service products, stores including Costco and Office Depot are offering shipping and mailing services.

According to Lakeland District Manager Karen Schenck, the Postal Service is changing for the better.

"We're teaming up with hundreds of new stores so customers can do postal business at places where they already shop," Schenck said. "Americans have more to do and less time to do it. We know simpler is better – online, on your mobile device, on your way, with an expertise that you can count on."

Customers can find dozens of locations to purchase postal services within their neighborhoods by visiting an interactive map at www.uspseverywhere.com and typing in a ZIP Code. Using a simple icon guide designating stamps, shipping and packaging, PO Boxes and other services, customers can easily navigate to retail outlets, grocery stores, Automated Postal Center (APC) kiosks and Post Offices, among other options.

With Post Office hours usually ending by 5 p.m. or earlier, customers can send a Priority Mail Flat Rate Box and buy Forever stamps as long as the alternate sites are open – often as late as 9 p.m. Some sites are open 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

"We're creating easier, more convenient access to products and services when and where our customers want them," Schenck said. "We're everywhere so you can be anywhere."

There are about 32,000 Post Office locations around the country that sell Postal Service products and services. There are more than 50,000 other locations selling postage stamps alone – the top product sold at Post Offices. With the additional shipping provider locations added in, customers have about 100,000 locations and ways to do business with the Postal Service.

Nearly 35 percent of the Postal Service retail revenue comes from expanded access locations such as Costco, Office Depot, grocery stores, drug stores, APCs, ATMs and usps.com, open 24/7.

The Postal Service receives no tax dollars for operating expenses, and relies on the sale of postage, products and services to fund its operations.

An electronic press kit on expanded access, including b-roll, JPEGs and audio soundbites can be found at http://www.usps.com/communications/newsroom/expandedaccess/welcome.html

Gov. orders National Guard to Crow Reservation for flood aid

By Stephen Dockery
Associated Press

HELENA, Mont. (AP) ~ Gov. Brian Schweitzer has deployed Montana National Guard soldiers to the Crow Reservation as residents deal with major flooding.

The order to send 50 guardsmen to the reservation Saturday came a day after the governor toured the area and other parts of the state.

Crow Tribe officials earlier in the week requested National Guard aid after heavy rainfall put much of the reservation under water and left residents stranded.

A spokesman for the Montana National Guard says soldiers will provide unarmed security checkpoints to assist Crow personnel.

The first check points are expected to be set up by Saturday afternoon.

Crow emergency officials say water had receded on the reservation Saturday. But heavy storms and more flooding are expected this weekend.

Oneida Community Integrated Food Systems

Oneida Cannery reopens its doors

During the winter months the Oneida Cannery was closed for renovations. The Cannery received a grant from First Nations Development Institute through the Native Agriculture and Food Systems Initiative (NAFSI) program. The goals of the NAFSI is:

To make broader connections of Native food systems to economic development and entrepreneurial efforts of tribes and tribal organizations.

To connect food systems projects to improving the health of Native communities.

To increase access to food for the broader community.

A majority of the $25,000.00 grant awarded to the Oneida Cannery was utilized to purchase two 40 gallon gas kettles. These kettles will allow the Cannery and community to process larger volumes of white corn and other products. During the renovation three exhaust hoods and a large floor drain were installed to help alleviate condensation problems and safety issues regarding wet slippery floors.

The two 20 gallon steam kettles and the two sterilizers were moved under the new exhaust hoods. The Cannery also acquired a storage room for food supplies and canning supplies. I would like to thank Wayne Metoxen, project manager for overseeing this project.

The remainder of the grant funds is being utilized to start an Oneida Nation High School Three Sisters garden. The Iroquois Women Studies Class will be planting and harvest the garden produce. Cannery staff will teach the class how to make our traditional white corn products such as corn bread, corn mush and dehydrated corn for corn soup, through workshops in the Oneida Cannery.

The two 40 gallon gas kettles recently purchased by the Oneida Cannery are just a couple of new additions to the recently renovated facility.

The Oneida Cannery will be hosting a open house on June 20, 4:00-6:00 pm. A small meal will be provided of corn soup and buffalo white corn chili. The Buffalo meat is being donated by Oneida Living in Balance. There will be a few door prizes to assist with your canning supplies if you're a lucky winner.

Please come and join us at the Norbert Hill Center cafeteria.

We look forward to assisting you and your family in your food preservation.

Sovereignty in time of emergency may be strengthened

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

Bipartisan legislation introduced by U.S. Representative Nick J. Rahall (D-WV) will solidify tribal sovereignty during major disasters and emergency situations.

Rahall, the top democrat on the House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee, met with tribal leaders from across the country whom raised concerns that the current process threatens and undermines the principals of tribal sovereignty.

"This has been a priority for Indian Country for over a decade and upon enactment will treat Indian tribes as the sovereign governments that they are," said Rahall. "As sovereign nations, Indian tribes should have a direct line to the federal government to expedite aid and assistance during an emergency or major disaster."

The current protocol requires tribes to seek emergency declarations through states before federal assistance is granted.

"Currently, tribes in the United States are listed as local governments in the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act. This currently requires tribes to declare emergencies and disasters through the states then onto the federal government for emergency relief and support on declarations," said Marty Antone, Oneida's Emergency Management Director. "The bottom line changes are for tribes to declare disasters directly to the White House, government-to-government, without the state and would not require the Tribes to have a 25 percent matching funds for emergency relief support."

With Oneida's reservation sitting within two counties' boundaries, multiple reports and requests must be made which may lead to improper funding assistance. The new legislation would eliminate multiple reports.

"It's very difficult to record or document a response on how much was spent in one county then the other. If a disaster hits Oneida and includes damage in each county then it requires (sending) separate data to the counties to roll up into their declaration then onto the state for review," said Antone. "It's possible that currently half of Oneida might only be funded if the two amounts can not be included in one sum of the damages. When recovery data is sent off to anther separate county, it's very possible to be less than what is required to support the needs or damage to the Oneida

Manual will help protect prisoners' religious rights

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Native American inmates of Wisconsin prisons will have a new resource that will help protect their religious freedoms while incarcerated. Oneida Business Committee (OBC) Councilwoman Melinda Danforth and staff helped create a religious practices manual that outlines the spiritual practices of Wisconsin's 11 tribes.

"It's a confidential, internal document that the chaplains will use at all the institutions within the state of Wisconsin," said Councilwoman Danforth.

Detailing Native American ceremonies in writing is a thorny issue, however, Councilwoman Danforth stated it needed to be done to protect Native Americans in custody.

"You want to be really sensitive about it, but at the same time we recognize that if this document wasn't written … the Native people that are inside of institutions are going to lose out on their rights to practice religion," she said.

The document explains certain practices such as sweat lodges and smudging, and the meaning of certain sacred objects such as eagle feathers.

"We've been trying to make those kinds of changes for them so that they're not struggling to bring in spiritual leaders, or they have the … necessary food that they need in terms of spiritual foods," said Councilwoman Danforth.

The document was presented to the Great Lakes Inter-Tribal Council for approval from all of Wisconsin's tribal leaders.

Oneida Vets take part in ceremony for Unknown Soldier

By Brent Truttmann
Kalihwisaks

On May 30, 2011, Don Loudner, National Commander of National American Indian Veterans (NAIV), presented a wreath to the guards of the Tomb of the Unknown Soldiers. This is the 143rd annual event held every Memorial Day. Loudner selected the Oneida Chapter of NAIV to accompany him to represent all tribal veterans nationwide. Seven handpicked Oneida veterans attended the event, four of which brought in the colors. James Buckley, retired Colonel of the U.S. Air Force, carried the Oneida Eagle Staff; John Breuninger, retired Captain of the U.S. Air Force, carried the American Flag; Chris J. Cornelius, Staff Sergeant of the U.S. Army presented the Oneida Nation Flag, and Liz Somers, retired Commander of the U.S. Navy, brought in the National American Indian Veteran Flag.

Aside from the flag bearers, Ray Johnson, a photographer who also is a Sergeant in the Marines, James King Overman, a Major in the Air Force, and Clifford Doxtator who served in the Army from 1950 to 1952, all sat in a VIP box for the Wreath Laying Ceremony as well as the President's speech. Clifford Doxtator is also the Oneida Chapter Commander of NAIV and one of two Charter Members of the Smithsonian National Museum of American Indians

Even though the annual event has been going for 143 years, this is only the fourth year the event had Native veteran representation. Loudner attested that Native representation is a must because any one of the unknown soldiers buried could in fact be tribal. "American Indians took part in every conflict that the United States has been through," said Loudner, "They all volunteered. Even when they weren't considered a U.S. citizen and had their country taken from them, they volunteered."

Loudner said to present the wreath was an incredible honor. "All should be proud for what we did there," he said, for he and the Oneida Nation represented all American Indian veterans in the country. Doxtator adamantly expresses his pride to be there by saying "To be handpicked was one of the highlighted moments of my life."

Clifford Doxtator also would like to give thanks to the VFW holsters for carrying the flag, Larry Barton and Oneida Tribal Funding, Stan Webster for letting them use the Oneida Eagle Staff, Royal Cleaners for cleaning all the flags, Oneida Nation Veterans Affairs Committee for letting them use the flags and the poles, Oneida Veteran Service Officer for letting them use the carrying cases for the flag and poles, and to the Oneida Nation for the support of the veterans that went to Washington D.C.

Truttmann joins Kalihwisaks

My name is Brent Truttmann, and I am the new summer intern for the Kalihwisaks. I am entering my Junior year at St. Norbert College. I'm majoring in English with a creative writing emphasis and a minor in Philosophy as well.

I wanted to intern for the Kali for quite some time now. My major and minor studies do not necessarily give me many career options after school, and interning at the Kali will give me the experience and possible opportunity to help me find a career path. I am happy to intern for the Kalihwisaks specifically because not only is this a paid internship, but more importantly I want to be more involved in the Oneida community.

I hope to learn from this internship, the inner workings of a newspaper enviroment, a voice when writing with a journalistic view, certain computer skills that I am desperately lacking. This is my first internship, and I am very excited to for this experience.

Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs Larry Echo Hawk delivered a keynote address at the National Congress of American Indians (NCAI) Mid-Year Conference in Milwaukee, Wisconsin on June 14, 2011. Echo Hawk described the progress being made to restore integrity in U.S. government relations with American Indian and Alaska Native leaders, fulfill trust responsibilities to tribal members, and to work cooperatively to build stronger economies and safer tribal communities.

During his two years as Assistant Secretary, Echo Hawk has witnessed first hand the impacts of federal policy on the American Indian community, both the successes and the challenges.

"This first hand perspective has shown me the need for federal policy to continue to work toward achievements of stronger tribal governments, protection of free rights, restoration of more tribal homelands, preservation of Native culture, language, and spiritual values, safe and secure communities, quality educational opportunities, robust local economies and

Public meeting scheduled for WIS 29 improvements

Projects scheduled for 2013 and 2014

(Green Bay) - The Wisconsin Department of Transportation's (WisDOT) NE Region office in Green Bay is announcing a public information meeting to discuss the WIS 29 improvement project from County U to County FF in Brown County. The meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, June 28 from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Hillcrest Elementary School, 4193 Hillcrest Drive, in the village Hobart. A brief presentation has been scheduled for 5:15 p.m.

The public is encouraged to attend this meeting. It will be held in an open-house format. Individuals can stop by at their convenience during the meeting, talk with project staff, learn more about the project, review the project displays, and ask questions and share comments.

WisDOT began studying this stretch of highway several years ago, completing a corridor preservation study in 2008. The corridor preservation study identified interchange locations at County VV and County FF. It also recommended building overpasses at County U and at the extension of North Pine Tree Road along with closing the Sunlite Drive and Woodland Road intersection.

Construction funds have not yet been allocated for the County VV interchange or the County U and North Pine Tree Road overpasses. To improve safety in the interim, J-turns will be constructed at County VV and County U will be modified to eliminate left turns from County U onto WIS 29. Construction is expected to begin on these intersection improvements in early 2013 and be completed by mid-summer.

Construction funding has been allocated to build the County FF interchange and to close the Sunlite Drive and Woodland Road at-grade intersection. Construction at this interchange is planned to begin in late 2013 and be completed by August 2014.

Additionally, WisDOT is evaluating the conceptual plans prepared during the corridor preservation study for the County VV interchange or the County U and North Pine Tree Road overpasses and completing preliminary designs for these interchanges and overpasses. The improvements are being refined to reduce impacts to residential properties, wetlands, and other features along WIS 29. Alternatives have been developed for the County U overpass, for the Milltown Road realignment, and for the North Pine Tree Road extension.

The hall is wheelchair accessible. Those who are hearing impaired and require an interpreter should contact WisDOT project manager Dan Segerstorm prior to Wednesday, June 22. Citizens who are unable to attend the meeting or would like more information can contact Dan Segerstorm at 1 (920) 492 7718 or by E-mail at daniel.segerstrom@dot.wi.gov

In Loving Memory of…
Rory Owen Hill
August 15, 1966 – June 30, 1991

It's been two decades since the good Lord called your name
Now I'm sitting in jail feeling mostly ashamed
We gather at your grave site each & every year
And, yes Dad, I still dream that one day you'll reappear
Your body is gone, that I'll always know but like the Good Book says, we all have our souls
If you were here right now Dad, I'd ask, "What would you do?"
Every year around this time I feel so sad & blue.
I know I can't see you, but I can feel you all around
Every time I see a picture of you, I try so hard not to frown
It's been a tough year Dad for your one & only son.
I have a baby boy too now & he's my number one.
I wish you could hold him for you are his Grandpa who he doesn't know
To be able to be here with us, to see & watch him grow
We know you're looking down on us and have seen our new additions too
Raylon, Rylee, Cashius, Lil Gavi & Baby Oni just to name the last few
When they all learn to talk, they're going to say, "Grandpa & Great Uncle we love you."
But there's so many more family & friends who will always be missing you too.
And the one & only son you had
Who is here writing this poem for his Dad.
You are forever embedded into our hearts and that's the way it's going to stay.
I'm sure you & Wayno are sparring, to see that I would surely pay.
It may be years, maybe decades…only God knows when
All of us here loving & missing you will one day see you again.

Love you Dad ♥
Your son Dwight

A star is born, one that shines the brightest Brought up to be the best he could be Loving everyone in his path
And in return we loved him back
But now he's gone and all we have are memories
Let's hold on to these memories
And keep them fresh in our mind so he will Not be forgotten
I loved him then, I love him now
With this love I will hold on

Oneida Business Committee Wrap: June 8, 2011

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) met for their first meeting of June on the eighth at the Norbert Hill Center.

Present: Kathy Hughes – Vice-Chairwoman, Tina Danforth – Treasurer, Patty Hoeft – Secretary, Ed Delgado – Councilmember, Trish King – Councilmember, Melinda Danforth – Councilmember, Brandon Stevens – Councilmember, Tehassi Hill – Councilmember

Absent: Rick Hill – Chairman

After approving the meeting's agenda the OBC started the meeting by approving meeting minutes from the May 25.

A resolution needed for a United States Department of Housing and Urban Development grant was approved. The grant money totaling $204,000 will be directed to install Henry Road Elder Village infrastructure.

Board, Committee, and Commission Quarterly Reports

Quarterly reports were accepted from the Oneida Commission on Aging and the Anna John Nursing Home. The scheduled report from the Oneida Library Board was deferred to the June22 OBC meeting.

Standing Committees

Legislative Operating Committee meeting minutes were approved from May 18. An update to the current Art Board bylaws was approved. The updates provide clearer language outlining the board's role and responsibilities.

A resolution to accept the Social Media Policy was accepted. The policy will enable the tribe to regulate all social media accounts that are administered by tribal entities.

A resolution adopting amendments to the current Per Capita Ordinance was adopted on an emergency basis. The amendments address fraudulent high school diplomas being submitted with fines equally one-third of the balance of the account. It also forbids dually enrolled tribal members from receiving per capita payments. It also addresses payment options along with the establishment of more payment dates.

Finance Committee

Meeting minutes from June 3 were approved.

General Tribal Council

A status report was given on the development of a recommendation on the use of hand-held voting devices at General Tribal Council (GTC) meetings. The report consisted of a broad price range for the hand-held units along with testing results from prior GTC meetings. The OBC moved to direct the General Manager, Chief of Staff, Chief Financial Officer (CFO) and Law Office to formulate a team to develop the implementation process of the units.

Follow Ups/OBC Directives

Discussion on the necessity of a proposed Commerce/Enterprise General Manager Director took a spirited turn. A few OBC members did not support the position using the current economic condition as the backbone of their stance. Other OBC members identified the positions ability to address the need for economic diversity within the tribe. The committee sent the motion to the Treasurer and CFO to determine if the position is funded within the 2011 fiscal year. It will again appear before the OBC on June 22.

A quarterly report from the Grants Department on the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act was quickly approved.

Discussion around the Oneida Resident Centered Care facility's (ORCCC) operation plan centered on the downsized dining area. The dining area was downsized in cost-cutting measures with opposition coming from community elders. The OBC directed the ORCCC project team to bring recommendations to consider expanding the seating area or keeping it the same. The recommendations are to be brought forward to the June 22 meeting.

The Ridgeview Plaza renovation packet totaling $1.3 million was approved and activated for the 2011 fiscal year.

Tabled Business

The establishment and charter for the Quality of Life Committee was approved.

New Business/Reports

The 2011 Primary Election final report was approved. A total of 1,215 tribal members voted with 136 voters coming at the Milwaukee polling site. The total cost to hold the primary election was $24,214.85. The general elections will take place July 16.

The fiscal year 2011 Oneida Housing Authority Indian Housing Plan was approved. Approval was needed to receive the budgeted grant amount from HUD.

Executive Session

Bi-monthly reports from the Chief of Staff and Chief of Counsel were approved. A report on the New York land claims settlement update was approved.

The next OBC meeting is scheduled for June 22 at the Norbert Hill Center.

"No matter who you support, be sure to go vote."

Hard-Working Dedicated

• Independent • Knowledgeable • Positive Leadership •

I am running for the Oneida Business Committee and I would greatly appreciate your vote and support.

I bring a wealth of experience to this position. I have been involved for more than 20 years in Oneida public policy and smart governance issues - and not always necessarily as a candidate for public office - but as a person dedicated to bringing people together around good solutions.

Over the years I have served the Oneida people in various capacities. On many occasions I have volunteered and worked side-by-side with many honest and hard-working Oneida people that desire to build a better Oneida Tribe.

To see more about my campaign & previous work, visit here: Oneida1.com

In Oneida, we need bold budget reforms that promote a commitment to providing advance services (housing, social and health programs) for the Oneida people. Likewise, many good Oneida employees have not received pay raises for several years. It's getting harder for our people to live in an environment where all cost (gas, food, electricity) are rising except for their wages. We need to address the wage issue.

With new leadership and bold reforms, we can turn Oneida around. The truth is, I am not running against anyone, I am running for something, and that's to serve the Oneida people.

If elected, I will serve the Oneida people with a level of energy that gets things done. There is no cause that I'd rather fight for, and I'd be honored to have your support.

Respectfully,
Vince DelaRosa

BACKGROUND ON BUSINESS

Oneida Chamber of Commerce formed

Area business owners creating a one stop center for information, training and networking

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Chamber of Commerce, Inc. is up and running and taking aim at keeping money in Oneida by strengthening Oneida owned businesses. The chamber received its Wisconsin charter on June 1.

The board members – President Tana Aguirre, Vice President Shannon Stone, Treasurer Jason Aguirre, and Secretary Tina Klakowicz - began talking about creating a chamber of commerce over a year ago.

"It all basically started over lunch as a conversation about businesses, Oneida businesses and some of the struggles that we have endured" said Tana Aguirre who owns Card Concepts with her husband Jason Aguirre. "We're all business owners here, and it just kind of conceptualized there."

The group contacted Oneida Business Committee (OBC) Councilman Brandon Stevens to see how the chamber and the Oneida government could work together.

"Rather than providing everything for the small business owners, we can just provide the technical support that they all need," said Stevens. The chamber and the OBC plan to create a memorandum of agreement (MOA) that will list the services available such as training or technical support.

The Oneida Chamber of Commerce, Inc. will be located at 2615 Packerland Drive, and plans to have a grand opening in late July. Stone hopes the chamber will create networking opportunities for Oneida area businesses, as well as a location to do business.

"We're looking at offering some virtual space opportunities so people will be able to come in and have access, internet access to computers, conference rooms," said Stone. Other plans may include office space for rent and a mail drop.

The chamber started with some seed money from Oneida, according to Tana Aguirre, and will be a center for information and training.

"I think a lot of us have seen a lot of Oneida businesses come and go, and I think we would like to see a little bit more success in the startup businesses, and what we're willing to do is help them through the process of developing the relationships with outside entities," she said.

Stone sees the chamber as a place for business owners to network, learn the intricacies of working with tribal governments, and get referrals.

"It's a crazy question, but we ask each other all the time; 'is there an Oneida business that does that?'" said Stone. "What we would like to establish is that one spot where you can go and if you need an accountant, or if you need a web designer, of somebody to design your logos, we'll have that available."

Stevens hopes the training will also help Oneida owned businesses see beyond the reservation boarder.

"Too many times now-a-days somebody Oneida (wants) a business, and they say 'Ok, how do I market to Oneida? Oneida people are going to buy my stuff, and that's it.' We need to spread their vision to greater Green Bay, Wisconsin, national, international," he said.

According to Stone, who owns a marketing business The Spectrum Process, Inc., Oneida has a lot of talented individuals that could build small businesses that could work with larger entities.

"You build a reputation, and you show that you have the competence to do the job, then those larger businesses want to bring you in," said Stone.

Stevens sees an opportunity to tap into a resource that currently heads straight to surrounding communities.

"Two million dollars a week pay roll from our employees goes into Green Bay, and that helps Green Bay a lot," he said. Stevens sees building businesses in Oneida as a way to build the Oneida community as well.

"It brings the community back and keeps people in Oneida, and hopefully brings Green Bay into Oneida and creates more of a tourism business corridor," said Stevens.

The Oneida Chamber of Commerce, Inc. will be open to anyone, and holds public meetings on Thursday afternoons.

"It gives the businesses a place to come together as a voice for the local government and the local community," said Tana Aguirre.

Chairman's Corner...

Rick Hill
Chairman

The following is a paraphrased version of the commencement speech I gave to our graduating Oneida High School students on June 3, 2011. These are words of encouragement intended to inspire our Oneida youth who will be making their way into this world, but they are also words intended for our Oneida members who wish to make a difference in this community we call home:

Today the Oneida Nation continues our nation-building with strong principles of good governance to guide our decision-making and protect our Oneida community. We look at maintaining our profitable revenue streams and diversifying our investment portfolio to create jobs and provide services and programming while creating a vibrant community.

It is quite the challenge to create a vibrant community, and over the past 30 years we have seen some remarkable changes in Oneida, some of which we might take for granted. Not so long ago we had very few jobs. Today we have nearly 3000 employees making us the third largest employer in the Green Bay area.

We created jobs for our members and employees to take care of their families, and we have some of the most talented, skilled and educated employees. We have more than a $100 billion economic impact on the local economy from our Radisson Hotel, Oneida Casino, Thornberry Creek at Oneida golf course, Oneida One Stops and other tribal enterprises, while still providing a variety of services and building an infrastructure to support our activities.

But there is always room for improvement. We have grown accustomed to what we have in our Oneida community, but we must continue to come up with new ideas and different ways of doing things to remain competitive in the marketplace and maintain the Oneida community we have created over the years. We must build this nation together for the continued exercise of our inherent sovereignty as Oneida people.

The key to this is education, and taking advantage of those opportunities through education so that we keep growing strong for the next seven generations. So I ask the following questions.

What are you going to do? What are you going to do to contribute to the success of the Oneida Nation? What are you curious about? What are you passionate about? Our community challenges require solving real issues and this takes creativity, curiosity and passion.

Who are our healers? We have a sick community with very high rates of diabetes, high blood pressure, heart disease, cancer, and obesity. These illnesses keep our clinic busy with thousands of prescriptions a day. Who are our educators? We need the math, science and English teachers to help teach job skills and provide training for the next generation of jobs in engineering and technology in the job market.

Who knows and will continue to teach our language, traditions and history? Who will continue to take care of the land that takes care of us? We have one of the largest farms in a 36-county area to help produce healthy food for us. Who will protect the Oneida Reservation and our community? Law enforcement and homeland security are essential to ensuring the safety of our members, community residents and the homes and buildings we live and work in.

Opportunities play an important role in the future of our Oneida Nation. Education is one of those few opportunities that allow us both to better ourselves, our community and our people. Take advantage of the opportunities that come before you, and seek your education to help make a difference.

My last message to all of you is the following: 1) Love yourself. 2) Be true to yourself. 3) Be open-minded. 4) Find your passion. 5) Make wise choices. 6) Surround yourself with good friends who support your vision. 7) Do kind deeds. 8) Challenge yourself to work hard. 9) Go outside and play. 10) Set your goals. 11) Meditate -- close your eyes and see yourself being what you want to be in the future. Now work backwards and see that you are already there. 12) Pray for all of these things, be thankful and express your gratitude. Thank you is the best prayer we can do for ourselves and others.

My hope is that you students, and everyone, can take on a few of these ideas, to better yourselves, your families and your Nation.

Treasurer's Report

By Cristina Danforth
Tribal Treasurer

Sheku, Greetings

The summer season is upon us and the July 4th holiday is right around the corner.

I hope everyone is enjoying the warm weather and is in good health.

My office and staff have been busy with the development of the FY 2012 budget and implementing many directives of the General Tribal Council (GTC) and Business Committee (OBC). A few recent items include; budget oversight both internal and external, approval of the Annual Tribal Allocation Plan for per capita disbursement, activation of the Capital Improvement Project for the renovation of the Ridgeview Plaza, and fiscal oversight of the Oneida Residential Community Care Center (ORCCC).

The Ridgeview and ORCCC projects are part of the $30 million Municipal Bond allocation.

Other items of interest include a recent directive to determine if there was a set aside for the draft Commerce and Enterprise Manager position. This new position is not funded in FY 2011 and if the OBC desires to act on this item it needs to be included in the upcoming FY2011 budget process. The position description still needs some work and will be addressed at the 6/22 OBC meeting. The OBC recently took action to provide a letter of support for the development of a Tribal Procurement Technical Assistance Center (PTAC). This letter will allow a PTAC to be developed on the Oneida reservation.

An application is being submitted with the assistance of the Wisconsin Indian Chamber of Commerce and Gwen Carr. If funded our consideration for in kind and a monetary match of $200,000 will provide an additional $600,000 from the Defense Logistics Agency, Office of Small Business Programs. This opportunity will give Oneida and other tribes in this region an opportunity to be more competitive in the federal procurement process.

Last month, the Oneida Tribe held its' first ever Primary Election. I am very pleased with the turn out for this election. There were 1,215 voters that participated. Of these votes, 136 were from the Milwaukee area. The total cost of the Primary election was $24,215 which includes the stipends paid to election board members for their service.

The past three years have been challenging yet rewarding and I would like to thank the many people who helped make my tenure successful and possible. I have been asked several times if I am running for re-election and the answer is, YES. I am definitely seeking re-election and will be out on the campaign trail seeking your continued support.

There will be many difficult decisions to be made on behalf of the Oneida tribe. I hope that each candidate is informed, energetic, committed to the betterment of Oneida as a whole and diligent in their decision making skills. Best wishes to everyone and be sure to get to the polls on July 16, 2011.

OBC Forum...

Ron Tehassi Hill
Councilman

Shekoli,

On May 18, I attended a public hearing in Madison to deliver testimony on Assembly Bill 95 to repeal a law that allows the Oneida Nation to obtain a liquor license directly from the State instead of from the local governments. Representative Steinke introduced the bill to the Assembly Committee on Economic Development and Rural Affairs.

On behalf of the Oneida Nation, I testified in opposition of AB 95 before the (12) member committee and provided a history on the Tribe's acquisition of Thornberry Creek out of bankruptcy and the Oneida Nation's contentious relationship with the Village of Hobart. Hobart fought our purchase of the property every step of the way, and continued to sabotage our operations by refusing to grant a liquor license because of unrelated storm water charges levied against trust land owned by the United States, even though the Village's own ordinance makes the property owner, i.e., the United States, responsible for payment.

If AB 95 becomes law, Hobart will almost certainly deny any license application by the Oneida Nation or Thornberry Creek because of the ongoing dispute between the Village and the Oneida Nation. Even if we are able to resolve the storm water charges issue, Hobart will likely find a new reason to deny any liquor license application. The Village should not be allowed to use its discretion to issue liquor licenses as a bludgeon to force the Tribe to pay unrelated assessments for property owned by the United States, or to extort other payments or impose burdensome conditions on the Oneida Nation. The Village has not treated our liquor license application as it would any other, and the conditions it has placed on the granting of that license are unreasonable and unlawful.

Enactment of AB 95 and the Village of Hobart's subsequent denial of liquor license applications could result in the closure of the golf course and the loss of 100 local jobs. In these tough economic times, it's more important than ever to secure employment for our community, and ensure that tribal businesses remain open.

I feel it is important to stand up and fight for our Nation, whether it be at the local, state, or federal levels. Providing testimony at hearings at all levels of government is one of the most productive ways to get our views across to government officials that make the decisions that affect our people and our businesses.

Whether it be to give testimony at a public hearing or to participate in intergovernmental discussions, appearing in person as an elected official of Oneida also puts a face to our Nation. I believe face-to-face contact helps our elected leaders connect and build relationships with local, state, and federal governments. Developing stronger relationships with our neighboring governments is improving the future of the Oneida Nation, our members, and the community as a whole.

Purpose:
Zoning and Shoreland Protection Law Amendments: Nuisance Provisions.
The intent of the proposed amendments is to expand and clarify the nuisance provisions of the Law. The Amendments add an intent statement to the public nuisance section of the Law and additional categories to the public nuisance section. The intent of the Amendments is that even though certain conditions may exist, they will not necessarily be a public nuisance. The definition of "public nuisance," along with the intent of the public nuisance section and the discretion of the Zoning Administrator will be used to determine whether a public nuisance exists.

Kroner case confirms need for Oneida court system

By Chief Judicial Officer Winnifred L. Thomas
Oneida Tribal Judicial System

As everyone is aware the impending Judiciary Act that has been brought before you many times over the past 12 years. While trying to decide what to add and what the court should look like or if we have a court, the Wisconsin 3rd District Court of Appeals has recognized the Oneida Tribal Judicial System as a court.

The fact that Oneida has a court was again proven this past week. On Thursday, June 2, 2011 in the Green Bay Press Gazette on page A-3 there is an article concerning the former CEO of the Oneida Seven Generations Corporation, contesting his firing. Kroner, who is not of the Oneida Tribe must have his case held before the Oneida Tribal Judicial System. Yes, members, your court.

Contrary to what people may say or think about Oneida not having a court the Wisconsin 3rd District Court of Appeals ruled Tuesday that John Kroner who is not a member of the Oneida Tribe must have his case held before the Oneida Tribal Judicial System.

Kroner was Oneida Seven Generations' chief executive officer from 2001 to 2008, when the corporation fired him. Kroner filed a suit in Brown County court in September of 2008. He alleged breach of contract because Seven Generations failed to follow policy as spelled out in the tribe's employee manual.

Brown County's Circuit Judge Donald Zuidmulder suggested the case would be better handled in the Oneida Tribal Judicial System. Oneida Seven Generations accordingly requested to transfer the case, and Judge Zuidmulder granted the request. The Wisconsin 3rd District Court of Appeals upheld Judge Zuidmulder's decision on those and several other grounds. Kroner Protested.

The Wausau-based appeals court rejected his arguments. The appeals court determined Kroner's employment with Oneida Seven Generations Corp. was a contractual agreement, and therefore it's proper that the tribal justice system should interpret whether Oneida Seven Generations followed the tribe's rules and regulations.

The Oneida Tribal Judicial System can only interpret Oneida Law.

No matter which court the General Council decides on either, present or proposed the facts remain laws need to be written. Your court can only be as strong as the Laws that have been written to protect our membership and our homeland Oneida. Simply, lack of laws will limit jurisdiction for any court you decide to choose.

Overall teen birth rate declines in WI

Carrie Antlfinger
Associated Press

The teen birth rate in Wisconsin reached its lowest level in more than three decades in 2009, with the largest drop over the last 10 years among black teens, according to a new state report.

The birth rate for Wisconsin girls ages 15 to 19 declined from 35.4 in 1999 to 29.3 in 2009, according to a state Department of Health Services report released this week. The decline has been steady, with the teen birth rate at 31.3 in 2008.

The national rate was 41.5 in 2008, the most recent statistics available. Birth rates are the number of births per 1,000 females.

The largest decline occurred among black teens: from 117.9 per 1,000 teens in 1999, to about 86.8 in 2009. The rate also decreased for white, American Indian and Hispanic teens.

The report also shows that the number of teens having babies in Wisconsin reached its lowest number in 34 years in 2009. In 1975, the number of births to girls under age 20 was more than 9,600, compared to 2009 when there were around 5,800 births to teen mothers.

Teen births represented 8 percent of births overall in the state in 2009.

The state report also noted that babies born to teens are generally more likely to die in infancy. In 2009, the infant mortality rate was 11.3 per 1,000 births to mothers under age 20, compared with 5.5 per 1,000 births to mothers aged 20 and older. In 2008, the rates were 10.8 per 1,000 births to teens and 6.6 per 1,000 births to mothers 20 and older.

jobs, good health care, good housing, and overall improvement in the quality of life for Native people," Echo Hawk stated during his address.

Perhaps the most notable moment during the Assistant Secretary's opening address was the announcement that, after extensive tribal consultations, he rescinded a 2008 memorandum that provided guidance on acquiring land in trust for gaming. This announcement was greeted with raucous applause from those in attendance. Echo Hawk also confirmed that the Department of the Interior will move forward to process pending off-reservation gaming applications, consistent to current federal law and the Department's existing regulations, which set forth a number of criteria that must be met before off-reservation gaming can be approved.

"The 2008 guidance memorandum was unnecessary and was issued without the benefit of tribal consultation. We will proceed to process off-reservation gaming applications in a transparent manner, consistent with existing law," Echo Hawk elaborated.

Echo Hawk also briefly discussed conflicted relationships between state and tribal governments. The Assistant Secretary is committed to creating a meeting that would bring tribes and state officials together to discuss how tribes and states interpret laws differently and the real human cost these disagreements have on the welfare of citizens. Echo Hawk said, "I know that state and tribal collaboration can bear positive fruits. It is however decumbent on all governments, even the federal government at times, to come to the table and promote the benefit of working together and honoring our obligations under the law."

In closing, Echo Hawk expressed the importance of partnership between governmental entities in order to carve out a positive future. "Partnership is what is necessary to take advantage of the many opportunities for strengthening nation to nation relationships. I simply pledge to continue our close working partnership with NCAI and its membership."

Oneida Seven Generations Corp. update

Oneida Seven Generations Corp. would like to provide a brief update on its activities to tribal members. Our renewable energy facility continues to move forward; with work focused on gathering information to submit to permitting agencies. It's important to note that the facility cannot be built or operated without approval from, and monitoring by, a number of government agencies that are entrusted to protect public health and safety.

DOE & WDNR: The Department of Energy (DOE) held a public hearing about the facility and its technology in April and is expected to issue its preliminary report sometime in June; after which there will be an additional public comment period. OSGC is also working on permitting information for the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (WDNR); a process that will also include a public comment period.

As you may have read or heard, the WDNR recently informed us it would like additional information about the project. When submitting background and permitting information to any government agency or organization, it is not unusual to be informed, initially, that the information is not complete and that more data is requested. This is an anticipated part of the approval and permitting process and indicates the thorough review the WDNR gives to such applications. We will provide them the information requested so the process can continue to move forward.

Environmental Benefits. What is often lost in the discussions about the facility is its many environmental benefits. OSGC's facility will serve as a recycling center first, and then it will generate electricity by gasifying the waste that is not recyclable. Here's how it works: First, a ballistic separator will be used to sort glass, aluminum, plastics and metals from the waste stream that will be going through the Pyrolysis / Gasification process. After the ballistic separator, the Municipal Solid Waste (MSW) will be sorted manually to ensure all recyclables are properly removed. Magnetic valves will remove all metals throughout the recycling process to ensure a maximum achievable recycling rate.

This facility will increase Brown County's recycling rates, decrease the amount of waste going into landfills and significantly benefit the environment. Here are a few interesting statistics:

- Recycling aluminum reduces energy use by 90% and air pollution by 95%
- Recycling 1 ton of paper saves 17 to 24 trees and 7,000 gallons of water. It reduces air pollution by 74% and water pollution by 35%.
- Recycling 1 glass bottle saves enough energy to operate a 100 watt bulb for 4 hours and saves 24-30% of the energy required vs. virgin glass.
- Plastic is 8% of our trash by weight but 24% of the volume.

Community Support: OSGC continues to receive strong support for this facility from the Oneida Nation, the City of Green Bay and its council members, Sustainable Green Bay, the Green Bay Area Chamber of Commerce and others. We thank and appreciate those who have taken the time to learn about our project.

To learn more about the information contained in this update, including additional detailed information, go to: www.osgc.net or call OSGC at 347-0500.

Oneida Business Committee

Facebook: "Cathy Bachhuber" – Politician category

I chose this time to run for the Oneida Business Committee because I feel I can be a valuable asset to the Oneida Tribe due to my legislative experience and legal training. I have always had a passion for the legal field and truly enjoy reviewing and analyzing the Tribe's legislation, which includes incorporating laws and policies, with our history and culture. The ability to make good and fair policy decisions will be a vital component of being an OBC member and I feel I have the right skills and desire to be actively involved through a whole term.

Improving community outreach is essential to a productive term. Much progress has already been made however I'd like to promote utilizing the time before GTC meetings for informational purposes and obtaining feedback in order to maximize input on important topics.

An important part of making well-rounded sound decisions includes obtaining sound facts from those knowledgeable and trained but balancing that information with the best interest of the Nation as a whole along with the interests of those who will be ultimately affected.

I do believe in and fully support change-but not at the expense of improving what already works. Change cannot be made for the sake of change but should rather be done in order to improve, correct or address a specific issue. I believe in getting to the root of a problem not just making a temporary fix to address again later on.

There are many issues the new Oneida Business Committee will need to tackle following the elections and I look forward to the challenge!

Election Spotlight

Oneida Nation Leadership Skills in the Tribal Election 2011

What do we say these qualities should be for this next critical phase of strategic decision making and leadership for our membership, community and employees?

"They say a partial list of leadership skills are:

1. integrity - refers to strong internal guiding principles that one does not compromise. It means treating others as you would wish to be treated.
2. vision/strategy - must have a clear idea where the organization is going beyond the years budget.
3. communication - refers to the overall flow of needed information throughout the organization. An invaluable voice of both the individual and the organization.
4. relationships - relationship building develops from good interpersonal and group communications.
5. persuasion - the ability to influence others and cause them to move to a particular direction.
6. adaptability - seen as an opportunity when change and flexibility are necessary.
7. teamwork - the organization comprised of different skill sets requires leadership to build and nurture its function.
8. coaching and development - encouraging others to expand their capabilities and take on additional assignments are essential skills.
9. decision-making - decisive decision making expands leadership effectiveness.
10. planning - strategic planning involves certain assumptions about the future and taking action in the present to positively influence the future."

As an Indian Nation we also seem to hold culture as a wild card at times rather than a regular part of our deck. Perhaps the additional dimension of cultural leadership in our organization and or community makes us unique from other government agendas. The exercising of our sovereignity/uniqueness may be a/the critical factor in positioning us for further success in what ever path we take. We should hear and see beyond the words of the politicians. We should see Oneida leadership necessary for these times of dynamic change for those 7 generations and beyond we speak of. We are rebuilding the Oneida Nation. Chose wisely.

Another Big Ripoff

Once again the BC is trying to rip off the GTC by establishing a new position paying over $100,000.00 per year to do nothing. We just approved a No-Hiring Policy for the workers—now they want to set up a position over the Bingo Operation and Retail Operations to rip us off again.

It wasn't the General Manager who stopped Natures Way; it was the GTC. It wasn't the Chief of Staff who stopped the Plexis million dollar spending. It was the GTC. It wasn't the BC who stopped 7 Generations from giving themselves a $4,000.00 Christmas Bonus for each member; it was up to the GTC. We don't need another mid-level manager making almost as much as the Wisconsin Governor and not paying a fair wage to the workers making all the money for the Tribe, only to rip us off by paying Management all the big bucks. Stop hiring at the top and hire more workers.

If the GTC lets them get away wih this outrageous attempt to once again rip off the tribe, SHAME ON YOU

Franklin L. Cornelius

Checks & Balances Needed

Dear Oneida General Tribal Council,

I regret to inform that I am yet to sit on one single case. I took my "Oath of Office" at a regular Business Committee Meeting on Wednesday, October 14, 2009, (yes, 2009). I immediately began taking and completing the "In-House" Training. I set it up so that I would be finished two weeks before the formal training at the National Judicial College in Reno, Nevada began in March 2010. I worked very hard and diligently and I finished my "In-house" training the end of February 2010. Everyone except Leland Wigg-Ninham presented me with obstacles. For each obstacle presented, I found a solution. One obstacle was financing my training, which was actually ridiculous as my training was mandatory and should have been paid for automatically because I was a brand new Commissioner. None the less I applied for and was awarded just under $6,000 in scholarship money (all my airfare and hotel accommodations paid in full) from the National Judicial College to take my required courses. Winnifred Thomas, as the Chief Judicial Officer denied my "Individual Judicial Officer Education & Training Plan" and my scholarship money. Winnifred has repeatedly blocked and has successfully prevented me from obtaining my formal education. Without my formal education from the National Judicial College, I cannot sit on any cases as a Judicial Officer. I have repeatedly brought the matter to the Oneida Appeals Commission. I have reported inappropriate and unethical activities of the Judicial Officers, the employees and the legal counsel for the Oneida Appeals Commission. I have claimed a hostile and unsafe work environment. I have requested intervention. I have filed ethics complaints. NO ONE will intervene and no one will stop the abuse. No one will eliminate the hostile work environment. The Oneida Appeals Commission consists of two sister-in-laws (Winnifred "McLester" Thomas and Janice "Skenandore" McLester), their niece Jennifer "McLester" Webster and four cousins that include Lois "Moore" Powless and Jean Webster. It is common for a motion to be made to deny my requests for intervention/assistance by one family member, seconded by another family member and then all of the family members and their cohorts vote, the motion to deny my request for intervention is passed and the inappropriate behaviors continue on. There are no checks and balances. The employees are not any better than the Judicial Officers with regard to being rude, disrespectful and abusive. Judicial officers are allowed to act alone, act outside their scope of authority, violate my rights, and strip me of my due process. They have also caused harm to the people who voted for me to be a Judicial Officer. I followed the internal process and it was bad, bad news! So now I feel I have no other choice but to bring these matters and more to the Oneida General Tribal Council via petition and request an investigation. I respectfully request your help to address and correct these matters. Please watch your mail and the newspaper for more information.

Stop the Bullying in Oneida

I'm writing this letter in the hopes that it may stop the bullying that has been going on in Oneida. I'm hoping that the conduct will change for the better.

Outagamie County case #200cm001452 filed 10-28-2008, state of Wisconsin V Merlin J. Cornelius, records the following:

The above name defendant on or about Jun 18, 2008 in the town of Oneida, Outagamie County, Wisconsin, did intentionally take and carry away the movable property of Isaac A. Jordan without consent and with intent to permanently deprive the owner of possession of property.

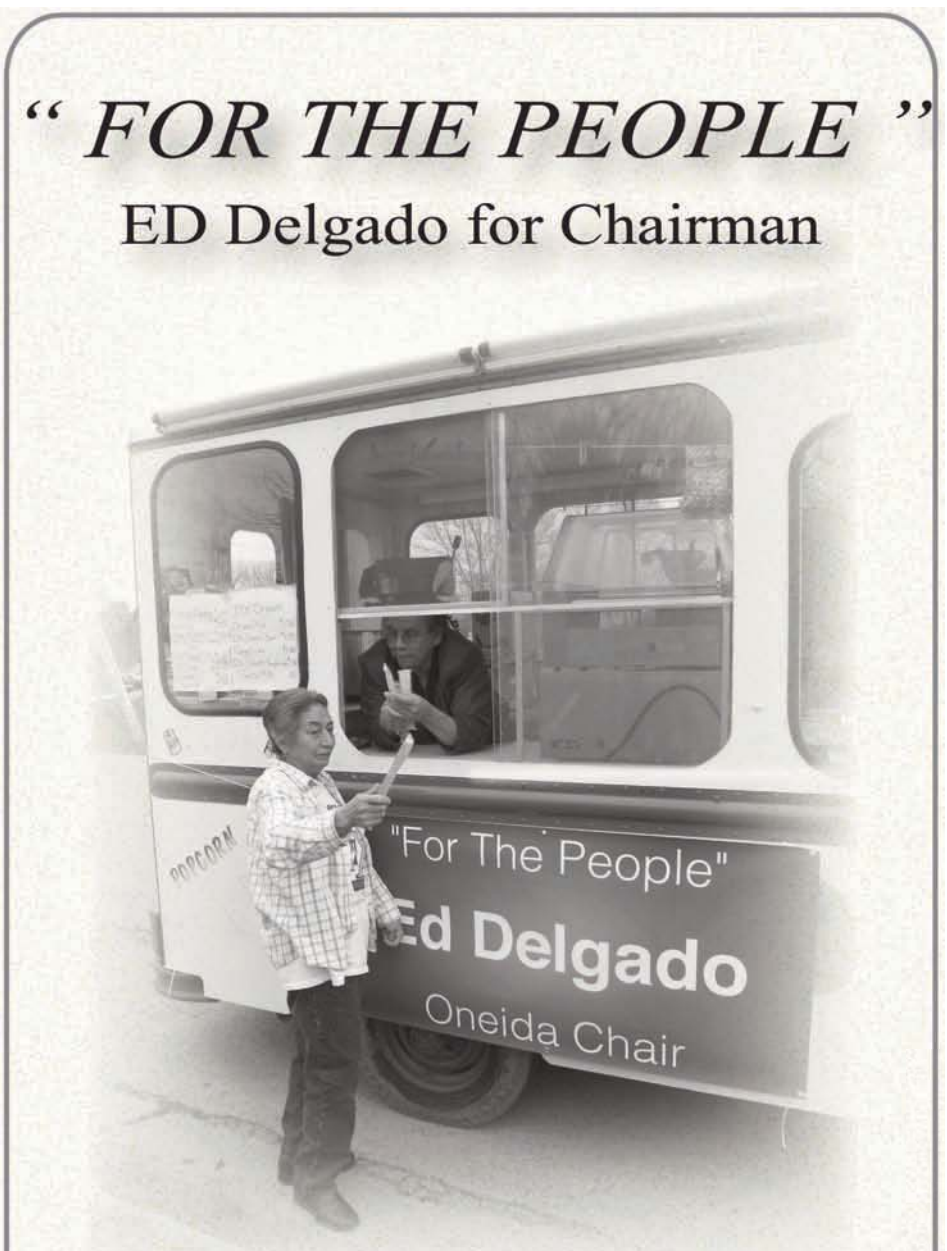
Merlin J. Cornelius sr. had come onto Isaac Jordan's leased property and collected 20 bails of hay without Jordan's consent.

All that Merlin Cornelius sr. had to do was pay $2,500 restitution and a $60 fine. Not much of a deterrent!

On May 10, 2010 I took a copy of the court records and a resolution that I requested that the Oneida Land Commission adopt. I suggested a large fine of $1,000 for taking someone's property on Oneida leased land. The Land Commission stated they could not approve the resolution.

Around July 20, 2010, Merlin's wife Pat Cornelius confronted me at the Health Center and told me to leave her family alone.

On July 20, 2010, the Oneida Police left a recorded message at my home asking me to call back. I returned the call. Officer House said that Pat Cornelius had stopped in and told him to call me about taking the Merlin case to the Land Commission. I told Officer House that I was trying to stop the bullying. I told him that I would like to have a copy of the police report regarding Pat's request. He said there would be no record of it.



In another case, one of Merlin's sisters was going to build a house on her Mother's leased land as her mother had wanted her to. Someone kept removing the surveying stakes and worked up the land. She planted a blue spruce tree on the site, and someone chopped it down. She decided not to build.

Although Isaac Jordan still has hay growing on the site he had leased, the Land Commission informed him that he cannot renew his lease. Is there no justice!

Recently, I requested information from the Oneida Land Department. As a result I received information that the Land Commission has approved a lease to a immediate family member of a member of the Land Commission at the rate of $20 per acre. The Oneida Nation Farm has to pay $100.00 per acre. What's with that! Is there any hope for change?

On June 7, 2011 Yvonne Metivier and I received a report at the Land Department that Merlin and Pat Cornelius are the only Tribal members leasing Oneida agricultural land for $20 per acre. Other Oneidas are paying $125 per acre and more.

Highway 172 update

The Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT) is currently constructing dual-lane roundabouts on WIS 172 at the entrance to Oneida Casino/Radisson Hotel/Austin Straubel Airport and at the intersection of WIS 172 and WIS 54. Work started in April and will be completed by mid-September.

Studies have shown roundabouts significantly improve safety and operational efficiency. WisDOT believes this work, estimated at $2.2 million, will provide important upgrades to both intersections.

Work will be done in two stages. Stage one will involve building the WIS 172 casino/airport roundabout expected to be completed by mid-July.

WIS 172 is currently closed from 0.5 miles west of South Point Road to 1 mile east of County GE. Eastbound WIS 172 traffic is being detoured from the WIS 54/172 intersection eastbound on WIS 54 and southbound on County EB (Packerland Drive) to the WIS 172/County EB intersection. Westbound WIS 172 traffic is detoured on the opposite route.

The Oneida Casino and Radisson Hotel can be accessed off of South Point Road. Access for the airport begins at the South Point Road/WIS 172 intersection and detoured by way of internal airport roads.

During stage 2, beginning in mid-July, the work constructing WIS 54/172 is being done in two phases. WIS 172 is being closed initially from 1.5 miles west of County GE to WIS 54. County E will be closed from 0.1 miles south of WIS 172 to WIS 172. During this phase, westbound WIS 172 traffic will be routed from the WIS 172/County GE intersection northbound on County GE and westbound on WIS 54 to the intersection of WIS 54/172. Eastbound traffic will again follow the opposite route. This work is expected to last approximately six weeks.

During the second phase or the last approximately two weeks of the project, WIS 54 will be closed from 0.25 miles west of Dexter Road to 0.25 miles east of County U. Eastbound WIS 54 traffic will be detoured from the WIS 54/County U intersection eastbound on County U, northbound on County E, eastbound on WIS 172, and northbound on County GE to the intersection of WIS 54/County GE. The westbound detour also follows the opposite route.

Nature map highlights reservation's natural areas

By Sylvia Cornelius
Environmental Project Manager

The Environmental Health & Safety Division is excited to introduce an Oneida Reservation Parks, Trails, & Natural Areas Map. All tribal member households in Brown and Outagamie County should have received the map over the last week.

We are also working with various recreation and health programs to distribute them.

We hope you take advantage of the twenty eight different Natural Areas and fourteen different Parks available for Tribal Members recreational, hunting and fishing use.

Unfortunately, we do have a disclaimer and would like to apologize for some printing errors! First, there are two #36. The correct one is on Seminary Rd and the #36 on Freedom Rd is not an actual location. A phone number was wrong so we put a sticker on that. We also had a problem with the Oneida font, so the Oneida language is off a little. Finally the long house should be west one block. Again we apologize that things got mixed up somehow when we sent the copy to print.

This project is part of the Teyukwahwʔtsyawyanhá stu (day yungwa hunja wyan hast) the translation of the word means "we are all connected or deeply rooted to the earth." This initiative is to foster environmental stewardship of the Oneida Reservation by Tribal Members. The map also fits in our "Inviting People Back to the Land" Balance Scorecard Initiative. This information is critical to encouraging a sustainable relationship with our land and natural resources and promoting identity and pride in Oneida.

This project has been a year in the making, and we hope you get out this summer to experience the many different habitats and parks that our Oneida Reservation has to offer! Any questions feel free to contact us at (920) 869-1600 critical infrastructure. Under the proposed changes tribes could send recovery data in one report which would include the total sum of all the damage in one report instead of splitting up the amounts."

"Indian Country will always have a prominent place at the table as I draft legislation that affects their lives and livelihoods," said Rahall. "Indian tribes' voices will be heard, their ideas will be incorporated, and they will be an equal partner in the process."

Rahall's legislation is co-sponsored by U.S. Representative Tom Cole (R-OK) and Eleanor Holmes Norton (D-DC). Letters of support have also been received from the National Congress of American Indians as well as other tribal organizations and individuals involved in emergency management.

Overall teen birth rate declines in Wisconsin

Carrie Antlfinger
Associated Press

MILWAUKEE (AP) ~ The teen birth rate in Wisconsin reached its lowest level in more than three decades in 2009, with the largest drop over the last 10 years among black teens, according to a new state report.

The birth rate for Wisconsin girls ages 15 to 19 declined from 35.4 in 1999 to 29.3 in 2009, according to a state Department of Health Services report released this week. The decline has been steady, with the teen birth rate at 31.3 in 2008.

The national rate was 41.5 in 2008, the most recent statistics available. Birth rates are the number of births per 1,000 females.

The largest decline occurred among black teens: from 117.9 per 1,000 teens in 1999, to about 86.8 in 2009. The rate also decreased for white, American Indian and Hispanic teens.

The report also shows that the number of teens having babies in Wisconsin reached its lowest number in 34 years in 2009. In 1975, the number of births to girls under age 20 was more than 9,600, compared to 2009 when there were around 5,800 births to teen mothers.

Teen births represented 8 percent of births overall in the state in 2009.

"The decline is very much inspiring, and we have and do believe we have contributed to that," said Danae Davis, chief executive officer of the nonprofit Pearls for Teen Girls Inc. in Milwaukee. The organization works with girls ages 10 to 19 to avoid pregnancy, help them graduate from high school and go to college. Davis said none of the 791 girls the organization mentored last year got pregnant, and for the five years before that, their percentage never went below 97 percent. She said her group and others are working toward a goal set by the United Way of Greater Milwaukee to reduce pregnancy among girls ages 15 to 17 by 46 percent by 2015.

The state report also noted that babies born to teens are generally more likely to die in infancy. In 2009, the infant mortality rate was 11.3 per 1,000 births to mothers under age 20, compared with 5.5 per 1,000 births to mothers aged 20 and older. In 2008, the rates were 10.8 per 1,000 births to teens and 6.6 per 1,000 births to mothers 20 and older.

Women at Work exhibit featured at NWTC

(Green Bay, Wis.) "Women at Work" by the Green Bay Art Colony (GBAC) is the latest exhibit at the Northeast Wisconsin Technical College Art Gallery. Running now through July 14, the display includes paintings, sculpture, photographs, ceramics, quilts, encaustic collage, and mixed media pieces. Also featured is a retrospective of the artworks of June Kashnig, a long-time artist member of the GBAC.

An opening reception with the artists will be held Thursday, June 9, from 4:30 to 6 p.m. in the Executive Dining Room (SC128) in the Student Center. Visitors will be able to meet the artists at the reception and view their work in the Art Gallery. This event is free and open to the public.

Located in the Library on the second floor of the Student Center on the Green Bay campus, the gallery is open to the public during Library summer hours: Monday through Thursday, 7:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.; Friday, 7 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; and Saturday, 8:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. For more info, go to www.nwtc.edu/library. Admission is free.

About the artists: The Green Bay Art Colony was started by a group of women in 1929 and is the oldest women's art club in Green Bay. As an organization of artists, GBAC's objectives are to promote art interest in the community, to publicly exhibit artwork created by its members and to promote the study and participation in art activities by both members and the public. In addition, GBAC contributes to the community via various art related service projects. GBAC currently has 28 members and 10 associate members. For more information, go to http://greenbayartcolony.com or contact Kathleen Jerlinga, GBAC president, kathleen.jerlinga@hotmail.com.

From 1A/Prison ceremonies

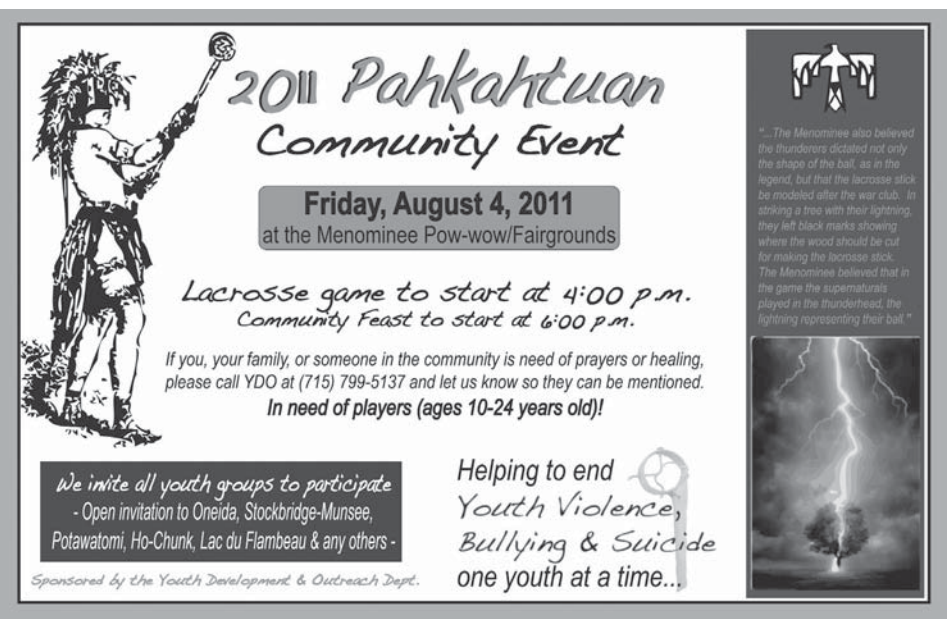
Councilwoman Danforth was initially asked to serve on the Wisconsin Department of Corrections (DOC) Religious Practices Advisory Committee by then OBC Chairman Gerald Danforth.

"This was one issue that kind of fell in my lap that I never really … thought I'd be doing, but once you get into it, it's … a big cause," she said.

Councilwoman Danforth stated one of the big issues that hinder Native American religious practices behind bars is a lack of DOC resources.

"The biggest conflict I think is just time and staff. According to the DOC, our sweat lodges take four hours, plus they require wood, rocks and the DOC has to pay for all of that," she said.

Councilwoman Danforth noted there was a need for spiritual leaders to reach out to the prison population, especially in the Milwaukee area



"I really didn't think that this was going to be a problem, but it is, is getting spiritual leaders to go and talk in the institutions. There's a lack of people willing to go into the institutions," she said.

Councilwoman Danforth also serves on the Governor's Council on Reentry, and sees reaching out to prisoners while they're serving their sentences as a way to help change their behaviors and ease their transition when they're released.

"When they're in prison they seem to lean towards the spiritual part of it, and that's our time when we should be capturing them and really educating them on what it is to be Oneida or what it is to be Stockbridge," she said.

Councilwoman Danforth said she believes the current parole system is set up for failure, and may compel ex-inmates to commit new crimes because there's no safety net.

"That means there's going to be a victim, so if we're not going to pay attention to that, if we're not going to catch them early, if we're not going to help them find employment, if we're not going to help them find housing, and we're not going to help them find the help that they need here in these communities, then we're not doing our jobs in keeping our community safe," she said.

Good Mind, Good Heart, Visionary Leader

"Tehassi Hill is a hard-working and honest person who loves his people and his community. He is a husband, father, and family man who has the dedication to serve his Oneida people and their families. He is a young man with an old soul that posseses the wisdom to be a good Chairman and lead the Oneida people with a strong heart and good mind. His common sense allows him to bring a good attitude toward those issues that require thoughful deliberation, while having the ability to learn from and listen carefully to what others have to say, which are some of the main attributes of strong leadership.

Tehassi is a student of the Oneida language, and understands our Oneida history, culture and customs and how that defines who we are as Oneida people today. His strong cultural values wil help to guide his leadership as Oneida continues to address those issues that affect and impact our Oneida Reservation and membership for today and the next seven generations. He has the ability to understand governmental and business issues, and how to work well with others both inside and outside the Tribe to address those issues with respect and integrity.

Through his strong leadership based upon his cultural and family values, Tehassi Hill will serve the Oneida people with a good heart and good mind as Oneida continues to become a stronger nation today and tomorrow. A man of Tehassi Hill's caliber is our future."

NY judge lifts ban on cigarette tax collections

By Carolyn Thompson
Associated Press

BUFFALO, N.Y.~ Gov. Andrew Cuomo's administration said Wednesday it will move swiftly to begin taxing cigarettes sold on American Indian reservations to non-Indian customers after getting the go-ahead from a state judge.

Supreme Court Justice Donna Siwek rejected the Seneca Indian Nation's claims that state taxing officials had improperly adopted regulations that will govern collections. She lifted a temporary court order that had been blocking enforcement.

Seneca President Robert Odawi Porter said the western New York tribe would appeal.

State officials, facing a $9.2 billion budget deficit, voted a year ago to begin collecting the $4.35-per-pack sales and excise taxes on the millions of cartons sold by reservation smoke shops to non-Indian customers. It was a break from the policy known as forbearance adopted by a string of governors who declined to enforce state laws requiring the taxation of sales to the general public.

"This administration will move swiftly to enforce the law," Cuomo spokesman Josh Vlasto said following Wednesday's decision.

The state plans to impose the tax on Native American sales without going onto reservations by requiring cigarette wholesalers to pay the sales taxes before they supply reservation stores. Wholesalers would pass along the levy to tribal retailers, who would have to raise their prices.

The state sees the tax as a potential $500,000-a-day revenue source. Tribal leaders view it as an encroachment on tribal sovereignty and a threat to reservation businesses that employ thousands.

Siwek, in her decision, acknowledged the debate that dates to 1988.

"The taxing policy of the state is required to strike the difficult balance between the state's objectives with regard to the sovereignty of Indian nations and the general welfare of the people of the state of New York," she wrote. "The state has encountered significant difficulty in implementing a taxing policy which meets these dual objectives."

The decision was praised by non-Indian retailers who have watched the Native American cigarette business flourish as New York has increased its cigarette tax to the highest in the country.

"Today's decision allows the state to move forward swiftly to close a loophole that has deprived the state of badly needed revenues, decimated tax-collecting retailers and wholesalers and fostered a thriving black market," said Jim Calvin, president of the New York Association of Convenience Stores.

Cigarette makers sold 24 million cartons of non-native-brand cigarettes to tribes in New York in 2009, according to the state Department of Taxation and Finance.

But leaders of some New York Indian nations have said they would reduce or eliminate those name-brand cigarettes from their stores rather than go along with the state's taxation plans. They would stock mostly Native American brands manufactured on their territories.

"If the nation's businesses need to shift their product mix to render such onerous tax laws moot, they will," Porter said.

Schumer: Rule that foiled Catskill casinos out

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) ~ New York Sen. Charles Schumer says the Department of Interior has rescinded a rule that has barred faraway Indian tribes from building casinos in the Catskills.

Schumer says Tuesday the department informed him it was overturning the so-called commutability rule, which dates from the Bush administration.

The department in January 2008 rejected plans for two Indian casinos in the Catskills, citing the long distances from tribal lands to the proposed gambling sites. In rejecting applications from the St. Regis Mohawks of northern New York and The Stockbridge Munsee of Wisconsin, federal officials said the ``remote'' locations of the casinos could harm the reservation communities by encouraging residents to leave for jobs elsewhere.

Schumer and other New York officials argued that the Catskill casinos have local support and would create jobs.

There was a record 18,701 participants in the 35th annual Bellin Run. Once again, included in this years event were Team Oneida participants. Above, Oneida tribal member Sid White and his wife Emma were also amongst the thousands who laced up their running shoes to partake in the 6.2 mile event that was held Saturday morning, June 11th. Conditions, weather wise were ideal as well.

Team Oneida organizers were appreciative of the sponsorship this year. They included: the Oneida Nation, Comprehensive Health Division, Health Promotion/Disease prevention cooperative agreement, special diabetes program for Indians, and Oneida Family Fitness. Training for the run began in early march for Team Oneida participants.

More info and stats on the Bellin Run will be published in O.F.F.'s Summer Newsletter and Website.

Menominee tribe deserves praise for initiative

Green Bay Press Gazette,
May 30, 2011

When the Menominee Tribe of Indians recently joined the national effort to end childhood obesity within a generation, we noticed.

We took note not only because the Menominees became the first Native American tribe to become part of first lady Michelle Obama's "Let's Move! in Indian Country" initiative - an outgrowth of her Let's Move! program launched last year _ but also because it's a bold and positive step for a reservation that has some of the most challenging health issues to overcome.

According to a study by the University of Wisconsin School of Medicine and Public Health, Menominee County in 2010 ranked last in overall quality of health in Wisconsin. Among the startling statistics are that it had the highest mortality rate, the highest rate of smoking during pregnancy, the highest teen birth rate and highest number of children living in poverty of counties in the state. What likely caught the eye of the Let's Move! organization was Menominee County's obesity rate - the highest in the state - at 38 percent.

Randal Chevalier, chairman of the Menominee tribe - whose reservation shares nearly the same geopolitical boundaries with Menominee County - said childhood obesity is a widespread problem among tribes and that 1 in 3 Native American youths are overweight by the age of 5. He said the first lady's program will help the Menominees take steps to reverse that trend on their reservation and enable them to build on the tribe's existing health-related efforts.

"We're already doing a lot," Chevalier recently told a member of the Green Bay Press-Gazette editorial board. "This initiative hopefully will bring all of these efforts together and provide us with additional resources to further advance our health initiatives. We're hoping to accomplish the same goals as the (Let's Move!) program, and that is to raise within one generation healthy youth."

Chevalier said the tribe for years has had programs to help tribal members who suffer from diabetes and heart-related problems, and has provided education on nutrition through its food distribution program. Now it plans to create a department to promote healthy alternatives and activities for youth and will plant a community garden. In a related initiative, he said, the tribe will build a grocery store on the reservation and offer classes on cooking and nutrition.

"It's going to take kind of a long time to turn the health around in the community, but we're going to try and figure out what the benchmarks are going to be" to measure success," Chevalier said. "Hopefully, we won't be the 72nd - ranked county in the state."

We're pleased that the tribe has an effort similar to that of Greater Green Bay: Where Kids Count, a communitywide, childhood health and fitness initiative designed to raise a healthier next generation in Brown County. In less than 18 months, the local Kids Count initiative has gone from an idea to a campaign known as 54218. Designed to be the healthiest "ZIP code" in America, 54218 provides easy-to-remember recommendations for youth to stay healthy. The digits correspond to suggestions for daily: amounts of fruits and vegetables, number of bottles of water to drink, number of hours to limit screen time, amount of time for exercise and hours of sleep.

Childhood obesity is a national health crisis in America. We applaud the Menominee tribe for joining the effort to confront it by promoting healthy lifestyles.

Alcatraz occupation

June 11th marked 40th anniversary of the ending of Indian activists occupation

San Francisco, CA – Saturday marks the 40th anniversary of the ending of the occupation of Alcatraz Island by American Indian activists.

The 19-month occupation came to an end on June 11, 1971 when federal officers evicted the remaining 15 protesters.

Activists had seized the island in San Francisco Bay in November 1969 with the hopes of turning it into an Indian university or cultural center.

With as many as 800 activists on the island at the height of the occupation, the protest received massive attention.

After the occupation ended, the university or center was never built, but plans to sell the island to private developers were dropped.

Known as "The Rock"' Alcatraz is home to a prison that was abandoned in 1963. The prison and the island is now part of a national park that draws 1.4 million visitors a year.

Muddy roads keep flood-stranded community cut off

By Matthew Brown
Associated Press

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) ~ Muddy conditions frustrated attempts Monday to complete road repairs in central Montana that would give about 300 stranded residents a way out of their rural neighborhood.

As more roads deteriorated following yet another round of rain in the area Sunday night, an emergency official warned that hundreds more Musselshell County residents could soon find themselves with no way to get out.

The main route into a cutoff area south of Roundup has been impassable since the Musselshell River last week washed out a section of Number 4 Road. Crews have been working to re-establish an alternate route along Fattig Creek Road, but officials said progress has been slow.

"As the roads get driven on, they are deteriorating faster," Disaster and Emergency Services Coordinator Jeff Gates said Monday. "We're getting issues coming up all over the county and we may have to start shuttling food and supplies to another three or four areas."

In Wyoming, Albany County reported the state's first drowning to occur during this spring's flooding. Authorities say a child drowned in the swollen Little Laramie River, and they are investigating another possible drowning in a separate incident. No further details were available.

Central Montana's Musselshell River is forecast to stay above flood stage until possibly Thursday following more than two weeks of flooding in Roundup and surrounding communities.

Supplies were being ferried to residents of the cutoff area by boat. It was uncertain when the main route would be restored and Gates declined to offer any timetable. He said similar problems were emerging in several other rural subdivisions where roads have become thoroughly saturated after weeks of heavy rain.

"Not only do we have the river flooding but I've got stuff going on 10 miles from the river," Gates said. "We're having to build roads to fix roads, to get into spots that are in trouble, so it's not a fast process."

Most of the water that inundated parts of downtown Roundup has been pumped out, but some water still is getting into town through gaps in a makeshift dike that lines the river, said Volunteer firefighter Cassie Degner.

In northeast Montana, flooding continued along the Milk River near Glasgow and the Missouri River below Fort Peck.

Water releases from Fort Peck Dam into the Missouri were increased over the weekend by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to 65,000 cubic feet per second. Downstream communities have been bracing for flooding from the unprecedented releases, but so far no major problems have resulted.

The corps planned a slight decrease in its releases from Fort Peck early next week, to 60,000 cubic feet per second. But significant releases are projected to continue through most of the summer, said Fort Peck Dam project manager John Daggett.

A National Weather Service forecast showed the Missouri dropping slowly over the next several days.

The Red Cross said it had delivered 150 cots to the Fort Peck Indian Reservation and identified potential shelter locations in preparation for potential flooding.

Less water in the Milk River ~ which feeds into the Missouri ~ appeared to be easing the risk that houses would flood, said Darla Shumway, a spokeswoman for Roosevelt County. Shumway added the situation could quickly deteriorate if more rain hits the area or the corps decides to further increase its releases from Fort Peck.

"We are not letting our guard down until we are sure the corps is not going to jump it up to 70,000 or 75,000 (cubic feet per second) or Glasgow's not going to get another flash flood," Shumway said.

In Western Montana, a flood warning was extended until further notice for the Cark Fork River at Drummond, which was expected to remain above flood stage until midday Tuesday, the National Weather Service said.

Flood warnings also were in effect for urban areas and small streams in Jefferson, Lewis and Clark, Hill and Broadwater counties.

Haskell University names new president

Will serve term beginning July 3

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) ~ A man who served two terms as acting president of Haskell Indian Nations University has been named president

The university in Lawrence announced on Friday that Chris Redman is its new president, beginning July 3.

The university has been searching for a president since November, after former president Linda Warner resigned. She had been sent to handle other bureau duties off campus in September 2009.

The Lawrence Journal-World reports that Redman's two terms as acting president were from September to December 2009, and May 2010 until March 2011.

Redman's salary was not announced Friday, but when the position was posted in November the advertised salary range was $113,375 to $147,857.

Haskell has more than 1,000 students from about 150 tribes. The school's annual budget is around $14 million.

Promega Summer Art Showcase Presents Wisconsin Native American Artists

The showcase is pleased to have this group of artists exhibit their work reflecting their heritage from Assiniboine, Ho-Chunk, Iroquois, Lakota and Oneida tribes.

The Summer Showcase was sparked with a yard sale purchase of a small ceramic pot in Arizona by curator, Daniel Swadener. The ceramic pot was made by Rose Kerstetter of the Oneida Nation in Wisconsin. It was after Daniel met Rose and other Oneida Nation artists that the idea to showcase Wisconsin Native American artists came to fruition.

The showcase opened Tuesday, June 14, 2011 and continues through September 1, 2011 at the Promega BioPharmaceutical Technology Center in Madison. A public art opening reception was held on Tuesday, June 14. The exhibit is open Monday through Friday 8:00am to 4:00pm.

Promega Corporation has sponsored the artist's showcase since 1996 as part of the company's commitment to creativity and innovation in the arts, cultures and sciences. The Biopharmaceutical Technology Center, located on 5445 East Cheryl Parkway, was developed, in part, to provide Promega employees and community members a place to pursue these goals. The Oneida Pet Safety Program: Canine Obedience Class

ONEIDA PET SAFETY Program

The goal of the Oneida Pet Safety Program is to prevent animal bites and the spread of rabies in humans

In September of 2010, the Environmental, Health, and Safety Division began the Oneida Pet Safety Program. The goal of the program is to prevent dog bites and the spread of rabies in humans. There are three components to the Program; 1) Vaccines, spaying, and neutering pets, 2) animal care- food, water, and shelter, and 3) Canine behavior.

1. Vaccines, Spaying, and Neutering

The new program provides Oneida Retail Gift Cards in exchange for vet services. Pet owners will be responsible for taking their pet to any licensed veterinarian in Brown or Outagamie County. Pet owners must pay 100% of the bill at the time of service. After the pet receives service, pet owners who provide the following information will receive Oneida Retail Gift Cards;

1. Proof of vaccinations: An itemized receipt and/or rabies vaccination certificate
2. Copy of your Oneida Tribal Identification Card
3. A copy of a current Oneida Pet License if you live on the reservation. You can bring your paperwork to either N7332 Water Circle Place, Little Bear Development Center, or at the Conservation Office, located at N8047 County Rd. U.

Pet licenses will be available for purchase at both sites. Licenses for intact pets are $10.00 each. Licenses for spayed or neutered pets are $5.00 and you must provide documentation from a Vet that your pet is spayed or neutered.

Low Cost Vaccines, Spays, and Neuters Offered by Green Bay Animal Hospital for tribal members and tribal employees

Although you can choose any licensed Vet in Brown or Outagamie County, Green Bay Animal Hospital (GBAH) is offering Oneida tribal members and/or employees special discounts. Oneida tribal members and/or employees can bring their pets to the Green Bay Animal Hospital located at 1518 W. Mason St. on the first Wednesday of every month from 1:00 pm-5:00 pm. There is no need to make an appointment for vaccines at GBAH. You must however make an appointment for spay and neuter services.

GBAH Contact Information:
Phone: 920-494-2221
Web site: greenbayallouezanimalhospital.com

NOTE: Tribal employees are NOT eligible for the Oneida Retail Card portion of the program, unless they are also tribal members.

2. Animal Care: Low Cost Pet Care Equipment Package

Remember these summer pet safety tips; 1) make sure your pet has water and shade, and 2) never leave a pet in your car. The Pet Safety Program is selling pet care equipment packages;

Dog Houses

If your pet spends anytime outdoors, they need to have a safe and dry shelter. The Pet Safety Program offers medium, and large maintenance free dog houses. Each dog house comes with plywood and insulation which is pre-cut to fit each house. This provides additional protection for your pet.

Straw Bales

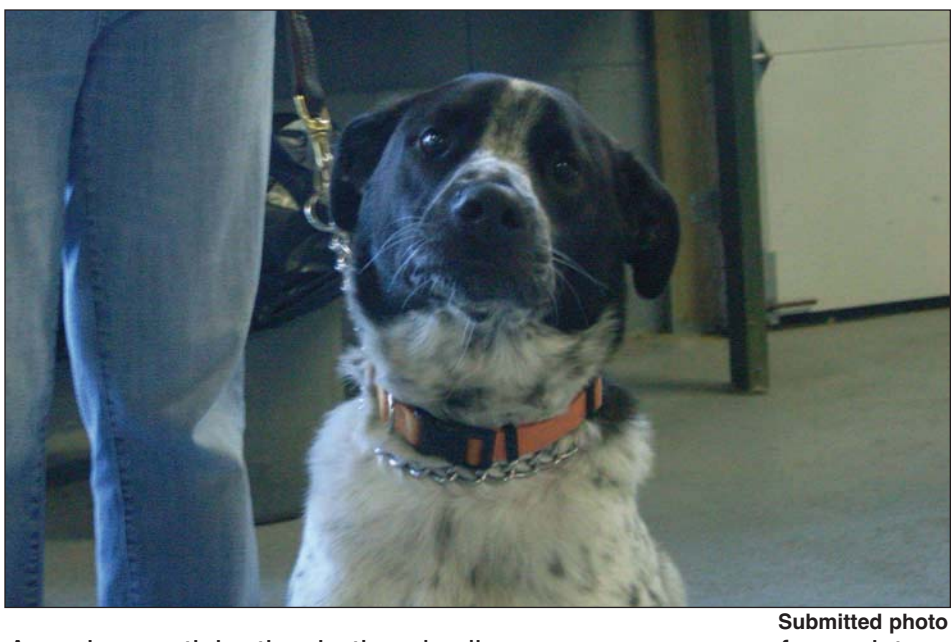
Straw provides essential insulation.

Water Bucket Systems

Outdoor water buckets tip over leaving a pet without drinking water.

Dog houses, straw, and pail systems are available to tribal members only. You must provide your Tribal I.D Card to participate. All proceeds go back into the Pet Safety Program.

Cost= $12.00



3. Canine Behavior

In May and June the Oneida Pet Safety Program held its first Canine Obedience Class. This has been an idea at the Environmental, Health and Safety Division for many years and we are very happy to be able to provide the community with this opportunity.

The class was held at the Sanger B. Powers Training Center in Oneida. The class cost $25.00 and tribal members who attended every class received a $25.00 Oneida retail gift card upon class completion.

Another Canine Obedience Class will be held sometime next fall or winter. For more information about the Pet Safety Program please call the Environmental, Health, and Safety Division at 920-869-4575.

If you see a neglected, mistreated, at large, or aggressive pets to call the Oneida Police Department at 920-869-2239 or your local police department. If you have any other questions about the Pet Safety Program call the Environmental, Health, and Safety Division at 920-869-4575.

Wis. researchers use wasps to fight beetle

Town of Saukville, WI - Wisconsin researchers have released tiny parasitic wasps as part of an effort to slow the population growth of a destructive beetle species that has destroyed millions of trees.

University of Wisconsin-Madison entomologists released 800 stingless Asian wasps from four plastic cups at the Riveredge Nature Center in Newburg Wednesday, so they can feast on the larvae of the emerald ash borer.

"They know what they have to do," research assistant Todd Johnson said as he cajoled the one-tenth-inch wasps from cups Wednesday.

It's the first time the wasps have been used in Wisconsin to battle the emerald ash borer, which has been found in Milwaukee, Kenosha, Brown and Vernon counties.

The Milwaukee Journal Sentinel reports (http://bit.ly/ima6An) two species were released already and a third that feeds on the egg stage of the bug will be introduced later this summer.

UW-Madison entomologist Ken Raffa hopes the wasps will be a "self-sustaining drag" on the beetle's population.

"But we are not going to eradicate EAB – we're stuck with it. This darn pest is going to damage our forests," he said.

Wisconsin becomes the 10th state to experiment with wasps since 2007, when they were released in Michigan - the state hardest hit by emerald ash borer.

Nationally, about 165,000 wasps are being released this year, according to federal authorities in Michigan.

Some chemical treatments have been effective, including emamectin benzoate, according to a joint study by several Midwestern universities, including UW-Madison. But chemical treatments are not feasible to protect entire forests.

The state's most effective tools have been quarantine regulations limiting the movement of ash products and a public relations campaign asking people not to move firewood around the state.

It's too early to say whether the wasps will be effective, Raffa said.

"You have to think of this as a possible long-term solution," he said.

Oneida Arts Program Dollars for Arts

Application Deadline: July 22, 2011

The Dollars for Arts Program (DAP) is a re-granting program funded by the Wisconsin Arts Board and the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin. DAP provides funds to support excellence, innovations and the development of the arts in Oneida. The arts include both traditional and contemporary styles in dance, literature, music, theatre, and visual arts. There are three funding areas in DAP:

Community Awards - are available to community groups or tribal programs for arts projects that are new and innovative or significantly enhance an existing program in the Oneida community.

Oneida Fellowship Awards - are a $500 cash award to individual artists for artistic excellence in the Oneida community. There is a maximum of two Fellowships available per fiscal year.

Artist Development Awards - are available to artists in the community who have identified a special project that will enhance their professional development and benefit the Oneida community.

The deadline for submitting grant applications is Friday, July 22, 2011, for activities occurring October 1, 2011, through September 30, 2012. The applications are available through the Oneida Nation Arts Program's website oneidanation-arts.org. If you have any questions or wish to receive a hard copy of the application, contact Christine Klimmek at 920-490-3831.

Notice of Availability

Purpose:
The Oneida Tribe of Indians (Tribe) is proposing to construct an approximately 10,500 square foot addition to the existing casino located at 2514 W. Mason St. The expansion will include a restaurant and an additional 200 slot machines. The project will be funded by the Tribe. The intent is to improve the economy of the Tribe and increase short and long term employment opportunities.

No federal involvement or action has been identified for this project.

This Environmental Assessment (EA) was prepared for the proposed expansion of the existing casino and is in compliance with the Oneida Environmental Policy Act (2-13-93B) and National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). The EA contains project information, affected environment, project alternatives, consequences, and consultation.

Location:
The proposed expansion is planned to connect on the east end of the existing casino located at 2514 W. Mason Street, on the Oneida Reservation, located in Township 24 North, Range 20 East, Section 29, Brown County, WI.

Alternatives:
Preferred Alternative: The preferred alternative is for the Tribe to construct an addition of approximately 10,500 square feet on the northwest side of the existing. It will include a sports bar, food court, poker room, smoke shop, and other renovations. The addition will be located on what is currently a flat paved parking area; approximately 22 parking spaces will be removed. No additional parking areas will be added with this proposal. Construction will occur on previously disturbed areas. The area of impervious surface is not expected to increase. Construction is planned for Spring 2013.

The applicant expects 20-25 short term jobs during the construction activities and 25-30 full time jobs resulting from the expanded services.

No Action Alternative: To not construct the proposed expansion to the existing Oneida West Mason Street Casino location. This will not assist in the goal of expanding gaming operations and improving the economy of the Oneida Nation.

Comments were requested from the United States Fish and Wildlife Service regarding possible impacts to threatened and endangered species, Oneida Cultural Heritage Department for possible impacts to culturally significant areas, and the Environmental Protection Agency for possible permitting needs regarding in-stream development.

Comments and Availability:
Interested parties may obtain copies of these documents from the address below. Comments regarding the proposed action may be submitted within 30 days of the date of this NOA. Contact Lisa Miotke at (920) 869-4582 or write Oneida Environmental, Health & Safety Division, PO Box 365, Oneida, WI 54155 for additional information.

School's Out for Summer!

By Shanna Jourdan

THT Times

As soon as June hits every year, students get very excited for school to be over and summer to begin.

Time to turn off the alarm clocks and stay up and out late. Go by whoever's house on week days. Go swimming and sit out in the sun all day. Go to your summer jobs and earn that money you work so hard for.

For the seniors, it's graduation. It was tough, but you made it. You made it through high school and that means you can do as you please. You can actually go somewhere in life and do something great.

Every single one of us only has one life to live, not two, so live it up and make your life great and make sure that whatever you do, have fun with it. Life is not always just work and about money, it's about you and how you make it! Good luck all seniors!

So far this recent weather has been just beautiful and great. It's going to be the perfect weather for this summer. Perfect weather to just sit outside in the front yard and enjoy the sun. It's time to enjoy the time off we students get.

Summers are just the best time, because we get off of school, and get to have fun. It's time to enjoy!

Hilo, Hawaii Powwow Trip

By JoJo Santiago

THT Times

The Hilo Inter-Tribal Powwow was a community event held during Memorial Day week in the town of Hilo, Hawaii.

Three days of exhibition dances sharing, classes, craft fair showing the work of traditional artists, and other educational, cultural, and fun events ended in a veteran's honoring.

The result was a warm holiday enjoyed by young and old of all cultures.

It was a good experience for all of us which included Kal^na Brooks, Forest Brooks, Eddie and Jojo Santiago, Bradley Granquist, and Kendrik Powless.

We were given many compliments on our performance and some even said, "You were the best show out of 'em all!"

We were also each given a parting gift which was a lei.

Jade Doxtater's Valedictorian Speech

Delivered at the ONHS Commencement Ceremony on Friday, June 3, 2011

Principal Ganka, Members of the School Board, Faculty Members, Family, Friend, and Fellow Graduates, Good Evening.

Today is a day to be thankful and be inspired. The last eighteen years of our lives, everything we've accomplished, everything we've been through, has led us to today. Take a moment to look back and to see and appreciate just how far we've all come.

We have so much to be thankful for. Our main thanks should be extended to our parents. The past four years have presented us with a lot of ups and downs. It is good to know you have remained committed to our education, but more importantly you have remained committed to us. You've stood by our sides, even when things may have seemed a bit unsteady. You were the stability we needed in the time of confusion. We would not be here today without you.

We can also be thankful for each other. The friendships that we have made here will last a lifetime. I am personally thankful for my boyfriend Brandon. I am truly inspired by him. He has overcome so much hardship to be here graduating today. Brandon, you have been determined and have had such a great attitude in the face of so many setbacks. I remember some of the talks we've had and it gives me the perspective I need to carry on when I'm down. And for that I thank you.

Oneida. It may be a small school, it may be old, but that's what makes Oneida diverse. That's what makes the Class of 2011 extraordinary. We can walk down the halls of our school and know everybody's name. Most of us have grown up together; we know something about each other that when we look at one another a lifetime of memories flash before our eyes.

I can't tell you how blessed I feel, how much I appreciate, growing up with you guys. And I can eagerly say I am proud to be a part of the Class of 2011. I am proud to call every one of you a member of my class. We have been a part of each other's lives for the past four, eight, and, for some, eighteen years. And today, in a single day, we finally move on.

I'm not going to say my high school experience was perfect. I'm not going to say that I didn't have some regrets, or missed opportunities. Every one of us went through the good times and the rough patches. But I wouldn't trade my high school experience for anything else in the world. Everything that has happed to us, everything we have been through, has made us into who we are today. And it's these experiences, these life lessons that will take us into the next step of our lives.

Often on graduation day, we look outside for heroes, but I thought that would have been too cliché to have a quote that's only been used a million times before. So if you're one that was waiting for me to quote someone great, sorry because that's not going to happen. I thought to myself, "Why don't I just mention these people right here in front of us?" I have seen in my four years at this high school, that we don't have to look far for inspiration, and that we each have the potential to make an inspiring impact on others by being true to our beliefs and being committed to our goals.

So, when we leave here today, celebrate what you have accomplished, but look toward how you, too, can be the inspiration for those around you.

Thank you!

Lacrosse tourney in Six Nations, Canada

By Eddie Powless

THT Times

Sonny Hill and Apache Danforth took eight lacrosse players—Mason Powless, Jason Skenadore, Jordan Bain, Eddie Powless, Devonte Pointer, Johnny Danforth, Diego Metoxen, and Kyle White—to Six Nations, Canada to play in an exhibition at the Powless Arena.

In the first game we lost 10-12 against the Six Nations Warriors The second team didn't show up so that got cancelled and we scrimmaged against each other. The third game we won 7-3 also from Six Nations. I was the leading scorer, with three goals and six assists.

My main assistant, (the one who gave me the goals), was Lucas Hill from Canada who joined our team for the time we were there. He also gave me his box lacrosse jersey for the goals he got (in lacrosse assists also count as goals).

Second was ONHS alumnus Kyle White with three goals and four assists, which also helped out a lot in the games in Canada.

Now the bus trip was supposed to take 12 hours but it took 14 and a half because we got a flat tire we sat for two hours.

About 54 people went from the Oneida area, including little kids who played too. They lost two games and tied the other.

I would like to say great job to the Oneida, Wisconsin teams. They also gave us medals for participating.

NWTC receives national recognition for community service

Northeast Wisconsin Technical College has received national recognition as a leader among institutions of higher education for its support of volunteering, service-learning, and civic engagement. Last month NWTC was admitted to the 2010 President's Higher Education Community Service Honor Roll for engaging its students, faculty and staff in meaningful service that achieves measurable results in the community.

"National recognition is vital to our college, students, and, most importantly, to our community partners who help us make authentic service-learning possible," said Suzanne Morrin Ritter, NWTC Service-Learning coordinator. "This acknowledgement helps raise local awareness of how our college gives back."

For years, NWTC has been reaching out to district residents with service-learning, an initiative that enables students to gain career-related experiences and academic credit while serving the community.

During the 2009-2010 academic year alone, over 2500 NWTC students participated in service-learning projects that met the needs of 162 non-profit agencies in Northeast Wisconsin. Projects ranged from Auto Collision students refinishing two trains at Bay Beach Amusement Park to Dental Hygienist students conducting fluoride varnish clinics for children in need. Service-learning projects were conducted throughout the district – from Shawano to Sturgeon Bay to Wausaukee.

In a spring 2010 project, Early Childhood Education students mentored and motivated 16 teenage mothers at the Marion House in Green Bay. The NWTC students worked with the young moms in a class that covered multiple areas of successful parenting and child care.

"This project has provided one of the most valuable assets to the Marion House program," said Monica Zindler, Marion House founder and director. "Prior to the college's involvement, our residents did not realize that post secondary education was even an option for them. Having completed a college class empowers our residents and gives them hope for their future."

The President's Higher Communication Community Service Honor Roll has been administered by the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS) since 2006. A total of 641 colleges and universities were admitted to the 2010 Honor Roll for their impact on issues from literacy and neighborhood revitalization to supporting at-risk youth. Of that total, 511 – including NWTC – were named to the Honor Roll, 114 received the recognition of Honor Roll with distinction, 11 were identified as finalists, and 6 received the Presidential Award.

A total of 851 institutions applied for the 2010 Honor Roll, a nine percent increase over last year, a sign of the growing interest by colleges and universities in highlighting their efforts to engage students in making a difference in the community. CNCS oversees the Honor Roll in collaboration with the U.S. Departments of Education and Housing and Urban Development, Campus Compact, and the American Council on Education. Honorees are chosen based on a series of selection factors, including the scope and innovation of service projects, the extent to which service-learning is embedded in the curriculum, the school's commitment to long-term campus-community partnerships, and measurable community outcomes as a result of the service. For a full list of recipients and descriptions of their service, visit www.NationalService.gov/HonorRoll.

Personal Diabetes Care Record Incentive Program

The Personal Diabetes Care Record (PDCR) Incentive Program allows patients to earn five dollar gift cards for getting their diabetes checked. Any Native American who receives diabetes care at the Oneida Community Health Center is able to participate.

How can incentives be earned? First, request a wallet size PCDR from the Diabetes Team at the Oneida Community Health Center. Second, bring the card with you whenever you see your health care provider. Third, every time one or more of the items listed on the card has been completed, ask your staff member to record the date, results, and initials. Lastly, submit the card to the Diabetes Team, at any time, even multiple times, to receive your five dollar gift cards.

New rules to cut confusion on sunscreen claims

By Matthew Perrone
AP Health Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) – Help is on the way if you're confused by the maze of sun protection numbers and other claims on sunscreens.

Starting next summer, you can start looking for SPF 15 bottles and tubes with the label "broad spectrum" and feel confident they're lowering your risk of skin cancer.

Under new rules published Tuesday, sunscreens will have to filter out the most dangerous type of radiation to claim they protect against skin cancer and premature aging. "Broad spectrum" is the new buzzword from the Food and Drug Administration to describe a product that does an acceptable job blocking both ultraviolet B rays and ultraviolet A rays.

If a sunscreen doesn't protect against both, or the sun protection factor is below 15, then it has to carry a warning: "This product has been shown only to help prevent sunburn, not skin cancer or early skin aging."

The guidelines, which spent more than 30 years in bureaucratic limbo, are designed to help consumers like Paul Woodburn, who says he's not sure of the difference between UVA and UVB rays and that he judges sunscreen by one factor alone.

"The SPF number is what counts for me," the 55-year-old Indianapolis resident said as he sat next to a public pool. "Beyond the SPF, I don't think anybody really watches."

The new regulations require that sunscreens be tested for the ability to block the more dangerous ultraviolet A rays, which can penetrate glass and pose the greatest risk of skin cancer and wrinkles. FDA currently requires testing only for protection against ultraviolet B rays, which primarily cause sunburn but can also cause cancer and other damage. That's what the familiar SPF measure is based on.

"For the first time, the FDA has clearly defined the testing required to make a broad-spectrum protection claim in a sunscreen," said Dr. Ronald L. Moy, president of The American Academy of Dermatology Association.

Under the new rules FDA will:

• Prohibit sunscreen marketing claims like "waterproof" and "sweatproof," which the agency said "are exaggerations of performance." Water-resistance claims will be allowed, but companies must explain how much time consumers can expect to get the same benefit while swimming or sweating.

• Cap the highest SPF value at 50, unless companies can provide results of further testing that support a higher number.

• Require that manufacturers phase out a four-star system currently used by some companies to rate UVA protection.

In reviewing more than 3,000 comments submitted to the agency, the FDA decided the star system was too confusing. Instead, protection against UVA should be proportional to protection against UVB, which is already measured using SPF.

SPF measures the amount of sun exposure needed to cause sunburn on UV-protected skin versus unprotected skin. The level of exposure varies by geography, time of day and skin complexion.

There is a popular misconception that SPF relates to time of solar exposure. Many consumers believe that if they normally get sunburn in one hour, then an SPF 15 sunscreen allows them to stay in the sun for 15 hours without burning. This isn't true because SPF is not directly related to length of sun exposure.

The new rules were decades in the making.

FDA announced its intent to draft sunscreen rules in 1978 and published them in 1999. The Food Assessment Wrap-up Survey Results

We hope that the articles we have been providing for the past year have been beneficial & educational to our community. We wanted to share with you the information gathered from the survey. This is our wrap to those articles, and will be providing an overall review of what we are all learning and the next steps we can take to make our Food choices, Wise & Educated Choices!

What is Food Security:
When all people at all times have access to sufficient, safe, nutritious food to maintain a healthy and active life.

What is Food Sovereignty:
The right of peoples, communities and countries to define their own agricultural, labor, fishing, food and land policies which are ecologically, socially, economically and culturally appropriate to their unique circumstances.

How much is our health worth? How much is our children's future worth? These days most of us are more concerned about our vehicles then we are about our own bodies. We get the oil changed regularly and use high test gasoline in our vehicles, but we still fill our body's fuel tank with fast food and sodas filled with sugar. The worst part is that we are encouraging this behavior in our youth, and it shows. Over the last two decades, rates of obesity have tripled in children and adolescents aged 6 to 19 years.

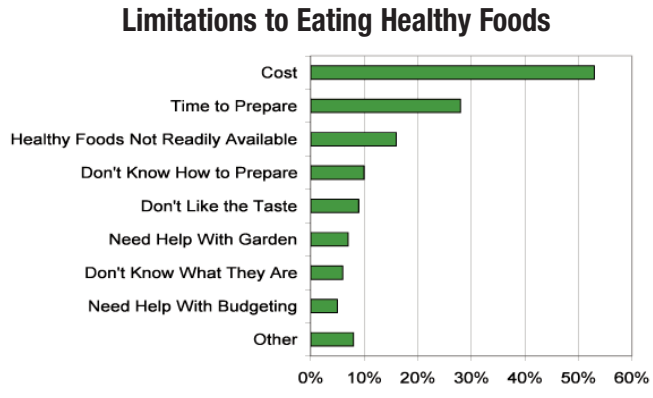
As keepers of our children's future, we must act in the best interest for them. This will most likely not be what they would choose, but that is why we are their guardians. This is not a punishment we are suggesting, but a blessing. A punishment is to allow our youth to become obese and then making them live with that for the rest of their lives. A punishment is encouraging bad eating habits which contribute significantly to diabetes and then making them give themselves shots in the arm everyday for it. A punishment is to stand by and do nothing when we could have taken the responsibility onto our own shoulders.

Why buy local – Why buy Oneida?

Local markets are good for our health, good for our natural resources, good for our economy and good for our community. People enjoy the benefits of local, seasonal and sustainable grown and produced foods. Local markets help small farmers keep their family farms in agriculture rather than selling their land for urban sprawl. Local farmers farming with "Best Use" agricultural practices help keep our soil, water and air clean.

What's the big deal – food is food right?

No, that isn't right. Food security is quickly becoming a priority as we read about food contamination, pesticides, chemicals, hormones, antibiotics, animal diseases, genetically modified seeds, and inhumane industrial farm practices. As food costs increase due to higher fuel costs, there is more hunger and disparity in access to food. Local communities can take the initiative to protect their food sources and the environment around them to ensure a healthy and abundant food supply.



- The Center for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that one-third of all American children born in the year 2000 will develop diabetes as a result of poor diet and lack of exercise.
- For the first time in American history this generation will have a shorter life expectancy than their parents.
- No culture in the world pays less for food, per capita, and more on medicine. You can pay the doctor or pay the farmer.
- A store bought tomato today has 46% less vitamin A, 29% less iron and 58% less calcium than the tomatoes of 50 years ago.
- 5,200 deaths each year in America are due to food borne illnesses (Center for Disease Control, 2009).
- The last 30 years the average American has increased their sugar intake by 30% and most of this increase is in beverages.

What can the Oneida Nation and we do as Oneida families?

We as proud Oneida Tribal entities, as parents and grandparents, as brothers and sisters, and as friends need to use the information we gathered in the Oneida Community Food Assessment and establish a network of local food producers and consumers.

We need to use the data to establish Food Security Policies.
A key part of these policies would require the purchasing of 10% of our food from local providers
Creating and expanding food processing infrastructure
Establishment of community gardens
Establishment of Community Supportive Agricultures (CSA's)
Certification, inspection; and labeling of our local food.

All of these areas will help us in attaining our Food Security & Sovereignty.

In the Oneida Community assessment we found that the biggest barrier people thought limited them from eating healthy was cost (53%). However, no culture in the world pays less for food, per capita, and more on medicine then the United States. You can pay the doctor or you can pay the farmer. If we were to eat healthier, we should see a reduction in doctor bills, pharmaceutical bills and insurance costs.

The OCIFS entities work cooperatively to try and bring about monumental changes in Oneida's food systems. There are many ways you can all help to accomplish this task. One of them is to support its members. So buy your natural Black Angus meat from the Oneida Farm, your produce from the Oneida Apple Orchard, and get your certified organic produce and food processing needs from the Tsyunhehkwa program. It not only provides you with the best quality and value, but it helps all people on the road to self-sufficiency.

Holy Apostles SOS Save Our Sanctuary Oneida Wisconsin

The Hobart Episcopal church in Oneida

By Thelma Cornelius McLester

For brief periods of time when the call went out to replace priests who were leaving Holy Apostles or who had already left, there were a number of interim priests who served the Church.

In 1924, the Reverend Harry Kerstetter served; followed by Reverend F. W. Sherman in 1925. Reverend Phillip I. Livingston served in the years 1957 and again in 1967. There were a number of assistants who served, as follows. Reverend C. B. Russell was an Assistant in 1960 until Reverend H. L. Goetz became the Vicar. His Assistant, Reverend Nelson Skinner was hired in 1963. In 1964, Reverend Harry C. Vedder was hired as the Vicar while his Assistant was Robert Goode in 1967.

In the 1960's, continual changes were occurring. Of importance, Stained Glass Windows were installed on all of the windows of the church over a five-year period from 1960 to 1965. Each window was specifically designed and executed by two gentlemen from studios in Milwaukee, Roger Jacobs and Conrad Schmitt. Some of windows were given in memory of past deceased members, while others were given in memory of those who served the Church. Most were inscribed with the actual wording of the dedication. In order to see what the original windows looked like, they resembled the window above the main alter still in use today.

By the 1960's many of the past activities and organizations no longer existed. There was a decline in membership of the church as well as in the funding levels.

In 1966, the Oneida Tribe requested 15 acres of land in order to build 44 housing units for Tribal use, and the lands were released from the Diocesan offices in Fond Du Lac and returned to the Oneida Tribe for that purpose. Earlier, 10 acres of church land were returned to the Oneida Tribe for recreational purposes. Today, there are three ball diamonds, parking and enough land for observers to watch the games.

Holy Apostles continued to operate its Mission School with classes held in the Parish Hall. Funding for its upkeep came from the church and the Diocese of Fond du lac. However with declining enrollment and costs increasing, the school closed in 1967. The last to serve at the school were The Sisters of the Teachers of God who served from 1963 to 1967.

In 1968, Reverend Larry A. Westlund became the Vicar and in 1970 his Assistant was Reverend Jon E. Henshew.

Again, the 1970's brought interim Priests to Holy Apostles. In 1974, Assistant Reverend John E. Walker arrived to serve for one year as well as Reverend Michael W. Minter who served as an Assistant for one year. Reverend Paul A Cheek served as an Assistant in 1976 prior to his serving as Vicar beginning in 1978. The Reverend Charles P. Wallis served for one year in 1977 followed by Reverend Thomas K. Sewall in 1978. In 1979, Reverend Russell S. Northway became the Assistant, until the Reverend James H. Dolan arrived to take his place. In 1983, Reverend Dolan became the Vicar. His Assistant, Reverend William J. M. Smith arrived in 1984.

With the high turn-over of priests over time, there was a loss of members to other churches, however, it was also the time period when all churches were in decline in church membership.

The Grafton Parish Hall had served its people well, but it could no longer be maintained as it was in the past. Originally the cornerstone was placed by the Right Reverend Charles Grafton on October 11, 1905 and was used for so many functions. It was used as the church for two years when the Stone church burned in 1920. It became the elementary school, as well as Sunday School. It also housed the first Oneida Library, the first Headstart Program and many meetings were held there. Also for a brief period of time the second floor was used as an apartment for the janitor. After the Hall's closing in 1980, functions moved to the basement of the church and to the St. Anne Convent Building.

In 1984, a grant was received from the United Thank Offering to upgrade the St. Anne Convent and even though the grant was insufficient to meet all of the needs, nevertheless it furnished space for the offices of the Priest, his Assistant, Secretary/Clerk, Sunday School, space for small meeting rooms and a Chapel. The Chapel remained in use until 2006, however, the Convent itself is still use today.

In 1990, Reverend Edmund Powless was ordained a Deacon of the church. An Oneida, this was a great blessing as he was the first Oneida Deacon to serve the church since Reverend Cornelius Hill. From 1990 forward, Reverend Powless served faithfully in his capacity as Deacon, as well serving in his own community until his passing in 2009. He is buried in the church yard alongside Reverend Cornelius Hill and his Wife Ceclia.

In 1993, Right Reverend Russell E. Jacobus became the Bishop of Fond du Lac and therefore assumed responsibility for Holy Apostles. Also during 1993, Reverend James Dolan resigned his position at Holy Apostles. He was replaced by Reverend John Splinter in 1994 who remained for five years until he retired from the Priesthood in 1999.

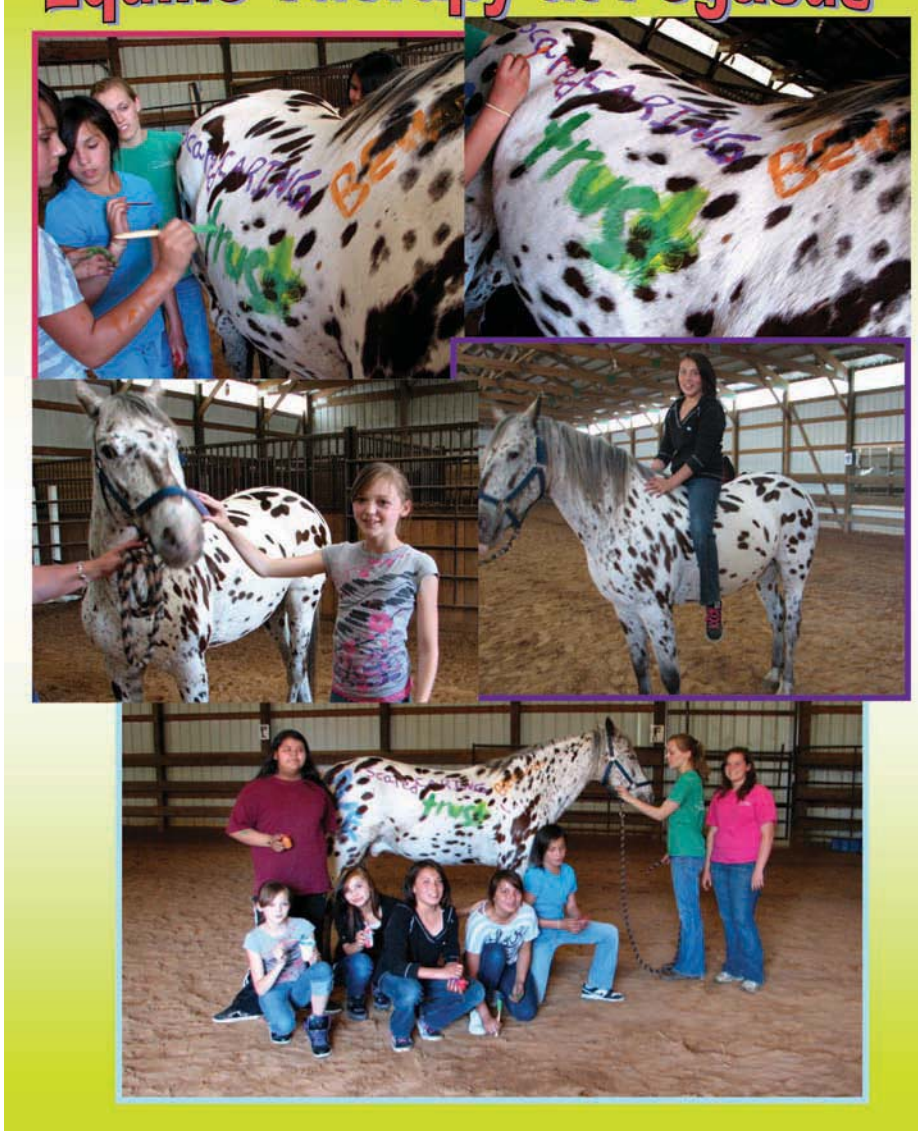
It is our mission to provide lifelong learning to the lives of the people who choose to participate in our programs. The Oneida Adventure Experience combine adventure-based educational programs that utilize activities that are challenging and fun, to help stimulate individual growth and team building skills. Our staff understands that people learn best through experience.

ONEIDA ADVENTURE AND LOMBARDI GROUP EXPERIENCES

School is almost out for the summer!

For most students, school can bring up many personal challenges to overcome. This year, a few students from Lombardi Middle School YES program found Oneida Adventure as a place to explore personal qualities and assets to help themselves overcome these challenges. Through various adventurous activities, the students learned from one another, and themselves.



In middle school it is common to worry about our image. These students partnered together on the ropes course and through the experience of equine therapy. Some students reported being able to transcend the burden of what others think, and instead focus on what it was they thought about themselves. Through out our group experience the power of listening to the inner voice was evident. A key asset to personal and team growth!!

Most of our Obstacles would melt away if instead of cowering before them, we should make up our minds to walk boldly through them...

Children's Burial Fund

HISTORY…

Originally, any child not enrolled but determined eligible for enrollment was entitled to use the previous Burial Fund of $5,000.

When the Oneida Life Insurance Plan Plus (OLIPP) was implemented it was discovered that the life insurance would not cover children who were not enrolled but determined eligible for enrollment. So the Oneida Trust/Enrollment Committee established the Children's Burial Fund.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS…

What is the Children's Burial Fund? The Children's Burial Fund was established to assist families with burial expenses of children age zero (0) to five (5) or children age six (6) who have been recommended by the Oneida Trust/Enrollment Committee for enrollment, but who have not yet been approved for enrollment by the Oneida Business Committee.

Why was the benefit amount lowered to $3,500? First and foremost the Oneida Trust/Enrollment Committee based the benefit amount on the average costs for burial services of children age six (6) years and younger.

Why an age limit? Like any benefit, criteria is critical to help the program be more equitable and cost effective. It also promotes and encourages enrollment of our Oneida children.

REQUIREMENTS OF THE CHILDRENS BURIAL FUND

1) Requests for assistance and original invoices must be provided to the Oneida Enrollment Department for payment within 365 days from the date of death.

2) Documentation must be on file with the Oneida Enrollment Department prior to processing of invoices for funeral expenses.

If child dies after birth, documentation needing to be submitted is:

a) Birth Certificate

b) Death Certificate

If child was stillborn, documentation needing to be submitted and/or completed is:

a) Maternity/Paternity Statement (provided by Oneida Enrollment Department)

b) Fetal death report (you will need to request this from a medical professional or funeral home representative)

c) Enrollment document used to determine eligibility (provided by Oneida Enrollment Department)

WHAT'S COVERED

1) Food expenses, not to exceed $200. This may be done:

a. Through a food voucher to Festival Foods. The Oneida Enrollment Department provides this service. You will be asked to provide the date, time and name of a person who will meet the Oneida Enrollment Representative at Festival Foods. The Enrollment Representative is available to assist the responsible person/family to shop for needed products. (Alcohol or tobacco purchases are not allowed)

b. By adding food costs to the funeral home invoice. Usually reflected on the funeral home invoice as a cash advance.

c. Through a caterer, food vendor, or restaurant. Pre-approval is required to be made with the Oneida Enrollment Department so vendor information can be obtained for payment.

2) Monument/Headstone costs, not to exceed $1,000.

a. The original invoice with the Vendor's Tax ID # must be provided to the Oneida Enrollment Department for payment within 365 days from date of death.

b. This expense could also be added to the funeral home invoice. Usually reflected on the funeral home invoice as a cash advance.

3) Cemetery costs

a. The original invoice with the Vendor's Tax ID # must be provided to the Oneida Enrollment Department for payment within 365 days from date of death.

b. If the Oneida Tribal Cemetery is not chosen as the place of burial, this expense can be added to the funeral home invoice. Usually reflected on the funeral home invoice as a cash advance.

c. If the Oneida Tribal Cemetery is chosen as the place of burial, the total costs will be taken directly out of the $3,500 Children's Burial Fund. Because the Oneida Enrollment Department manages the Oneida Tribal Cemetery an invoice is not needed for submission. A cemetery plot cost is $100. The marking, opening and closing costs can vary (often due to weather conditions and equipment availability). Currently, the average costs for Department of Public Works (DPW) to mark, open and close a grave is $250. The marking, opening and closing costs are subject to change.

To purchase a cemetery plot:

- Contact the Oneida Enrollment Department
- Meet with the Burial Benefits Specialist/designee to choose a plot and fill out necessary paperwork
- The Burial Benefits Specialist/designee will complete the necessary paperwork to process payment and make arrangements with DPW to mark, open and close the plot on the day of burial

4) Church costs

a. The original invoice with the Vendor's Tax ID # must be provided to the Oneida Enrollment Department for payment within 365 days from date of death.

b. This expense could also be added to the funeral home invoice. Usually reflected on the funeral home invoice as a cash advance.

5) Funeral home costs can only be paid directly to the funeral home

a. Original invoices with the Vendor's Tax ID # must be provided to the Oneida Enrollment Department for payment within 365 days from date of death

WHAT'S NOT COVERED…..

1) Travel expenses (i.e. gas receipts, tickets for a plane, bus or train, etc.)

2) Reimbursements for out of pocket expenses (example: if someone decides to pay for food or flowers out of their own personal monies, they will not be reimbursed)

3) Any funeral expenses exceeding the $3,500 limit (example: a funeral invoice for $3,500 is received and paid. Then later an invoice for a headstone is received in the amount of $1,000. The headstone invoice will not be covered. The headstone cost will be the responsibility of the purchaser who signed for the headstone)

OTHER INFORMATION…..

1) Oneida Parish Hall:

- The Parish Hall is available at any time for activities related to funerals. If another event is scheduled on the same date of the funeral activity, the funeral activity will take precedence.
- The Parish Hall can be requested by contacting the Oneida Enrollment Department 920-869-6200 or Oneida Department of Public Works (DPW) at 920-869-1059.

REMINDER: Our goal is to get every adult Tribal Member to complete a Beneficiary Designation Form. Please look for me and/or other representatives from the Enrollment Department at various community events to help achieve this goal.

agency then delayed finalizing the regulations until it could address concerns from both industry and consumers.

Some consumer advocates complained the agency's final guidelines did not go far enough.

"FDA's rule will allow most products on the U.S. market to use the label `broad spectrum sunscreen,' even though some will not offer enough protection to assure Americans they can stay in the sun without suffering skin damage from invisible UVA radiation," said David Andrews, senior scientist with the Environmental Working Group.

The FDA is still working on updated guidelines for spray-on products, which use different formulations from other sun-protection solutions.

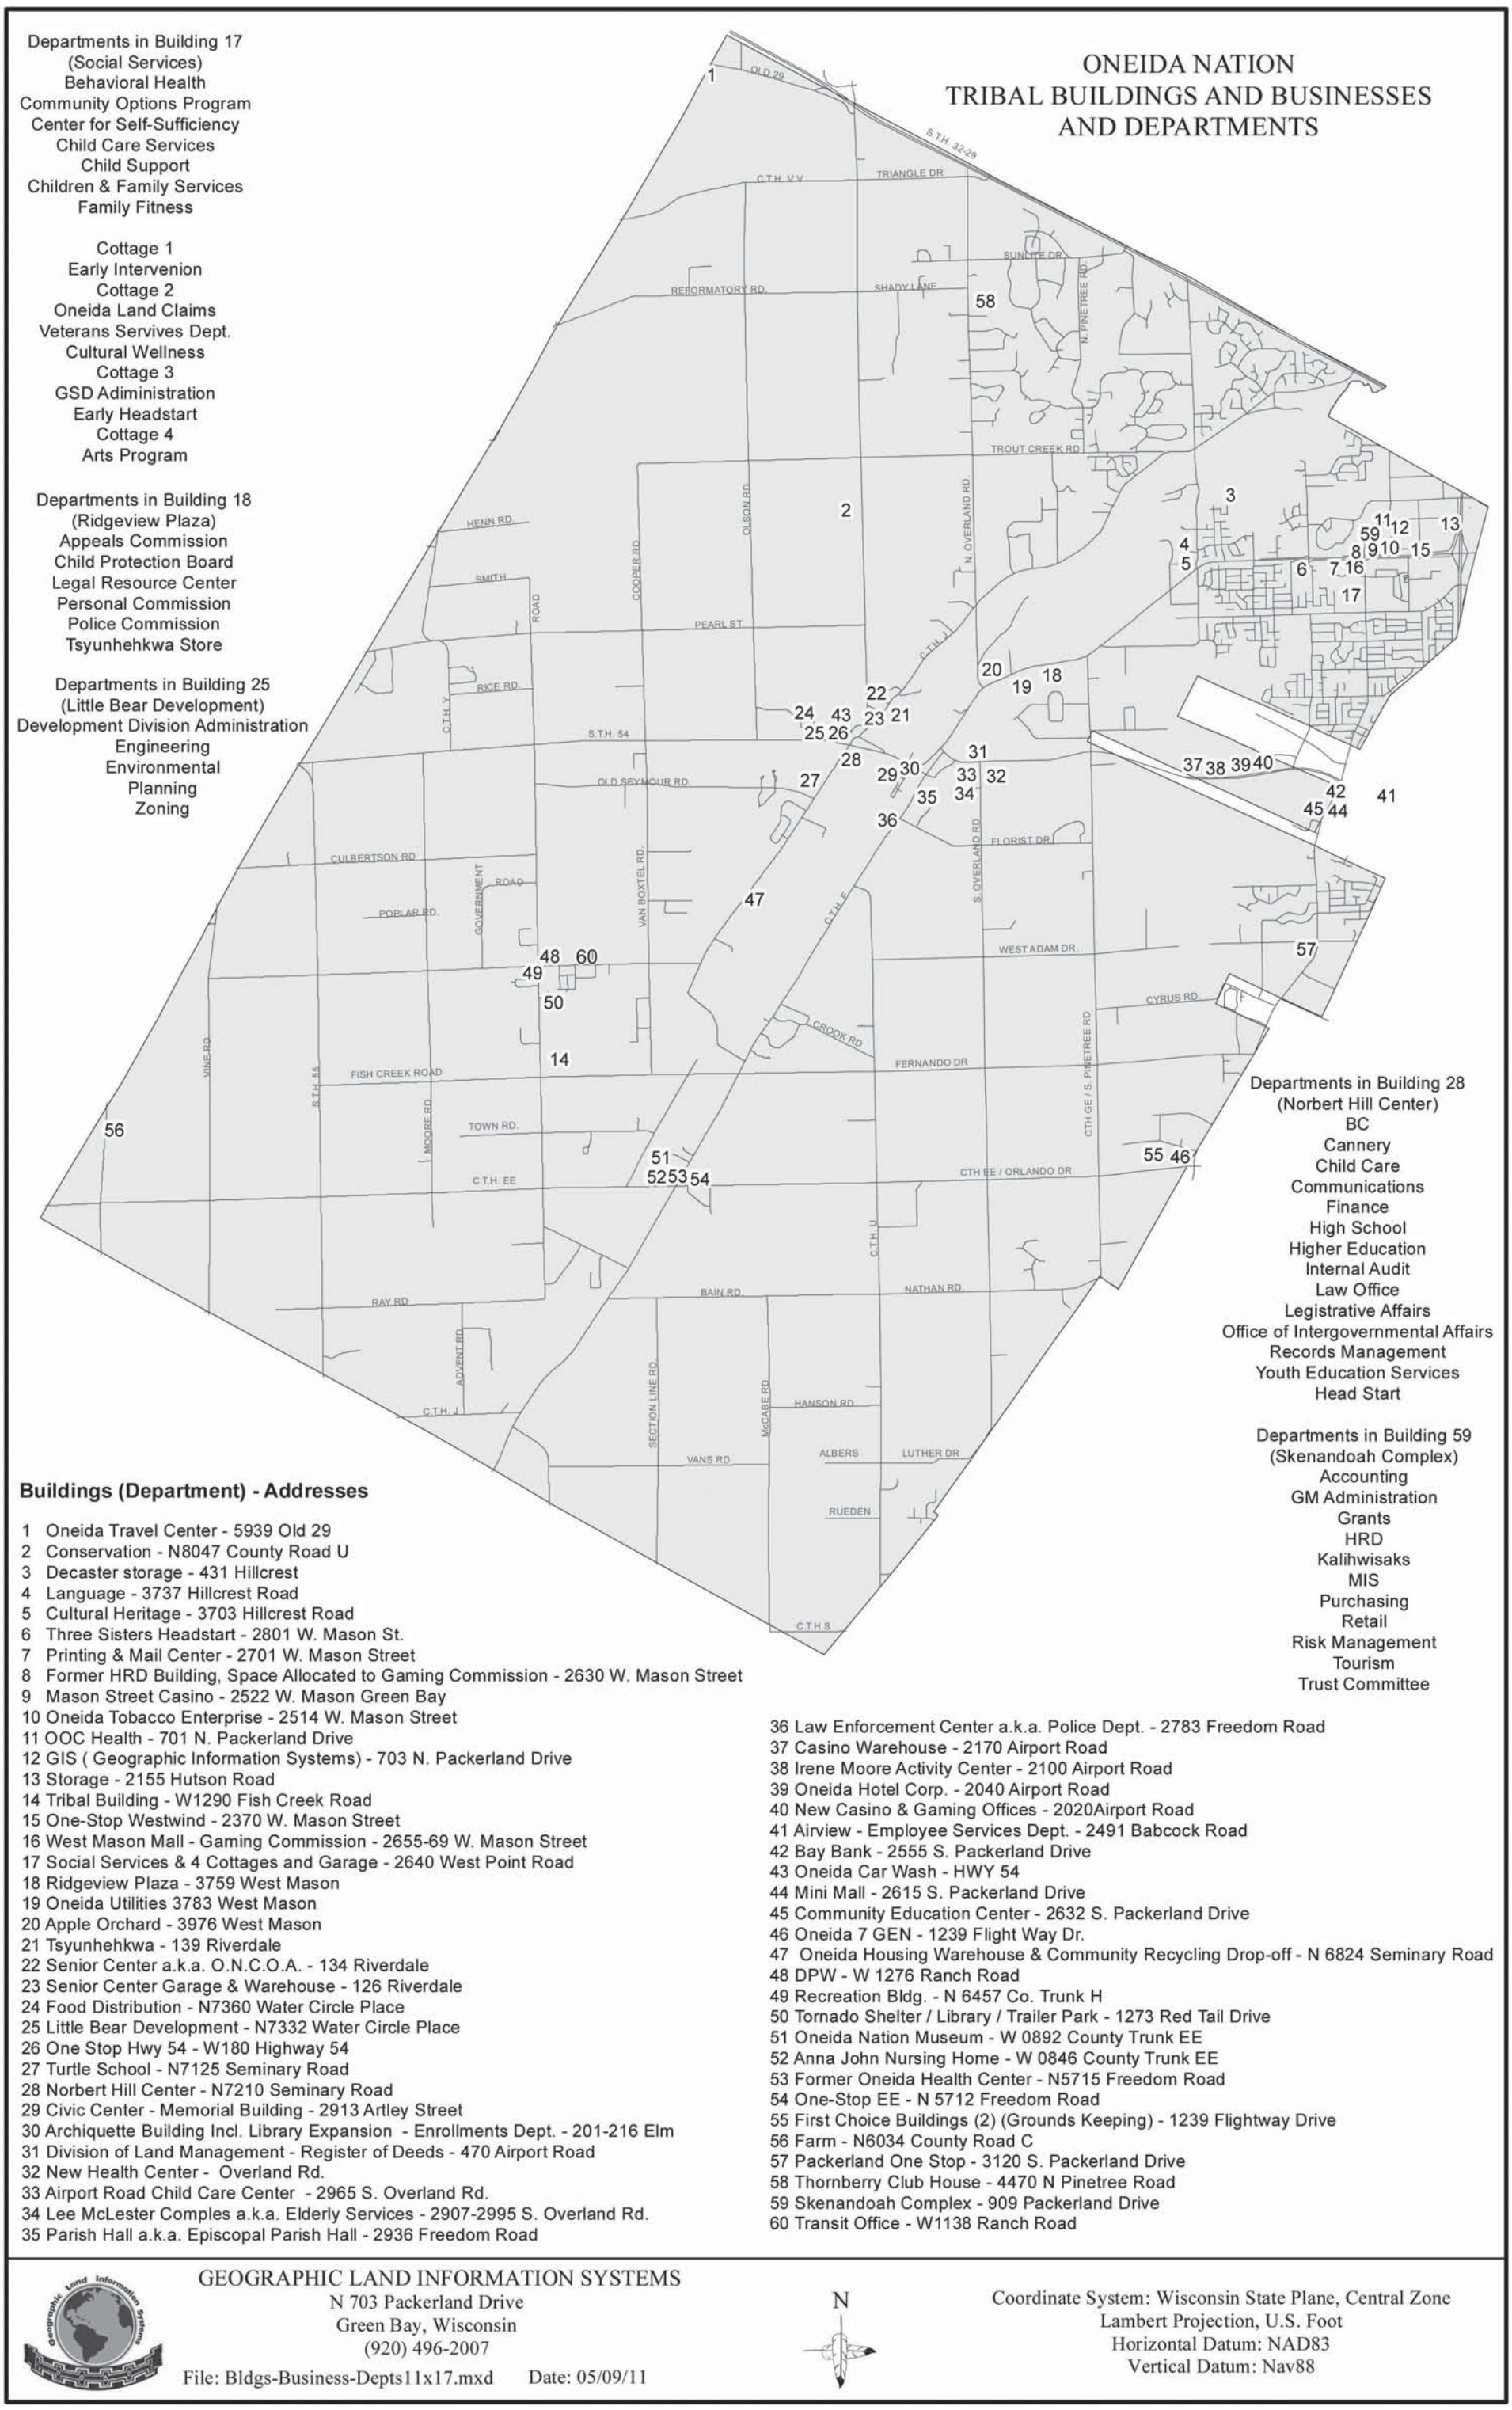
Many companies have already adopted some of the language. For example, all Coppertone products from Merck & Co.'s Schering-Plough unit and Neutrogena Sunblock from Johnson & Johnson boast "broad spectrum UVA and UVB protection."

Most dermatologists recommend a broad spectrum, water-resistant sunscreen of SPF 30 or higher every two hours while outside.

Last year an estimated 68,130 people in the U.S. were diagnosed with melanoma _ the most dangerous form of skin cancer _ and an estimated 8,700 died, according to the National Cancer Institute. Nearly $2 billion is spent treating the disease each year.

Increased construction activity at Pamperin Park in Brown County

Reminder to park patrons to remain alert and expect possible delays



The Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT) Northeast Region in Green Bay is reminding visitors to Pamperin Park that significant construction is currently taking place on the entrance road to the park as part of the US 41 Project.

While the road remains open to traffic, beginning the week of June 13, considerable activity gets underway which may cause short delays for motorists over the next two weeks. Construction crews are building a bypass road and constructing temporary shoring for the new County RK.

Because of the construction, pedestrians and bicyclists are encouraged to access the park using the recreational trail located west of the park entrance along Duck Creek.

More Grant News from the Oneida Libraries

The Oneida Community Library and the Green Earth Branch Library continue to express gratitude to the Institute of Museum and Library Services for the 2010 Native American Library Services Enhancement Grant. The shelves are in! We still working out some furniture ideas for the children's areas at both libraries, but both children's areas have had new shelves installed thanks to the cool guys at DPW (Yaw^ko, guys!!) The new shelves have made it possible for many new books to be purchased, and as we took all the books off the old shelves, there were many that did not go back on the shelves—this was a great way to upgrade our collection, although for the days we were closed we did not always feel that way—it was a lot of work! Come into the libraries, sign up for the adult summer programs at either library, and sign your children and teens up for our Summer Reading Programs and Teen Summer Programs.

Also, at the Green Earth Branch Library we are having a special 1,000 Cranes program, a wish of peace and harmony for the community. If you fold and hang 1,000 cranes, tradition holds that you can get a wish from a crane. It has to be something like peace and tranquility, or health; it has to be an unselfish wish. So ours is for peace, harmony, and tranquility for the Oneida Nation and our Green Earth Branch Library patrons. The program starts June 10 and goes throughout the summer programs until August 19. If you would like to add a crane, just tell us a book title of a book you've read this summer and a crane will be hung up at the Green Earth Branch Library to represent the book you read and your wish for peace. You can email your book titles to Kcackows@oneidanation.org or call the Green Earth Branch Library at 920-833-7226 if you are unable to drive out to the Green Earth Branch Library—although Oneida Public Transit is an available option! The Green Earth Branch Library is open Monday through Thursday, 9-5 p.m., and Friday 1-5 p.m.

Both libraries are continuing to offer Free Fax Friday from 1-5 p.m., free faxing of up to 15 pages, Fridays only, throughout the summer.

Museum Springing Forth with Traditional Outfit Making

In the spring, the Oneida Nation Museum and the Flying Leaf Subdivision resource building collaborated to offer traditional clothing workshops to both boys and girls. A parent or guardian had to sign the child up and commit to attending the program with the child to learn traditional outfit making and how to smoke dance.

The classes are well attended. The girls' class is on Mondays, and the boys' class is on Thursdays, with lab time often offered on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, all held at the Flying Leaf Subdivision's building.

Adrianna and Kymberley Pelky attend the girls' classes. Kymberley said, "I've done repairs to clothing, but this class is actually teaching me how to sew and bead. And what better project could there be to learn with than a traditional outfit for my daughter. It is great quality time as she beads on her project, and works on her matching bag and helps me with pinning and fastening things. We're so glad we had the opportunity to take this class."

The classes will finish up at the end of June. The families will have a potluck and the children will also be performing their newly learned smoke dance in their new traditional outfits just in time for the Cultural Festival at the Oneida Nation Museum on June 30th 2011 and also the Oneida Nation Pow-Wow.

Ground broken for Elder Resident Facility

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

After nearly two decades in the making, Oneida citizens broke ground for the construction of a new Elder Resident Facility on Wednesday morning, June 29.

"This facility took so long, actually, I turned into an elder" quipped Oneida Business Committee (OBC) Chairman Rick Hill.

The Elder Resident Facility was called for in 1993 after a study of reservation housing needs, but a series of budget constraints along with debate on how to best care for elders kept pushing construction down the road. Hill

GTC meetings to alter seating process

As the Semi- Annual General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting draws near on July 4, 2011, the Oneida Business Committee has approved of implementing temporary measures to ensure the full participation of each enrolled eligible voter.

The participation of all eligible voters is a priority. We recognize the importance of allowing our future eligible voters to be educated on the fundamentals of our government however we must also ensure our present eligible voters are not hindered in the process. We strongly urge you to find child care for your smaller children for this meeting.

It is critical for members to be present in meetings at all times in order to make informed decisions. In our efforts to afford all eligible voters their rights, the following procedure is being introduced to afford all eligible voters their full right to participation.

Three Clans Ballroom is the main meeting room. The additional overflow will be accommodated in the Iroquois Ballroom.

Eligible voters who are elderly or in need of special assistance should make every effort to be in the company of another eligible voter.

All eligible voters will be provided the first opportunity to sit in the Three Clans Ball Room.

In the event we meet the limit specified by safety codes in the Three Clans Ballroom, additional accommodations will be provided in the Iroquois Ballroom as space allows.

We plan to provide the Iroquois Ballroom for overflow and it will be Tribe offers severance packages to offset labor costs

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

A budget already sliced thin and the rising labor costs led to a unique opportunity for some tribal employees.

The Oneida Tribe's severance packages were made available after the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) passed an emergency law on March 23, 2011. The purpose of the offer was to reduce the cost of the tribe's payroll with voluntary resignations.

"The package was offered in order to provide an incentive to employees to end their employment relationship with the tribe," said Debbie Thundercloud, the tribe's General Manager. "Our workforce size was no longer sustainable and we needed to offer incentives to bring our labor costs down."

The package is calculated by offering two weeks of pay for every continuous year of service with a maximum of 30 weeks of pay. Regular status employees were eligible pending the elimination of their position or another within their department. An employee must wait until after the number of eligible weeks paid severance has lapsed before applying for another position within the tribe.

The move was made as the tribe prioritized job security and services over cuts.

"Since the downturn in the economy Oneida made a praised Pearl McLester for aggressively advocating for the facility.

"I just admire Pearl, she championed this, and her vision would not be denied," he said.

"When we all together, there's nothing we can't do," said McLester.

The Oneida Commission on Aging (ONCOA) created an ad hoc committee in 1996 to oversee the proposed project, which eventually was taken up by the Oneida Comprehensive Health Division in 2005. Eventually, Oneida began selling bonds to raise funds for construction of the Elder Resident Facility.

According to the Oneida Comprehensive Health Division Director Debra Danforth, the facility will see to the needs of elders as well as those in need of assisted living due to a handicap.

"That ad hoc committee recognized that this project was going to address not only the needs of elders, but also medical concerns and rehab issues," said Danforth.

The Elder Resident Facility will be 77,000 square feet and will have 48 resident apartments, a senior meal site, physical therapy, activity spaces and staff offices. The new facility will connect to the Elderly Services Building at 2907 S. Overland Road. Engberg Anderson, Standing Stone Architectural Design, and Kraus-Anderson Construction are the firms that will build the project. Construction is expected to be completed in spring of 2013

Court rules OPD to continue emergency responder role in Hobart areas

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

A Wisconsin Court of Appeals ruled that the Oneida Police Department (OPD) will continue to be the primary responding police department to 9-1-1 calls in portions of the Village of Hobart.

In October of 2008 a Brown County Circuit Court judge ruled Brown County can dispatch OPD in a 1,700-acre area around Hwy 172, Hwy 54 and County Road E in a hearing over a temporary injunction filed by Village of Hobart. The village sued Brown County in May 2008 stemming from a service agreement signed between the county and tribe granting 9-1-1 primary coverage of the disputed area to OPD.

According to the village's Director of Community Development and Tribal Affairs Elaine Willman, an appeal appears to be in the works.

"The Village Board is likely to appeal the ruling to the Wisconsin State Supreme Court, however, they will discuss their options at the upcoming Board meeting of July 5th," she said.

Oneida Chief of Staff Bill Gollnick expects the village to appeal though state law supports the agreement reached between the county and tribe.

"To oppose the terms of the tribe (and) Brown County service agreement, Hobart sued and lost. Hobart moved for reconsideration and was denied. Hobart then filed this appeal, which they lost," said Gollnick. "Despite the fact that the court's decision made it clear that what the tribe has been able to do with every other local law enforcement agency is exactly supported by state law, every issue is an opportunity for another suit."

In the village's position, Willman expresses concern over the erosion of village control and decision-making.

"The 1,700 acre area designated in the service agreement is an arbitrary line that can be expanded," Willman said. "The Village argues that such a boundary causing a change in primary law enforcement response is a violation of its Home Rule and duty to provide public safety service, a precedent that can continuously erode the primary service area of municipal public safety and law enforcement and a technology detriment in terms of communicating 9-1-1 dispatch services timely, safely and efficiently."

Gollnick also addresses safety but from a different viewpoint.

"The Oneida Police Department has provided law enforcement for over 25 years to all people of this area at no cost to local taxpayers. OPD officers are well equipped, well trained, and have experience. They are authorized under Tribal law, federal law and state law to enforce within the reservation and by deputization by the Brown County Sheriff, they also have enforcement authority anywhere in the county. This decision recognized these facts," he said.

He then addressed response time.

"The issue of import to most local residents, however, is the anticipated reduction in response time. Hobart has said they don't want the minimum of four OPD officers that we have on each shift 24/7 to be dispatched until its been determined that the Hobart officer isn't available and that there isn't a county sheriff available as a back up," he added.

"So if something happens in northern Hobart and the Hobart-Lawrence officer on duty is in Lawrence, then that officer would have to go lights and siren across two townships to engage. If the county officers are not readily available the response times can be long. This agreement simply allows dispatch to bring our officers into an event in a timely and professional manner. Hobart's position that OPD should not be dispatched to an emergency at the Civic Center will not prevail."

The Village of Hobart has 24-hour seven days a week service. They have a full-time Police Chief, four full-time police officers and two part-time officers. OPD has 20 officers cross-deputized with Brown County.

Diocese ready for litigation against Hobart

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The Village of Hobart Board of Trustees was officially served notice of a potential lawsuit if their stance on the Holy Apostles cemetery tax doesn't change.

Matthew Payne, Lay Cannon for the Administration Dioceses for Fond du Lac, notified the board of the Trustees of the Diocese of Fond du Lac intentions to move forward with legal action if the board's decision to allow the taxation of the church's cemetery holds.

In April of this year the board upheld a decision to keep 2.3 acres of cemetery land taxable though the land use or ownership did not change, which is required to change the tax status. Wisconsin law legally establishes a cemetery as burial plots and land adjoining burial plots with a cemetery purpose and equipment used to care for it as tax exempt.

During the June 21 board meeting Payne outlined the dioceses position regarding the Village's April decision to allow the cemetery tax.

"Your decision appears to have been made without directly addressing those grounds listed in (our) claim," said Payne. "Your legal counsel found to simply present a generic overview of the processes (and it) read like a template and failed to specifically respond to the legal issues raised."

"Will legal action be pursued," asked Payne. "The Trustees have decided to do so since the Episcopal Church's baptismal covenant promises we will strive for justice and peace among all people and respect the dignity of every human being."

Since the June 21 meeting Payne has yet to hear from the Village. Legal action must be taken before the July 18 to meet statute of limitations.

As a taxpayer Payne asked the village to reverse their decision to avoid already mounting legal lines in the village's budget.

"Reconsidering is designed to permit correction of hasty, ill-advised, or erroneous action, or to take into account additional information or a change situation that had developed since taking the vote," said Payne. "I think you have such information."

After a lengthy agreement to disagree, Payne acknowledges that frustration is setting in.

"The assessor and members of the board appear to blind to be the law even though it's clear. Land that was exempt before continues to be unless some change occurs to make it taxable," he said. "Taxing only a portion of the parcel has no legal support and feels patronizing."

Payne fears what precedent may be set if the village fails to overturn their decision.

"It would allow other municipalities to tax other cemeteries' open land," Payne said. "The liability from failing to reconsider, failing to allow the claim or failing to refund the taxes is much, much more the liability of doing nothing."

conscientious decision to maintain jobs and services as our priorities," said the tribe's Chief of Staff Bill Gollnick. "As we look to the future, we determined that to mitigate a need for layoffs, we would offer a severance package as an incentive for people to voluntarily leave their positions. Savings from those choosing severance will help make it possible to continue to achieve our priorities in more efficient ways."

For Lloyd Powless, the tribe's former Assistant General Manager, timing of the severance offer could not have been better. Powless served in multiple positions over 29 years before his last day in May.

"I have been thinking about retirement, I turned 66 in March, since I turned 65. I was worried about health insurance for my wife but then this came along. Financially it seemed to work," said Powless.

"I do miss the people that I worked with," he said. "It really is a big adjustment. I got up at a certain time and went to work and that isn't there anymore."

Future severance package offers are unknown at this time, but the law adopted by the Legislative Operating Committee grants authority to the OBC to extend packages if conditions warrant.

To date 177 employees have accepted severance packages with two pending acceptance.

With more tenured employees choosing to leave their positions the loss of experience and leadership is acknowledged.

"The loss of experience is always difficult for operations," said Thundercloud. "Many years on the job and knowing the history of the department and the rationale for decisions that have been made cannot be compensated for. In this case, the choice to apply is voluntary and there is often a good relationship with the employee departing, thereby allowing for continued communication should the need arise."

"I am concerned about the direction our Tribe is heading."

Some of my platform issues are listed below:

Elders: We need to provide a proper level of services. I see elders out shoveling snow and cutting their own grass. We need to ensure that we take care of the elders because they built our Tribe.

Employees: In my business I talk to a lot of employees, morale is low. Employees feel like there is no one looking out for their interests. Employees want to be respected with good wages and healthy working conditions, this is what I support.

Housing: I support a plan to build more homes and limit the amount of rent we charge for these homes.

I ask for your support on July 16th, I want to make a difference in this election.
I will be a Councilman you can rely on to make decisions for the people of our great Nation.

By John Powless III

This summer's theme is a combination of all 6 Character Development Pillars: Respect, Citizenship, Trust, Fairness, Caring and Responsibility. Each character will be implemented in each session. Caring is the focus for Session 1. We are teaching the message that there is Power in all we do, therefore,"Character is Power!"

Top: Caring for Mother Earth, by picking up trash!Kids were yelling "Recycle! Recycle!"

Bottom: Caring for birds and our Environment.

Running to bring health back to the Oneida community

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Life-long friends Sid White and John Powless III were reminiscing about community running events when they were in middle school.

"We used to have all these fall running series, used to bring in well known, notable runners who would come in and do running camps, clinics, and then top it off with a race," said Powless.

"I actually was talking to a guy at the Green Bay Downtown farmers market and he was talking to my Mom about the Oneida Running Club and the running series they had back in the 80s. It was nice because he met a lot of people from Oneida and remembers a lot of the 'old schoolers' with fond memories," stated White in an email. "I think about all the kids I remember running with in Oneida that have kids of their own now."

"We thought, well, why can't we do that?" said Powless.

The duo plan to kick off their running series with the Oneida Family 5K Run/Walk on July 2 at 8:00am. The 3.1 mile route will start near the Oneida One Stop on Highway 54 and Seminary Road and will follow the trail on the old railroad track. There will be a $5 suggested donation.

"All the funds will be used towards … a fall running series we're looking at doing," said Powless. The funds will help pay for fruit and water along the fall series routes, which Powless and White want to hold for free.

"We want families to come out and run, and not think, well, I can't run because it's going to cost too much for me and my kids," said Powless. "We don't want the fee to discourage anyone from running."

Powless has taken up running half-marathons in recent years.

"For me, running is an inexpensive way to get out there and be physically fit," he said. "I've run four half-marathons, and each time it's gotten a little bit better."

Powless sees physical activity as a way to fight a disease that's plaguing the Oneida community – diabetes. Holding the run/walks is a way to encourage healthy lifestyles.

"It's not about being competitive, it's about coming out and having a good time, exercising with your families and enjoying each other's company," he said.

OBC Forum...

This is my final Business Committee Forum message as Councilman. It's been fun, and I've been honored and humbled to serve. If any of my work is to have meaning for the future, I would hope that the following message regarding "Freedom of Choice" would be that work. The message is not anti-tradition or anti-anything. I believe the message to be pro-youth and pro-freedom of parents to choose how their children will grow into adulthood. It seems like only yesterday that I made that choice as a parent. I enrolled all my children at Oneida Tribal School. I wanted them to learn about our traditions, our songs and our ceremonies. And they learned and as adults today, I think they've benefited. But along with learning about traditions, songs and ceremonies, life holds more. I believe all leaders who truly serve their people, should always recognize that children, along with learning about the history and the ways of their own people, should be allowed and encouraged to follow the dictates of their own hearts and minds as long as those dictates are not harmful to others. The following is that message I wrote almost six years ago:

FREEDOM of CHOICE

"I wrote about a young Indian leader from the Northwest who brought up an interesting topic of discussion. He proudly told of his tribe's new policy of mandating that their youth in order to become full members of their tribe, would have to demonstrate that they were competent in their understanding and exercise of their traditional ceremonies. If the youth did not comply, they were punished by not being allowed to become adult members of the Tribe. I questioned the fairness of their practice.

Ed Delgado
Councilman

I asked him, 'What happened to those youth who had other interests, like music, like pursuing careers, or exploring other religious practices.' I was promptly told that what his tribe did was not my business. He was right, it was not my business.

Over the years, I've often thought about that short discussion. I've often wondered how that worked out for those tribal youth who were more inclined to think for themselves and to make decisions regarding their own lives based upon their own values. I have often wondered about their more free-thinking Indian youth. Were they punished, were those wonderful free thinking minds destroyed by having to bow down to the dictates of authoritarian leaders who would punish their own people for actions that should never be punishable?

THANKS FRANK

A few weeks ago, some on the Business Committee were promoting the posting of a Commerce Director-Manager position at an E-12 level (an E-612 is a wage of between $116,000 and $189,000 annually with a 30% fringe tacked on). Tribal member Frank Cornelius, former U.S. Marine, wrote a strong letter in the Kalihwisaks. To say he cautioned us to watch our spending would be putting it mildly. Two days ago, the Business Committee voted to deny the posting of the very expensive position. I made the motion to deny.

Frank Cornelius has also expressed concerns about the Seven Generations Corporation owned by the Tribe. He expressed concerns about the Corporation's financial accountability and the Biomass project which is not proven anywhere to be either profitable or environmentally sound. Thanks, Frank.

Letters & Opinions...

Increasing Bureaucracy

Reading the Kalihwisaks issued May 19, 2011 gave me a bird's-eye view of what is to come if GTC votes in the Judicial System. Look at the story by Dawn Walchinski. It will make you laugh, then cry. The bureaucrats and all our high paid help.

Gerald Doxtator had a simple question, "Why does it take 3 months to get an appointment?" Bureaucrat No. 1 Kathy Hughes said, "Ask management to look at case management." Bureaucrat No. 2 Mr. Doxtator was asked to work with Behavioral Health No. 3. Bureaucrat No. 4 Debbie Thundercloud suggests another person, Bureaucrat No. 5. New Ombudsperson to gather customer input and report to Bureaucrat No. 6. Why couldn't the BC ask the Director in the Behavioral Health Program why it took so long (3 months) for an appointment? Would anyone of you want to wait 3 months to see a Doctor? Could not the doctor give a referral? Could not Contract Health send him to outside service in 3 days—NOT 3 months? Why are we paying out the big bucks for a Bi Bureaucracy?

We elected the BC to help us. They hire a General Manager to do their work, she gives the work to another person to get the facts. You would think common sense would tell you if you want to get a direct answer go to the source.

I believe the Tribal Judicial System would create another step to go through before you get to appear in front of the BC. right now, under our Constitution, we can be heard in front of the GTC who is supreme authority on all Tribal matters. Let's cut out the middle Bureaucratic man. Go right to the source.

Corrections to Previous Letter

Corrections in Bullying Letter in June 16 Issue.

The first mistake was in the Kalihwisaks typing on the case number. It should read case number 2008CM001452. The second error was mine. It should read that Merlin J. Cornelius Sr. was ordered to pay Isaac Jordan $60.00 restitution. There was not a $60 fine. The rest of the letter was true and correct.

My apologies.

Facing the Issues

Dear Editor,

I want to thank Councilman Tehassi Hill for his candor and willingness to address the tough issues facing our Nation in his last BC Forum in the Kalihwisaks. Councilman Hill stands firm on the Tribe's sovereignty and directly addresses the issues we need to resolve in order to ensure a brighter future for our children. In the last BC forum, Councilman Hill discussed the Tribe's conflicts with Hobart surrounding the liquor license at Thornberry Creek. Essentially, Hobart has treated the Oneida Golf Enterprise Corporation (OGE) differently than any other liquor license applicant. First, Hobart conditioned OGE's licenses on the Tribe paying charges levied against land owned by the United States. Hobart has never required any other business to pay someone else's taxes as a condition of obtaining a liquor license. Second, Hobart claimed that it could require the Tribe to pay charges even if they are not owed in order for Hobart to grant OGE a liquor license. Simply put, this doesn't make any sense.

I applaud Councilman Hill's straightforward position addressing the reality of this dysfunctional relationship between the Tribe and Hobart. He supports the Tribe and defends our sovereignty. We stayed on the high road long enough. It is time to stand up to the bullying and get our community educated and involved.

Support Ed Delgado For Chairperson

I support Ed Delgado as the next Chairperson of the Oneida Business Committee because he too, has a good mind, and a good friendly heart, plus he is a veteran, has a Masters Degree, and is a senior member of the Oneida Business Committee. Also its very important to note that Ed has proven that he listens to and works for the people as many people know, and for which he has great support from our elders, veterans, employees, students, and members of the General Tribal Council. Though my good friend Ed and I disagree sometimes, and I do not necessarily endorse a lot of the travel the Business Committee spends on themselves and authorizes for each other, I believe Ed has questioned the spending the most and is the best choice to lead our nation and works towards the betterment of all tribal members, and hopefully will not be such a rubber stamp for the spending and authorization of millions and millions of our dollars—your dollars, which we entrust our leaders with. I do not agree with this culture of spending our nations money to the tune of millions of our dollars, nor do I agree with exorbitant salaries to the same people year in an year out, while Oneida Tribal Members can't get the most measly jobs through HRD Policies and Procedures. Others get fired for the slightest reasons, and others make 60, 70, 80, 90, 100 K plus year in and year out, decade after decade. I'm all for Tribal member prosperity, but I do not believe it should be of the chosen few in the cushiest job you can imagine, while others qualify. I know Ed is for openness and accountability.

John Orie

Need for unity

First I would like to say, I'm a proud member of Oneida Nation Tribe. I'm currently incarcerated at Oshkosh Correctional Institute. The reason I'm writing this is because when I first got here I began noticing that some of the brothers in here have taken up sides and being branded as gang members. It pains me to have to see my brothers being divided like this. When in actuality we as brothers should be looking out for one another, but instead we're looking at each other differently cause one is this and the other is that.

This has been an issue since day one. I've talked to some of the brothers that aren't even affiliated with gangs and they too feel the same way. I can't help but feel sorry for the people what I call "Fallen Brothers", majority of our brothers have fallen to the sway of prison politics, which has huge influences on our younger generation. We are trying our hardest to stick together and show unity, and not represent something that has no means to us. How I feel about the situation is just because they have been representing something that doesn't apply to us, that I still will help and guide these brothers in the right direction. So what I'm telling to my people of all nations, that even though there are some bad apples in the state of Wisconsin, there are good people on the inside trying to do good. If some of you people feel differently or would to like to tell me your thoughts, or just like to write someone, write me. I will answer. I would love to read your thoughts about this depressing dilemma that we inmates face everyday.

Response to Dallas Letter

Oneida General Tribal Council:

In the last issue of the Kalihwisaks a letter was published from Judicial Officer Linda Dallas to the Oneida General Tribal Council. Confidentiality requirements prevent us from fully addressing Judicial Officer Dallas' allegations. Please know that we are addressing the issue internally. When a decision is reached, it will be forwarded to the Kalihwisaks for publication. We respectfully ask the General Tribal Council to be patient as our internal process runs its course.

Oneida Tribal Judicial System

Per Capita Petition

I would like to ask you a question: Are you hurting financially right now?

If you answer the above question with yes, I would like all Oneida people to know that I have two (2) petitions that are nearly ready to be turned into the Tribal Secretary's office.

One petition is for a per capita proposal and the other prevents all boards, committees and commissions within the tribe from hiring high-paying individuals without GTC knowledge, consent, and approval. The reason I drafted these two petitions is because I believe the tribe can greatly benefit from both of them.

Under my per capita petition, Oneida elders 62+ would receive their current respective per capita PLUS $500.00 per GTC meeting with six (6) GTC meetings being held per year. Two of those six (6) GTC meetings would be held in accordance with the Oneida constitution. This $500.00 GTC meeting payment would act as a social security plan that GTC ordered management to develop over 13 years ago but somehow morphed into the Oneida Life Insurance Plan Plus. That would mean an additional $3,000 per year for each elder 62+ PLUS their regular per capita. Minors would still receive their current $1,200.00 per year. All enrolled Oneidas between the ages of 21-61 would no longer receive per capita payments but instead would receive $500.00 for each of the six (6) GTC meetings held each year. Two of those meetings would be considered constitutional as required. That means ages 21-61 would no longer get $1,200.00 per capita but would increase to $3,000.00 for each enrolled member between ages 21-61 if they attended all six (6) GTC meetings. What is all of this going to cost the tribe you now ask? Well, despite increasing enrolled Oneida members pay, I am still saving over $1.4 million a year from the Tribe's current yearly distribution of approximately $25 million. Under this proposal, I allow for 3,000 enrolled members to attend each GTC meeting. If fewer than 3,000 enrolled members attend, the tribe would be saving more money. If more than 3,000 enrolled members attend the GTC meetings, then there would be no increase up to the $1.4 million already saved. The GTC meetings could be held in a nearby facility large enough to hold 3,000+ enrolled members plus voting could be done electronically instead of by hand.

This is just a brief overview of my per capita proposal but will share my entire plan and information once I come before GTC. I believe this to be a plan that will benefit all Oneidas, especially those hurting financially right now.

The second petition will prevent all Oneida boards, committees, and commissions from creating any jobs that pay over $55,000/year without GTC knowledge, consent and approval. They must provide GTC with a full job description and to whom the position would report. This will help prevent the BC, management, and other boards, committees or commissions from creating high paying jobs for family or friends.

Election Spotlight

Creating a System of Checks and Balances

Dear Editor,

The Oneida General Election, this year, has less candidates running for the Business Committee (BC), thanks to passage of the Primary Election amendment. We have 23 candidates for BC, selected by voters in the Primary Election, to be on the ballot for General Election, July 16th.

In order to have a well balanced tribal government, we also need to look at the candidates running for the Oneida Appeals Commission (OAC). Because the GTC is trying to pass the Judiciary Law, which will officially create a new tribal court, we need to vote for people who truly know and respect the "separation of powers," concept.

When we separate the powers of government into branches, like an Executive (BC and GMs), Legislative (GTC) and Judicial (tribal court), we create a system of checks and balances on each branch. They each have different responsibilities, and they oversee each other. The "separation of powers," in a government ensures that we won't have any dictator or one group of people holding all the power. We need this in order to protect the tribe and tribal member's rights and property.

So, choose Appeals Commission candidates who will be independent of the BC, and truly understand what their role and purpose is in that office. There are 20 candidates for the OAC, this year for 8 seats.

The red flag for me is that some of the candidates for both BC and OAC are associated with the 040 and the former Investigative Task Force. Time and again these folks have shown themselves to be disgruntled, disorganized, implausible, carrying sour grapes, and lay blame on others.

We need to be careful about who we vote for in these offices. We need BC and OAC officials who will respect the separation of powers.

I prefer candidates for BC and OAC who are professional, understand their roles, pro-active, and are trustworthy. Also, Oneida people want to see qualified leaders in office, not winners of a "popularity contest," or the results of big family voter blocks.

Let's evaluate candidates on their respective merits and visions for our nation. Take time to evaluate all of the candidates running for BC and the OAC this year. If you don't know them, from living and working with them in the community, it's hard to decide who are best qualified. In fact, some of the candidates shouldn't have been nominated because of their lack of education, experience, skills, professional demeanor, and mental stability.

The most important qualities our elected BC and OAC officials need are knowledge of our laws, Federal Indian Laws, Oneida History & Culture, Sovereignty, and the Oneida Treaties with the United States.

BC candidates also need to understand the concepts of economic development, job creation and revenue generation for the tribe. BC candidates must also have a high standard of ethics and good political skills.

Candidates for OAC need to be professional, objective, and educated in our laws and other legal systems.

Vote wisely.

Sincerely,
Sherrole Benton

Editorial

In the Great Law of the Iroquois Confederacy, it states that the chiefs shall have seven spans of thickness to their skins. This means they should not be easily moved to anger by criticism and offensive acts. Because our Oneida Business Committee (OBC) is made up of elected leaders, I expect at least six spans. I usually aim for five for myself. WHO SAID I WAS -1? COME HERE AND SAY THAT YOU … wait, wait, deep breaths, ok, all better.

In this age of electronic media, verbal slings and arrows seem to fly faster and spread further than before. People can create email lists or make up fake accounts on social websites, (what's it called, bettybook?) and put out all sorts of skin-scraping rumors.

You have to admire leaders who shrug it off, even if they have to expend some energy counteracting what's being spread. Moreover, there's respect for a leader who listens to others and takes what they say seriously, even when that person is spewing venom and/or utter nonsense.

Some might like people who seem passionate about the issues, and that's fine. However, passionate speech generates passionate response. The real test is how those people respond to people who disagree with them. If they can argue calmly and rationally, then good for them. If they see people disagreeing with them as a personal attack, they may not be the best candidate. Moreover, there are people who seem to go looking for insults so they can cry to anyone who will hear them "they're picking on me!"

When our Oneida citizens head to the polls this summer, I hope they keep the seven spans philosophy in mind when selecting a candidate. Choose people who are open to the opinions of others, who can take constructive criticism and ignore destructive criticism, and also can tell the two apart.

If you disagree with me, nanananabooboo.

Response to Tehassi Hill's OBC Forum

Councilman Ron Tehassi Hill submitted a Kalihwisaks article published on June 16, 2011 that screams for rebuttal. In that article, Councilman Hill either knows nothing about what he writes or is not being truthful despite knowing the facts. There's no third option. Regardless of your belief, disbelief, agreement, or disagreement, here are the facts.

I, and we as a Village Board, have publicly stated time and again that we'll do whatever it takes to help make Thornberry Creek golf course a thriving enterprise. To do anything else would harm the village of Hobart's tax base. The surrounding neighborhood and the golf course itself are without equal in their beauty and developed assets. Any thinking individual would understand this, even if they knew nothing of the history or underlying legal issues between the Tribe and the Village.

To underscore this point, the village of Hobart unconditionally issued a "bridge" or temporary liquor license to the Tribe in March, 2009 with the sole intent of getting Thornberry's course and club house up and running immediately upon acquisition.

Three months later the Village issued a regular liquor license even though we disagreed with the Tribe's view regarding payment of storm water utility fees. It was the Village's proposal – not the Tribe's – to suspend payment of the contested fees, deposit them in an escrow account, and issue the regular liquor license in order to again support Thornberry.

The Village has provided the use of its water pump rest room facility near the 5th tee to Thornberry's golfers in exchange for a contracted maintenance fee, the intent of which is for the Village to simply break even.

We have within the last month officially resolved to issue yet another liquor license to Thornberry upon submittal of proper application and fee. We anticipate no problems and always stand ready to assist in countless other ways to partner with the Tribe in providing the most successful regional golf course.

The clincher is when Councilman Hill claims that the Village "has not treated our liquor license application as it would any other, and the conditions it has placed on the granting of that license are unreasonable and unlawful." Any and all conditions for a liquor license are the same for any and all applicants and that's the simple truth, Mr. Hill. To be perfectly blunt, Mr. Hill, the Village of Hobart does not see "tribe" or "race" or any other institutionalized distinction between people or groups when it comes to dispatching the Village's responsibilities or exercising its authority. If only that could be so claimed by every government entity!

The Tribe is heading down a very dark road if it elects a leader who cannot or will not speak the truth to its own members and neighboring government officials. Falsehoods are financially costly, redirecting Tribal funds away from productive needs and goals. Falsehoods also go beyond levels of inter-governmental relations - they pierce interpersonal relations we have with each other as fellow villagers, fellow Americans, and fellow humans.

Response from OGEC President

Dear Friends,

As President of the Oneida Golf Enterprise Corporation I hope to provide you with some insight in regard to the progress we have made since we opened, despite many challenges. Oneida Golf Enterprise Corporation (OGEC) is a separate entity of the Oneida Tribe that operates Thornberry Creek at Oneida. We are a tribally chartered corporation wholly owned by the tribe. It is not our desire to be in the middle of Oneida and Hobart's ongoing challenges. Because we are a separate entity from the Oneida Tribe, we simply want to operate a successful business that isn't constantly used as fodder.

We have hosted meetings at our clubhouse to address concerns from our community, we attended home owner association meetings to open the lines of communication and assure them we planned to keep the business open. We also sent letters to members of our course and informed them of our desire to keep the course in operation. At these meetings we were treated warmly and the community welcomed us as owners and operators of Thornberry Creek at Oneida.

- The obstacles that OGEC has faced included a liquor license denial, which placed weddings and events that were booked prior to our taking over the course in jeopardy.
- Furthermore, early in our first year of operation, without notice, customers were denied access to a bathroom they had been using for years previous to our ownership. We were notified that use would require an agreement and payment. We met those terms and continue to do so annually.
- Additionally, the Village Board decided to paint the water tower on our course during our prime season, forcing closure of our routed course, which caused major imposition to our clientele. We apologized to our customers and continued business as best we could.
- Obstructed access to Thornberry Creek at Oneida has also been a challenge. The roads in front of the course and access roads have been an obstruction as well as weight limits that have been imposed. Weight limits deter our delivery trucks and cause our vendors to utilize alternative vehicles for some major deliveries.

As you can see, there have been many challenges that we have been subject to as we strive to make our business successful.

As a sign of good faith OGEC has applied for a liquor license from the Village of Hobart based upon a Hobart Village Board resolution that resolve to issue a license to Thornberry Creek at Oneida.

It is our desire to work cooperatively with our neighbors, within the State of Wisconsin as a business of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin. The future success of Thornberry Creek at Oneida depends upon our ability to operate without hindrance. We are in a very competitive business. Northeast Wisconsin has many fine golf courses and dining establishments that prompt our business to go the extra mile in our highly competitive market. We are "Best of the Bay", an honor we recaptured this year. We are voted the best because we strive for the best and settle for nothing less. Most recent and notable accomplishment is that we have become certified by Audubon International for our environmental planning for creating a golf course that is eco-friendly.

These challenges between Oneida and Hobart should remain between Oneida and Hobart and Thornberry Creek at Oneida should be left out. OGEC is a separate entity from the Oneida Tribe and we should be treated on our merits. We pay our taxes and provide 100 jobs in this community. We should be valued for our ability to operate a successful operation in these challenging economic times. It is our sincere desire to move forward with a vision of growth, prosperity and success for Thornberry Creek at Oneida.

I welcome any inquiries or concerns that I might address on behalf of the OGEC. You may call me at 920-869-4270 or email me at bwebst@oneidanation.org.

Sincerely,
Bobbi Webster,
President
Oneida Golf Enterprise Corporation

Ethics complaint decision issued against Judicial Officer Linda Dallas

Pursuant to the Oneida Tribal Judicial System Rules of Discipline, after adjudication of an ethics complaint is complete, the decision shall be forwarded to the Kalihwisaks for publication. The decision below was issued against Judicial Officer Linda Dallas on June 7, 2011. The file in this matter is now an open record.

Ethics Hearing Panel
Honorable Winnifred L. Thomas, Chief Judicial Officer Petitioner
Docket #10-Ethics-003 vs
Honorable Linda S. Dallas
Respondent
Date: June 7, 2011

Decision

This case has come before the Oneida Tribal Judicial System. Judicial Officers James Van Stippen (Pro Tem), David Webster (Pro Tem), Richard Ackley (Pro Tem), presiding.

I. Background

This case involves an Ethics Complaint Pursuant to Article III of the Oneida Tribal Judicial System Rules of Discipline, filed against Judicial Officer Linda Dallas.

Judicial Officer Dallas was convicted on August, 23, 2010 of operating a motor vehicle with prohibited blood alcohol content in violation of Wis. Stat. 346.63(1)(b). The offense took place on November 18, 2009 during Ms. Dallas' current term as a Judicial Officer. Ms. Dallas was fined $691.50. The matter is listed as Outagamie County v. Linda Dallas, Case No. 2009 TR 010682.

By violating the laws of another jurisdiction Ms. Dallas has engaged in misconduct and therefore is subject to discipline under the Oneida Tribal Judicial System Rules of Discipline. Our Judicial Code of Conduct has been violated in Article III 3-2 and Article V 5-1.

II. Issues

Is Honorable Linda Dallas in violation of the stated Oneida Tribal Judicial System Article III 3-2 and Article V 5-1.

Should Honorable Linda Dallas be considered in default for non-appearance at a hearing scheduled for June 1, 2011.

III. Analysis

Honorable Linda Dallas was convicted as charged within Complaint 10-Ethics-003 by another Jurisdiction, therefore is subject to the Oneida Judicial Code of Conduct and other Oneida Tribal Laws, rules or regulations. The authority vested within the Oneida Tribal Judicial System pursuant to Resolution 8-19-91-A of the General Tribal Council.

Elect Tehassi HILL for Oneida Tribal Chairman

Dear Oneida Community Members:

I write this letter on behalf of Ron "Tehassi" Hill, and to express my support in his desire and commitment to serve as Chairman for the Oneida Indian Nation of Wisconsin.

Tehassi is a humble man, and, a man of... "principle" - principles based on thorough research and grounded in "what is right" for the betterment of the Oneida community as a whole. During my tenure as the Oneida Chairman I had the opportunity to see firsthand, the positive impact Tehassi made in his service on boards and commissions.

A graduate of the Oneida Nation School system, Tehassi dedicated himself to bringing forward ideals and perspectives from a student's view - recommendations, many of which have improved the quality of education for all students.

Tehassi's dedication and his leadership on the Oneida Land Commission have resulted in astounding improvements in the environment, and have restored and preserved many of the natural resources in and around the Oneida Reservation, for the benefit of all.

In recent years, I have observed Tehassi as he expressed views on matters important to Oneida, before hundreds of tribal leaders of the National Congress of American Indians, and the National Indian Gaming Association. In every instance, Tehassi was prepared with factual based remarks. Equally important, the manner in which he delivered his message was convincing and well received – it made me feel proud to be Oneida.

Ron "Tehassi" Hill is a gentleman who treats everyone with respect and dignity – he has the highest level of integrity, and he is a man of "principle".

Respectfully,
Gerald L Danforth

Dear Oneida Community Members:

Tehassi Hill is qualified to be the next Chairman of the Oneida Tribe. Tehassi's character stands out because he is intelligent, experienced and totally dedicated to the Oneida people.

During his tenure as a member of the Oneida Tribal Council, OBC, he has demonstrated a willingness to listen to the views of others. When he addresses colleagues of members of the Oneida General Tribal Council publically and personally he is courteous, patient and informative. I have never observed Tehassi lose his temper, panic in frustration or to react irrationally in challenging circumstances.

Tehassi is a dignified and well respected young man who will carry the responsibility of leadership as Chairman of the Oneida Tribe with honor and humility.

With his Longhouse background, I know Tehassi to be devoted to the Oneida culture and language. I have observed his development into maturity by his willing acceptance of responsibility in the Longhouse traditions and participation in the different ceremonies throughout the year. Tehassi also is dedicated fostering and improving relations with our Oneida relatives in Canada and New York. Tehassi is a dignified and well respected young man who will carry the responsibility of leadership as Chairman of the Oneida Tribe with honor and humility.

It is without any hesitation that I support the election of Tehassi Hill as the next Chairman of the Oneida Tribe. He is the right man, in the right place, at the right time.

Jerry L. Hill (aka Gerald L)
Retired and 1st Chief Counsel of the Oneida Tribe
Attorney at Law, Emeritus

Tehassi Hill is a hard-working and honest person who loves his people and his community. He is a husband, father and family man who has the dedication to serve his Oneida people and their families. He is a young man with an old soul that ...possesses the wisdom to be a good Chairman and lead the Oneida people with a strong heart and good mind. His common sense allows him to bring a good attitude towards those issues that require thoughtful deliberation, while having the ability to learn from and listen carefully to what others have to say, which are some of the main attributes of strong leadership.

Tehassi is a student of the Oneida language, and understands our Oneida history, culture and customs and how that defines who we are as Oneida people today. His strong cultural values will help to guide his leadership as Oneida continues to address those issues that affect and impact our Oneida Reservation and membership for today and the next seven generations. He has the ability to understand governmental and business issues, and how to work well with others both inside and outside the Tribe to address those issues with respect and integrity.

Through his strong leadership based upon his cultural and family values, Tehassi Hill will serve the Oneida people with a good heart and good mind as Oneida continues to become a stronger nation today and tomorrow. A man of Tehassi Hill's caliber is our future.

Oneida Treaty History Panel

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Land Claims Commission (OLCC) attempted to consolidate over 500 years of history into two hours with an Oneida Treaty History Panel held Thursday evening, June 2 at the Norbert Hill Center.

Panelists Oneida Chief of Staff Bill Gollnick and author of two Oneida history books Gordon McLester led discussion on the roots of treaty making going back before colonization of the Americas.

According to Gollnick, Native Americans have been creating treaties between each other which were maintained through oral tradition, which has a reputation of being less reliable than the written word. However, Gollnick argues written documents can be just as malleable.

"We're still interpreting things that were written down every day," said Gollnick.

Treaties between the Iroquois nations of which Oneida is a part and the United States of America go back to before the US Constitution was ratified. Major treaties include Fort Stanwix, Fort Schuyler, Fort Herkimer, and Fort Harmar. Post-Constitution documents include the 1793 Non-intercourse Act which forbids states or individuals from acquiring tribal land without federal consent, and the 1794 Canandaigua Treaty which confirmed Oneida's rights to their land.

Discussion turned to the issue of sovereignty and how it can be defined.

"These treaties also provide us with the ability to maintain and help strive and push forward what has been set in motion by our past elders, to keep our sovereignty, because that sovereignty is inherent, it's ours," said McLester. "The only reason we exist today in this room, in this territory is that we believe in who we are. We believe in what the Creator gave us, and if we have to use treaties to help as a tool to continue keeping that inherent sovereignty alive, we'll do that."

It is my goal...

...to reach out to my Oneida membership in the next several weeks to hear your concerns and thoughts about how our government should move forward. It is my hope that most of this community will share the same concerns that I have in regard to a responsible government. I am concerned about honest and open government, fiscal responsibility, planning for the future, and better communication. As a candidate, I pledge to enter this campaign with honesty and professionalism. I invite anyone who would like to know my official positions to contact me.

Several people have encouraged me to run for Tribal Secretary. The main reason I have declared my candidacy is because I have the best interest of the Oneida Tribe in my heart. I have a very good position in management at the Radisson, so I am not running because I need a job. I am running because I care and I can make a difference. I am someone who knows what it's like to be a bingo worker, a waitress, a blackjack dealer, and a receptionist. I value our front line workers for the work they do and I know they have a hard time making ends meet. Our front line workers need to make better wages. We don't need another wage study that explains what we already know. We need to utilize the many studies that have already been done, as there is no need to reinvent the wheel.

As we approach the upcoming election, I will continue to utilize social media as one of my forms of communication to share my thoughts, my concerns, and my goals for the Oneida Nation.

I am asking for your support and encourage you to be involved in the upcoming election by exercising your right to vote. Together, we can and will make a difference.

Oneida Business Committee Wrap: June 22, 2011

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Business Committee (OBC) took action to address the growing concerns about seating at General Tribal Council (GTC) meetings during June 22 OBC regular meeting.

With GTC meeting attendance averaging 1500 strong, open seats for voting members have become harder to find. OBC action will limit access to the July 4 GTC meeting to tribal members who are 21 years-old or older. The action will be considered a short-term fix to ensure all voting GTC members will have seating.

Present: Kathy Hughes - Vice-Chairwoman, Patty Hoeft - Secretary, Ed Delgado - Councilmember, Trish King - Councilmember, Melinda Dan forth - Councilmember

Excused: Rick Hill - Chairman, Tina Danforth - Treasurer, Tehassi Hill - Councilmember, Brandon Stevens - Councilmember

Oaths of office were administered to Lisa Skenandore and Eric Boulanger for their terms on the Oneida Public Safety Pension Board.

OBC minutes from the June 8 regular meeting were approved.

Resolutions

Support was given to the Great Lakes Inter-Tribal Epidemiology Center Indian Health Service grant application. The application assists the center's ability to address Indian health issues.

A resolution transferring the right-of-way to the Green Valley Subdivision was approved.

The Tribal Energy and Mineral Development Program Grant Bureau of Indian Affairs/Division of Energy and Mineral Development application was approved. The application will examine the feasibility of using reservation resources for energy purposes.

A procedure set out by the Oneida Election Board to issue fines for the illegal placement of campaign signs was deferred to the Law Office to offer clarification and bring back to the OBC at a future meeting. The law outlines a fine process for campaign signs placed in illegal places.

A resolution supporting the re-classification of Highway 41 to U.S. Interstate 55 was approved.

Recognition by resolution for the newly created Oneida Chamber of Commerce was given by the OBC. The chamber is open to all businesses but focuses those owned by tribal members.

A resolution supporting the United League of Indigenous Nations was approved. The group is a political and economic alliance of tribes furthering the efforts of Indian nations.

Standing Committees

Legislative Operating Committee meeting minutes were approved from their June 1 meeting.

Resolutions amending domestic animals laws, hunting, fishing and trapping laws, child custody, placement and visitation laws, paternity laws, and child support laws were approved.

Finance Committee

Minutes from the June 17 Finance Committee meeting were approved.

Travel

Melinda Danforth, Region 5 Technical Operations Committee Meeting, July 18-19, Chicago, IL. The request was approved and not funded by tribal dollars.

General Tribal Council

The OBC moved to set a GTC meeting for Monday, August 29 to hear the proposed fiscal year 2012 budget along with four resolutions regarding the tribe's beef herd, restoring medical specialists at the Health Center, along with a funding request for hand-held voting devices at future GTC meetings.

Follow Up/OBC Directives

A report from the Ombudsperson assessing Oneida Behavioral Health's operations was approved along with the content of the report being referred to the Quality of Life committee for recommendation in 60 days.

A plan to allow a dining room with a capacity of 154 at the Oneida Resident Community Centered Care facility was approved. The dining room capacity was tentatively cut to reduce costs, but was met with push back from the Oneida Nation Commission on Aging.

The Commerce/Enterprise General Manager or Director position was rejected as no funds were identified in upcoming budgets.

New Business/Requests

A request to increase the proposed raise to employees from 1.8 percent to 2.5 percent was deferred to budget consolidation meetings.

A proposal to change status of Oneida boards, committee, commission members to employees instead of contractors was referred to the Chief Counsel and Chief Financial Officer to bring back to the OBC. Tax ramifications triggered the request.

A plan outlining the transition to the newly elected OBC was approved.

A memorandum of understanding between the Oneida Tribe and Big Brothers Big Sisters was approved.

A tribal member request for audio and video of GTC meetings were approved. The information will be used in a dissertation and be held in confidentiality. The request was approved as long as the dissertation was shared with the OBC prior to publish.

Added Items

A video expressing concern over the New York Oneida's leadership was shared with the OBC. It was accepted as informational.

Executive Session

Executive Managers reports from the Chief of Staff and Chief Financial Officer were accepted. The OBC directed the Law Office to request a waiver regarding issue of qualifications to be an eligible voter, and directed the office to communicate with the Bureau of Indian Affairs to request both absentee ballot and polling sites.

Reports on the wampum belt and New York Oneida relations and online gaming were approved. The financial report from the Oneida Airport Hotel Corporation was accepted.

The business plan for the Oneida One-Stop Larsen Road location was approved along with the transition of treasury management services to M&I Bank.

A pardon recommendation for Michelle Foote Four Souls was approved.

The next OBC meeting is scheduled for July 13 at the Norbert Hill Center.

Facebook: "Cathy Bachhuber" – Politician category

I chose this time to run for the Oneida Business Committee because I feel I can be a valuable asset to the Oneida Tribe due to my legislative experience and legal training. I have always had a passion for the legal field and truly enjoy reviewing and analyzing the Tribe's legislation, which includes incorporating laws and policies, with our history and culture. The ability to make good and fair policy decisions will be a vital component of being an OBC member and I feel I have the right skills and desire to be actively involved through a whole term.

Improving community outreach is essential to a productive term. Much progress has already been made however I'd like to promote utilizing the time before GTC meetings for informational purposes and obtaining feedback in order to maximize input on important topics.

An important part of making well-rounded sound decisions includes obtaining sound facts from those knowledgeable and trained but balancing that information with the best interest of the Nation as a whole along with the interests of those who will be ultimately affected.

I do believe in and fully support change-but not at the expense of improving what already works. Change cannot be made for the sake of change but should rather be done in order to improve, correct or address a specific issue. I believe in getting to the root of a problem not just making a temporary fix to address again later on.

There are many issues the new Oneida Business Committee will need to tackle following the elections and I look forward to the challenge!

Sharon House surprised by "Proven Leaders" award

By Brent Truttmann

For the past six years, "Casino Enterprise Management" magazine picks ten women for their "Great Women of Gaming" award, and this year Oneida's Attorney at Law Sharon House won in the category "Proven Leaders". The award came as a shock not necessarily from House's natural humble attitude, but that she was unaware that she was nominated.

"I thought it was a joke," said House as she was notified of her achievement during a meeting in California, but if she did not know of her nomination, who did? House suspects one of her friends or clients, but is not entirely sure.

The award came with strict qualifications such as a ten year dedication to her position in the gaming industry, have a director or higher standing, and demonstrate exception achievement in at least three of five areas: ability to go above and beyond job responsibilities; commitment to company and co-workers, contributions to the industry as a whole, commitment to mentoring, and strong overall life balance.

House will receive a crystal, an article about her in the "Casino Enterprise Management" magazine, and a chance to be featured in a CEM Audio Edge podcast.

While House's nominator remains a mystery, House remains humble throughout the entire experience. "Other women are more worthy or just as worthy," said House, " I just happened to be there at the right time." She also believes that "Nobody wins an award by themselves," and would like to thank her mentors as she grew up in gaming: Purcell Powless, Mark Powless, Francis Skenandore, Jerry Hill, Rick Hill, Louise Cornelius, Dawn Reiter, and all other individuals that have worked in Oneida Gaming for the past thirty years. House would also like to thank especially her family, "for the supporting me all these years," and the Oneida Tribe because "I learned everything from the Tribe."

Casino Enterprise Management magazine, the leading gaming industry trade publication and training event producer, and the "Official Publication" of the Association of Gaming Equipment Manufacturers (AGEM), is pleased to announce the winners of its 2010 Great Women of Gaming Awards, now in its sixth year.

For the second time in the awards' history, the judging panel was unable to break a tie in one of the categories. Due to a deadlock decision, this year there are 11 winners rather than 10. The awards are broken down into two categories: Proven Leaders and Rising Stars.

The 2010 Great Women of Gaming Proven Leader Award Winners are:

- Patricia Becker, Executive Director, International Gaming Institute, UNLV, and Senior Director, Networked Gaming Technical Operations, WMS Gaming
- Sharon House, Attorney at Law, Oneida Nation of Wisconsin
- Darlyne Sullivan, General Manager and Executive Vice President, Atlantis Casino Resort Spa

To qualify as a Rising Star, candidates must have worked in the gaming industry for a minimum of three years and have been in their current position for at least one year. They must also work for a gaming industry company and hold a position of manager or higher, having demonstrated exceptional achievement in at least three of the following areas: 1) ability to go above and beyond job responsibilities; 2) commitment to company and co-workers; 3) contributions to the industry as a whole; 4) commitment to mentoring; and 5) strong overall life balance.

The 2010 Great Women of Gaming Rising Star Award Winners are:

- Jennifer Bighorse, Marketing Director, Osage Million Dollar Elm Casino
- Colleen Birch, Director of Revenue Management & Distribution, The Cosmopolitan of Las Vegas
- Audrey Damonte, Director Government Relations & Legal Affairs, IGT
- Christine Gabaldon, Player Development Manager, Buffalo Thunder Resort and Casino and Cities of Gold Casino
- Candace Lucas, Executive Director of Marketing Operations, WMS Gaming
- Georgia Noble, Chairwoman, Sac & Fox Business Enterprises Board

The judging committee was made up of former Great Women of Gaming award winners and other industry leaders. They included: Tracey Chernay, Executive VP of Sales and Marketing, TransAct Technologies; Linda Devine, Senior VP of Marketing, Barona Resort & Casino; Christie Eickelman, Senior Director of Worldwide Marketing, Gaming Laboratories International; Tina Kilmer, VP of Product Compliance, Bally Technologies; Debra Nutton, Senior VP of Casino Operations, MGM Grand Hotel and Casino; Mary Lynn Palenik, Director, Development, Research and Analysis, PricewaterhouseCoopers; Valerie Red-Horse, President, Red-Horse Financial Group; Linda J. Roe, VP of Business Development and Client Relations, Thalden • Boyd • Emery Architects; Lynn "Nay" Valbuena, Vice Chairwoman, San Manuel Band of Mission Indians; and Claudia Winkler, Senior VP of Professional Services, NEWave.

"The fact that there was a tie among our judges' votes goes to show just how accomplished the group of nominees was," said Peter Mead, publisher of Casino Enterprise Management magazine. "All of these women have much to be proud of, and Casino Enterprise Management is extremely honored to award them this recognition and share their stories with our audience. Our judges had a difficult decision, and I believe they did an excellent job selecting the top 11. It's been a pleasure of ours to continue to honor these women as they continue to strive for personal and professional excellence."

An in-depth article featuring profiles of this year's 11 award winners will be featured in the August 2011 issue of Casino Enterprise Management. The winners will also receive a prestigious crystal Great Women of Gaming Award and the chance to be featured in a CEM Audio Edge podcast. Campers were shown various areas of the Oneida Reservation and performed traditional tasks such as Medicine Picking with Sylvia Cornelius. The medicines were then dried with dryers rented from the Oneida Cannery and crushed to make salve that can be used as treatment of burns, rashes, mosquito bites, and skin irritation.

Camper Reina Garcia of Milwaukee said of the camp, "I don't get to come up here (Oneida) a lot so its good to see how things are here than in the city. I learned a lot more about the whole culture and the history and about the creator story and all that stuff. It's pretty cool.

Nygren challenges decision to leave him off ballot

By Dinesh Ramde
Associated Press

MILWAUKEE (AP) ~ A Republican state lawmaker filed a lawsuit Tuesday demanding that his name be placed on the ballot in an upcoming recall election against a Democratic state senator.

Rep. John Nygren of Marinette accused state elections officials of acting in haste Monday when they ruled him ineligible to run against Sen. Dave Hansen, of Green Bay. Nygren argued that he wasn't given a fair chance to defend his eligibility.

Nygren was one of six Republicans who filed paperwork to run in recall elections targeting three Democratic senators. All six candidates had to submit paperwork, including 400 signatures from voters in the relevant district, last week. Any challenges to the submissions had to be filed by Friday with the state Government Accountability Board.

Late Friday afternoon, the accountability board said Nygren was one of four Republicans whose paperwork had been challenged. The challenges, most of which alleged that signatures came from voters who didn't live in the proper districts, sought to have the questionable signatures tossed.

Nygren and the three other challengers had until Monday at 8 a.m. to address the challenges. A few hours after the deadline the board said the other three challengers would be listed on their respective ballots. However, it said several dozen of the 424 signatures that Nygren submitted had been disqualified, leaving him two short of the required minimum.

In his lawsuit, Nygren argued that he wasn't given enough time to address the challenges. He said it was unrealistic to expect that he meet a deadline of early Monday when he was only informed of the challenges late Friday.

If he'd been given more time, he said, he could have explained why some of the disputed signatures were indeed valid.

Nygren's lawyer listed a few of those explanations in a letter to the board. In one case, the letter said, a Green Bay man who lives in the proper Senate district had his signature improperly tossed because he listed his work address that fell outside the district.

The voter "should not be disenfranchised simply because he listed his business address on the nomination paper," the lawsuit said.

Board spokesman Reid Magney declined to comment on the substance of the lawsuit. He said election officials would proceed as planned unless a judge ordered them stop.

The Democratic Party of Wisconsin said Nygren was trying to deflect criticism onto the accountability board when instead he should accept the blame for his own "blunder."

"Rep. Nygren's meek attempt to blame the process and the rules that everyone must follow for his failure to collect 400 valid nomination signatures is embarrassing and just plain pitiful," party chairman Mike Tate said in a statement.

Nine state senators are being targeted for recall, following Republican Gov. Scott Walker's efforts earlier this year to strip collective-bargaining rights from most state employees. The efforts target six Republicans who supported the measure and three Democrats who fled the state to stall it.

The board approved the nomination paperwork of Hansen's other challenger, David VanderLeest of Green Bay. If Nygren's efforts to get on the ballot are successful, he'll face VanderLeest in a Republican primary July 19 with the winner taking on Hansen on Aug. 16. If VanderLeest is the only Republican on the ballot, the July 19 election will be the general election against Hansen.

On the other side, the six incumbent Republican senators will face general elections on Aug. 9, following Democratic primaries set for July 12.

Judge approves settlement over US Indian royalties

By Matthew Daly
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) ~ A federal judge on Monday approved a $3.4 billion settlement over mismanaged American Indian royalties in a case that represents the largest class-action settlement ever approved against the U.S. government.

Elouise Cobell of Browning, Montana, claimed in the 15-year-old suit that for more than a century, U.S. officials systematically stole or squandered billions in royalties intended for American Indians in exchange for oil, gas, grazing and other leases.

U.S. District Judge Thomas Hogan, in approving the settlement after a daylong hearing, said the legitimacy of Cobell's claims could not be questioned.

"The government mismanaged these resources on a staggering scale," Hogan said.

The settlement does not make up for the losses Indian tribes suffered for more than a century, Hogan added, but "at least it provides some certainty" to hundreds of thousands of individual Indians who will now receive payments of least $1,000 each from the government. Many will receive substantially more money.

Cobell, a member of the Blackfeet Tribe, will receive $2 million, and three other named plaintiffs will receive payments ranging from $150,000 to $200,000 each.

The government and lawyers representing Cobell settled the lawsuit in December 2009 after years of court battles and appeals. Congress approved the settlement at the end of last year, and President Barack Obama signed it into law. But the case still needed Hogan's approval, which he provided late Monday after a daylong hearing on the merits of the case and legal fees to be assessed.

In a statement, Obama said the decision "marks another important step forward in the relationship between the federal government and Indian Country."

Resolving the dispute was a priority for his administration, Obama said. He promised to engage in "government-to-government consultations with tribal nations" regarding the land consolidation aspect of the settlement to ensure that it moves quickly and fairly.

Under the settlement approved Monday, $1.5 billion will go to at least 300,000 Indian account holders. Another $1.9 billion will be used to buy back and consolidate tribal land that has become subdivided and difficult to manage over the years. An additional $60 million will go to a scholarship fund for Indian students.

After heated debate, Wis. union law takes effect

By Todd Richmond
Associated Press

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ After months of heated debate, ear-splitting protests and legal maneuvering, Gov. Scott Walker's divisive collective bargaining law is finally set to take effect.

Secretary of State Doug LaFollette published the law in the Wisconsin State Journal newspaper on Tuesday. The measure goes into effect Wednesday, capping an ugly four months in Madison that saw state senators flee the state and massive protests at the state Capitol.

"I think our Legislature could have done it better," said Platteville City Manager Larry Bierke, who must negotiate new contracts with the city's police dispatchers, water workers and public works workers under Walker's law. "It was messy and it really doesn't make Wisconsin look all that great. But in the end, this is what we were given from the state of Wisconsin and we will do everything we can to follow the state's guidance."

The law requires almost all public employees on all levels of government - from teachers to librarians to state Capitol janitors - to contribute more to their health care and pensions. The changes amount to an average 8 percent pay cut. The bill also strips them of almost all their collective bargaining rights, allowing them to negotiate only on wages.

Jodi Jensen, a spokeswoman for the state Department of Administration, said agency computer techs are busy reprogramming the state's payroll system to reflect the changes. State workers should see the first reductions on their Aug. 25 paychecks, she said.

The picture for local governments and school districts looks a bit murkier.

Some districts and municipalities reached new contracts with different union chapters this spring ahead of the law, in some cases shielding workers from some of the law's effects. At least 105 of the state's 424 school districts, for example, had reached new deals with teachers between the bill's introduction and February and Tuesday, according to the Wisconsin Association of School Boards.

But when those contracts expire, those unions will have to abide by Walker's law. Other unions across the state that didn't reach deals before Wednesday will have to do the same.

Walker ignited a national debate over labor rights when he introduced the plan in February. The Republican governor insisted the plan would generate savings to help plug the state's $3.6 billion deficit and give local governments the flexibility they'd need to deal with deep cuts in state aid.

But Democrats saw the proposal as an attempt to weaken unions, one of their key constituencies. The 14 minority Democrats in the Senate fled the state in a futile attempt to block a vote. Teachers stayed away from school. And tens of thousands of demonstrators converged on the state Capitol to protest the bill, turning the building into an around-the-clock campground for weeks.

The Republican-controlled Legislature ultimately passed the proposal with the Senate Democrats. Dane County District Attorney Ismael Ozanne filed a lawsuit in hopes of blocking the proposal, alleging Republican legislative leaders violated the state's open meetings law during deliberations. Ozanne's lawsuit threw the law into limbo until earlier this month, when the state Supreme Court's conservative majority issued a ruling upholding the law and clearing the way for publication.

The fight isn't over yet. Small bands of protesters still pack the Capitol rotunda daily during the noon hour, singing solidarity songs and chanting "Recall Walker!" Six Republicans and three Democratic senators face recall elections this summer over their positions on the plan. Meanwhile, a coalition of unions, including the Wisconsin Education Association Council, the state's largest teachers union, have filed a federal lawsuit in Madison alleging the law violates the U.S. Constitution by taking away union rights to bargain, organize and associate. The lawsuit seeks to block language erasing union rights but allows the higher pension and health care contributions.

"We were clear from early in that we believed we could reach concessions ... without losing collective bargaining rights," WEAC President Mary Bell said. "The chaos introduced in moving to a different system was unnecessary."

Phil Neuenfeldt, president of the Wisconsin AFL-CIO, didn't immediately return messages.

But for now, at least, the plan is the law of the land.

"Now that Wisconsin has a balanced budget and these important reforms are going to be formally implemented, we are going to focus on moving forward together to get Wisconsin working again," Walker spokesman Cullen Werwie said.

The city of Appleton is working on contracts with nearly a dozen union chapters covering park workers and clerical staff, among other positions. Sandy Neisen, the city's human resources director, said Mayor Tim Hanna has appointed a transition team to help determine what the city will offer those workers under Walker's law. The unions will no longer have any say in that process.

Neisen insisted city leaders don't want to strip workers of all their benefits, but the law does provide an opportunity to standardize benefit plans that varied across the union chapters, such as implementing a single dental plan for all the workers.

"There is potential for ease of administration," she said. "(City workers are) very, very fearful. The only way we can demonstrate to our employees is by our actions and show them. That's what's finally going to give them some comfort."

Ho-Chunk Legislature puts Rep. Pettibone on leave

BLACK RIVER FALLS, Wis. (AP) ~ The Ho-Chunk Nation Legislature has placed a representative on administrative leave until federal bribery charges against him are resolved.

Clarence Pettibone of Black River Falls was among three people charged in a 14-count indictment this week with bribery in connection with contracts awarded by the Ho-Chunk Nation.

Pettibone's term in the Ho-Chunk Legislature ends July 5, and he did not seek re-election. His leave is expected to last until his legislative term expires.

Ho-Chunk Nation Vice President Daniel Brown says the Legislature wanted to move "swiftly and fairly to protect and ensure the integrity" of the tribal government and businesses.

Pettibone's home phone was not answered Friday. His attorney, Marcus Jens Berghahn of Madison, says Pettibone intends to plead not guilty and "looks forward to vindicating his name in court."

State doesn't act to renew jobless benefits

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Extended federal unemployment benefits ran out in April, even though the state could have acted to renew them.

All but a few states have chosen to accept 13 additional weeks of unemployment coverage picked up by the federal government as part of the 2009 stimulus bill. The extended benefits are worth up to $363 a week.

The Journal Sentinel (http://bit.ly/lZLHZI) says that as a result, more than 10,000 unemployed Wisconsinites are no longer receiving an estimated $89 million in extended unemployment.

Rep. Robin Vos, the co-chairman of the Joint Finance Committee, is among legislators who think extending unemployment benefits give those without a job a reason not to take low-paying work.

The issue could come before the state Unemployment Insurance Advisory Council on Thursday.

Tribe exploring Catskill casino options

THOMPSON, N.Y. (AP) ~ The Stockbridge Munsee of Wisconsin say they're exploring their options now that the Obama administration has rescinded a rule that blocked Indian tribes from building casinos far from their reservations.

The Wisconsin tribe has been working for more than a decade to build a casino within day-tripping distance of the lucrative New York City market.

But the Stockbridge Munsee's proposal was derailed by the federal Department of the Interior in 2008 when it ruled that casinos should not be built beyond a reasonable commuting distance from a tribe's reservation. Officials feared that reservation residents would move to follow the new jobs.

The Obama administration rescinded the rule Tuesday, removing one roadblock for faraway tribes that want to build Catskill casinos.

Crews try to identify bones near blown-up levee

CHARLESTON, Mo. (AP) ~ Missouri state archaeologists and natural-resource specialists are trying to identify possibly ancient bone fragments unearthed last month when a southeast Missouri levee was intentionally breached to relieve flooding along the Mississippi River near its confluence with the Ohio River.

It's not clear if the discovery of the bones _ possibly from ancient tribal communities _ could delay plans to rebuild the Birds Point levee that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers blew up May 2. The agency breached the levee in Mississippi County to relieve pressure on the floodwall in Cairo, Ill., sparing that Ohio River town from being flooded but inundating about 130,000 acres of Missouri farmland in the process.

The Southeast Missourian of Cape Girardeau reported Tuesday that more than 143 bone fragments were found near the levee's north end range from chips to jaw parts and a nearly complete femur.

"These were some very old bones, with very dark colors. That means that they've probably been there for quite some time," said Mark Seesing, an area funeral director and embalmer who is part of the Missouri Funeral Directors and Embalmers Association's disaster response team.

Seesing said his research found there was no cemetery near the site, leading to speculation that the fragments either were from an early Missouri homesteading family or from a native burial mound. Mississippi County Coroner Terry Parker said some pottery and other relics were found at the site, indicating the bone fragments came from a native tribal community.

It's likely the force of the corps' explosions disinterred the bones, Seesing said.

The Mississippi valleys around southeast Missouri are replete with burial mounds, from ancient civilizations to early white explorers to family plots. The Oklahoma-based Osage Nation American Indian tribe had deep roots in Missouri, Kentucky, Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma by the mid-17th century. Victims of the Civil War also had been buried in the floodway.

It could take months to identify the remains and properly bury them, particularly if there are federal and tribal guidelines that must be followed.

Gov. Jay Nixon announced earlier this month that the corps was mobilizing its Memphis district to rebuild the three breach points in the levee to 51 feet, which is nearly a foot lower than it was when the corps blew parts of it up.

Jim Pogue, a regional Army Corps spokesman, could not say if the discovery of the bone fragments would slow the corps' efforts to rebuild the levee.

"There are certainly mitigation efforts that will need to take place, but as to whether or not they can be done parallel with the work, I honestly don't know," Pogue said.

Judith Deel, archaeologist with the Missouri Department of Natural Resources' State Historic Preservation Office, is heading the effort to identify the bones, with help from the Federal Emergency Management Agency, the corps and other state officials.

Challenger in Okla Indian chief race seeks recount

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) ~ A Tahlequah businessman says he'll seek a recount after the Cherokee Election Commission overturned his victory in the race for principal chief and declared the incumbent the winner.

Bill John Baker said in a statement that he's "obviously shocked" that an unofficial tally that had him winning by 11 votes was reversed on Monday.

Commission clerk Joyce Gourd didn't know why the unofficial results were overturned. The final count was 7,609 votes for Chief Chad Smith and 7,602 votes for Baker.

Before the reversal, Smith said he would seek a recount.

The Cherokee Nation is Oklahoma's largest Native American tribe and one of the nation's biggest, with a membership approaching 300,000 people.

Baker says he'll address the specifics of his recount request in the next two days.

Wildfire shuts Los Alamos lab, forces evacuations

By Susan Montoya Bryan
Associated Press

LOS ALAMOS, NM ~ Thousands of residents calmly fled from the town that's home to the Los Alamos nuclear laboratory, ahead of an approaching wildfire that sent up towering plumes of smoke, rained down ash and sparked a spot fire on lab property where scientists 50 years ago conducted underground tests of radioactive explosives.

Los Alamos National Laboratory officials said Monday that the spot fire was soon contained and no contamination was released. They also assured that radioactive materials stored in various spots elsewhere on the sprawling lab were safe from flames.

The wildfire, which began Sunday, had destroyed 30 structures south and west of Los Alamos by early Monday and forced the closure of the lab while stirring memories of a devastating blaze in May 2000 that destroyed hundreds of homes and buildings.

"The hair on the back of your neck goes up," Los Alamos County fire chief Doug Tucker said of first seeing the fire in the Santa Fe National Forest on Sunday. "I saw that plume and I thought, 'Oh my god here we go again.'"

Tucker said the current blaze - which grew Monday to roughly 44,000 acres (17,800), or 68 square miles (176 square kilometers) - was the most active fire he had seen in his career. By midafternoon, it had jumped a highway and burned an acre (0.4 hectares) of land on the outskirts of the lab's 36-square-mile (93-square-kilometers) complex.

The fire scorched about an acre (0.4 hectares) in the area known as the Tech Area, 49, which was used in the early 1960s for a series of underground tests with high explosives and radioactive materials. Lab officials said the fire was safely extinguished.

Lab spokesman Kevin Roark said environmental specialists from the lab were mobilized and monitoring air quality on Monday, but that the main concern was smoke.

The anti-nuclear watchdog group Concerned Citizens for Nuclear Safety, however, said the fire appeared to be about 3.5 miles (5.6 kilometers) from a dumpsite where as many as 30,000 55-gallon (208-liter) drums of plutonium-contaminated waste were stored in fabric tents above ground. The group said the drums were awaiting transport to a low-level radiation dump site in southern New Mexico.

Lab spokesman Steve Sandoval declined to confirm that there were any such drums currently on the property. He acknowledged that low-level waste is at times put in drums and regularly taken from the lab to the Waste Isolation Pilot Project site in Carlsbad.

Sandoval said the fire was "quite a bit away" from that storage area. But he could not say what would happen if drums containing such waste were to burn.

"Unfortunately, I cannot answer that question other than to say that the material is well protected. And the lab - knowing that it works with hazardous and nuclear materials - takes great pains to make sure it is protected and locked in concrete steel vaults. And the fire poses very little threat to them."

U.S. Sen. Tom Udall of New Mexico, who was visiting evacuees at the Santa Claran Hotel Casino in Espanola, said "there's no doubt" the lab stores a variety of hazardous and radioactive materials that "you don't want to escape in the atmosphere." But he said he was confident lab and state environmental officials had monitoring systems in place to "evaluate exactly what we're seeing here."

Traffic on Trinity Drive, one of the main roads out of Los Alamos, was bumper-to-bumper Monday afternoon as residents followed orders to leave. Authorities said about 2,500 of the town's roughly 12,000 residents left under an earlier voluntary evacuation.

"We're just hoping for the best," Vivian Levy, a resident since the 1970s said as she packed her car and her animals - again.

"Last time, I just walked out of my house and said goodbye, and that it was going to be OK," she said before breaking down in tears. "I'm doing the same thing this time. It's going to be OK. I'm prepared to say goodbye."

SEOTS: One Location, Two Addresses

By Mark W. Powless

Have you noticed different addresses provided for Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services in mailings or other notices? Perhaps you considered it an error or possibly a move to a new location. The fact of the matter is that SEOTS does have two different addresses.

SEOTS is located in the Morgan Office Park at the intersection of Morgan Avenue and South 68th Street in Milwaukee. It is a unique property because the building is bound by three streets; Morgan Avenue to the north, 68th Street to the east, and Wedgewood Drive to the south. Due to the configuration of the office park, there are businesses and organizations facing each of the streets that surround the building.

The space for SEOTS is a combination of two of the suites within the office park. Together, these suites run the entire length of the office park, from front to back. As a result, we have one address for the front of the building, and a different address for the back of the building. When SEOTS was established, one of the addresses had to be selected as the mailing address. The result was the back address as that is the area where the SEOTS administrative offices are located. Thus, the mailing address and the entrance during normal business hours is 6820 West Wedgewood Drive, Milwaukee, 53220.

The front entrance is used only for special occasion, such as community events. When mailers and flyers are sent out and posted, the front address of 6811 West Morgan Avenue is used.

In the future, if you have any questions regarding the proper entrance for your visit, feel free to contact the SEOTS office at 414-329-4101.

Native Strength Fashion Show

Milwaukee, WI ~ The stage is set for a fantastic display of Native American themed contemporary fashion and traditional regalia. The American Indian Task Force on Domestic Violence, Sexual Assault and Vulnerable Populations is having a fundraising event titled NATIVE STRENGTH.

The event will be held at the Potawatomi Bingo Casino - Woodland Dreams Ballroom in Milwaukee, Wisconsin on Wednesday, July 13th 2011 from 7pm to 10pm.

The event will feature a contemporary fashion show, traditional native American dance regalia presentation and a silent auction for which the proceeds will help the task force continue to provide services to it's clients.

The fashions showcased will be from Virgil Ortiz, Luci Womens' Boutique, White Star Mens' Boutique and accessories by Jaxie. Virgil Ortiz is a Cochiti Pueblo Native and his designs are heavily sought out by celebrities, royalty, rock stars, and collectors alike. In August of 2006, Ortiz launched his stunning collection of luxury handbags, outerwear and jewelry. Earth colored suede and leather jackets and handbags bear the VO Signature Marks. Water, Sun, Wild Spinach and Secret Writing are just some of the unique and symbolic elements that create the high demand for his pieces.

The fashions selected from Milwaukee's Luci Boutique and White Star Boutique will have a native flavor and demonstrate the ease in which anyone can integrate native style into their wardrobe. Jaxie will debut a new line of native inspired accessories at Native Strength.

Jaxie was started in 2009 by accident! Owner/designer Jackie Barutha found herself getting multiple compliments on her handmade hairpieces while walking the streets of LA. One person said "you HAVE to start your own line!" ... so she did! A couple hours and a couple hundred dollars later, Jaxie was born in LA's Fashion District.

In addition to a contemporary fashion show, there will be a segment featuring Native American traditional regalia. Various styles of traditional regalia will be showcased and the different styles will be described in detail as they are presented on the runway. The silent auction will include area business services and goods, as well as local and national items from Native American artists and vendors. For more inforamationm, go to our Facebook page NATIVE STRENGTH 2011. This event is sponsored by the Forest County Potawatomi Foundation.

All Offices will be CLOSED on

Put safety first with fireworks

MADISON – America's birthday celebration involves parades, backyard barbecues and, of course, fireworks. State officials encourage everyone to enjoy fireworks in a safe and responsible manner.

"Fireworks are fun, but they can be very dangerous if used incorrectly," said Dr. Henry Anderson, State Health Officer. "Each year, there are many serious injuries such as burns, vision and hearing loss. These injuries are easily preventable by proper and safe use of fireworks."

In 2009, 11 Wisconsin residents were hospitalized and 69 made emergency department visits because of fireworks-related injuries.

"Children are especially vulnerable to these injuries," said Sandy Chalmers, Administrator of the state Division of Trade and Consumer Protection. "Never give fireworks – even sparklers – to young children. Sparklers can burn at temperatures up to 2,000 degrees Fahrenheit. That is hot enough to cause third-degree burns."

Wisconsin law regulates the use of fireworks. Fireworks such as roman candles, firecrackers, bottle rockets, mortars – anything that explodes or leaves the ground – can only be purchased and used with a permit issued by your local government.

Non-explosive devices such as sparklers and cones do not require a permit, but that does not mean they can be used safely by children. A U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission report shows children are more likely to be injured by fireworks during the month surrounding the Fourth of July. Nearly half of the victims are under age 15.

When using fireworks, state officials urge people to follow these important safety tips:

- Never allow children to play with or ignite fireworks.
- Read and follow all warnings and instructions.
- A responsible adult should closely supervise all fireworks activities.
- Be sure other people are out of range before lighting fireworks.
- Never point or throw fireworks at another person.
- Light fireworks on a smooth, flat surface away from the house, dry leaves, and flammable materials.
- Light one item at a time, and then move back quickly.
- Never carry fireworks in a pocket or shoot them in metal or glass containers.
- Keep a bucket of water or a hose handy in case of a malfunction or fire.
- Most importantly, if fireworks fizzle and don't go off, douse them with water and do not relight them.

"The safest way to prevent fireworks-related injuries is to leave fireworks displays to trained professionals," Anderson said.

Sandhill Cranes on the Oneida Reservation

By Bill Koonz
Environmental Specialist

Sandhill Cranes along Olson Road.

The sandhill crane is a population recovery success story for this area. Once nearly eliminated from Wisconsin, sandhill cranes have made a comeback and have become one of the state's most popular watchable wildlife species.

The sandhill is one of 15 crane species in the world of which only two are native to North America. They are 4-5 feet tall, with long necks and legs. They weigh from 9-12 pounds and have wing spans of nearly seven feet. Six subspecies are recognized, the greater sub species that breeds here is about the largest. The sexes look alike, males being slightly larger than females on average. Crane chicks are termed colts.

Sandhill cranes can sometimes be mistaken for great-blue herons that are slightly smaller and fly with their necks tucked back to their shoulders. Cranes fly with their necks and feet out-stretched. Cranes have a rapid wing upbeat, unlike the slow upbeat of a heron and their call is loud and trumpet like while the heron utters hoarse croaks. Great-blue herons nest in colonies in trees while individual pairs of sandhill cranes nest on the ground in wetlands.

The Canadian subspecies (breeds in aspen parklands of central Canada), and the lesser sandhill subspecies (breeds north of the tree line in the Canadian Arctic), are the most numerous and provide hunting opportunities for sportsmen in the central Canadian Provinces and many Great Plains states.

Cranes are opportunistic omnivores. They occasionally eat fish but their normal diet is a wide variety of both plants and animals. They take advantage of food sources and will scavenge waste grain in the spring and will sometimes take young corn shoots if the seed is not treated. Cranes benefit farmers by consuming weed seeds and harmful insects from farm fields. Their traditional food includes snails, crayfish, worms, mice, birds, frogs, snakes and many types of insects. They also browse plants and devour acorns, roots, seeds, and fruits. They are especially fond of harvested grain such as corn, wheat, and barley.

Cranes mate for life, arriving in Oneida as early as late February. Families lay two eggs but generally produce only one offspring per year. The family stays together through the fall and winter, returning as a unit in the spring. But, last year's offspring are soon driven out of the nesting area as crane pairs are extremely territorial, not tolerating other cranes on their defended territories of 10-200 acres. Youngsters spend several years roaming together in flocks before finding partners and establishing breeding territories.

Sandhill cranes are indicators of the environmental health of wetlands. They require stable water levels and ample food for nesting and rearing their young. There is a day each spring established for a Wisconsin Crane Count. Volunteers are provided with forms for recording cranes and are provided locations to count from. Oneida Conservation is interested in establishing a crane count on reservation lands in cooperation with the Wisconsin Crane Count. Would you like to volunteer?

Sandhill cranes are protected under the Migratory Birds Treaty between Mexico, Canada, and the United States. Watch for more information on sandhill cranes in future issues.

For more information on Oneida's cranes, other wildlife questions, or if you would like to volunteer for a future crane count, contact Bill Koonz at Little Bear Development Center, 920-869-4569, or bkoonz@oneidanation.org

New Hope for the Fish of Duck and Trout Creeks

By Sean Powless
GM Communications Intern

Removal of a dam in Pamperin Park will help create a more trout friendly habitat in Oneida area waters.

It's already that time of the year where fisherman gear up and head to one of their favorite spots to seek out that next big bass, walleye, or trout. Many people who fish at Pamperin Park know already that Duck Creek is home to these types of fish and others. They will also notice that the amount of fish isn't quite what it used to be, and that's due to the dam's infrastructure, which is hindering the movement of the fish from and to the larger water sources.

An agreement is close to being completed that would remove both dam's at Pamperin Park and alter one on the part of the creek that runs adjacent to Oneida Golf and Country Club in Green Pamperin Park. The dam at the golf course isn't expected to be removed, but will be altered to allow the fish to swim easily downstream while preventing any endangered species from getting upstream. By removing the damns, and also installing reef areas at the location of removed structures, will help improve the fish habitat back to natural conditions. Once the impoundment is removed and the stream channel is rerouted, habitat within the stream will vastly improve. It will also allow the lowering of temperature levels, normal dissolved oxygen levels and fish passage will be restored. The dam at the golf course isn't expected to be removed either, but will also be altered to allow the fish to swim easily downstream while preventing any endangered species from getting upstream.

Pamperin Park is the largest developed park in the county. With that being said some may be wondering just how the dam removal will affect the fish. The removal of the dams are more beneficial than anything they allow: The restoring of the riverine natural habitat, restoring natural season flow variations, eliminating siltation of spawning and feeding habitat above the dam, eliminating unnatural temperature variations below the damn, and also allowing debris small rocks, and nutrients to pass below the damn, once again creating a more healthy habitat.

Also, the Environmental Health and Safety Division had their annual electrofishing, which takes place through various water passages and streams. Some may wonder what exactly "Electrofishing" is, it's a battery operated device that's submerged in the water and produces and electric shock to the fish, simply stunning them for a couple of seconds allowing them to be captured. It's a very common scientific technique used to sample fish populations. In no way does the electrofishing harm the fish, as they return to normal after a few seconds. With Trout was on the day's agenda, I had the opportunity to observe the trout's life prognoses which ranged from 1-3 years old. "The trout are in perfect health, and developing as planned," said Jim Snitgen, Water Resource Supervisor at Environmental Health and Safety. "Our creeks are providing the best habitat for the fish to continue to progress the way they have." There was also the Red Side Dace, which is an endangered fish and very rare in this area.

The prognosis of the fish in these creeks is evidence that the fish habitats are improving. Winter survival is up, and numbers and sizes are increasing. Overall, it is clear that our creeks are cleaner and thriving with life more so than ever before, and that is all thanks to the work that our people over at Environmental Health Safety have been doing for years…and will do for years to come.

Introducing an Oneida Higher Education Article Series...

She·kú from the Oneida Higher Education department! Whether you are looking to start college or a new career, or even if you are already receiving higher education or are employed in the career of your dreams, we want to help you! In the coming weeks, the Kaliwihsaks will be running a series of articles authored by our staff that will cover topics related to higher education and career planning. Through these articles, our goal is to share a little bit about ourselves and to assist you in making informed decisions in choosing an educational/career path before, during, and after your college experience. Topics will include:

- Beginning Career Exploration and Planning (Nicole Stroobants, Advisor)
- Preparing for College (Jeremiah Powless, Advisor)
- The College Experience (Misty Herzog, Senior Advisor)
- What to do After College (Mitch Metoxen, Assistant Manager)
- Conclusion; Tying it All Together (Nicole Stroobants, Advisor)

Our first article of the series regarding "Beginning Career Exploration and Planning" will be in the next issue of the Kaliwihsaks. If you are interested in learning more about the topics featured in each upcoming article, simply visit our website, www.oneidanation.org/highered to read the full length article. These articles will also include great hyperlinks (internet links) to useful websites and sources to further assist you in your educational/career journey. We hope you find the articles fun, informative, and helpful! For more information feel free to contact the Oneida Higher Education department by phone (920-869-4033), or email (highered@oneidanation.org). We look forward to hearing feedback and sharing our views and plans with you!

GET OUT THE VOTE

About a Recall

Recall gives voters the right to reconsider their choice of an elected official; however, it does not automatically result in removal of an official from office. It provides an opportunity for voters to require an elected official to run for office again before the expiration of his or her term.

New Photo ID Law

The law will require poll workers to start asking voters for photo IDs for the July 12 state Senate recall elections, but the voters will not be required to present them until next year's presidential primary.

Identification to Bring

A valid :
- Driver's license issued by DOT
- Identification card issued by DOT
- Military ID card
- U.S. passport.
- A certificate of U.S. naturalization
- Driving receipt issued by DOT

Oneida Nation FOSTER CARE program

Oneida youth in the Indian Child Welfare System need you to become a foster family

We need community members to step up to the challenge of keeping the youth in our community close to their family and keeping their cultural ties strong. We are looking for homes in the Milwaukee, Brown and Outagamie County areas. Other areas would be considered as well.

We are specifically recruiting for families that could handle placement of younger kids part of a sibling group of two or more children and children ages seven and older with behavioral and emotional issues.

The Oneida Child Protective Board is seeking an adoptive placement for a sibling group of three Oneida children ages 8, 9 and 11. To further the interests of the Wisconsin Indian Child Welfare Act, the Board seeks to have these children placed together in the home of an Oneida individual or family. Please contact Kathleen at 920-490-3707 to leave your contact information for follow-up purposes.

If you're ready for a rewarding challenge please call Jen Kruse at 920-490-3717 for further questions, or please call to register for:

- Informational Meeting on Tuesday, July 12 from 5:00-7:00pm at Oneida Social Services.

Frequently Asked Questions about Becoming a Foster Parent

1. Do I need to be married and have children to be qualified to be a foster home for Oneida?

NO. If you are married one of the spouses must be a descendant within a state or federally recognized tribe in the United States or Canada. However, you may also be licensed if you are any of the following: a single person, in a domestic partner relationship and gay/lesbian couples. The licensing process takes the relationship into account, along with many other factors. It is encouraged you have some experience in caring for children, however, this is not a requirement.

2. What standards do you use to license my home by?

The code that is used to license your home is the Wisconsin Administrative Code HFS 56 "Foster Home Care for Children".

This code details the exact requirements needed for the coordinator to make a decision about approval or denial of a foster care license.

3. How do children come into the foster care system?

Kids come into the foster care system through the county system of child abuse and neglect reporting. A report is made to the county and the county investigates the report and decides what action to take on the incident. Some situations require very little intervention on behalf of the county while others require immediate removal of the children. At that time, the county is required to contact the Oneida Tribe if there is suspicion the child might fall under the ICWA guidelines. The County contacts the Oneida Tribe; the tribe contacts the Enrollment Department to make a determination whether or not the child is eligible for Oneida services. If so, there is an Indian Child Welfare Worker assigned to the case. If there is a need for a foster home, the Child Placement Coordinator contacts the prospective foster home and sets up the placement with that home.

4. Do I get paid to care for these children?

Yes, you will get a monthly reimbursement to care for each and every child court ordered into your foster home. This depends on the needs of the child which increases the amount per child, as the needs increase with each child. This amount is approved by the County placing the child, and is reviewed every six months, in case the needs of the child change. However, you must show financial stability as part of the licensing process. In most cases, you will end up using some of your own money at times in order to care for the kids placed in your home.

5. What will I be responsible for as a foster parent?

You will be responsible to care for each and every foster child as if he/she was your own child. Outside of those basic needs such as food, shelter, education and health care, you will also be responsible to transport the child(ren) to visits with their birth families and/or siblings. You will be responsible for meeting with the social workers (Foster Care Coordinator, Indian Child Welfare Worker and County Social Worker) in order to help make sure the case plan is being followed to ensure the kids will be returning home. The #1 goal in foster care is always reunification which means the return of the children back home with either of their parents or placement with a fit and willing relative.

6. What kinds of children will I be responsible to care for?

Every child that enters the foster care system has been abused or neglected in some way or another. This could be as simple as the children were missing too much school and as extreme as repeated sexual abuse. You can be assured the majority of these children will have some behavioral or emotional problems that continue even after they are placed with you. They will most likely have no understanding of a schedule, discipline, bedtimes, good hygiene practices, the importance of school, or healthy relationships. These children have most likely been exposed to violence, sex, vulgar language and very little structure or routine throughout most of their lives. You will be responsible to care for these children in a loving, nurturing, yet structured way. They may have outbursts after visiting with their families every week which will require some flexibility and understanding on your part, not only for the child but also for their birth family. You will be responsible for parenting this child in a manner that ensures the birthparents' rights are respected.

7. Will I be able to adopt an Oneida child if I become a licensed foster home?

Not in most cases. You will be expected to work with the case plan which is to return the children home when the parent completes the court order. In certain circumstances when some children are not able to be returned home, relatives are searched out to be an adoptive resource. If no relative is found, then as a foster parent you could be considered an adoptive resource for that child after you are approved for adoption through a home study.

Oneida Elder Services
Unacceptable Behavior by a Customer

Standard Operating Procedure - Approved January 2011

1. PURPOSE: Elder Services is committed to providing a high standard of service for all customers fairly and impartially. As part of our service we do not normally limit the contact customers have with us. However we do not expect our staff to tolerate behavior by the customer which is clearly unacceptable (e.g. abusive, offensive or threatening) and will take action to protect our staff from that type of behavior.

2. DEFINITIONS:

2.1.1 Unacceptable behavior: abusive, offensive or threatening

2.1.2 Verbal abuse: Verbal abuse includes bullying, slander, harassing, interrogating, accusing, blaming, insulting, lying, severely scolding, taunting, putting down, threatening, name-calling, swearing, yelling and raging over the phone and hanging up on staff.

2.1.3 Unacceptable behavior has many forms including physical aggression: hitting, kicking, biting, shoving, restraining, throwing objects, or threats also sexual abuse; emotional abuse; controlling or domineering; intimidation; stalking.

3. WORK STANDARDS

3.1 No individual may engage in inappropriate conduct on, at or in the facilities of Elder Services. Elder Services established this behavior policy to promote the safety and comfort of the clients and to protect Elder Services facilities and employees to assure a safe, welcoming environment.

3.2 Elder Services reserves the right to deny services and entry onto the Nation's property to anyone who is physically and/or verbally abusive, disruptive of tribal services and government operations

3.3 Elder Services reserves the right to deny entry onto Tribal properties or access to services to anyone who may be under the influence of alcohol, controlled substances and/or illegal drugs

4. PROCEDURE:

4.1 When we consider a customer's behavior is unacceptable we will tell them why the behavior is unacceptable and will ask them to correct the behavior. If the unacceptable behavior continues, action will be taken.

4.1.1 First Instance: Verbal warning, staff reports to supervisor; supervisor gives verbal warning and documents the incident.

4.1.2 Second Instance; A written letter will be initiated by the supervisor of the decision to sign an agreement or restrict access to Elder Services and/or contact with staff.

4.1.3 The decision to (restrict access or contact) to Elder Services will be taken at the Director level. Any restrictions imposed will be appropriate and fair. The options we are most likely to consider are:

4.1.3.1 Requesting contact in a particular form (for example letters only)

4.1.3.2 Requiring contact to take place with a named police officer

4.1.3.3 Asking the customer to enter into an agreement about their conduct

4.2 The customer will receive a written letter which will state why their behavior is unacceptable and what action Elder Services is taking and the duration of that action.

4.3 When a customer continues to behave in a way which is unacceptable, Elder Services may decide to terminate contact with that customer.

4.4 When the behavior is so extreme that it threatens the immediate safety and welfare of the program's staff, Elder Services will consider other options, for example reporting the matter to the police or taking legal action. In such cases, Elder Services may not give the customer prior warning of that action.

Farmers Market Season is Open

By OCIFS Coordinator

We are pleased to announce it is Farmers Market time again. What a great way to spend a nice summer day; buying fresh produce right from the farmer, having a brat or a burger and taking a little time to socialize with the people around you. The Farmers Market starts on Thursday, June 30 and runs every Thursday throughout the summer. It starts at noon and goes to 6:00pm. This will give those people that have to work a chance to visit the market right after work. Although it continues to grow, the Oneida Farmers Market will once again be in the Highway 54 Oneida One Stop parking lot.

The 2011 Oneida Farmers Market runs every Thursday from June 30 through October 13 from Noon – 6:00PM

The Oneida Farmers Market has about 30 - 35 vendors selling fresh produce, hand made arts & crafts, Native American jewelry, flowers, pet supplies, and much more.

There is an information/demonstration portion to the Market that goes from 3:00pm – 5:00pm where people can learn to make rain barrels, raised garden beds, composting and vermiculture, learn about medicinal oils & herbs, learn how to plant a garden, etc. A schedule of the demonstrations can be found at www.oneidanation.org/ocifs or call Bill at 920-496-7423.

The Oneida Falling Leaves 4-H

The Oneida Falling Leaves 4-H brat booth is always open for the Farmers Market. Serving delicious Oneida Black Angus beef burgers and brats from 11:00 a.m.–5:30 p.m. We realize these are difficult times and that is why the 4-H Board has decided to not raise the prices. You can still get a delicious 1/3 lbs. Oneida Black Angus burger for only $2.50.

Oneida Farmers Market Bash

Each year we have two bashes, the first will be on July 14th and the second is on August 11th and consists of the following:

- Live Music by 'Big & Tasty'
- Free wagon ride to park your car at Tower Foods and ride to the Market
- Prizes
- Raffle
- Youth Planting contest
- For adults: Big Wheel races, Plinko, Market Bingo and Washer Toss
- For youth: Balloon animals, Face painting, Plinko and Veggie Bean Bag Toss

So be sure to bring the family on down to the Oneida Farmers Market. If you would like to subscribe to the weekly Farmers' Market Customer newsletter please send Bill an email at wvervoor@oneidanation.org or check us out on facebook.

Whole NEW Competent & Trustworthy Oneida Appeals Commission NEEDED!

I cannot in good conscience support the RE-Election of Winnifred "Winnie" McLester-Thomas, her sister-in-law Janice McLester, her niece Jennifer McLester-Webster, her family members Lois Powless and Jean Webster, and her colleagues Stanley Webster and Mary Adams to the Oneida Appeals Commission. I strongly encourage you to NOT re-elect any of these individuals. It would be completely thoughtless and negligent on my part if I did not strongly encourage you to look to a fresh, new, upright, educated and trustworthy Oneida Appeals Commission that can truly be fair, objective and independent in all matters that come before them. GTC has to wake up and address serious matters such as two sister-in-laws and their niece sit together and deciding approximately 87% or more Appellate Cases.

On September 3, 2010, I filed a 67 page formal ethics complaint that contained 48 + separate instances that had occurred from October 14, 2009, to September 3, 2010, involving Winnifred "Winnie" McLester-Thomas, her sister-in-law Janice McLester, her niece Jennifer McLester-Webster, her family members Lois Powless and Jean Webster, her colleagues Stanley Webster and Mary Adams, Interim Administrator June Cornelius, Trial Clerk Leyne Orosco and Deputy Clerk Tober Bryszinski and Attorney Paul Stenzel. I filed several independent complaints after filing the 67 page complaint due to the retaliation and conflicts of interest involving Winnifred Thomas and Mary Adams, and for gross negligence and obstructing of justice by Stanley Webster, Jean Webster, Lois Powless and Janice McLester. I have approximately 27 more documented incidents that need to be converted into ethics complaints. I am discouraged though due to the investigations being tainted by bodies that have been incompetent and/or filled with conflicts of interest and no corrective action ever occurring. I also cannot support RE-Election of current Oneida Appeals Commissioners because I believe our innocent children and their parent(s) need and deserve to have their rights not only protected, but also ensured at all times and through every step of the process. At this point in time, I do not believe the current Oneida Appeals Commission affords and ensures those basic rights. It took "three outside judges" to reach the findings that Winnifred Thomas did in fact act outside her scope of authority, acted alone, violated my due process rights, inappropriately and without authority disciplined and sanctioned me without following the appropriate process denied my education and training, lied to the remainder of the Oneida Appeals Commission by stating that she "had received a formal complaint" that she never received, etc. For these reasons and more, I am filing a lawsuit against the Judicial Officers involved, the employees involved and possibly the OAC attorney. The 67 page complaint can be distributed after the lawsuit is filed as it will then be public record. Through the whole mess, Leland Wigg-Ninham and Sandra L. Skenandore have consistently worked to afford me due process and justice. I support these two for Re-election. For all these reasons and much, much more, I strongly discourage you from re-electing the individuals involved in the inappropriate, unethical, illegal and unprofessional conduct that includes their actions, as well as their failures to act. For more detailed information, contact me at lsdallas3@yahoo.com

Governor Walker approves WIS 32/County B roundabout in Pulaski

Work in Brown County beginning June 27

(Green Bay) As part of his efforts to create jobs and make sure Wisconsin is open for business, Governor Scott Walker recently signed a $ 1.03 million contract to build a single-lane roundabout at the intersection of WIS 32 and County B in Pulaski, Brown County. Construction is scheduled to begin Monday, June 27 and be completed by September 2.

Peters Concrete Company, Green Bay, is the prime contractor.

This work is needed to improve safety and traffic flow at this intersection.

Motorists should be aware that this project will impact traffic. Beginning Monday, July 5, County B will be closed from approximately 300 feet west of Mountain Bay Drive to WIS 32 (west of the WIS 32/County B intersection) and from Arthur Blvd to WIS 32 (east of the WIS 32/County B intersection.)

Beginning Monday, July 25, WIS 32 will be closed approximately 1,000 ft north and south of County B. There are no cross roads affected by this closure and a marked detour will be in place. This detour route is WIS 29 to WIS 160 to WIS 32.

Please note that local access will be maintained to all businesses throughout the project. WisDOT is installing a temporary driveway for access to the businesses located in the mall area to the southwest of the intersection. Additionally, downtown Pulaski can be accessed from the detour route.

Savour Green Bay Call for Volunteers

GREEN BAY, WIS.~ Savour Green Bay, a new festival featuring a taste of local food and culture, will be held downtown Green Bay on July 22 and 23, 2011. It is the outstanding dedication of volunteers that will make the event a great success. Volunteers are asked to sign up to work at least one (1) four-hour shift. They will receive a free event t-shirt. Volunteers are needed for the Children's Area and the Savour Green Bay Pub (must be 18 or older). Without the involvement of volunteers Savour Green Bay would not be possible.

Savour Green Bay provides an excellent snapshot of the rich culinary and cultural offerings of the area. Music performances, a culinary marketplace, and interactive activities for the entire family compliment local restaurants, breweries, wineries and attractions featured at the event.

Savour Green Bay is a project of Arts Events Inc., a subsidiary corporation of the Northeastern Wisconsin Arts Council. Proceeds from the event support many important cultural, educational, and community arts projects.

Savour Green Bay is a designated project approved by the Green Bay Public Schools for service learning. To sign up to become a volunteer please contact us at (920) 435-5220 or info@artseventsinc.com.

Incinerator Free Brown County (IFBC) Update

Incinerator Free Brown County ("IFBC") would like to provide an update on the status of Oneida Nation Seven Generation Corporation's ("OSGC") controversial incinerator on Hurlbut Street in Green Bay. In April, the United States Department of Energy ("DOE") held a hearing as required by the National Environmental Policy Act ("NEPA"). The DOE must investigate and answer all questions submitted to it. Incinerator Free Brown County and its members submitted over 400 scoping issues to the DOE in addition to hundreds more submitted by concerned environmental groups such as the Sierra Club, Midwest Environmental Advocates, Physicians for Social Responsibility, and the Waukesha County Environmental Action League. The next day's headlines to EVERYONE in Brown County noted OSGC's biomass plant plan came under fire again.

Recently, the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources issued a Notice of Incompleteness to OSGC because it filed incomplete or irrelevant information pertaining to unrelated technologies. In response, OSGC avoided speaking to the media and instead issued written statements claiming DNR's notice was expected and an anticipated part of the approval and permitting process. If OSGC did actually expect DNR's response, then either: OSGC lacked the minimum technical knowledge to file accurate and relevant information, or it knowingly filed a deficient project plan. The corresponding media headlines proclaimed OSGC's incinerator may not be viable and prompted significant regulator concerns because no successful pyrolysis plant exists on a commercial scale.

OSGC continued to generate ill will and bad press by bungling public relations with a neighborhood association near the incinerator site when OSGC refused to meet with that association and its members to answer their questions or concerns. You read that last sentence correctly, OSGC outright refused to meet with concerned neighbors. Imagine what such refusal by a prominent Oneida corporation did for public perception and opinion, especially when they learned the incinerator is also 'ready' to burn medical and hazardous waste (according to OSGC's filing with the DNR).

We're pretty sure OSGC hasn't figured out how to turn lead into gold any more than how to make matter completely disappear by merely heating and incinerating it into a more dangerous form of matter. In fact, OSGC cannot save any landfill space by incinerating otherwise recyclable material that is already illegal to put into landfills. Why not help create up to 500 jobs by joining with local governments in an effort to recycle 100% of the county's trash instead of simply proposing to make toxic ash out of it? As we move forward together through this summer, please keep in mind OSGC's previous accomplishments and ask whether it's worth enduring more of the same.

This is a paid advertisement from IFBC

- Four Years - Legislative Analyst for Oneida Tribe
- Two Terms as Business Committee Councilman
- US Army Vietnam-ERA Veteran

Dear General Tribal Council:

We came from New York. The conquering armies of George Washington and unscrupulous land speculators had left us destitute even though our warriors had fought and died in support of Washington's Revolution. This land, when we got here was wild and we had very little as we faced that first winter. Yet, we endured, we survived, and we prospered. We succeeded because we worked together against the elements and against those who would move us further west into Kansas and Oklahoma because we were Indians. I say "we" because we are children of those who came here long-ago.

Ed Delgado

The late Wilma Mankiller, of the Cherokee Nation, once said "I think the most important issue we face as a people is what we started, and that is to begin to trust our own thinking again and believe in ourselves enough to think we can articulate our vision of the future and then work to make sure that that vision becomes a reality." We as Oneidas, have a proud history. When I think about the blood and the history that runs through our people, I know we will survive and prosper forever. It will take hard work, but our people are used to that. It will require sharing and caring for each other, and our people are used to that too. And it will require we trust in our own thinking and believe in ourselves as our people have always done.

There are problems. There are challenges to our very existence from some of our neighbors. And because of today's economy and Federal cut-backs, there's less money for services. Yet, our people continue to need educational opportunities; affordable housing; employment; fair wages; quality health care; our elders need assistance as their bodies grow older and they can no longer do the things they once did so well; and our veterans deserve the support and respect they earned while protecting our country. As Councilman for two terms, I stand by my record of support for the Oneida people and the issues that affect Oneida lives.

If elected Tribal Chairman, I will continue to address the issues of our people by listening to the people, thorough research, and timely action, and will always consider our proud history and the profound effect it should have on us as we face our future together as Oneidas.

Regarding Hobart: Chief Joseph, of the Nez-Perce, in leading his people's flight-for-freedom in 1877, warned those who would stop him by saying, "We are going by you without fighting you if you will let us, but we are going by you!" To the people of Hobart, Oneidas will survive and prosper. You can join us, but you will not stop us.

Ron "Tehassi" Hill

Shekoli,

My name is Tehassi Hill, I am a current councilman on the Oneida Business Committee, and running for the Chairman position for the Oneida Nation. A big YAWÁKO to the Kalihwisaks for this opportunity to express myself.

I was born and raised on the Oneida reservation. I graduated from the Oneida Nation High School class of 1999. I went on to own and operate a successful industrial, commercial, and residential painting business for 6 years.

Tehassi Hill

I have held seats on the Oneida Nation School Board, the Oneida Election Board and the Oneida Land Commission. I also worked on the Constitutional Review Task Force. I also worked for Oneida Department of Public Works as an electrician for 2 1/2 years.

As Councilman I have worked on and presented the GTC approved, 2033 Land Acquisition Plan. I currently chair of the Community Development Planning Committee, I also sit on the Natural Resources Damage Assessment Trustee Council (+$1,000,000 granted to Oneida while on NRDATC). As a part of the Legislative Operating Committee I have worked on promulgating over 30 Laws and policies for the Oneida Nation. I am designee to EPA's Regional Tribal Operating Committee. I work with the EPA program official to clearly communicate the needs of our Nation. I am designee for our region to EPA's National Tribal Operating Committee. I work together with other Indian Nations and top EPA officials from across the country to address the needs related to our environment.

I have delivered testimony in hearing at both the state and federal levels that could affect our Oneida Nation.

I have developed networks with local, state, federal, and other Tribal leaders from across the country; this allows me to keep up with what's going on around us so Oneida does not get left out of grant opportunities, legislation that could help or hurt Oneida. Networking with other tribes and officials creates opportunities to partner with people, organizations, governments, and other Native Nations.

The question is " What do you see as the greatest problem and/or opportunity facing Oneida?" there are many problems facing our nation. The one that comes to mind first is the constant attack on Tribal Sovereignty. There are many groups across the country that want nothing but for native governments to disappear. Groups like Citizens for Equal Rights Alliance (CERA) and North Eastern Wisconsin Citizens for Equal Rights (NEWCER) are trying to destroy tribes.

The people who start these types of groups many times have ties to the anti-indian fishing rights movement that was in full force 20 years ago here in Wisconsin. The larger national groups have a long history of name changes that trace back to western states like Montana. These groups attempt to change Federal Indian Law through the court systems; they have had limited success. Not only do we have to keep an eye on and combat these groups, but also we need to keep our eye on proposed federal legislation.

We are a sovereign Nation, we must never forget.

Tehassi Hill

Vice-Chairman Candidate

Greg Matson

Segoli to the members of the Oneida Tribe,

As a candidate for Vice Chair I have been asked to address what I see is the biggest problem the Oneida tribe faces. I would say in one word that would be "balance." We need to balance our concerns about our tribal government, our corporate interests, and our family and community interests.

Having checks and balances on our government and corporations are good things, but becoming overbearing when checking on them can lead to interference and less productivity.

I believe we as a people, a community, a business and a government, need to "separate" the community from the corporation. We can all agree that we need the corporate side of the tribe in order to continue the growth and prosperity of our nation in this modern day

In short, the corporation side is designed to make money. In order to do this it needs to be able to run on a timely, uninterrupted and profit driven course, and monitored to insure the best business practice is being followed.

We often refer to this as "Accountability." We have the trained and knowledgeable staff to do this, if they are allowed. But, what continues to happen is that the "corporate side" is tightly monitored by some on the community side which leads to delays, which leads to frustration, which leads to non- production of services and goods.

The economic stability of our reservation community depends upon the success of our government, businesses, and corporations. So, our themes of: "We are a business" and "We are a Community," are tough things to balance.

I often say that we all have 24 hours in a day: 8 to sleep, 8 to work and 8 to play. So during your 8 hours of work, do your job. If you can't do that then, you may need to change your priorities, because the Oneida People are counting on each other to do what's best for the membership as a whole.

On the community side, I believe we all can agree that there can be improvements. I think "community" is a group of people that have the same goals and ambitions and come together to fulfill these needs.

The problem begins when we don't consider the "needs" that are in best interest of all those involved. For example, I see this in the lack of dedication to the youth. Just think how they must feel when they hear all the negativity going on in our community.

On the subject of opportunity, listen to your elders and you will see what I see everyday, jobs in agriculture, home building, retail, arts and culture, manufacturing. I think it is limitless. We have the resources, we have the people, we have the desire; and if we all come together as a community we can do anything. A- Ho!

P.S. To the young men: women are a "gift" from the "Creator." Treat them as such. Visit gregmatson4obcvicechairman.info

Sincerely,
Greg Matson

Secretary Candidate

Pat Lassila

My experience is primarily in the hospitality industry as President of the Oneida Airport Hotel Corporation. I have served on the Oneida Commerce Committee and Joint Marketing Committee. I have a great deal of other experience in business, both within the tribe and as an individual entrepreneur. Perhaps most notably, I have been successful as project manager of two major expansions of the Radisson totaling $38.8 million. In addition, created and implemented the transition plan for the hotel from Richfield Management Company to the Oneida Airport Hotel Corporation and created Management Training Program for Tribal Members.

Challenge: Unifying our Government

I believe there are too many challenges facing the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin to choose just one, but I will pick one that is important and I hope I can incorporate a broad spectrum of issues. Unifying the Oneida Nation must begin at the core of government. The Oneida Business Committee must work as a unified government in order for the entire tribal structure to follow the same path. There will always be two sides to every issue and since the Oneida Business Committee must represent all enrolled Oneida there may be disagreements on issues, but I think there can be unity and consensus building within the OBC.

If we are to be good leaders we must all make the same decision, by that I mean we must all make decisions in the best interest of our people and the next seven generations. Since all 9 OBC represent a broad constituency, we will represent many different opinions and needs, we should debate the issues with respect and honesty.

The OBC must communicate the goals of the Tribe in a clear and simple manner. The Tribe has some excellent management tools and they have done many studies that cost us millions over the years. I believe these all have some value to the tribe, but we seem to get ourselves too involved in creating complex models that confuse and frustrate most of our employees. Many of these high priced studies boil down to common sense. I believe as we utilize our skilled employees more efficiently, a team of our top professionals have the same knowledge and

Treasurer Candidates

Tina Danforth

Sheku, Greetings,

It is with great sincerity and obligation that I am running for re-election as the Tribal Treasurer. These past three years have sped by with accomplishments in improving cash management as well as diligently updating and implementing new fiscal procedures. So much remains to be done to keep Oneida fiscally sound during this economic downturn felt nationwide.

Tina Danforth

I've witnessed with great pride, an overwhelming participation by the General Tribal Council when in session and realize that many new faces don't know the history I've had serving in different capacities as your government official. From 1996-2005, I've served three consecutive terms as Council member, Vice-Chairwoman, and Chairwoman. Currently, I am honored to be your Treasurer.

During this twelve year tenure, I've gained personal and professional experience working on the development and implementation of tribal, state and federal policy. Cumulatively, I've developed strong negotiation skills in government and business forums (Oneida Gaming Compact, Oneida New York Land Claims settlement, Small Business loans, and Municipal Service agreements).

I've also served in the capacity as liaison or board member to Native American Bancorporation, Bay Bancorporation, Wisconsin Governor's Council on Tourism, Great Lakes Inter-Tribal Council, Midwest Alliance of Sovereign Tribes and Native American Finance Officers Association (NAFO). Other professional attributes gained are lobbying experience, business acumen, budget development, policy analysis, capital raising and governmental fiduciary oversight.

My proudest accomplishment while serving as your Chairwoman was the ability to negotiate perpetuity for our gaming compact with the State of Wisconsin. I realized only two beneficial negotiating factors would be worthy for Oneida, the term of the compact (time) and fees. Oneida now boasts a 4% gaming compact fee compared to other tribal compact fees which range as much as 25%-30%.

At times it has been difficult when trying to overcome internal and external factors in adhering to your community concerns for more transparent responsible governance. I still feel strongly today as I did the first day I served as your council member, that I owe it to Oneida to assist in moving this nation forward toward fiscal prosperity.

If re-elected, I will continue to serve the Oneida community to the betterment of every Tribal citizen. Cooperation and collaboration are the future keys to building a stronger nation. Please show your support at the polls on July 16th. Yawʌ́ko.

Tina Danforth

Kathy Hughes

My name is Kathy Hughes and I am asking for your support for Treasurer.

I began working for the Tribe in 1976 as a clerk in the accounting department. Over the next six years I worked in several accounting positions for the Tribe prior to running for Treasurer. In 1982 I began my first term as Treasurer and served five terms (15 years) overall. I am completing my third term (9 years) as Vice Chairwoman.

Kathy Hughes

With almost 24 years as an elected official of the Oneida Tribe, I feel very qualified to return to the job of Treasurer. During my terms as Treasurer I was always mindful of the need to plan for the future.

As a very experienced Oneida politician, I can provide a high level of support and assistance to our incoming Chairman and Vice Chairman. Working together and setting aside personal opinions and needs are what is required for the success of this Tribe.

I make no campaign promises other than I will continue to do the best I can to address the needs of the Oneida People. I can't promise you a job or a new house; I can't tell you that specific personnel will be eliminated; or that our per capita will continue to grow. I can only promise to be forward thinking and as fair as possible to all Oneida.

The Oneida Tribe has experienced tremendous growth and success while I served on the Oneida Business Committee, but I do not take credit for any accomplishment alone, I take credit on behalf of the many hard working Oneida people I served with over the past 24 years.

I am a part of our government. I have no authority without the support of my fellow Committee Members. It takes 9 votes and a majority of those votes determines the decisions supported by the Oneida Business Committee. I may disagree with them at times but they will give me the time to voice my opinion and once the decision is made, regardless of the difference I may personally feel, it is my responsibility to carry out that decision in the best way possible.

Family:

Deacon Edmund Powless was my father and Blanche (Hill) Powless is my Mother. Maternal grandparents were Dennison and Sadie Hill. Paternal grandparents were Benjamin and Philomene Powless. I have one son, three grandsons and one granddaughter.

I was born and raised on the reservation, attending school in Green Bay. I am a Viet Nam era veteran. I have an Associate Degree in Accounting from Fox Valley Technical College.

I believe my 24 years of service to the Tribe demonstrates my personality. Integrity, honesty and fairness are words that can be used to describe how I do my job.

Kathy Hughes

Cathy Bachhuber

Thank you to the voters who came out and voted in the primaries, it's an important new part of our election process.

Experience & Education

I have been working for Oneida for over 15 years and am currently employed with Oneida. I have 7+ years in tribal legislation, primarily analyzing tribal laws and policies. I have 3+ years of experience in accounting, primarily reconciling accounts, researching and problem solving issues. I also have additional experience working in compliance and MIS.

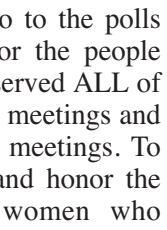
Cathy Bachhuber

In 2002, I graduated from NWTC with a Paralegal Associates Degree. Currently, I am a student at UW-Green Bay and am working towards a Bachelor's in Interdisciplinary Studies (Liberal Arts) & Business Administration. I have two classes left.

"What do you see as the greatest problem and/or opportunity facing Oneida?"

There will continue to be many issues facing Oneida this term from elderly services and job opportunities for the tribal members to improving community outreach and community involvement. However, several pertinent issues will stem directly from the economy. The health of the global, national, state, and local economies will continue to affect Oneida's economy. Consumers need to have enough resources to meet basic needs in order to have a comfortable discretionary income level. One of the greatest challenges will be maintaining and growing our consumer base so consumers will spend their discretionary income here in Oneida at both Tribal businesses and our member owned small businesses in order to stimulate our Oneida economy.

Tightening spending and cutting unnecessary expenditures will only carry us forward for so long. We need to combine restructuring efforts and delete duplicate services while taking advantage of growth opportunities in Gaming, Retail and our other enterprises. We also need to balance the need to maintain, grow and find new sources of revenues with our obligation to our other priorities such as elders, education, land acquisition, health care, membership employment and relations with other governments. In particular, our commitment to improving the facilities in which we take care of our elders needs to be prioritized alongside with having competitive destination Gaming facilities which will in turn reinforce our customer's experience at all of our casinos, retail outlets, and agricultural outlets. These enterprises have been our historical strengths and we need to continue to develop them in the future to keep them fresh and exciting to remain competitive to bring in the financial resources to grow our Oneida economy.



There are many issues the new Oneida Business Committee will need to tackle following the elections and I look forward to the challenge.

Thank you to Kalihwisaks for posing another question to all of the candidates and giving us an opportunity to voice our positions. Yaw^ko, Cathy Bachhuber

Cathy Bachhuber

Linda Dallas

The greatest opportunity facing Oneida at this time is for eligible voters to get up off their couch, chair, bed, or whatever else they may be sitting on and get to the polls and VOTE on Saturday, July 16, 2011 between the hours of 7 AM and 7 PM at either the Oneida Health Center in Oneida, OR at the SEOTS Office in Milwaukee. The great opportunities include, but are not limited to the follow: The ability of our people to realize the elections are NOT a popularity contest. The elections are not personal, they are business. To select and vote for people who actually know what they are doing and not afraid to go against the "status quo". To vote for people who understand the problems and what needs to be done. To vote for people who are not afraid to fire General Managers and/or their staff if they don't perform their jobs, but also can praise and encourage the General Managers and/or their staff when they do their jobs and keep us moving forward in a positive and productive manner.

Linda Dallas

To vote for people who are familiar with the laws that govern our nation. People who understand how to run our operations like a "BUSINESS", not a kindergarten playground. To vote for people who show respect and courtesy to the GTC. To vote for people who "want to" and "will" communicate with our membership and will let the GTC be the deciding body as active participants regarding matters that concern our children, our elders, our people at large, health needs, education, enrollments, purchases that involve land, building, investments, etc. That will schedule and conduct meetings to make GTC fully informed and then make a decision. For our people to weed out the unqualified, incompetent, the self-servers, and the abusers. For the voters to go to the polls and vote for the people who have served ALL of GTC in the meetings and outside the meetings. To recognize and honor the men and women who have worked so hard for GTC through the years (even when the money wasn't here). To NOT re-elect the people who have served themselves, their families, their friends and each other ... instead of those who rightful deserve their service … our people. A great opportunity exists to NOT elect candidates who abuse, harass, intimidate, bully, threaten and coerce our people and employees. To stop the dysfunction and chaos. To clean out and restore the governmental institutions (the Business Committee & Appeals Commission) that are designed to serve our people and replace old with fresh, new, qualified, competent, prudent, and fair elected officials that believe in and support equality for ALL Oneida Tribal Members. Full-Time positions on the Business Committee pay a minimum of $45,000 with benefits. Full-Time Appeals Commissioners receive $58,800 plus benefits. Take the opportunity to clean up both the Oneida Business Committee and the Oneida Appeals Commission and make them governmental entities that make us proud again, not ashamed!

One of the greatest opportunities I see for Oneida is our capability to determine our future as a people. We have the ability to accept and embrace that as an indigenous Nation, we create our own path. As tribal leaders, it is imperative we continuously ask ourselves "what will we do today, to ensure we provide a better path for the next 7 generations" and I believe the time has come in our history when we must all take responsibility to ask this question of ourselves.

One way I see us accomplishing this vision, is to recognize and support our elders' wisdom. Elders have spoken about ensuring we have the necessary tools (i.e. education, housing, health care, employment) to survive in "modern" society, yet predicted we must return to our history, cultural roots and ceremonies to continue existing as a people. I recognize there are efforts being made to try and accomplish better balance; however, we must remember to continue looking 5 – 10+ years and beyond in order to stay focused on common goals - self-termination is not an option.

and beyond in order to stay focused on common goals - self-termination is not an option.

Striving to achieve holistic balance is a positive vision we can all strive for and getting started will require responsible, strategic spending and long-term planning from the very young to elderly. The days of "in the now" decision-making need to be placed aside; prudence must prevail and I am prepared to accept this challenge and work toward finding solutions to our common goals.

Vince DelaRosa

As the last three years comes to an end, this reminds me that the hopes of a nation sometimes will never be realized unless good people do something to alter that nations course. Today, we are a people full of potential but we have yet to realize our best days. One look at our budget and we can see that a majority of Oneida's yearly wealth is evaporating into thin air. Whether that's through patronage jobs, inside business dealings, or special privilege's, where is our money going? Today, big wages are kept secret and vital tribal services to the people are eliminated. Here is just a few of the eliminations: pay raises, Honor the Elder, Breakfast with the Bunny, Employee's Christmas Party, Elders Driveways, Allergy and Asthma services, field trips for our kids. Similarly, the people are paying more at the Oneida Fitness Center, Oneida Utilities and for plumbing services. But through all of this, management continues to grow! What is clear today is our resources are being squandered. There was disclosure (at the September 2010 budget meeting) that we're facing a projected two-year deficit of -$47,581,587.00, this should be a wake-up call to all of us! Think about this, we have a budget this year of $479,172,033.00 and we had a projected two-year deficit of -$47,581,587.00 at the start of the 2011 budget year. Why is this happening?

Vince DelaRosa

Here are a few things I support addressing:

- I support fair wages and employment protections. It's getting harder for Oneida employees to live in an environment where all the cost (gas, food, electricity) are rising, except for their wages. I also support people have reasonable job protections.
- I support a good long-term per-capita solution. I have a draft per-capita plan, go to my website (Oneida1.com) to see the plan
- I support better housing options. We need more affordable housing. Even here on the reservation we have over 153 families on various housing waiting list; we need to address this issue. I support building 300 new homes over the next five (5) years. I also support only charging limited rents, people need money in their pockets, why are we charging 30% for rents? It is time for the Oneida people to build a movement to change this nation. The honest Oneida people want the dignity of a good job, a safe home, and the knowledge that the tribe is going in the right direction. This is what leadership needs to offer. We need leaders that will stand with the people and for the people. In the past when I've witnessed policies that needed challenging, I've challenged them. When I've seen incompetency, I've questioned it. And when I've seen unfairness, I've stood against it! If elected, I'll only serve the Oneida people's interest. My commitment is to stand with the people and for the people! I'd be honored to have your support this July 16th.

Respectfully,
Vince DelaRosa

Accomplishments: Graduated from Pulaski High School, Pulaski, WI Continually attends Oneida General Tribal Council meetings, Business Committee meetings, In 1991, was a Dealer in Table Games, a Floor Supervisor, and a Pit Manager for a total of 13 years of gaming experience In 2008, established the Oneida_Grapevine, an on-line communication tool, that helps disclose information to Tribal members/Tribal employees, that wish to know more about the politics of the Oneida Tribe In 2008, began tutoring to work as an advocate for the Oneida people In 2009, became a Pro-Activist FOR the Tribal front-line employees and the Tribal membership, working to achieve better benefits, programs & services. In 2011, trained and became certified, as a Guardian Ad Litem If I am elected to the Oneida Business Committee, I plan to make things more transparent for the people in areas, such as the budget; finances, auditing, legal, and to insure compliance and to demand and enforce MORE ACCOUNTABILITY throughout the Tribe. For too long, the Tribal memberships' welfare, has been overlooked, ignored or lost. Too many programs and services that assist the Tribal members, have either had too much red tape; OR the programs/services themselves, have been significantly trimmed down due to cost containment; OR they do not work effectively enough, to aid the membership. This is an on-going issue that needs to be seriously addressed, with some type of action taken. It is my position, that we should be able to aid those that need assistance, but aren't receiving it or can't receive it. YOU are Oneida. YOU should receive assistance from your Tribe, if you need it, without being made to go through hoops. The Tribal government needs to prioritize its list, making the needs of the people, its first priority. The Tribal members, Elders, children, front-line employees and middle-management, should be considered first, during the budgeting process. I also believe when voting on the budget, managers submitting their budgets should not be voting on these budgets, as it is then, creating a conflict of interest. All policies and procedures, within the Tribal structure, should be reviewed, to determine if they are effective, weak or non-essential. The General Tribal Council should be involved in ALL important issues, that involve our Tribal dollars. Regarding: "WHEREAS, the Oneida Business Committee has been delegated the authority of Article IV of the Oneida Tribal Constitution by the Oneida General Tribal Council"..... It is my belief, this authority should be in the hands of the General Tribal Council, thus ensuring the people have total authority in decision making....or permanently put a spending cap on the Business Committee. By saying, "We made that decision for you, because the GTC was not "in session",....doesn't mean it was done in your best interest. Take Your Voice Back, It Belongs To YOU! I thank you for your time and attention in reading my material. It would be an honor and pleasure to serve you, in the best interest of the Oneida Tribe. Thank you, General Tribal Council!! I am a strong believer that for us to be a strong nation, we need to get membership to believe in and trust our leaders. Right now that trust is being tested. At almost every Business Committee meeting and GTC meeting our Business Committee members are challenged. We need to solve this problem. We need to trust that the individuals we elect into those positions are making the best possible recommendations or decisions for our nation. How do we do this? Listen, I mean LISTEN when they present information, READ the mail outs or agendas that you receive before a BC Mg or a GTC Mtg. ASK questions. Take ownership of our tribe and meet with the BC members before a proposed law, resolution or proposal is brought before the membership to avoid a slow down in the process. I am running for the Business Committee position because I fee I can help. I have ideas of bringing change, improving current policies. . Taking care of our elders by improving their quality of life building the assisted living facility that has been in the process for over 17 years and continually gets pushed back on the list of priorities. Land Acquisition and Hobart's continuous attacks on our nation. We need to show a strong hand when dealing Hobart, show them that we are here and not going away. Employee concerns and management accountability in ensuring membership will have jobs. Not just a position to have a position, a job that will add value to our nation. I will have an open door policy that will allow membership to present their opinions, requests, and solutions. I have a successful business. A business that has shown my abilities to listen to our employees who currently feel no one is looking out for their interest, this is creating low morale. We depend on our employees to keep this nation running. They need to know they are valued and respected and not taken for granted. Our employees need a good wage and healthy working conditions. My wife is Alice Jordan, my parents are Doyle & Grace Jordan, grandparents Ben & Amelia Jordan. My previous work experience includes Labe Products & Design, Image Assembly Printing, Oneida Casino as a Blackjack Dealer, Floor Supervisor and Interium Pit Manager before starting my own business of Fleet & Alice Gas Light Inn. I want to make a difference but I'll need your support the support of your parents, brothers, sisters, niece, nephews, aunts, uncles and extended family embers to advise me on what you think are the important issues that can make our Nation strong, and I will in turn promise you that I be a Councilman you can rely on to make decisions for the people of our great nation. I look for your support on July 16th, and I will do y very best to ensure our Nation continues to be strong and grow.

Present challenges for the Oneida Tribe as well as opportunities:

I Gary L. Jordan, am running for Councilman to give something back to the tribe for the years that the Oneida people allowed me to be their OBC Councilman and Vice Chairman. Since holding several elected positions with the Tribe I have grown both professionally and personally. I have lived on the reservation for 50 years and I have seen many changes, some good and some bad. We have a lot more to be thankful for than the 20% of the "bad" things that some people feel are interfering with our seven generations philosophy. It takes a strong leadership to deal with the unethical, immoral and unjust acts of a few that consistently increase the level of apathy and distrust among GTC. I feel I have the backbone, financial acumen, and business back ground from fortune 500 companies, as well as our own Tribe, to get us back on the right track. We need frugal decision makers to pay off our debt of over $100 million and growing. The future of our Oneida children is leveraged upon their backs by the decisions we make today. We need to stop giving millions away to others and stay focused on growing Oneida to compete in a global marketplace. "Good" doesn't get it any more; we need the "best" decisions from experienced and wise leaders!

Cathy L. Metoxen

A vote for Cathy L. Metoxen is a Vote for General Tribal Council.

I believe that General Tribal Council (G.T.C.) has a right to know where all our money is being spent. I believe G.T.C. has a right to know where all our money is coming from. I believe that all people should be treated fairly, respectfully and with honesty.

When G.T.C. asks, "Where's the money?" I will do my best to get the answers out in a format that is easy to read and understand.

When G.T.C. is in session, if I am elected, I will do my best to ensure all those who speak up will be treated fairly.

When General Tribal Council members have come to me to ask those hard questions, and make those hard statements, I spoke for and stood up for them. I have spoken up and stood up for those who couldn't. I have spoken up and stood up for those who were afraid to stand up.

If I'm elected for Business Committee Council, I will continue to speak up and stand up for General Tribal Council members with fairness, respectfulness and honesty.

I was employed as a front line employee within the Gaming Custodial Department; Business Committee Chambers Housekeeping; Gaming Slots Department; Blackjack Dealer and Floor Supervisor; Gaming Blackjack Department; and as a Paralegal Advocate in the Compliance Department, for about 10 years until 1997 and have continued to be an advocate for all walks of life, including other Nations across Turtle Island, since then.

I received my High School Diploma for West DePere in 1972. I attended NWTC, first for Business Administration, Communication, and finally Paralegal Studies. I also spent 2 years at the American Institution of Paralegal Studies of Chicago, at St. Norbert College. I intend to continue my education at NWTC.

The biggest problem and the greatest opportunity facing Oneida, to me will always have to be in my opinion involving Family. As Family we will always be growing in numbers and yet can we serve all equally and fairly in raising the Oneida spirit up to positive, respectful, and confident unity. Is this our Fiduciary responsibility, in reinforcement of our self-esteem as a Nation? I believe it is now more than ever.

Greetings to the Electorate of the Oneida Tribe of Indians,

I would like to thank the Kalihwisaks for providing this forum to the candidates seeking the nine positions for the Oneida Business Committee in the upcoming General Election on Saturday, July 16. I have previously successfully run for the Council position on three occasions (1999-2008) and was proud and honored to represent our 17,000 member Tribe for nine years. As a member of the Oneida Business Committee, my first and foremost responsibility was serving on the Legislative Operating Committee where the five Council Members promulgated Tribe Laws, Codes and Ordinances. Also, I was fortunate to represent the Oneida Tribe as: Vice-Chairman of the Native American Rights Fund, Executive Board Member for the Haskell Indian Nations Board of Regents, Midwest Representative for the Tribal Leaders/Department of Interior Trust Reform Task Force, Representative of the Oneida Tribe as Trustee for the Natural Resources Damage Assessment for the Lower Fox River, Vice-Chairman for the Wisconsin Tribal Conservation Advisory Council, Midwest Representative for Region 5 of the EPA/National Tribal Caucus, Board Member for the Inter-Tribal Monitoring Association, Charter Member of the Oneida Gang Prevention Task Force, Member of the Oneida Trust and Enrollment Committee, Member of the state legislature's Tribal/State Relations Special Committee and numerous liaison duties within the Tribal Structure.

Aside from earning my bachelor's degree from Arizona State University and working with Native youth in numerous capacities in Santa Fe, New Mexico and Durango, Colorado, I have been a life-long resident of the Oneida Reservation. Our Tribe and our people are fortunate enough to relay the many successes of our people. Our Tribe has an excellent track record with government-to-government relations with most of our neighbors, with fulfilling our responsibility to take care of our children and our elders, and with reacquiring land on the Reservation. With this in mind, we need to identify and address threats to our future.

One such threat to our future comes from the Village of Hobart, who repeatedly challenges the Tribe's sovereignty in courts and in the media. I spent many of my years living on the portion of the Reservation that overlaps with the Village of Hobart. As a community member and Elected Official I have witnessed the escalating tensions and deteriorating government-to-government relations between the Tribe and Hobart since Hobart hired the former Chairperson (and current board member) of Citizen's Equal Right's Alliance (CERA), a group dedicated to destroying tribal sovereignty.

If elected to the Business Committee, I hope to be a part of the solution that will bring the Tribe and Hobart together. We need to sit down and determine the best way possible to move forward. We cannot work out our differences in the courtroom or through newspapers. We are all a part of this community and neither the Tribe nor Hobart is going away any time soon. The bottom line is we need to come to the table. If you are not at the table, you are on the menu.

Accomplishment:

I firmly believe one of our biggest accomplishments to date is Re-establising the Spirit of our Nation. I believe everything starts with community. This accomplishment is a direct result of concerned members of the community.

There is currently a coordinated effort by community members to take back Oneida, through re-establishing a sense of community. This is a very electrifying time, community members are not taking no for an answer, but instead, seizing the challenge of Reigniting the spirit in each of us! Reigniting the spirit of our communities! Reigniting the spirit of our Nation!

John Powless III

As a community member and candidate for the Oneida Business Committee, I strongly support, and take an active role in the re-kindling of our community and Nations spirit. Within the past year, along with others, I have organized a Men's 3 on 3 traveling basketball league in Oneida. Our focus was to offer a safe event, in which the entire family could participate in, promoting physical fitness, healthy lifestyles and the Oneida Parks. The event was very successful; there was truly an awakening of spirit going on in each housing site we visited.

I also worked jointly with many community members in organizing "Countdown to Hoyan", a New Year's Eve celebration at the Civic Center, which once again, focused on offering a safe, fun, family event to the community. The night consisted of a social dance, games, such as a hula hoop contest, corn soup, Hoyan doughnuts, and party favors, bringing the New Year in safe, as a family. Approximately 350 community members attended "Countdown to Hoyan".

Physical Fitness is a big part of my life; I extend an invitation to Oneida to participate in "ONEIDA FAMILY 5K RUN/WALK". This is a run, I am organizing, it will take place Saturday, July 2, 2011, start time 8 a.m. at 54 Oneida One Stop.

Biggest Challenge:

One of our current challenges is generating additional revenue. As Councilman, I will creatively work towards exploring revenue generating ideas, focusing on what is in the best interest of the Oneida People. Some possible examples include wind energy and organic farming. It is vital that we continue to support existing tribal businesses, during this economic downturn, until they can once again, regain stability. At this time I would like to highlight the Radisson, this is one example of a tribal business venture that has been successful, winning numerous Presidential Customer Service awards.

In conclusion, I believe in Oneida. I believe our biggest asset, is the Oneida People. This is a very exciting time; we are contributing to a Stronger Oneida! I am very optimistic, and continue to look forward to strengthening our community, and our Nation!

VOTE FOR A STRONGER ONEIDA!
VOTE JOHN E. POWLESS III FOR OBC!

Jennifer Stevens

Dear Oneida Tribal Members,

My name is Jennifer Marie Stevens, of the Wolf Clan and my Oneida name is Wakohsi•yó, which means Peacock, given to me by my grandmother. I'm the youngest daughter of Ernest L. Stevens Sr. and the late Patricia A. (Brewer) Stevens, and the granddaughter of Maria Hinton. Proud to be the third generation in my family that believes in carrying on the family tradition of supporting and striving for the preservation of our Oneida traditions, values, culture, family, community, tribal sovereignty, job security, higher education opportunities, and a thriving economy for our Oneida people nationwide.

Jennifer Stevens

My experience stems from 20 years as an employee of the tribe and a professional singer, artist, Oneida pottery Master Instructor and small business owner of 11 years. I worked in an array of departments within our Oneida Nation such as; Retail, Gaming, Sales & Marketing, Recreation, and Government. The past 10 years I have worked in tribal government as an Executive Assistant and liaison for the Oneida Land Claims Commission, Business Committee, Chief of Staff, General Tribal Council, Tribal Attorneys, and other tribal officials. Through this experience I've growing into specializing in Upstate New York Land Claims History and New York Homeland Historical sites.

In the past 10 years have gained vast experience in a board/commission advisement capacity such as; Oneida Land Claims Commission Executive Assistant/Liaison, First Nation Composer Initiative Advisory Board Member, Green Bay Press-Gazette Community Conversation Advisement Panelist, and Green Bay Art Colony Member. In the past 20 years I have been able to hone my skills in; public relations, project management, teamwork, and written/verbal communication skills, and received the Customer Service Award: Oneida Tribe 1999. Education is also important to me; I graduated from West De Pere High School in 1991 and graduating from St. Norbert College this fall of 2011.

As a community member and tribal employee, I have experienced, witnessed, and made note of our challenges and resources for opportunity. Although we are putting forth effort I have made observation of areas that I think are at great risk and made as my focal points for my platform, such as; our Oneida identity building (language, culture, and traditions. "Our Ways.), community building (Family-youth, adults, and elders) , sovereignty preservation(Tribal Rights - Self Governance), and economy(Building our economy for job stability). I am very interested in looking at various creative ways to foster the success of our Oneida Nation-our Oneida community. With the use of our creativity, ingenuity, determination, and direction from skilled resources including our many diverse voices in our community, I have great faith we can enjoy the benefits of our common goal, through working together, and making a better life for our Oneida community and generations to come.

Help support my goal in community development, while striving and maintaining mutual respect, justice, and equality based on a "code of ethics," and "collective" effort towards a better life for our Oneida people. Yaw^ko for your time-your support is greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
Jennifer M. Stevens

Preserve Our Past

Preservation of language & culture, this is one area I believe where our budget should be increased, namely Cultural Heritage, as that is what keeps us a sovereign nation, our language and our strong cultural base. By educating our children about their past history and ancestors we are preserving our past. We have quality schools, and an excellent Higher Education Program. The bulk of our employee base is working middle class, which may require more than one associate degree per person.

Many of our college graduates have earned degrees and returning home for jobs, they want to give back, but have nowhere to go within the Tribal system.

Protect our Future

We need to have responsible spending in all our departments, on all levels: government, programs and business. We are spending our money on GTC meetings where we could be creating jobs & putting people to work. We need to hold Managers accountable for their budgets.

We are blessed with our Healthcare services and we need to keep those services and work to improve our quality of life. Let's never let Per Cap replace our Healthcare!

Education, again back to education. We need to teach our children to support themselves, and not to rely on handouts. You've heard the saying "Catch me a fish, feed me for a day, Teach me to fish and you feed me for a lifetime" These are our children, teach them well, they are our future.

Preservation of Language & Culture. This is one area I believe where our budget should be increased, namely Cultural Heritage, as our language and our strong culture base is what keeps us a sovereign nation.

Lack of laws is our current biggest problem. Yes a strong Judiciary is important but it doesn't create laws, the Legislative branch creates the laws. No matter how great they make the Judiciary Act and who serves as judges – if there are no laws, whether it be lay people or higher priced attorneys in the judicial positions, the tribal court created will be exactly as you see it now, except at a higher price, because it is limited to the current jurisdiction. Creating stronger laws will build a stronger government increasing our sovereignty as a nation.

Background: Family, Husband Don Webster, Marcus, Zach & Olivia.

Parents: Lee Gordon & Betty McLester

Grandparents: Lee (deceased) & Pearl McLester, Ted & Mamie Benson (deceased).

I believe I am a creditable candidate for council, committed to this community, committed to Public Trust, and I ask for your vote July 16, 2011.

Pearl Webster

This is a double-edged question as there are major problems, yet greater potential for opportunities if our leadership proceeds forward in the best interest of the Oneida Nation and its people.

With that said, it is my opinion that our greatest problem is that we do not scrutinize our spending. Through my observations it was through Gaming revenue that our financial position quickly became very lucrative. Money became easily accessible, therefore easily spent.

I am fully aware that the Oneida Nation does many good things with the increased money flow generated by gaming. But do we really look to the future and consider the many implications should something go awry with Gaming operations. It would have made sense to review per cap options early on, perhaps get an endowment in place, or put money in appropriate funds that could be used in cases when the economy shifts, because we know it will. In addition, have we looked beyond Gaming to consider other fruitful endeavors?

Pearl Webster

A recent example is that the current Oneida Nation Management is well into a new initiative with the commerce department/staff issue that I would have to question the value of versus getting the proposed elder care facility built. This is not sound reasoning or prioritizing in my opinion. How is it that the commerce issue, which I understand comes with a significant budget, was so quickly decided and acted upon when in fact the Elder/Assisted Living Project is still awaiting ground breaking? A major concern I have is that the commerce concept did not come to the Oneida membership through any communication, except the recent Kali notice, which gives the message that membership will have no decision in final actions.

How our organization is structured plays an important part in how our money is generated, invested, spent, and dealt with on a daily basis. With the amount of money that goes through the Oneida Nation on a daily basis we can no longer afford to not have checks and balances in place. Nor can we continue to exercise spending with the processes we currently use. Accountability and responsibility are severely lacking.

There are many problems within our Nation. However, our desire to take care of our own should be at the forefront, and without the financial fortitude to accomplish this, it is imperative that we become financially intelligent in securing and maintaining a quality financial management system. The Oneida Nation membership is rightfully due to receive a quarterly report, at a minimum, that is understood and clear regarding the financial position of the Oneida Nation.

Youth from Texas and Indiana spent four days at Tsyunhehkwa and Cannery assisting with daily activities while taking part in the national program Young Neighbors in Action. According to Young Neighbors in Action website they are a week-long Catholic service-learning program for teams of older adolescents and adults that provides the experiences, skills and learning needed to make change possible. This is the fourth year the program visited Tsyunhehkwa. The youth learned about Oneida culture and how to incorporate organic methods of farming into their processes.

USDA officials visits Tsyunhehkwa

On Thursday, May 26 we gave a tour of OCIFS to Mr. Dustin Miller, Program Specialist for the Office of Tribal Relations at United States Deparment of Agriculture (USDA) DC office and Mr. Daniel Cornelius, Intertribal Agricultural Council Specialist. These gentlemen were especially impressed with what the Oneida Nation was doing in the realm of food. They were given a tour and explanation of the Food Distribution Program, the buffalo herd and the Oneida Nation Farm, the Apple Orchard, the Tsyunhehkwa program of the Organic Ag Farm and Cannery.

After the tour we sat in the Cannery office and these are the observations they shared with us:

- They were extremely impressed with the community aspect of the Oneida food system.
- Educational component
- Resources component
- Processing component
- Other Native Nations they visited are using food as an economic tool, but Oneida was the only one that they visited that had such high community involvement.
- They had advice as to how to get our products into the Oneida school system.
- They listed numerous grant opportunities and emailed us the links to these grants. The OCIFS Members shared this information with the Oneida Grants Office, and will follow up for any opportunities.

We wanted to share the importance of continuing to develop strong community outreach programs.

Young athletes shine at Indigenous Games in Milwaukee

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

Team Wisconsin hosted the inaugural U.S. Indigenous Games in Milwaukee, WI July 10 - 14. The games are to be held every two years and featured baseball, basketball, softball, golf, archery, shotgun shooting, track, cross country, and wrestling.

The games brought together the best Native American youth from across the country to gyms and fields across the city of Milwaukee. Along with sport, cultural presentations were held along with traditional Native American food and entertainment.

As of Tuesday, Team Wisconsin was leading the medal count with 42 gold, 29 silver, and 21 bronze.

GTC approves wage increase for portion of employees

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

A raise for a specific employee group highlighted the 2011 General Tribal Council (GTC) Semi-Annual Meeting on Monday, July 4 at the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center.

Just over 1,500 GTC members filled the Three Clans Ballroom while working through a lengthy agenda. Quick work was made of a request to approve meeting minutes from August 21, September 18, January 3, February 5, and April 11. Verbal reports on the New York land claims negotiations and Tribal Constitution update were approved. Oneida Business Committee Councilwoman (OBC) Melinda Danforth advised the GTC that preparation for a Secretarial Election sanctioned by the Bureau of Indian Affairs is underway and tribal members should prepare to receive correspondence to participate in the election that will change the tribal constitution.

A video report updating the GTC on the current status of the Oakridge Plaza lease was accepted. Oakridge Plaza is home to Wal-Mart, Festival Foods along with other businesses.

The topic of most discussion was a now passed resolution granting a 75 cent wage increase to all employees making $60,000 or less annually. The increase will take affect in fiscal year 2012.

"For five years, employees have not received a (cost of living allowance) or raises and or bonuses," said petitioner Yvonne Metivier in a letter to the GTC.

"I ask for the vote of the GTC to support our employees, protect our revenues, and compensate employees who have worked harder for less to make cost containment successful for all tribal members," she added.

With no presentation by the OBC the pay increase passed easily by a vote of 889 to 183 with 44 abstaining.

Treasurer Tina Danforth along with Chief Financial Officer Larry Barton provided a lengthy and detailed synopsis of the tribe's current financial situation during the Treasurer's fiscal year 2011 report. Slowly improving economic conditions have lead to a tribal economy gaining ground but both the Danforth and Barton cautioned more diligence is needed to meet budget demands.

A report on a casino expansion plan in the early stages of development was passed with an abundant of comments, concerns and recommendations given by the GTC.

The Oneida Semi-Annual Report, placed last on the day's agenda, was accepted without discussion.

Annual Oneida Fourth of July Parade enjoys new route

The annual Oneida 4th of July Parade took place Saturday, July 2 in Oneida. The parade themes were Green Bay Packers and Rocking 50s, 60s, or 70s. There was $3700 available in prize money for three categories: Float, Vehicle, and Individual. (See winners below)

The parade did not follow the traditional route down Highway 54. Instead it began on Path of the Wolf, traveled down Old Seymour Road to Seminary Road. The parade then traveled down Seminary Road and concluded at the Norbert Hill Center.

Ruppel discusses role as EPA Tribal Liaison

Oneida Business Committee (OBC) members and tribal staff met with Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Region 5 Tribal Liaison Jim Ruppel on Thursday afternoon, July 7. Ruppel explained his role at the EPA.

"A lot of the tribal reps were saying they wanted someone with a strong technical background," said Ruppel who has extensive experience dealing with water quality issues. "I also have a background in facilitation, mediation."

The OBC, and Environmental Division Director Pat Pelky shared some history of Oneida with Ruppel, as well as some stories of success and plans for the future.

"We just got an independent study from (University of Wisconsin-Green Bay) that this is one of the few priority water sheds in Wisconsin that actually showed improvement based on the things we've been able to do on the reservation," said Pelky.

Martinez, Juanita T.
May 5, 1964 – July 5, 2011

Juanita T. Martinez, age 47, of Oneida, passed away Tuesday evening, July 5, 2011 at St. Mary's Hospital in Green Bay. She was born on May 5, 1964, daughter of Felix Martinez-Cuadrado and Cecilia Martinez Doxtator.

Jenny was a member of the Assembly of God Church in Oneida. She waited patiently for her granddaughter to arrive. Mom was a fun loving, funny good mother who enjoyed car shows, mud running and animals (especially dogs), where ever she was there was a dog. Her grandmother called her Queenie.

Survivors include her sons: Felix "Pepe" (Amanda) Martinez-Doxtator; Yoshuane "Yoshi" Torres; step children: Tina (Tim) Long, Angel Gonzalez, William Gonzales; grandchildren: Kayana, Armando, Juanito; step-grandchildren: Viviana, Amery; parents Felix and Cecelia; half-sisters Ellie Martinez, Edie Martinez; half-brother Edwin Martinez; fiancé Guillermo Gonzalez; aunts and uncles: Florence (Frederick) Klakowicz, Brenda (Everett) Black Thunder, Timmon Doxtator, Patricia (Frank) Gutierrez, David (Doreen) Roberto and many cousins.

Preceded in death by her grandparents Michele and Cecilia Roberto, Juanita and Secundino Biaggi Martinez Friends called on Monday, July 11, 2011 at the Muehl-Boettcher Funeral Home, Seymour from 4-8pm with the Oneida Singers at 6:30pm. Visitation continued on Tuesday, July 12, 2011 at the Oneida Assembly of God Church from 9:30 AM until services at 11 AM with Rev. Lonnie Johnson officiating. Burial took place in the parish cemetery.

Shaffer, Grace J.
September 25, 1944 – June 30, 2011

Grace J. Shaffer, age 66, of Vassar, Kansas, died Thursday, June 30, 2011 at Olathe Medical Center in Olathe, Kansas.

She was born on Monday, September 25, 1944 in Ottawa, Kansas, the daughter of Manuel and Martha (House) Baldovino.

On Saturday, January 4, 1964, Grace was united in marriage with Gary R. Shaffer at Lawrence, KS.

Grace grew up in Ottawa, moving with her husband for his work in 1964 to St Louis, Missouri, and then lived in Little Rock, Arkansas, Kansas City, Missouri, Houston, Texas, and Omaha, Nebraska before moving to Vassar, Kansas in 2000.

Grace graduated from Ottawa High School with the class of 1962.

She was a homemaker.

In the early 1980's Grace worked in a delicatessen in St. Louis, Missouri and in the late 1980's the department store, Richmond Gordman's in Omaha, Nebraska, in 2002 at Wal-Mart in Ottawa, and worked as a para-professional for USD 290 at Garfield Elementary School from 2001 until retiring in 2003.

Grace was a member of First United Methodist Church in Ottawa and a former member of the Ottawa Country Club.

She is survived by her: Husband Gary Shaffer, Vassar, KS; Sons Brad Shaffer, Springfield, MO, Brian Shaffer, Ottawa, KS; Daughter Lisa (Doug) Halbur, Omaha, NE; Brother Louis (Kendra) Baldovino, Rogue River, OR; Sisters; Linda (Lester) Himel, Thibodaux, LA; Jeanne (Jimmy) Garcia , Ottawa, KS; and Patricia Baldovino, Green Bay, WI; Grandchildren, Victoria Halbur, Omaha, NE; Lucas Halbur, Omaha, NE; Cheyenne Shaffer, Glenwood, IA.

Smith, Jimmy
May 17, 1969 – July 7, 2011

Jimmy "Smitty" Smith, 42, Oneida, enjoyed his final days with his friends and family and was comforted by his loving wife before crossing over on Thursday, July 7, 2011. He was born May 17, 1969. On Jan. 28, 2006, Cayden gave his Daddy permission to marry Weeya "Mama Shell". Jim had great love for his family and it gave him great joy that he was able to spend time with them. He felt he was one of the luckiest men in the world. Jim had been employed by Oneida Elderly Services, and had been a bingo caller previously.

Survivors include his wife, Weeya Wakee Smith; his son, Cayden Smith; his stepdaughters, Misha McCormick, Kirsten McCormick; his parents, Bruce and Joanne Smith; a sister and brother-in-law, Justine and Mike Souto; his maternal grandmother, Eva Danforth; his mother-in-law, Juanette (Ben) Benigno; his father-in-law, Allen (Brenda) McCormick; his brothers-in-law and sisters-in-law, Tim McCormick, Melissa Wells, Stephanie Powers, Christina Williams, all of Louisiana; Ridge McCormick, Chad McCormick, both of Florida; other relatives and friends.

Jim was preceded in death by his maternal grandfather, Leslie Danforth; and his paternal grandparents, Ruben and Alma Smith.

Friends gathered at Blaney Funeral Home, 1521 Shawano Ave., after 10 a.m. Saturday. Family and friends shared memories beginning at 11 a.m. Saturday at the funeral home. Burial was held at 10 a.m. Monday in the Oneida Tribal Cemetery.

To send online condolences, please go to www.BlaneyFuneralHome.com.

Weeya wishes to say thank you to Mom and Dad for providing their son with love, care and dignity and for calling me "daughter".

Who passed away on July 23, 2005

If tears could build a stairway,
and memories were a lane,
I would walk right up to heaven
to bring you home again.

No farewell words were spoken
No time to say good-bye
You were gone before we knew it,
and only God knows why.

My heart still aches in sadness
and secret tears still flow
What it meant to lose you
No one will ever know.

Gov. to sign law recognizing Native Hawaiians

By Jennifer Sinco Kelleher
Associated Press

HONOLULU (AP) – A new state law recognizes the first people of Hawaii and lays the foundation for Native Hawaiians to establish their own government.

Gov. Neil Abercrombie signed the bill into law Wednesday afternoon at Washington Place, which was the home of Queen Liliuokalani, the last monarch of the Hawaiian Kingdom.

"We sit here today in her memory, her honor," Abercrombie said during a ceremony on the home's veranda, punctuated with Hawaiian chanting and hula. The law comes 118 years after Liliuokalani was deposed.

"Every generation of Native Hawaiians since the overthrow of the Hawaiian Kingdom in 1893 has struggled with not legally being recognized as equals," said Sen. Malama Solomon, D-Hilo-Honokaa. "The new law recognizes Hawaiians as equal partners and sets out a procedure to organize ourselves that is very grassroots driven"

The bill, formally recognizing Native Hawaiians as the only "indigenous, aboriginal, maoli people of Hawaii," passed the Legislature with only one "no" vote in May.

Native Hawaiians are the last remaining indigenous group in the United States who haven't been allowed to establish their own government, a right already extended to many Alaska Natives and Native American tribes. Federal legislation for Hawaiian recognition hasn't passed despite more than a decade of efforts by U.S. Sen. Daniel Akaka, D-Hawaii.

"This sends a clear message to the federal government to endorse the recognition of Native Hawaiians," said Colette Machado, chair of the Board of Trustees for the Office of Hawaiian Affairs. "Our goal at OHA is for federal recognition."

The new law complements efforts in Congress and "demonstrates that the people of Hawaii strongly support the right of Native Hawaiians to reorganize and perpetuate their culture and way of life," Akaka said in a statement.

The governor is to appoint a five-member commission responsible for creating a roll of qualified Native Hawaiians interested in participating in their government. Those eligible for the commission include Native Hawaiians and others who have maintained significant cultural, social or civic connections to the Native Hawaiian community.

Before and during the ceremony, a group of about two dozen from various Native Hawaiian organizations protested outside the gates of Washington Place and across the street at the state capitol building.

They call the law a "back door" tactic to accomplish what Akaka's bill failed to do at the federal level. They believe the government has no power over Native Hawaiian sovereignty.

"They're not the Hawaiian nation, we're the Hawaiian nation," said Pilipo Souza of Ke Aupuni o Hawaii.

There are about 400,000 Native Hawaiians in the world, with about half of them living in Hawaii.

Annual Relay for Life of Oneida

Relay for Life volunteers Lisa Metoxen and Iris Metoxen with Committee Chair Volunteer Paula "Pogi" King-Dessart.

What: The American Cancer Society's Relay For Life is a unique celebration of life in honor and in memory of those whose lives have been touched by cancer. It has been described as a "huge compassionate support group"–a place where friends, family and loved ones join to celebrate survivorship and to honor those who have lost the battle. Relay For Life involves teams of 8-15 people who take turns walking or running around a track throughout the event. A party-like atmosphere prevails as team members camp out on the surrounding grounds for the duration of the event to enjoy the music, food, fun, entertainment, and activities while building camaraderie with fellow teammates and particpants.

When: Friday, July 29 & Saturday, July 30, 2011 6:00 pm to 8:00 am

Where: Norbert Hill Center

Who: Everyone is welcome! Athletes and non-athletes join teams of individuals representing clubs, corporations, organizations, neighborhoods, and families at this fun, community-oriented event.

History: Relay For Life was the idea of Gordon Klatt, M.D. in 1985, Dr. Klatt ran and walked for 24 hours on a track in Tacoma, Washington, traveling about 81 miles and raising $27,000 for the American Cancer Society. From there, Relay For Life was born and is now held nationwide. More than $26.4 million was raised at almost 400 Relay For Life events held in the Midwest Division alone in 2009-2010.

Why: The money raised helps support American Cancer Society programs in research, education, advocacy and service–locally, statewide, and nationally.

Benefits: Great community exposure. Opportunity to be community leader and do community service. Terrific group outing. Raise money for a good cause. From the opening lap, led by the cancer survivors, to the emotional candle-lighting ceremony, through triumphant final lap, Relay For Life is something participants will always remember!

Event Highlights

Survivors' Lap: Cancer survivors from around the community are invited to take a victory lap and be cheered on by fellow participants. This is a true celebration of their courageous battle.

Luminaria Ceremony: A special ceremony, which will be held at 9:30 pm pays tribute to those who have been affected by cancer. Luminarias are purchased in honor of those who have survived their battle with cancer, for those still fighting, and in memory of those who have courageously battled this disease, but lost. The Luminarias are kept around the track to represent the healing power of community and importance of funding to find a cure.

Oneida Tribal Judicial System

Judicial Code

Dear General Tribal Members;

As we move closer to the General Election in July, the Oneida Tribal Judicial System brings forward, for the benefit of those running for a position in the Judicial System and the community in general, another facet of the judicial role in our community. Just like all of you, the Judiciary is directed by laws, ordinances, rules, and policies. Without these guidelines our actions would soon deteriorate into chaos and negativity-kind of the tail wagging the dog concept of business.

The Judicial Code is our guide for day-to-day checks & balances. Chapter One of the Oneida Tribal Judicial System's Judicial Code covers our jurisdiction, criteria for election, terms of office, vacancies, responsibilities of the Chief and Deputy Chief Judicial Officers and Judicial Officers in general. The Chief Judicial Officer supervises day-to-day operations including Judicial Officers and Administrator. The Chief Judicial Officer is directed by and answers to the full Judiciary.

Our primary duty is to provide a fair and unbiased process for hearing original complaints (Trial Court), reviewing original hearing body cases on appeal (Appellate Court) and processing claims for child support, paternity and placement (Family Court). Chapters two and Three are the Rules of Civil Procedures and Rules of Appellate Procedure.

Chapter Five is the Judicial Code of Conduct. The policy and purpose is to promote the highest ethical conduct in all of its elected Judicial Officers. This Code is intended to create a base from which all Judicial Officers are expected to strive toward improving the health, safety and welfare of the Oneida Nation, citizens of the Nation and persons living in an around the jurisdiction of the Oneida Nation in Wisconsin.

Presented here are listed a few excerpts from the Oneida Tribal Judicial System's Judicial Code of Conduct:

Article III,§3-1 This Code applies to all Judicial Officers, Pro-Tempore and Former Judicial Officers. §3-2 The Code of Ethics shall be as set out below; recognizing that the concept of ethical conduct shall encompass action as well as inaction, and represents an area of self regulation. Provided further, that it is the policy of the Oneida Tribal Judicial System to demonstrate the highest standards of personal integrity, truthfulness, honesty, and fortitude in all public activities in order to inspire public confidence and trust in the officials of the Oneida Tribal Judicial System.

Article IV, § 4-1 An independent and honest judicial system is the mainstay of trust. This goal should be kept in mind at all times, especially if the Oneida Tribal Judicial System intends to earn the proper respect in the community…§ 4-2…all Judicial Officers must remain personally impartial and independent, and act to promote and protect the independence of the Oneida Tribal Judicial System.

Article V, § 5-3 A Judicial Officer shall not lobby or advocate any position before a legislative or executive branch for personal gain. § 5-4 Once elected to the Oneida Tribal Judicial System, Judicial Officers shall not serve as an Advocate for any party before any hearing body within the jurisdiction of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin

Our mission is to operate as an independent branch of government, entrusted to protect the self-government and sovereignty of the Oneida Nation and rights of its citizens.

Please visit the Oneida Tribal Judicial System's home page to review the complete Oneida Tribal Judicial System's Judicial Code of Conduct, Chapter V which also contains the Rules of Discipline.

When you as the General Tribal Council member goes to the polls to vote be assured that there are Laws and Policies in place that act as checks and balances for your court. Whom ever is elected to the position of the Oneida Tribal Judicial System will be required to adhere to all the above.

The Oneida Tribal Judicial System would like every member to go vote.

Creating a Language Learning Environment

By Yvonne Kaquatosh
Kalihwisaks

Language revitalization has been a high priority amongst individuals and the Oneida communities for quite some time. With grant assistance, revitalization efforts in the Oneida community are assured continuance to educate the community.

The goal of the online language tool that is being developed by the Oneida Creating Language Learning Environments Team, is to design an online comprehensive language learning environment where Learners can enter the curriculum at their learning level. Each unit consists of four levels: basic vocabulary, adding phrases and sentence, conversation and stories which have recordings of Native speakers. They are following the K-6 language curriculum which was based on numerous hours of hard work and sound bites from elders Maria Hinton and the late Amos Christjohn as well as many other Elders. "I feel like we are in the middle, holding on to the hands of two generations trying keep (our) language alive with the young and old…" added Kahʌtanúkwas (She gathers the fields) aka Laura Cornelius in a recent interview.

The realization that the language has to start in the home and families have to learn together is another area they are focusing on. A Mentor/Mentee program is currently being piloted to create families of language learners by bringing families together in an informal setting at their homes weekly and monthly at Cottage 2 with a potluck to create an atmosphere of language learning. Oneida language Mentors for the program include: Wathahi·né (She follows the path) Inez Thomas; Tehahuhkótha (He's going down two paths) Randy Cornelius; and Kaliwiyósta (She has good words) Leanne Thompson. We need to save the Oneida language one child at a time!

Realizing the dwindling amount of speakers we have in the Oneida Community a visit was made to a nearby Immersion school near Hayward WI. "We're at the edge of a cliff and our language is against the cliff. We need to take the jump, the water is fine, come join us," explained Kahʌtanúkwas borrowing an analogy she heard visiting the Immersion School in Lac Courte Oreilles encouraging Oneida to start an immersion school as soon as possible.

With a tribal membership of approximately 16,000 strong, there's bound to be differences of opinion on the spoken word, however, Kahʌtanúkwas is confident that will not hinder progress. "Let's move forward, we all have differences and there are several dialects. Support one another in a good positive manner," she said, "keeping in mind that we are all learning" as she compared the teaching process to how we should speak to our infants when we are teaching them by using a good mind, encouraging words and with love.

The family of language learners meet monthly at the cottage located at 1240 Packerland Drive, Cottage 2 in Green Bay, Wisconsin.

The next gathering /potluck will be an open house on, July 27, 2011. "We encourage language use at the gatherings, share ideas, topics and good old-fashion visiting," she added.

There will also be a presentation on the Oneida Language website on Tuesday, August 9, 2011 at the Skenandoah Complex from 11:30AM–1:30PM.

This is the second grant the Oneida Language program was able to acquire. The first grant was used to create the curriculum that is currently in place.

The Language series will be published monthly in the Kalihwsaks. Look for the next update in the August 11th issue.

County lawmakers OK returning property to NY tribe

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) – County lawmakers in the Syracuse area have approved a non-binding resolution that could lead to the transfer of a publicly owned Onondaga Lake property to the Onondaga Indian Nation.

The Onondaga County Legislature voted 11-8 Tuesday in support of the resolution that would give a 36-acre parcel known as Murphy's Island to the tribe.

The property on the lake's southern shore is sacred to the Onondagas and other Iroquois.

The Post-Standard of Syracuse reports that the transfer of the land to the tribe isn't likely to occur anytime soon. The shoreline property is polluted with industrial waste. Lawmakers who voted against the resolution say they're concerned about potential liability because of the pollution.

Tribal leaders have said the Onondagas would refuse the land transfer if the property isn't cleaned up first.

Shekolih,

I just realized this is the last article I will be writing as a member of the Oneida Business Committee. Where have the last nine years gone? It feels like they passed in the blink of an eye!

As I leave office, I want to leave you all with a prayer. This prayer is how I articulate my hopes and dreams for this Nation; ones that I think we all share. For nine years, this vision has shaped my decisions and actions as an elected leader and I hope it will continue to shape the decisions and actions of our leaders yet to come. With great pride I look forward to the day that this vision is no longer made up of hopes and dreams; but is instead our reality.

A Prayer for Onʎyoteʔa·ká

May we always keep our history, traditions and ways alive, and may they link us together, as Onʎyoteʔa·ká, until the end of time.

May every single one of us always have: enough food for our families, a blanket to keep us comfortable, a fire to keep us warm, a home to provide shelter that echoes with the sounds of laughter and joy; and tobacco to thank the Creator.

May we reclaim all land within our borders, and enjoy friendly, mutually beneficial relationships with all in and near our community.

May our judicial system complete the slow, meticulous process of development, and meet every need of our people; allowing us to regain the power, control and broadest exercise of sovereignty that benefits our people.

May our government always be stable, strong, and treated as an equal by other governments. May this magnificent sovereign nation of ours flourish and recapture absolute independence as our infrastructure matures and our economy grows.

May we treat each other with respect, appreciation, and warmth. May we recognize ourselves in each others' eyes, and always remember that we are bonded to each other by blood, history, tradition, custom, beliefs, and of course, love.

May every Oneida person learn the language of our people; and may the Oneida language be spoken naturally and by choice, alongside English in the workplace, in the schoolyard, in the classroom, and at every social function where two or more Tribal members are in attendance.

May our nation be free of the common physical ailments that cause so much misery to our people today; with diabetes, heart disease, cancer, and other ills becoming mere footnotes in the history books.

May we see the end of all illegal or controlled substances that cause dependence; and may our people be physically, mentally, and emotionally independent of external negative influence and internal distress.

May every single Oneida person have the gift of at least one elder in his or her life to share wisdom and experience, teach our ways, smooth out the wrinkles between younger generations, bring our past to life, and teach us the serenity and quiet contentment that can only come from a life well-lived.

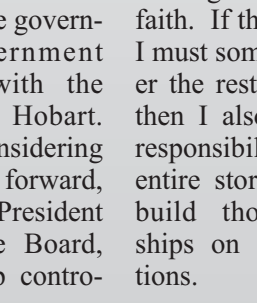
May every single Oneida person become an elder, sharing their gifts with the Oneida of future generations.

May every person achieve their greatest potential by taking advantage of the power of education. May we provide a world-class education in our own schools, and may we always make higher education attainable for those with the strength and ability to pursue it.

May every single one of us take full advantage of our individual and unique knowledge, talents and gifts, and find that role that each and every one of us was intended to fill on this earth.

May we eradicate poverty. May the tribe have lucrative, sustainable business ventures and investments in a broad range of markets; and may we provide Tribal-member-owned businesses with support and limitless opportunities to grow and thrive.

May we fully harness the strength of our brother and sister tribes all over this continent to achieve our common goals, using our collective voices to achieve that which one tribe, or even five or ten tribes, cannot do alone.



May we re-forge the bonds that tie us to the Oneida of the Thames, and the Oneida of New York, remembering that we are all connected; by blood and by history.

May we always keep our history, traditions and ways alive, and may they link us together, as Onʎyoteʔa·ká, until the end of time.

Shekoli,

I would like to take this opportunity to address a letter to the editor from Mr Heidel, the President of the Village of Hobart, in the last edition of the Kalihwisaks. As you may recall, I wrote about Thornberry Creek at Oneida's attempt to obtain a liquor license and the state law which allows Thornberry to go directly to the State to obtain that license.

Mr. Heidel claims that I am either ignorant of the facts or that I am dishonest. Mr. Hiedel went on to claim: "The Tribe is heading down a very dark road if it elects a leader who cannot or will not speak the truth to its own members and neighboring government officials."

Mr. Heidel's letter serves as a perfect example of why the Tribe and our neighboring governments do not enjoy a positive government-to-government relationship with the Village of Hobart. Instead of considering ways to move forward, Mr. Heidel, as President of the Village Board, tries to stir up controversy, point fingers to place blame, and resorts to name calling.

I, for one, will not lower myself to this level of half-truth and name calling. Working together as partners works for everyone. Our historical efforts to enter into Service Agreements are examples of partnership building.

There are multiple sides to every story. Mr. Heidel, his colleagues, and some employees will give you one side of that story. I hope that I have given you the rest of the story. I believe in government-to-government relations and the benefits of partnerships. In spite of Mr. Heidel's comments, I will continue to strive to build relationships with all our neighbors who want to negotiate in good faith. If that means that I must sometimes deliver the rest of the facts, then I also accept that responsibility to tell the entire story so we can build those relationships on firm foundations.

GTC Gives Oneida Employees A Pay Raise

I would like to applaud the Oneida GTC for authorizing and approving the 75 cent raise to our employees at the Semi-Annual GTC meeting held on July 4, 2011. The raises will go primarily to the front-line employees. I also give a standing ovation to GTC for doing what should have been done by management and the Oneida Business Committee during the course of their day-to-day functions. I was pleased with the GTC and very disappointed by Oneida Business Committee Council Members Melinda Danforth, Ron "Tehassi" Hill, and Brandon Yellowbird-Stevens who voted AGAINST the 75 cent raise for our employees. Even Ron "Tehassi" Hill's assistant, Paul Ninham, voted against the raise for our employees. I thought it was very interesting because these people always "say" and "claim" they are for the employees, but their actions spoke louder than their words. If those Business Committee members were voting against the people's raise, then who are they working for or with?

Who's Bullying Who, Madelyn?

I am writing this letter in hopes Madelyn will stop bullying and harassing my family; I am now seeking legal action. When you put something in the paper you should get your facts straight.

Your negative article about an incident three years ago speaks for itself. What's your point, besides harassment?

Let's review the 2008 incident you wrote about in the last Kalihwisaks: Merlin Cornelius Sr (a Tribal Elder) is a farmer, who has lived and operated a farm on this reservation his entire life (70+ yrs). He has cattle and equipment. The ag-Land he leases is used for his farm and livelihood. He does not sell, sublease or hire non-tribal people to farm Tribal Lands. His farming operation is located at Fish Creek and CTH H. In 2008, his nephew Jason purchased three acres to build a home. Jason gave Merlin permission to remove hay from his property, which was used to feed Merlin's cows. Jason sent a letter to the Oneida Land Office requesting Al Vandehey (a non-tribal farmer who resides at W523 EE) to stay off of his property. Isaac Jordon had an Ag-Lease adjoining Jason's property, however Al and his family were observed planting and harvesting crops off of Isaac's leased parcel. The crops were transported to Al's farm. Merlin's daughter drove past Jason's property and noticed the hay was cut down. She called Merlin and Jason. Merlin did not cut it down and Jason did not give anyone else permission to cut it. She immediately talked to Al and his wife who were cutting and removing hay from Isaac's leased land. Al said he cut the hay down, but he would leave it because he was told by Merlin's daughter that the owner gave that hay to Merlin. Isaac was not on the property when Al and his family were harvesting the crop off of Isaac's parcel. Al was informed to stay off of Jason's property. Later, that same day, Merlin arrived on his tractor and found that the Vandeheys had again trespassed onto Jason's property and removed all of his hay; which was an estimated 20 bales. Merlin drove to the adjoining property, where Al was working, and baled up 20 bales and left; again Isaac was not present, but he arrived shortly after Merlin removed 20 bales. A short time later, Isaac's cousins Larry Jordan from OPD and Jay Fuss from the Housing Authority arrived. Larry (who rightfully should have recused himself from this case) issued Merlin a citation; however all charges were dismissed. No other known charges or citations were issued by Larry or OPD even after attempts were made to inform them of the entire circumstances surrounding this case. You're right, there is no justice. How do Tribal Members get ag-leases when they have no known farm, animals or farming equipment? Madelyn, do something positive and write a resolution that prevents members from sub-leasing our land and resources to non-tribal members for sole individual profit.

Election Spotlight

After The Vote Of The Tribal Voice…Now What?

The election of July 16, 2011 will be a selection of dynamic multi-dimensional leadership so critically needed during these challenging times of various levels of conflict and opportunity. The old criteria of "just vote for the family name" no longer is able to be the sole reason for whom to cast one's vote for. Once you get in the polling place, let your tribal mind and heart guide you to select the type of tribal leadership, and not just tribal politicians, we need to advance the tribal agenda for the Oneida community.

If you don't vote - you don't matter. However after you vote….. matter more by participating in your government by empowering yourself and your role as tribal member/leader by:

- Involving yourself in the various meetings of tribal government (many opportunities)
- Voicing your concerns in constructive and critical means when necessary to make Oneida a better place to live in and prosper
- Volunteering your time and energy to contribute to strong and representative government addressing the needs of the peoples
- Informing yourself about the issues immediately before us and those predictably coming so we can be proactive rather than reactive in addressing the challenges
- Contributing in whatever manner you can to rebuild the Oneida Nation in all elements
- Represent not only yourself but your family and community and the Oneida Nation in the highest manner possible to the best of your ability to contribute so we can be all we can be

Chose wisely for strong tribal leadership and not just soso (same old same old) tribal politicians. "Nail them up".

All I Want is the Truth

On May 23, 2011 at the general GTC meeting, we were told that the 7th Generation Biomass plan was complete, and they wanted us to approve a $19 million loan. WRONG!

The information submitted was incomplete. Sally Hronec from Wisconsin DNR informed them in writing on June 1, 2011, the DNR stated that the documents submitted by the Tribe were not legible, and were missing numerous plan views, important parameters of the gasification equipment, wastewater discharge information, and many other items.

The DNR asked for supporting information such as laboratory tests and existing operatives. They have NONE!

At the GTC meeting, we were told there are other units like the one suggested for Oneida. WRONG! When asked for location, we were told the only one in the U.S. was California. WRONG!

The DNR said it appears that the current operating pyrolysis applications are at research and testing locations and DO NOT EXIST on a commercial scale in the U.S. On behalf of the 16,000 registered Oneida members and before we spend $19 million, like the $300,000,000 loss on the Aerodigm investment, or the millions on the Plexis deal where the Directors enriched themselves on Big Bonuses and "Finders Fees" and Christmas Bonuses—let us be sure we let the people decide. Don't just jam it down their throats.

It would be great if the BC set up a day on a Saturday so everyone could vote, like they did for one first primary vote, say 60 days from now. Members don't have to sit in a 3-hour meeting. The Tribe doesn't have to pay out one million dollars and the people could decide if they want to risk this kind of money and vote "Yes" or "No." After all, it is their money. Do it at the Police Station.

On June 4, 2011, the Green Bay Press Gazette published an article with the headline "Oneida's Biomass Plant Faces More Questions." And it quoted Hronek stating "In it's current form the information submitted does not provide us with a confidence level that would ensure a reasonable expectation of success."

At the GTC meeting, we were told 7 Gen would pay back the $19 million in five years. They would have to earn over $3.8 million a year or $316,000 a month to do so. At 20 working days a month that would be $15,800 a day. If this business is that good, why isn't anyone else doing it?

If a malfunction occurred, there is no plan for moving or storing the waste off the property to ensure public and environmental protection. If something more than replacing a motor occurred like a large section of the entire process involved replacements, there is no plan to protect facility and environmental design considerations to protect the public or the environment, according to Hronek.

If the Green Bay Metropolitan Sewage District does not approve of the discharge during any point in the process, there is no plan.

Even John Gilcher, Co-Chair of a group called Incinerator Free Brown County, said "The DNR has confirmed what skeptics long suspected: a project like this has never been allowed anywhere else in the country. Why make Brown County a guinea pig?" Let the people decide.

Fight with Hobart?

It does not seem very wise or diplomatic for a candidate for Chairperson of the Oneida Business Committee to be picking a fight in the pages of the Kalihwisaks with the Town of Hobart before he is even elected. You would think that the Candidate would have much more important concerns regarding the state of our Nation and the immediate needs of its people, which are still great to address so urgently. It seems that "hate'n on" Hobart (our non-Indian neighbors) has become the politically expedient thing to do, and tribal politicians are only too to play to the base instinct of this "us vs. them" mentality. Prejudice and ignorance can work both ways. Whether the Town of Hobart is right or wrong in their dealings with us is beside the much, much more important question of: What have our elected officials done for Oneida Tribal Members immediate needs over the last three years? Thornberry Creek's liquor license and a game farm, although maybe important ancillary issues, are not the immediate needs of the Oneida people. Who on the Oneida Business Committee has been trying to work for the people, improve tribal government and its access to the people, or cut out waste and save Oneida money? And who has voted systematically in lockstep with the status quo? In favor of spending, spending, spending, more spending on things that favor more bureaucracy, more non-Oneida, needless consultants, more travel and luxurious accommodations to "represent" us at the latest NIGA Conference, EPA Monitoring, intertribal Consortium, Leadership Conference in Hawaii they can find. Is this Oneida business? All the while most tribal members get by every paycheck to paycheck if they are lucky to have a paycheck, lines and wait lists lengthen for services throughout the tribe, tribal member votes are counted one by one by one by one, hours into the night, and millions, upon millions, upon millions and millions and millions of dollars disappear, never to be seen by the General Tribal Council.

Questioning an Ethics Complaint

I went on line on Thursday, June 30, 2011, and pulled up the Oneida Kalihwisaks newspaper to see how my Oneida Business Committee Council campaign ad looked. To my surprise, there was an article submitted by the Oneida Appeals Commission titled "Ethics complaint decision issued against Judicial Officer Linda Dallas". I was surprised to see that an Ethics Complaint Hearing regarding anything concerning me was held because I had never received any notification in any shape or form from the Appeals Commission regarding the matter. So it should come as no surprise to anyone that I did not appear at the Ethics Complaint Hearing. Since I was not provided notice, I was not able to present any evidence. I was not able to show the fact that the matter was under appeal and I am representing myself in the Wisconsin Court of Appeals regarding the matter. Since the Wisconsin Circuit Court Access website is FREE and they ALL have access to it, they should have known the matter is under appeal. Since it is under appeal in a real court system, they should realize they cannot do anything with it until it is decided by the Wisconsin Court of Appeals. Winnifred Thomas told me repeatedly (over the last eighteen (18) months that she has been harassing me) she would not authorize me to take my required training at the National Judicial College that would allow me to participate on and decided cases at the Appeals Commission, until a final decision was reached regarding the matter. Winnifred made these statements in front of the whole Appeals Commission, so they all know they should not have proceeded with anything regarding the matter until it was completely done. I have not participated in any function or activity involving or regarding the Appeals Commission for well over two and half (2 ½) months due to an serious injury sustained on March 5, 2011. I provided written medical documentation and notice to the Appeals Commission on two (2) separate occasions informing them I would not be participating in any function or activity involving or regarding the Appeals Commission as I was under my doctor's care and would not be returning until I was released. Both times, Winnifred Thomas, Chief Judicial Officer of the Appeals Commission, stated "Your request is denied". I took that to mean Winnifred Thomas believes she is superior to the medical knowledge, experience and directives of my physician. The decision to not participate in any function or activity of the Appeals Commission while I was injured is due to the hostile environment that exists at the Appeals Commission and the significantly negative reaction my body has to their inappropriate, immature, unreasonable, irresponsible behaviors and conduct. The information printed is just another form of and example of the abuse they subject me to.

O.B.C. Legislative Operating Committee

LOC Update

The 2008-2011 Legislative Term In Review

During the 2008-2011 legislative term, the Legislative Operating Committee (LOC) processed 113 proposals to create, repeal, or amend Tribal laws, policies, and entity bylaws. So far, 13 new laws and policies have been adopted and 26 laws and policies have been amended. Several additional proposals to create or amend Tribal laws and policies are in the final stages of the legislative process and nearing completion. Bylaws for 11 Tribal entities have been created, amended or reviewed, and one law and one policy have been separately repealed.

For more information about any of these new laws, amendments, or any other legislative item, visit us online at www.oneida-nsn.gov and click on the link for Tribal Government and then the link for Oneida Laws. Otherwise, questions or requests for more information can be directed to the Legislative Reference Office (LRO). LRO Paralegal Tonya Boucher can be reached by e-mail at tboucher@oneidanation.org or by telephone at (920) 869-4240. The LRO is located on the Second Floor, Norbert Hill Center.

New Tribal Laws and Policies

The following new laws and policies were processed by the LOC and adopted during the 2008-2011 legislative term:

Building Code. The Tribe's previous Building Code was repealed and replaced with a new code that tracks international codes amended specifically to apply to Oneida land and buildings.

Children's Burial Fund Policy. This policy provides coverage for non-enrolled (but eligible) children 0-5 years of age, whom would have otherwise become ineligible for benefits when the Burial Endowment Fund was repealed and the Oneida Life Insurance Plan Plus (OLIPP) was enacted.

Child Custody, Placement, and Visitation Law. This law authorizes the Oneida Tribal Judicial System to hear matters related to Child Custody, Placement and Visitation, and establishes requirements for determining the best interest of a child in such situations.

Child Support Law and Rules. This law and the supporting rules establish requirements and authorize the Oneida Tribal Judicial System to hear child support cases and issue child support orders.

Divorce, Annulment, Legal Separation Law. This law establishes requirements and allows the Oneida Tribal Judicial System to handle matters such as divorces, annulments, and separations.

GTC Meeting Stipend Payment Policy. This policy provides for the payment of a $100 stipend to GTC members for attending GTC meetings.

Local Land Use Regulation Reimbursement Policy. This policy allows Tribal members to be reimbursed for certain fines and costs of permits and inspections issued by local governments, up to $1,000, in certain situations where the fees are paid and the permits received under protest.

Marriage Law. This law establishes requirements whereby the Tribe can issue marriage licenses, and gives the Oneida Tribal Judicial System authority to exercise jurisdiction over marital actions involving Tribal members.

Motor Vehicle Fuel Tax Exemption Resolution. This resolution requires Oneida Retail (the One Stop stores) to apply the motor vehicle fuel tax exemption to all Oneida members, not just those living on the Reservation.

Paternity Law. This law establishes requirements and allows the Oneida Tribal Judicial System to assert jurisdiction over Tribal members and other parties in specific paternity-related situations, allowing tribal members to have paternity matters heard in Tribal courts.

Social Media Policy. This policy regulates and establishes oversight for social media domains (i.e. Twitter, Facebook, etc.) hosted on behalf of the Tribe and Tribal entities.

Tattoo and Body Piercing law. This law regulates tattoo artists and establishments, and body piercing artists and establishments under Tribal jurisdiction.

Vendor Licensing and Permitting, Gaming Regulations. These regulations allow the Tribe to govern the investigation and issuance of licenses and permits to vendors of the Tribe's gaming operations. These regulations were adopted on an emergency basis and expire on November 25, 2011.

Amendments to Tribal Laws and Policies

The following Tribal laws and policies were amended during the 2008-2011 legislative term:

1996 Education Resolution. Amended to provide for tiered educational funding based on the type of degree; to provide for an endowment to fund the program for future generations; and to add a formula-based cost to address additional costs of the room/board allowance.

Alcohol and Beverage Licensing Law. Amended to allow the Tribe to obtain a license from the Wisconsin Department of Revenue, instead of from a surrounding municipality, in order to sell alcohol beverages.

Cemetery Law/Burial Law. Amendments renamed the Burial Law as the "Cemetery Law," repealed the Cemetery Board, and placed administration of the cemetery and the Law under the Enrollments Office.

Child Support Law, Paternity law and Child Custody, Placement, and Visitation Law. Amendments to these three laws addressed discretionary transfers from state court to Tribal court, and expanded the Tribal Judicial System's exercise of jurisdiction to cover any party that lives on the Reservation and is also the biological parent of an enrolled (or eligible for enrollment) Oneida child.

Additional amendments were also made to these three laws to prevent conflicts of interest in the appointment of Guardians ad litem.

Clean Air Policy. Amendments prohibit smoking in Oneida One Stop retail stores and the attached casinos.

Comprehensive Policy Governing Boards, Committees and Commissions. Stipend payments for meetings are capped at $50 and limited to once a month; and a daily $100 stipend for members authorized to travel on behalf of an entity was removed. Entities can no longer petition for an exception to the $50 cap, but those already receiving stipends of more than $50 will be allowed to continue.

Domestic Animals Ordinance. Amendments allow individuals in specific situations to continue to use their land in the same manner as they did before becoming subject to the Tribe's laws. Specifically, the amendments 1) "grandfather" those individuals who had more animals on their land than were allowed by this law before they became subject to the jurisdiction of the Tribe, and 2) allow an individual to operate a kennel on land zoned residential, if he or she obtains a permit from the Land Commission.

Election Law. Based on a GTC directive, comprehensive amendments were made to this law, including the addition of new provisions allowing for primaries to be held during the election process; updating the rules governing campaigning and candidates; the election process and how to address ties; and making the Election Board responsible for calling a caucus, instead of the OBC.

REVISED

Emergency Management/ Homeland Security Law. Provisions were added to identify how the Tribe would handle issues relating to isolation and quarantine in the event of a major illness outbreak.

Housing Authority Admissions and Occupancy Policy. Social eligibility criteria are changed—Applicants and occupants now only have previous unpaid debt owed to OHA taken into consideration when applying or continuing occupancy, instead of all types of previous debts.

OHA will no longer consider an applicant and occupant's history of non-payment of rent, breach of leases, or use of unit for illegal purposes.

Hunting, Fishing and Trapping Law. Seasonal amendments were proposed and approved in 2009, 2010 and 2011.

Oneida Nation Gaming Ordinance. Comprehensive amendments were made based on recommendations from the ONGO Task Force.

Some of the changes include: a change to the Oneida Gaming Commission (Commission) composition; a change in hearing timelines; granting fee and fine issuance authority to the Gaming Commission; the addition of a vendor license section specific to vendors doing business with Gaming; and the establishment of the Gaming Security Department and Gaming Surveillance in law.

Open Records and Open Meetings Law. Amendments address records retention—Tribal records must be maintained for seven years, unless the OBC approves an alternative retention schedule. Other minor changes were also made to update the law and ensure consistency with other Tribal laws and policies.

Pardon and Forgiveness Law. Amendments add new provisions for "forgiveness" when a pardon is not necessary. Additional amendments are also intended to improve the pardon process and amend the structure of the Pardon Committee. Note: the amendments will not become effective until Sept. 30, 2011.

Per Capita Ordinance. A high school diploma is now required in order for a person to receive his or her minor trust distribution prior to his or her 21st birthday. Additional amendments have also been adopted on an emergency basis, which will expire on December 8, 2011 unless renewed. The emergency amendments are intended to deter Tribal members from submitting fraudulent documents in order to receive per capita trust funds prior to a 21st birthday.

Real Property Law. Updated and revised to prevent conflicts with other Tribal laws—specifically with the newly-implemented marriage and divorce laws. Authority of the Land Commission is also extended over the Tribe's lands in New York.

Trust Scholarship Fund. Amendments increase funding from $2,500 to $3,000 for each recipient, and change the term "one-time" to "lifetime" to ensure clarity.

Zoning Ordinance. Comprehensive amendments were made based on recommendations from a cross-function team. Generally, the amendments updated the law to remove obsolete provisions, and streamlined and simplified provisions.

Other changes included removing the OBC's roles and responsibilities relating to zoning, and assigning those responsibilities (including most administrative, oversight, adoption and approval duties) to the Land Commission and Zoning Administrator.

LOC Update

The 2008-2011 Legislative Term In Review

Planning for Growth

In anticipation of future legislation, the LOC has reserved specific chapter sections in the Oneida Code of Laws:

- Chapters 200-220 have been reserved for laws governing the Tribe's land in Sullivan County, New York.
- Chapters 300-399 have been reserved for Employment Relations.
- Chapters 400-499 have been reserved for education-related laws.

Repealed Laws and Policies

The LOC processed the repeal of one law and one policy this term.

- Boxing Ordinance. Largely obsolete, this law prevented the Tribe from hosting various other forms of boxing events.
- Burial Fund Endowment Policy. The Tribe's burial benefits were replaced with the Oneida Life Insurance Plan Plus benefit.

Visit us online at:
www.oneida-nsn.gov
Click on the link for Tribal Government and then the link for Oneida Laws.

Bylaws

Each Tribal board, committee and commission is governed by a set of bylaws, which must be approved by the OBC. The LOC works with each entity to develop their bylaws, and to revise those bylaws as needed. This term, the LOC processed bylaws for the following:

- ✓ Oneida Nation Arts Board
- ✓ Oneida Health Board
- ✓ Anna John Nursing Home Board
- ✓ Election Board
- ✓ Emergency Planning Committee
- ✓ Faith in Action
- ✓ Oneida Land Commission
- ✓ Legislative Operating Committee
- ✓ Personnel Commission
- ✓ Pow Wow Committee
- ✓ SEOTS Advisory Board

2008-2011 Legislative Items Nearing Completion

The following items have nearly completed the legislative process and are anticipated to be completed in upcoming months. Note: several other laws and policies were proposed and processed during the 2008-2011 term, but were not completed. Those items may be re-submitted for consideration once the new legislative term begins.

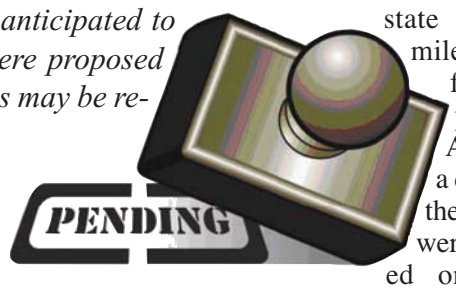
New Laws and Policies

Budget Management and Control Act.

This law would govern the Tribal budget process and establish a procedural framework to oversee Tribal spending. GTC has directed the LOC to continue developing this law.

Judiciary Act and Legislative Procedures Act.

These laws would establish a Judiciary with more stringent requirements for judges, and implement a more thorough lawmaking process. These items were tabled at a recent GTC meeting, and it is intended that they be re-introduced at an upcoming GTC meeting.



Amendments to Current Laws/Policies

Administrative Procedures Act.

Amendments would support the Judiciary law and Legislative Procedures Act, if approved by the GTC. Further action is expected pending approval of the Judiciary and LPA.

Oneida Constitution Amendments

Amendments to the Constitution require a special election called by the Secretary of the Interior, and so they will be addressed once a Secretarial Election date is approved.

Child Custody, Placement, Visitation.

The LOC is reviewing permanent provisions to address where a parent wishes to move out of state and/or 150 miles or more from the other parent. Amendments addressing these situations were implemented on an emergency basis on April 13, 2011.

Personnel Policies and Procedures—Accrual of Personal and Vacation Time

Amendments would cap the amount of personal and vacation time an employee could accrue, and would require supervisors to notify an employee once they have a certain amount of accrued time. These amendments will be brought back before the General Tribal Council for consideration in September, 2011.

Zoning Ordinance: Nuisance Provisions.

Nuisance provisions have been proposed for addition to the law. A public hearing was held on June 23, 2011, and the LOC is currently reviewing submitted comments regarding the proposed changes.

Amendments to Tribal Employment Policies

The following amendments to Tribal employment policies were processed and implemented during the 2008-2011 term:

Personnel Policies and Procedures–Indian Preference. The screening procedure for Tribal employment has been amended so that when a new position is posted, it will first be posted as "Oneida Only." If the position is not filled after that first posting, it will be re-posted and many such positions will then be open to all qualified applicants.

Personnel Policies and Procedures–Trade Back for Cash. The Trade Back for Cash program language has been revised so that Trade Back for Cash is not required to be offered every year, but would instead be offered only when the Business Committee determines it is economically feasible.

Permanent criteria language is being developed to provide for a limited availability of the emergency Trade Back for Cash process.

Back Pay Policy. Employee back pay awards will now be reduced by some types of income earned during a back pay period.

This is intended to prevent double compensation where a person works at another job during a period where he or she is later determined to be owed back pay by the Tribe.

Early Return to Work Policy. Amendments add responsibilities for supervisors, and update language to reflect current departments. Additional amendments extend the maximum amount of time an employee may utilize modified work duty while also capping the frequency with which modified work duty may be utilized.

Drug and Alcohol Free Workplace Policy. The policy was amended to provide for automatic back pay where an employee is suspended from work pending an alcohol or drug test, but where the test results turn out to be negative.

Vote...Tehassi Hill for Oneida Tribal Chairman

VOTE – July 16, 2011

- Wise and effective leaders will surround themselves with wise and effective people
- I do not have all the answers, but I am not afraid to ask the questions to find the best possible solutions.
- Knowledge and input from the elders is just as important as knowledge and input from the young people.
- I was born here in Oneida, raised here in Oneida, graduated here in Oneida.
- I have worked and continue to work hard for Oneida, as I have always declared that Oneida is who I am.
- I have successfully and positively represented Oneida, building relationships locally, nationally, and throughout Indian country.

My opponent might be for some of the people of today.
I am for all people always. The people of yesterday, of today and tomorrow must not be forgotten.
Each decision made by our Nation has to reflect all of these factors. We must keep in mind the sacrifices our ancestors and elders made for us to exist and be recognized as Oneida people today. The decisions we make today must honor them. We must also keep our children, grandchildren and so forth in mind as we make decisions; honoring the future with the same respect we honor ourselves and our past.

Minnesota records first death from Powassan Virus

The State of Minnesota has recorded its first death from the Powassan Virus - a virus spread by ticks. A previous bulletin provided information about another tick-borne disease-Lyme Disease. Please learn more about the Powassan Virus and take the preventive measures to protect you and your family.

What is Powassan virus?

Powassan (POW) virus is related to some mosquito-borne viruses, including West Nile virus. The virus is named after Powassan, Ontario, where it was first discovered in 1958. Two types of Powassan virus have been found in North America.

How do people get infected with POW virus?

POW virus is passed to people by ticks:

- One type of POW virus is carried by Ixodes scapularis (known as the black-legged tick or deer tick); the same tick that transmits Lyme disease, human anaplasmosis, and babesiosis. The blacklegged tick is common in many wooded areas of north central, east central, and southeast Minnesota.
- Another type of POW virus is carried by Ixodes cookei, a related tick species that usually feeds on woodchucks or other medium-sized mammals instead of humans. I. cookei has also been found in wooded areas in Minnesota. A tick needs to be attached to a person for a certain length of time before it can cause disease. This time interval is not known for POW virus, but it may be shorter than the attachment time needed for Lyme disease (24-48 hours) or anaplasmosis (12-24 hours).

What type of illness is caused by POW virus?

- POW virus infects the central nervous system and can cause encephalitis (inflammation of the brain) and meningitis (inflammation of the membranes that surround the brain and spinal cord).
- Signs and symptoms of disease caused by POW virus can include but are not limited to fever, headache, vomiting, weakness, confusion, loss of coordination, speech difficulties, and memory loss.
- About 10% of patients reported with POW virus infection die from their infection, and long-term problems may persist among those who survive. However, it is possible that some people infected with POW virus experience milder illness or do not have any symptoms.

How common is POW disease?

Physician-diagnosed POW disease is very rare. Fewer than 60 cases have been identified in the U.S. and Canada since 1958. From 2008-2010, six cases of POW encephalitis or meningitis have been reported in Minnesota. Those affected lived in or had visited wooded areas in north central or east central counties (Cass, Carlton, Hubbard, Itasca, or Kanabec). It is possible that other cases of suspected viral encephalitis or meningitis during times of peak tick-borne disease transmission (May to October) are due to POW virus.

When and where are people at risk for POW virus?

POW virus is found in northern parts of North America and northeast Asia. Initial laboratory testing in 2009-2010 found blacklegged ticks infected with POW virus in parts of north-central, east-central, and southeastern Minnesota, areas highly endemic for other tick-borne diseases such as Lyme disease.

It is possible that people are at risk of infection with POW virus anywhere the blacklegged tick is found. The blacklegged tick is common in many wooded and brushy areas of north central, east central, and southeast Minnesota. This tick is most active from spring until mid-summer and again in the fall.

What is the risk of POW disease in Minnesota?

We believe that the risk of infection with POW virus in Minnesota is low. However, it is a very serious disease.

How can people protect themselves from POW virus and other tick-borne infections?

Repellents are important tools in preventing tick-borne illness. They are especially important in preventing POW disease because of its severity and possibly shorter transmission time. When spending time in wooded or brushy habitat in north central, east-central, and southeast Minnesota, people should protect themselves against tick bites by wearing repellents containing DEET or permethrin. Other precautions include wearing long pants and light-colored clothing, staying away from the brush and woods, and doing thorough tick checks after spending time in the woods. These precautions are most important from late spring until mid-summer, and again in the fall months, when blacklegged ticks are active. People should seek medical care if they develop fever, chills, rash, headache, body aches, altered mental status, or other signs and symptoms of tick-borne illness after doing outdoor activities in these areas.

Additional information can be found on the Preventing Tick-borne Disease web page at http://www.health.state.mn.us/divs/idepc/dtopics/tickborne/prevention.html.

Kalihwisaks

While the Powwow carried on its festivities outside of the Norbert Hill Center grounds, the Oneida Nation Arts Program held the Woodland Indian Art Show inside the cafeteria. Over ten artists gathered from across the country to display their works for sale and for competition.

Paintings, watercolors, etchings, sculptors, painted windows, traditional dresses and jewelry, tanned hides, graphic design, and pottery decorated the room as artists, young and old, displayed their cultural heritage, like Jason Van Stippen's tanned deer hides with beaded designs, as well as their modern interpretation of it. Such interpretations like Jodi Webster's portraits of an Indian in traditional clothes standing in a big city background. The show also had some non-native themes like Patti Stueber's booth who had Indian themed etchings and watercolors, but other apparent more personal themes works like painted windows of flowers and landscapes as well as etchings of zebras.

The variety of artworks seemed to reflect on the artists' backgrounds, which differentiated significantly in terms of education. Josh Van Stippen, who had his ceramic pottery on display proved a very formal education with homemade glazes for his pots, and a continuing degree in Ceramics in graduate school at the University Iowa, while Calvin Moose Stevens who had earrings and necklaces hand carved from moose and deer antlers and bones as well as seashells, learned from watching his grandfather make the same things when he was a boy.

The competition had seven categories that were tied to functional items along with two and three-dimensional pieces of art both tying to traditional and contemporary themes.

Douglas K. Limon won first place in the Traditional Functional Items & Apparel category with his "Cradleboard" while Calvin Moose Stevens' "Games We Play", a carved antler Hook and Loop game, tied Sharon Cornelius' traditional Iroquois raised beadwork "Strawberry Purse" for second. Ken Metoxen won first place in the Traditional 2-Dimensional Art category with his "White Flint Cornhusk Rug". In the Traditional 3-Dimensional Art category Jennifer Stevens placed first for her clay pot titled "Traditions", and Ken Metoxen took second with his "Traditional Iroquois 11th Century Oneida Incising Design Vessel". Ren Katchenago took first place of the Contemporary 3-Dimensional Art category for his "Bear Spirit" a stained carved white cedar, and Jennifer placing second for her clay bowl "Iroquois Harvest". Robyn Buschke placed both first and second in the Contemporary Functional Items & Apparel section for her "Rhyolite/garnet necklace" and her "Pearl Bracelet". Patti Stueber's etching "Snowy Egret" won first place in the Contemporary 2-Dimensional Art category with Dawn Dark Mountain trailing second for her watercolor mixed media "Sister's Song".

All of these winners were picked by judges, but there was still the People's Choice Award in which spectators of the show cast their vote for their favorite artist. Douglas K. Limon was the winner.

Webster receives Community Spirit honor

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

Art plays a significant role in Oneida Culture, it tells stories, identifies clans, and preserves language and culture. Artists are essential to producing the tangible visible forms of creation that help the people know who they are. They embody the tools that support the spiritual practices of the people.

Loretta Webster, one of Oneida's most accomplished artists, was honored with the Jennifer Easton Community Spirit Award by the First People's Fund.

The First People's Fund chooses its Community Spirit honorees by examining their commitment to sustaining the cultural values of Native people.

Loretta is co-owner of Bear Paw Keepsakes along with her husband Stan Webster. Loretta has been beading for fifty years with concentrations in Iroquois raised beadwork using designs symbolizing Iroquoian culture.

Loretta Webster accepts the Jennifer Easton Community Spirit Award from the First People's Fund. The First People's Fund chooses its Community Spirit honorees by examining their commitment to sustaining the cultural values of Native people.

Anyone who has seen the raised beadwork that Webster has produced understands the intricacies, effort, and skill that construct the cultural stories and icons present in her work. Webster's work exemplifies her commitment to traditional cultural values, by sharing her creative talents and skills with others in the community; she helps to sustain the culture and traditions of the Oneida people.

Beth Bashara of the Oneida nation Arts Program says, "Loretta's generosity in sharing her talents and time is well respected and admired by many in Oneida. She is known for her wisdom and commitment to the community."

Loretta believes that art generates positive strength in the community rather than the negative of conflict. Loretta states, "Each time I bead an image, it reminds me to be thankful for what we have."

CMN's Summer Theatre Production is Political

College of Menominee Nation (CMN) invites you and yours to the Norbert Hill Center Auditorium in Oneida, WI to enjoy an original one-act play staged by the summer Theatre Production course.

The play, "The Oneida Tribal Belt", is a comedy set in an American Indian Arts and Antique shop in Oneida, WI, and it was written by CMN students, Eric Arce, Teri Fairbanks, Elyssa Hawk, Geoffrey Madsen, Pauline Skenandore, and Alicia Summers, in a playwriting course at CMN this past spring.

This production also marks the fourth time CMN has collaborated with the Oneida Arts Program's Dollars for Arts Program, which provides funds to support excellence, innovations, and the development of the arts in Oneida for individual artists and community groups.

"The Oneida Tribal Belt" centers on the discovery of The Oneida Tribal Belt in an old steamer trunk in Oneida. The actual belt was brought to Wisconsin in the 1830s, and this play speculates what could happen if the real belt found its way to an Oneida antique shop. In the world of the play, the wampum belt's appearance means that the belt in the Field Museum in Chicago is a fake, and Oneidas from Wisconsin, New York, and Canada all rush to claim the belt.

Other characters include a Smithsonian Curator, a reporter from the New York Times, and a suspicious salesman trying to sell the shop a security system.

In short, the play is sure to entertain audiences of all ages, and, since its topical matter is inherently didactic, it raises questions over ownership of American Indian artifacts.

The play, edited and directed by Ryan Winn, has two showings, one on Thursday, August 4th and the second on Friday, August 5th. Both shows begin at 7:30 and admission is free. The production runs just under an hour in length, and there will be a reception following both productions where the audience will be able to meet and greet the production's cast and crew.

McAndrews contributes to Judiciary Work group

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Kelly McAndrews

Kelly McAndrews was inspired by her passion for the law to volunteer for the Judiciary Working Group that's helping to create Oneida's new court system.

"I've been part of the volunteer work group since its inception and stuck with it, something nice to give back or try to contribute to in some way," said McAndrews.

McAndrews started her career in law enforcement working for the Oneida Police Department.

"When I worked with the police department, those were friends that I feel are lifelong friends," said McAndrews. "Coming back here has given me a chance to meet additional people … where I feel similarly."

McAndrews went on to work for the Menominee Falls Police Department and the Washington County Sheriff's Department. She is currently the medical examiner in Washington County. Her 12 year law enforcement career reinforced her desire to get a law degree.

"I always wanted to go to law school. I think that starting out in law enforcement really solidified my love for the law, even in the police academy. We did a lot of interesting things regarding the fourth amendment, and at that point, I was hooked," she said.

McAndrews graduated from Marquette Law School in 2010, and has been using her education to help the work group develop the new Oneida Judiciary.

Big Brothers, Big Sisters partner with Oneida

Civic Center site for recruitment process and mentoring

Special to Kalihwisaks

Big Brothers Big Sisters of Green Bay has recently partnered with the Oneida Tribe of Wisconsin to help improve the community by combining our visions, our programming, our mentorship. Starting July and going through August, we are beginning our recruitment process for Oneida tribal members looking to mentor a young Oneida child to help improve their life.

When compared with their peers, youth who have a mentor matched via Big Brothers Big Sisters are:

- 52% more likely to remain in school
- 75% more likely to earn a 4-year degree
- 48% more likely to volunteer
- 81% more likely to hold a leadership role in an organization

Be the supportive and accepting mentor a child needs to succeed.

Provide regular, consistent and meaningful contact to a child by doing activities such as academics, board games, sports, and arts/crafts at the Oneida Civic Center. We will match you to a child based on your preferences, personality and interests.

Mentor the child throughout the school year at the Oneida Civic Center (2913 Artley St.) on the day and time that fits your schedule best:

Monday through Friday, anytime from 3:00PM – 8:00PM

You don't have to change your life to change the life of a child. Start Something!

The enrollment process includes:

- Orientation/Interview
- Volunteer Training
- Application & Reference Checks

Sign-up for an interview now so we can match you early in the 2011-2012 school year, as it takes time to find the right child to match with you. We look forward to hearing from you soon.

By combining the successful efforts of Big Brothers Big Sister with the Seven Generations Philosophy and our constant efforts to improve our community, we can change the lives of our leaders of tomorrow. All it takes is for you to step up, even if it is just for an hour, one day a week. That short time will echo a lifetime for that young Oneida child.

How to become what you want to be when you grow up

A Beginner's Guide to Career Exploration and Planning

By Nicole Stroobants

Oneida Higher Education Advisor

Nicole Stroobants

Hi! I'm Nicole Stroobants, Oneida Higher Education (OHE) Advisor. I just turned 29 years young and have been with the Higher Education department a little over three years now, but if you ask Mitch Metoxen, the Assistant Manager, he will tell you it seems like I just started yesterday! Haha! I earned a Bachelor's in Community Education and a Master's in Administrative Leadership with an emphasis in Higher Education, both from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. I absolutely LOVED my collegiate experience there, which was funded primarily through the OHE grant. Now, I am grateful to give something back to the tribe utilizing the knowledge and skill sets I gained through my own higher education. I am a firm believer that pursuing higher education can change your life for the better if you "know how to play the game."

When chasing your educational and career goals, the first article in this five part series is designed to help you determine how to pick a quality career path that fits you (the remaining 4 articles will be available in the coming months)! Many times we hear Oneida Higher Education clients say "I want to go back to school, but I'm not sure what for." Does this sound like something you might say? In my article I will suggest a few simple steps you can take to start off on the right track.

To obtain more detail and to read the full length article please visit our website at www.oneidanation.org/highered

Simple Career Planning & Exploration Steps:

1) Develop an Integrated Life Plan (ILP) –

An Integrated Life Plan (ILP) is a map that helps you look at your many life roles and what's important to you so you an pick a career that best fits your individual wants and needs.

2) Take a Career Assessment or Two!

Career Assessments are tools designed to aid you in figuring out some possible career paths you might be interested in and/or good at.

3) Research your Career/Education Path

Approved and paid for by Patricia A. Cornelius

From 1B/McAndrews

"What I found with the committee is that there's a very dedicated core group that wanted to institute some kinds of standards, and wanted to come to some kind of consensus. What the law background provided me was more of the educational background than some people would have. In terms of modeling things, I could provide information … regarding standards in certain areas," she said.

McAndrews was able to use her law school training in mediation to help facilitate discussion.

"It was never anything where I was in charge of the group, but with my background, I certainly did to bring the group together, and get people to meet and come to a meeting of the minds," she said.

Raised in Milwaukee, McAndrews has enjoyed the chance to get to know people in Oneida and catch up with relatives.

"I've met a lot of just really interesting people, and people that have been really dedicated to their community. That part's been really wonderful," she said.

ONEIDA LEGAL RESOURCE CENTER

The Legal Resource Center (LRC) is an employment advocacy office for tribal employees of the program side who have employment disciplinary issues, and a legal aid service for tribal members who have individual legal issues.

Employees of the program side who have been disciplined may request assistance from the LRC with their appeal to the Personnel Commission. There is no charge for this tribally sponsored service.

The LRC is also a legal service for tribal members who have a legal issue they need answers about may come in or call for a free consultation with our attorney or one of the paralegals.

Some of the services provided by the LRC for a fee are:
• family law litigation at the OTJS
• pro-se divorce paperwork
• name changes,
• wills,
• power of attorney documents,
• eviction defense (OHA and DOLM only),
• small claims information and documentation assistance
• legal procedure information and, assistance and/or representation by the LRC attorney, for a fee, for tribal members in criminal matters and family law issues in local state and municipal courts.

The LRC staff is available for a free legal consultation by appointment:
Attorney Charlene Smith - Supervising Senior Attorney

Oneida Arts Program Dollars for Arts

Application Deadline – July 22, 2011

The Dollars for Arts Program (DAP) is a re-granting program funded by the Wisconsin Arts Board and the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin. DAP provides funds to support excellence, innovations and the development of the arts in Oneida. The arts include both traditional and contemporary styles in dance, literature, music, theatre, and visual arts. There are three funding areas in DAP:

Community Awards - are available to community groups or tribal programs for arts projects that are new and innovative or significantly enhance an existing program in the Oneida community.

Oneida Fellowship Awards - are a $500 cash award to individual artists for artistic excellence in the Oneida community. There is a maximum of two Fellowships available per fiscal year.

Artist Development Awards - are available to artists in the community who have identified a special project that will enhance their professional development and benefit the Oneida community.

The deadline for submitting grant applications is Friday, July 22, 2011, for activities occurring October 1, 2011, through September 30, 2012. The applications are available through the Oneida Nation Arts Program's website oneidanation arts.org. If you have any questions or wish to receive a hard copy of the application, contact Christine Klimmek at 920-490-3831.

CASA of Brown Co. accepting volunteer applications

Green Bay, WI – People interested in advocating for children who come to the attention of the courts because of abuse or neglect have the opportunity now to apply to become a CASA Volunteer Advocate. Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) of Brown County is accepting applications from interested individuals to be part of the training class that will begin September 29th. Those who would like more information should contact Program Director Marilyn Bennin at (920) 437-2272, ext. 106 or casabc@tds.net.

Upon completion of the training, new CASA volunteers will be assigned by juvenile judges to advocate for at abused and neglected children in the Brown County court system. Recently sworn-in CASA volunteers mention some of their reasons for becoming an advocate include, "I have been given much and it is time to give back." "I want to make a difference in the life of someone who needs a chance at a fulfilling life." "To help the next generation, one child at a time, to feel valuable and cared for."

CASA of Brown County currently has 132 active volunteers working with more than 200 children in Brown County. CASA of Brown County is currently accepting applications for its fall volunteer training class which will begin September 29, 2011. Information about volunteering is available on the CASA website, http://www.casabc.org/vol.html and more information is available on the Wisconsin CASA Association website, www.wisconsincasa.org

Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) of Brown County, Inc. is a non-profit organization that advocates for the best interests of abused and neglected children in the court system. CASA of Brown County recruits, screens, and trains caring, committed citizens from the community to provide close, consistent contact with the children they serve, seeking to assure them a safe and permanent home. CASA volunteers act as the "eyes and ear of the court," making independent observations about the safety and well-being of the children, and communicating that information to the judges making decisions about their future. For more information, contact the CASA office at 920.437.2272 or connie@casabc.org.

Oneida Tribal Cemetery

Tsi? Tyeya? Tatalih (Where They Bury a Body)

The Oneida Tribal Cemetery is available to:

- Enrolled Tribal Members
- Spouse of a Enrolled Tribal Member &
- Children of a Enrolled Tribal Member (natural, step and adopted)

Proof of eligibility is required at the time of purchase for a spouse and/or child(ren) of a enrolled tribal member. The following original documents will need to be presented:

- Marriage Certificate
- Birth Certificate for child(ren)

DID YOU KNOW?

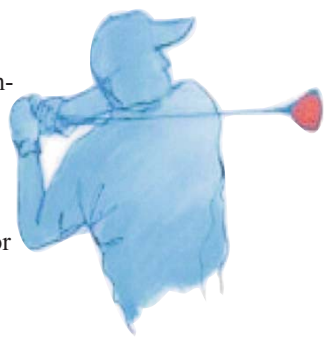
1. The cost of an Oneida Cemetery plot is $100. Whereas, most local cemeteries in and around Oneida cost $500 or more. That's a savings of $400 or more.

2. That every cemetery charges a fee to mark, open and close a cemetery plot prior to burial, usually starting at about $600. Currently, if the Oneida Department of Public Works (DPW) is able to perform this service the fee charged is $250 and must be paid before the burial occurs (It's important to note that these fee's are subject to change and will be assessed only at the time of burial)

3. That on average a burial in the Oneida Tribal Cemetery provides a total savings of up to $1,300 compared to the local cemeteries.

To purchase a plot, you may either contact the Enrollment Department or stop in our office. We encourage scheduling an appointment just to make sure that everything is prepared for you upon your visit.

In order to ensure your cemetery plot selection the Cemetery Plot Purchase Request form would need to be completed and the $100 plot fee paid.



Burials are permitted everyday. However, the Enrollment Department requires a twenty-four (24) hour notice so that we can ensure everything is properly done before a burial.

Cement liners or vaults are not required. However, if a cemetery liner or vault is purchased; the vault company is required to contact the Enrollment Department to set-up a delivery and installation date prior to a burial.

Vaccine-Preventable diseases:

Public Health Achievement in 21st Century

By Michelle Myers
Community Health Nursing Supervisorr

The Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report (MMWR) published May 20, 2011 assesses advances in public health during the first 10 years of the 21st century. Public health scientists at the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) listed Vaccine-Preventable Disease as one of the top 10 public health achievements that occurred in the United States during 2001-2010.

The past decade has seen substantial declines in cases, hospitalizations, deaths, and health-care costs associated with vaccine-preventable diseases. New vaccines (i.e., rotavirus, quadrivalent meningococcal conjugate, herpes zoster, pneumococcal conjugate, and human papillomavirus vaccines, as well as tetanus, diphtheria, and acellular pertussis vaccine for adults and adolescents) were introduced, bringing to 17 the number of diseases targeted by U.S. immunization policy.

A recent economic analysis indicated that vaccination of each U.S. birth cohort with the current childhood immunization schedule prevents approximately 42,000 deaths and 20 million cases of disease, with net savings of nearly $14 billion in direct costs and $69 billion in total societal costs (2).

The impact of two vaccines has been particularly striking. Following the introduction of pneumococcal conjugate vaccine, an estimated 211,000 serious pneumococcal infections and 13,000 deaths were prevented during 2000--2008 (3). Routine rotavirus vaccination, implemented in 2006, now prevents an estimated 40,000--60,000 rotavirus hospitalizations each year (4).

Advances also were made in the use of older vaccines, with reported cases of hepatitis A, hepatitis B, and varicella at record lows by the end of the decade. Age-specific mortality (i.e., deaths per million population) from varicella for persons age <20 years, declined by 97% from 0.65 in the prevaccine period (1990--1994) to 0.02 during 2005--2007 (5). Average age-adjusted mortality (deaths per million population) from hepatitis A also declined significantly, from 0.38 in the prevaccine period (1990--1995) to 0.26 during 2000--2004 (6).

The remaining public health achievements listed in the report include the following: Prevention and Control of Infectious Diseases, Tobacco Control, Maternal and Infant Health, Motor Vehicle Safety, Cardiovascular Disease Prevention, Occupational Safety, Cancer Prevention, Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention, Public Health Preparedness and Response. To entire document can be reviewed on line at www.cdc.gov/mmwr.

Tribal Employee Health Plan Participates in National Pilot Program

By Bob Keck
Risk Management Director

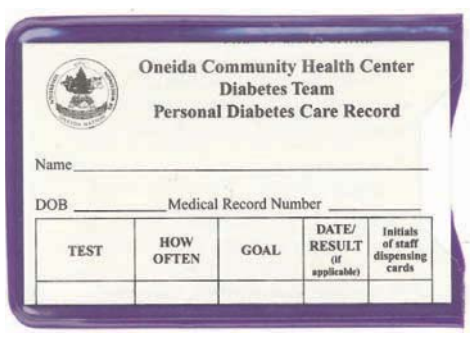
A new, refreshed vision for employee health coverage is now in effect for our organization. During a six week period ending June 30th, the tribe's employee health plan was a participant in a national pilot program to assist employees in making health care decisions. The pilot was created by the plan's network, United Health Care, and facilitated through the tribe's plan administrator, UMR. United Health Care, the largest health care network in the United States, created the plan in Wisconsin with the intention of offering it to clients nationally. The tribe was asked to participate along with only two other employers; Brown County and NWTC.

The basis of the program was to provide employees who would be undergoing a select medical service such as an MRI or X-ray, colonoscopy, knee arthroscopy or replacement, or a colonoscopy for example, were provided different means of being provided information. The information included the quality ratings and public ratings of both the provider and the facility, provider efficiency ratings, cost comparisons between providers, employee out of pocket cost estimates and additional helpful information such as distances to facilities.

"The goal of the program was to help employees make informed decisions about their health care services," Director of Risk Management Bob Keck says, "the tribe will benefit from employees' decisions and the information provided from the pilot as a whole will assist us in future decisions regarding the health plan design.

There was no cost to participate for the tribe or its employees, and by doing so we have increased the potential to reduce plan costs." For participating employees, United Health Care will draw one name from each employer and award them an iPad2!

"With more awareness and participation, our employees have helped us become a healthier, better secured organization. And that will carry over to the Oneida community as well."



For questions about this and related topics, feel free to call Bob Keck at (920) 490-3570 ext. 3570

Personal Diabetes Care Record Incentive Program

The Personal Diabetes Care Record (PDCR) Incentive Program allows patients to earn five dollar gift cards for getting their diabetes checked. Any Native American who receives diabetes care at the Oneida Community Health Center is able to participate.

How can incentives be earned? First, request a wallet size PCDR from the Diabetes Team at the Oneida Community Health Center. Second, bring the card with you whenever you see your health care provider. Third, every time one or more of the items listed on the card has been completed, ask your staff member to record the date, results, and initials. Lastly, submit the card to the Diabetes Team, at any time, even multiple times, to receive your five dollar gift cards.

Holy Apostles SOS Save Our Sanctuary Oneida Wisconsin

The Hobart Episcopal Church in Oneida

By Thelma Cornelius McLester

Part 6 in the series

During Reverend Splinter's term as vicar at Holy Apostles, the Oneida Tribal Government contacted both he and the Bishop at the Fond du Lac Diocese in order to see if they, the Tribal Government, could assume responsibility for the Grafton Parish Hall. Noting that the building was slowly deteriorating, Tribal Officers saw an opportunity to renovate it for use by the community. In the past the building was central to the community, as well as the fact that the building had been left untouched for some time.

Church leaders had no choice but to agree to transfer the property to the Tribe as they realized their efforts to renovate the building were not in their immediate or future plans. The agreement made was that upon completion, Holy Apostles would have first choice of the usage of the building as they had before.

It quickly became evident that the entire building was in disrepair. The only structure that remained after the work began, were the walls. By the year 1997, the building was completely restored and once again, the Parish Hall was/is in use almost daily by the entire community.

Since the Parish Hall was located in Brown County, its Preservation Committee awarded the Oneida Tribe its annual award of restoring and preserving an historical building in its midst.

In 1997, Reverend Splinter had the opportunity to purchase an altar and a podium from St. Mark's Episcopal Church in nearby Oconto prior to its closing. St. Mark's Church was closed in 1997 due to lack of attendance and it was later demolished.

The altar and the podium were of dark wood and matched the rest of the furniture on the altar at Holy Apostles. Both were artistically carved with the podium having an eagle right at the top of its stand and the altar also had carvings which added to the beauty of it. The podium and the altar have been used since that time and are still being used today.

Reverend Splinter agreed to stay at Holy Apostles until he retired. He followed through on this and on his last day, Bishop Russell Jacobus stationed at Fond du Lac, was present for his last service which took place in 1999. The newly renovated Parish Hall (which is what it is called) was the site of his last celebration.

In the year 2000 Reverend Brad McIntyre arrived to become vicar at Holy Apostles Church. During the year, Holy Apostles was contacted by the family of past vicar Reverend Edward A. Goodnough from the late 1800's era. Goodnough's relatives numbering 55 wanted to visit Goodnough's burial site and were making arrangements to arrive by chartered bus to do so. Repeated calls were made between the church historian at Holy Apostles and the great grandchild of Goodnough, residing in Clearwater, Florida, who was to be the speaker of the day of the visit. The event took place on a Saturday Morning in May.

Altar Guild members, who had wanted to have the sacristy renovated for some time, were able to have this take place in the year 2000. It was through their efforts of diligence and fundraising that this finally took place.

After a little over a year, McIntyre moved on to another Episcopal parish and Reverend Dewey Silas, an Oneida residing in Milwaukee applied for and received the priesthood status at Holy Apostles. At that time he was at St. John's Church in Milwaukee, and was also affiliated with All Saints Cathedral Episcopal Church there. Silas who was 65 years of age at the time, had plans to preach for a period of three years and then retire in Oneida.

Deacon Debra Heckel strolls with the presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church, Dr. Katharine Jefferts Schori, while at the Holy Apostles Church in Oneida on Sunday, June 5.

It quickly became clear that additional living space was needed for Reverend Silas and his wife if they were to move into the Vicar's residence. A bedroom and a bathroom were added to the first floor of the residence and other necessary repairs of the house were also made at that time.

In 2002, a timeline of the Church was requested by the Diocese of Fond du Lac. A Preservation Booklet listing all of the timelines of the Diocese was to be sent out later with each parish receiving a copy of this recording and also recordings of all of the churches in the Diocese. This work was to continue timelines done in earlier times, thereby keeping all historical records.

By this time, the Senior Women's Guild was slowly coming to a close and so were a number of other groups. The Sunday School classes continued, however, along with the youth group meetings. In addition, the Altar Guild Society remained and a new Cemetery Committee was formed and became active in order to take care of the many burials being performed in the cemetery. This Committee replaced an earlier Committee when they retired. Other committees met as needed including Finance, Fundraising, Communication, Building/Planning and Membership.

On August 27, 2005, Oneida member Ms. Deborah Powless Heckel was officially ordained by the Diocese of Fond du Lac and became a Deacon of the Episcopal church. Deacon Heckel was the first woman to serve in this capacity at Holy Apostles. This was after spending two years of study and an internship prior to her installation as a deacon. A celebration was held in her honor at the Parish Hall. Reverend Heckel joined Reverend Edmund Powless in serving the people at Holy Apostles.

Reverend Silas was also the second priest to have an experience related to the past. This time it was the past vicar, Reverend Samuel Burleson's granddaughter, along with her husband, who arrived from California for the purpose of visiting the Burleson's burial site. In her retirement years, she had made the decision to visit her grandfather's burial site. After spending some time in the Holy Apostles Cemetery, she also visited the Oneida Cultural Heritage Center.

On March 1, 2007, while serving his fourth year as Vicar, Reverend Silas retired from his position. During his last year of service, he was in poor health. On May 22, of that same year, Reverend Silas passed away and was buried in the Holy Apostles Church yard next to Cornelius Hill.

In the interim, Reverend Wilson Roane agreed to serve at Holy Apostles. He had already retired from the Episcopal Church at Waupaca and was therefore in the same Diocese. He served until the Vestry had chosen a new priest.

After interviewing several applicants, the Vestry recommended that Reverend Kristine Henning be Holy Apostles' first woman priest, and she began her duties on May 4, 2008. Reverend Henning had visited Holy Apostles on earlier occasions. She was originally from Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

New leadership selected in 2011 tri-annual elections

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

A shake up was an inevitable outcome from the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) election held Saturday, July 16 as four incumbents faced each other for two officer seats.

Councilman Ed Delgado defeated Councilman Ron Tehassi Hill for Chairman, and Treasurer Tina Danforth retained her office over challenger Vice Chairwoman Kathy Hughes.

""I'm honored, and I'll do my best, realizing every decision I make has an effect on our people and our tribe," said Councilman Delgado.

Patty Hoeft maintained the treasurer's position, while incumbents Melinda J. Danforth and Brandon Stevens kept their seats on the council. Current Chairman Rick Hill and Councilwoman Trish King did not run in this year's elections.

The election results returns two familiar faces to the Councilmember position. Paul Ninham served on the council from 1999 to 2008. Ninham decided against running for council in 2008. Vince DelaRosa was a councilman from 1999 to 2008, and was defeated by then treasurer Kathy Hughes for the Vice Chairperson position.

Newcomer Greg Matson won the Vice Chairman seat, and David "Fleet" Jordan

Suri negotiates plea agreement, sentencing to follow

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

Two days after his court trial was scheduled to begin, a sullen Deke Suri walked into the Branch Seven courtroom of the Outagamie County Courthouse to begin his plea hearing on July 27.

Suri was initially being charged with four counts of attempted first-degree intentional homicide after giving his four children prescription-strength sleeping medication on December 21. After the incident he told police he intended to kill himself and didn't want the children to have to live with the loss of their father.

Psychotherapist Kenneth Ninham later testified at a hearing that Suri suffers from alcoholism and post-traumatic stress disorder due to his military service in Iraq.

As part of the plea agreement Suri pleaded no contest to four counts of attempted child abuse and no contest to four counts of prescription possession with the intent to deliver, all of which are felonies.

Suri may serve up to 20 years of imprisonment for each of the attempted abuse charges and up to six years on each of the drug charges.

As a further part of the plea agreement, both the prosecution and the defense will be free to argue for what they feel is an appropriate sentence. However, both sides felt that probation and an order for mental health treatment would be an appropriate request.

Suri has been returned to Outagamie County Jail on a $200,000 cash bond.

The sentence hearing is currently scheduled for September 14th at the Outagamie County Courthouse.

won a councilman position. Jordan's election was subject to a recount as the next top vote getter Linda "Buffy" Dallas missed by two votes.

While taking a break from packing up his office, Councilman Hill stated he was disappointed with the outcome, but felt the election results gave a good pulse on the Oneida community.

"I believe I'm quite different from Ed Delgado's perspective and point of view, so they had kind of a polarizing effect, there was no one in the middle, because I believe in long term planning, and planning for the future, and helping people and not just given them a handout but a hand up, so there was a lot of differences in our philosophies," he said.

Treasurer Danforth is looking forward to working with the incoming council.

"I think we got a good mix of people as far as experience and education and commitment, so I think we should be fine. I'm looking forward to the change, because I think change is good, because otherwise we get complacent," she said.

Vice Chairwoman Hughes stated she was looking forward to taking some time off after five terms as treasurer and three terms as vice chair, 24 years all together.

"I'm also looking forward to vacation now … not looking forward to packing up," she said with a laugh. "I really, really always enjoyed the work that I'd done. I like representing the tribe, I think there's been a lot of challenges in this position. That will continue regardless of the person, the challenges are still there,"

Councilman Delgado, Treasurer Danforth and Vice Chairwoman Hughes all agreed that while the new primary system narrowed down the choices for OBC, they all believed that the process took too long.

"I think there was too much time between the primary and the final election," said Treasurer Danforth. "I think we need to close the gap."

All four dispensed some advice for incoming OBC members.

"The main thing is when you get your materials, study them and they require outside study, but those are our most important decisions we make as business committee members is those decisions we make every other Wednesday. Those are hard decisions, and there's a lot of reading and sometimes a lot of research, but I think that's the primary responsibilities of our jobs," said Councilman Delgado.

"Take your time and soak it all in," said Councilman Hill. "You get a lot of information from all the departments and all the area managers, and it might be a little tough at first to remember who does what and what they do for the community,"

"I did tell a couple of them be ready to hit the road running. They will be very busy right away. They will be taking in a lot of information. They need to take time to process that information, and they need to be prepared to make decisions," said Treasurer Danforth.

"The most significant thing is to read. There's a lot of paper that comes across a desk in a day and occasionally this office is required to sign some of those documents. You really need to read everything that comes across your desk and especially before you sign anything. I don't care how long you have to ask questions, know what you're signing your name to," said Vice Chairwoman Hughes.

On Wednesday, July 26 Jennifer Webster filed a challenge to the election.

Stevens, Dexter W. "Ricky"
February 18, 1950 – July 24, 2011

Dexter W. "Ricky" Stevens, 61, Wausaukee, passed away from an automobile accident on Sunday, July 24, 2011. He was born in L'Anse, Michigan on February 18, 1950, son of Carl and Bernice (Golden) Holmstrom. Dexter honorably served his country in the US Marine Corp. Dexter married Margaret McCarthy on October 16, 1971, in Houghton, Michigan. They moved to Wausaukee in 1993. Dexter was retired for four years from a 35 year career at Georgia Pacific. He was an avid golfer and fisherman. He enjoyed spending time with his grandchildren and he was a great cook, he especially enjoyed making chili. Dexter also frequently made trips back to his home area of Keweenaw Bay, where he grew up. Recently, Margaret and Dexter had fun camping with family. He will be missed.

Dexter is survived by his loving wife of 39 years, Margaret; three children: Robert, Ann Marie, and Daryl Joe (Erica) Stevens; two grandchildren: Summer and Mason Joe; mother-in-law, Elaine McCarthy; brothers and sisters: Sarah Holmstrom, Simon Stevens, Essie Mae Stevens, Nancy Osbourne, Joe Stevens, Karla Sunn, and Trish King; further survived by numerous extended family and friends. He is preceded in death by his parents; Siblings: Fredrick, Edward, Shirley Stevens and Leo Holmstrom; and father-in-law, Robert McCarthy.

A Celebration of Dexter's Life will be 1:00 p.m. on Thursday, July 28, 2011, at Messar Funeral Home with Deacon Patrick Whitcomb officiating. A memorial visitation will be from 10:00 a.m. until the time of service at the funeral home on Thursday. Full military honors will be performed.

In lieu of flowers, memorials are preferred.

Online condolences may be expressed at www.messarfuneralhome.com.

Messar Funeral Home & Cremation Services of Wausaukee is assisting the family with arrangements.

WWII Navajo Code Talker Morris dies at 85

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (AP) – Navajo code talker Joe Morris, one of more than 400 American Indians who used the language of their ancestors to relay secret battlefield orders during World War II, has died. He was 85.

The longtime resident of the Mojave Desert community of Daggett died Sunday after a stroke at the Veterans Administration Loma Linda Healthcare System, spokesman Dave Allen said Thursday.

Navajo code talkers were young Navajo men who used their language to successfully transmit secret communications in every major engagement in the Pacific theater, including Guadalcanal and Iwo Jima.

Morris kept secret what he did during his Marine Corps service until President Ronald Reagan declassified the role of the code talkers in 1982. Morris then began giving presentations to schools and colleges.

The Navajo dialect never left the Southwest United States and the language was never written down. The Japanese had no way of learning it, and the complicated nature of the language made it difficult for others to learn.

Twenty-nine original code talkers were recruited to train another 400 Navajo to work as communicators.

Morris was 17 when he joined the Marines, his daughter Colleen Anderson tells the Victorville Daily Press. He was quite modest about his role in the war and didn't consider himself a hero, she said.

"He just wasn't that kind of person. He would say that he didn't do it alone. He would always include (the other code talkers) in presentations," Anderson said.

Besides his daughter, Morris is survived by his wife of 61 years, Charlotte, and sons Joe Jr. and Elliot.

A funeral was scheduled for Monday at East Hills Unity Church in Riverside, followed by burial at Riverside National Cemetery.

Mid Valley Drive realignment project starts July 28

The Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT) Northeast Region office in Green Bay is announcing work begins Thursday, July 28, on a project to realign two sections of Mid Valley Drive near Scheuring Road and Main Avenue in Brown County. The two sections of Mid Valley Drive will not be closed at the same time during construction. The $1.35 million project is expected to be completed by November 15, 2011.

The prime contractor is Vinton Construction of Manitowoc, WI.

The intersection of Mid Valley Drive and Eisenhower Road will close to through traffic on July 28 and remain under construction until September 9. Work will also begin Thursday on a quarter-mile segment of Mid Valley Drive, just south of Main Avenue. This section of Mid Valley Drive remains open to through traffic until a three-week closure later this fall. The project also includes the construction of a retention pond near the intersection of Mid Valley Drive and Main Avenue. During construction, local access will be maintained to all businesses and residences.

Please use caution and remain alert when driving through this or any work zone.

Oneida's Internship Program Concludes

By Brent Truttmann
Kalihwisaks

As July comes to an end, 16 college students prepare to say good-bye to their mentors as their internships draw to a close. The internship program, which began June 6, will be ending July 29. The program gave the students employment during their summer vacation as well as a plethora of experience to mark down on their resumes, which, according to Mallory Patton, interning for Customer Service in Gaming, makes all the difference.

"This year alone I've been turned down from 26 jobs since January, and most have all said 'You don't have the experience'" she said, "The degree is fine from what I'm told, but they need someone who can step into the position."

Many interns contest that they have gained the crucial experience. "I got a lot of customer service background, and this gives me an idea of what goes on behind the scene versus face-to-face with the customer, so this gives me a nice blend," said Patton.

The summer Interns gather at a sundae party to celbrate their eight weeks learning and working for the tribe.

Lance Hill, the intern for the Communications Department, not only found out what it would be like working in such an area, but also learned through the application process of the internship exactly how to apply for a job.

"You have to provide everything like the application and references, you know, something you would need for a real job. Even though it was a real pain in the butt, but I thought it was something that gives you experience and helpful," said Hill.

Though this is not the first year of the internship program, it has evolved significantly. Lystra Charnon, interning in the Higher Education Department, has participated in the program before and says she finds significant changes. "It was sorta hard to find things to do," said Charnon, "but now I think they are trying to make it more college credit worthy." The program improved itself by adding weekly progress reports for both the interns and their mentors as well as a learning contract listing the goals and experiences the student wished to accomplish and learn throughout the eight week period. However, while the program has made many improvements, "there's a lot of things we can tweak, but I think they've improved on it." said Charnon.

Overall, the students had nothing but good things say about their experiences, and some wish the program would extend longer into the summer. "I'm not ready for it to end even though it has to," said Hill, "I thought it was really helpful, and I really enjoyed it."

"I've enjoyed it, I'm really blessed to be in this area with this crew," stated Patton, and Charnon simply said with a smile "I like it."

Keepseagle Settlement Claims Filing Period Opens for Native American Farmers and Ranchers

Those Eligible Must File Claims No Later than December 27, 2011

WASHINGTON, July 26, 2011 – Janie Hipp, Senior Adviser to Secretary Vilsack for Tribal Relations today reminded Native American farmers and ranchers that the period to file a claim in the Keepseagle class action settlement has opened.

"Now that the claims process is open, Native American farmers and ranchers who believe they are entitled to funds under the Keepseagle settlement must file a claim within 180 days in order to have a chance to receive a cash payment or loan forgiveness," said Ms. Hipp. "Tribal leaders may want to consider advising Tribal members of the requirement to obtain and submit a completed claims package if they wish to participate in the Keepseagle claims process."

Keepseagle v. Vilsack was a lawsuit alleging that USDA discriminated against Native American farmers and ranchers in the way it operated its farm loan program. The lawsuit was settled late last year and the settlement has been approved by the court.

The filing period opened June 29, 2011 and continues for 180 days, until December 27, 2011.

Up to $760 million will be made available in monetary relief, debt relief, and tax relief to successful claimants. There are two tracks for claims: Successful Track A claimants may receive up to $50,000; successful Track B claimants may receive up to $250,000. The standard of proof for Track B claims is a higher standard than what will be applied to Track A claims.

Keepseagle class counsel is holding a number of meetings in the coming months throughout Indian Country and they will provide assistance to help Track A claimants fill out a claims package at those meetings. The dates and times of the meetings are posted on the Keepseagle claims website: www.indianfarmclass.com.

Claimant services representatives can also be reached through calling 888-233-5506. Claimants must register for a claims package (by calling the number or visiting the website) and the claims package will be mailed to claimants. All those interested in learning more or receiving information about the claims process and claims packages are encouraged to attend a meeting and contact the website or claims telephone number.

The website is: www.indianfarmclass.com

The call number is: 888-233-5506

Claims period: June 29, 2011 to December 27, 2011

This announcement does not relate to claims for African American, women or Hispanic farmers. Those claims will be subject to different processes, and information will be forthcoming in the coming months.

Under Secretary Vilsack's leadership, USDA is addressing civil rights complaints that go back decades, to usher in "a new era of civil rights" for the Department and to pave the way for new and stronger relationships with the farming and ranching community. In February 2010, Secretary Vilsack announced the Pigford II settlement with African American farmers, and in October 2010, he announced the Keepseagle settlement with Native American farmers. In February 2011, Secretary Vilsack announced the establishment of a process to resolve the claims of Hispanic and women farmers and ranchers and he has made it a priority to resolve all of the civil rights cases facing the Department which were inherited by this Administration.

It's Never Been Easier To Send Direct Mail

Post Offices Nationwide Offer Free 'Grow Your Business' Seminars

Oneida, WI – It's now easier for small-business owners to harness the power of direct mail to drive traffic, attract new customers and increase revenue. That's because the U.S. Postal Service recently introduced Every Door Direct Mail, a simple, low-cost service that allows local businesses to market to every address in their neighborhoods without the need to rent mailing lists.

"Every Door Direct Mail is ideal for restaurants, doctors' offices, hair salons — or any kind of local business that is not currently using the mail," says Oneida Postmaster Cheryl Koenig. "Direct mail has long been a proven advertising tool of choice and now it's easier and less expensive for small businesses to grow using direct mail."

Every Door Direct Mail uses mail-delivery route information, instead of names and exact addresses, to reach targeted groups in specific geographic areas. The mail can be addressed to "Postal Customer," "Residential Customer," or "PO Boxholder" and dropped off at a local Post Office. Every Door Direct Mail saves mail preparation time and money and is delivered by local, trusted Postal Service carriers.

Businesses use a simple online tool at www.smp.usps.gov to identify neighborhoods and number of households, prepare mailing documentation and calculate postage. With Every Door Direct Mail, no permits are needed, and there are no special fees.

To teach local businesses about Every Door Direct Mail — including a demonstration of the online tool — Post Offices are holding free Grow Your Business Days seminars throughout the summer.

"Direct mail has strengths other advertising media can't claim — it's personal, tangible, portable, manageable and measureable," Koenig added.

According to the Direct Marketing Association, every $1 spent on direct mail generates $12.57 in sales. For more information about Every Door Direct Mail and Grow Your Business Days seminars, visit www.usps.gov/everydoordirectmail.

The Postal Service receives no tax dollars for operating expenses, and relies on the sale of postage, products and services to fund its operations.

Kids & Money

BayBank
Green Bay, Wisconsin

By Diane Zubella

Today I would like to talk about Kids and Money. It's summer and many youth and teens are earning money in a variety of ways. Younger children may receive an allowance. Some kids earn an hourly wage at local businesses or farms and others earn tips or are paid cash for services like babysitting and lawn mowing.

Allowances and summer jobs are the perfect opportunity to teach your children about the basics of money management. The earlier they learn the fewer mistakes they will make later!

One common misconception is that if you give your kids an allowance, it should be tied to their chores. Many parents believe that this teaches kids how to earn money from a job. But most experts say that this is NOT a useful way to teach kids about money management. Here is why… experts say that chores need to be done by everyone in the household because they all live there and need to be responsible for keeping up a house. If kids do not do their assigned chores, the consequence needs to be something like no TV or video games, etc. On the other hand, experts say that allowances are best utilized as a teaching tool for money management. So, if we give our child a weekly allowance we need to tell them all the things that they are expected to pay for with this allowance and then –here is the important part—if they spend it all and want more for something their allowance was supposed to cover, don't give them the additional money! Let them experience how it feels to run out of money because they spent it all too soon…that is how kids learn...adults too! Talk with them about what they chose to do with the money and how they felt when they had spent it all and then couldn't do something they really wanted to do.

If your kids are working, make sure they find out how much and how often they get paid. Sit down with them and help them estimate net wages and tips. Explain the taxes that get deducted and what they are used for. Make sure that they save 10-20% of what they earn – in the kind of account that stays in the bank and grows! Stop giving them an allowance when they can earn enough money to support their entertainment and gas expenses. Decide if you will continue to buy their clothing or if you want them to purchase their own once they start working. If they need to pay for college expenses, set a goal together and make sure they put that money aside as well.

All these tools will help your children feel self-confident and self-sufficient. It will help them avoid more costly mistakes later in their lives. Some parents feel that they cannot teach their kids these tools until their OWN finances are in order.

Please contact Bay Bank if you are need of these services. We are here to help.

Oneida Seven Generations Corporation

An Open Letter to Oneida Tribal Members about OSGC's proposed Renewable Energy Project

Dear Community Members;

There is a lot of deliberate misinformation, and outright scare tactics, circulating about the Oneida Seven Generation Corporation's proposed renewable waste facility to be located on Green Bay's west side. The single, most important thing for the community to understand is that the facility cannot be built or operated without approval from government agencies (DOE, WDNR, EPA, etc.) that are entrusted to protect public health and safety. These agencies have technical and scientific experts on staff who are evaluating every aspect of the proposed facility.

The WDNR has made a preliminary determination that the application meets state and federal air pollution control requirements and the WDNR's own Environmental Assessment has determined the proposed project will not cause significant adverse environmental effects.

What is often lost in the discussions about the proposed facility is its many environmental benefits. OSGC's facility will serve as a recycling center first, and then it will generate electricity by gasifying the waste that is not recyclable. The project brings together three proven technologies into a single process (recycling, Pyrolysis / gasification, and using product gas to generate electricity). The end result will increase Brown County's recycling volume, decrease the amount of waste going into landfills and significantly benefit the environment.

Many communities across the country realize the benefits of this type of renewable energy. Appleton recently proposed a biogas system which will use methane gas from the city's wastewater treatment plant to fuel boilers that heat the plant's buildings. While that system is not identical OSGC's, the concept and general operation is the same. In addition, generators to be used by the OSGC project are no different than generators used throughout Wisconsin to produce electricity. There are currently 31 such gensets in use in Wisconsin. In fact, Brown County's eastside landfill uses a genset to create electricity from the product gas produced at its landfill.

The proposed Green Bay facility continues to receive extensive support. We believe the small but vocal number who oppose this project either do not understand (or want to understand) that this is not an incinerator (which would require the actual burning of material) or have other renewable energy agendas (such as zero waste or wind energy). Some may simply oppose it because it is an Oneida business project.

It is our pledge to the community that we will build a facility that meets or exceeds all standards, is safe to operate, provides good paying jobs, and reduces the amount of waste going into area landfills. It is part of our mission to make sure whatever projects we undertake have a positive impact on the next seven generations. This facility will do just that.

Sincerely,

Kevin Cornelius

Shekoli,

The Oneida Chamber of Commerce

Over the past year a group of interested small business owners and I have met to discuss the small business development. After many months of hard work and meetings on June 22nd the Business Committee passed the resolution sponsored by my office to formally recognize the Oneida Chamber of Commerce. The Oneida Chamber of Commerce, Inc. is a state chartered 501(c)3 entity with the purpose of centralizing services and training. I requested the Law office to develop a MOA that would allow the Chamber to utilize the tribe's technical resources i.e.; Accounting, Legal, Auditing, etc. It will also provide training, seminars and networking events that will garner business outside of the Tribe where the true market is.

We are also working to consolidate the Indian Preference and Purchasing Vendors list into one useable reference of services for tribal members and tribal departments. This consolidated Oneida Vendors list would be formatted into businesses by trade and would require the Tribe to more efficiently access and contract Oneida businesses. Oneida Sole Source Contracting resolution has helped the cause as well and we will continue to make positive changes with regards to Small Business owners and needs.

Brandon Stevens
Councilman

Future plans: The Chamber has an action plan, short-term and long-term goals.

- Small Business 2000 Loan Program: Looking to house the policy and procedures under the Chamber for better input and implementation of Oneida Business owner's needs. The Loan Program needs to be accountable and accessible to new business and provide a carve out for existing businesses.
- Incubation Program: The Tribe has available office space that is expected to be addressed in the MOA to allow eligible business to utilize office space, supplies, web access, phone, clerical support etc. for a reduced rate.
- Internship Program: We will utilize the tribes Internship program to place students in a business environment to obtain optimal experience in business development and management.
- Quality Control – Understanding the Tribe must deliver quality and reliable services to our members a component will be developed to monitor and inspect for quality service.

The Chamber will be a strong unified voice for Oneida Businesses in the Greater Green Bay and Wisconsin by creating the fundamental groundwork to economic stability. The Chamber is looking to have a Grand Opening as early as the end of July! If you have any questions or concerns please contact my office for more details.

Notice: The inauguration of the new Oneida Business Committee (OBC) will be at the Raddisson Hotel on August 11th at 5:00 P.M. All Oneidas are invited. Please review your Kaliwisaks for more details.

BUDGET FOR 2012

The most important issue that will be taken up by the new OBC will be the Fiscal Year 2012 Budget. Currently, the Budget has a 7.2 million dollar deficit. That deficit will have to be eliminated before it can be considered by the General Tribal Council (GTC). The new Fiscal Year begins October 1, 2011. It's unlikely the budget will be ready by the October 1st date. If the Budget is not ready for GTC consideration prior to Oct. 1, the Business Committee will have to prepare a continuing resolution which will authorize continued spending at current levels until the FY 2012 budget is approved by the GTC.

Ed Delgado
Councilman

Many employees have asked me about their 75 cent per hour wage increases which are supposed to begin on October 1st. It is the position of my Office that the wage increase has already been approved by the GTC and should take effect as scheduled regardless of whether or not the 2012 budget is approved by Oct.1st.

SITE II

Residents of Site II have contacted me regarding their community. They say that at night, they feel unsafe. I have driven through Site II and I have never before seen such a well-populated area to be completely without community lighting. The Oneida Housing Authority will have to direct funding to keep that community safe. The area also has far too much brush between the roads and the yards of the residents. That area has to be defined as to who has the responsibility to clean up the brush, whether it be the Oneida Housing Authority, Department of Public Works, or the residents. We have a beautiful Reservation and sometimes it takes hard work to keep it that way.

Thanks for reading.

The General Tribal Council meeting that had been tentatively planned for August 29 has been canceled. The next GTC meeting will be held Monday, November 21.

Letters & Opinions...

Spending Money Needlessly

I have thought about writing on this subject for quite some time, and now due to the seemingly increasing number of poor decisions made by our elected officials constantly trying to pass this new costly judicial system, this appears to be a good time to point out some facts on this issue.

For the past couple of years or so, I have been trying to find why is there a need to spend over $500, 000 each year when we have a judicial system provided by the Government. I am extremely worried for our Tribe when I see some of our good attorneys' interpretation of our simple trial laws. They are one-sided and do not share all the Tribal members' views.

As Linda Dallas stated, the GTC voted to table this for 6 months "to clean up this disastrous, confusing and ambiguous judicial act." Now they want it off their table and on a Monday so everyone can't vote on it. As Tribal people in Milwaukee have so eloquently stated, "this affects every man, woman, and child." Everyone should have a vote on this.

On Saturday, May 7, 2011, we had a good system of allowing every Tribal member to vote in the first "Oneida Primary." We should do this on the Judges.

I am extremely worried for our Tribe if we rush to pass this. Just the thought the Business Committee would even consider not doing what the GTC wanted tells me either they don't understand the true democratic process on which this country was founded or they just don't care. Any judiciary system must be able to maintain it's rightful place of power to protect us from abuse or misuse of authority to prevent an environment of fear, confusion, mistrust, and exclusion.

I don't want to live in a day and age where many of our Tribal laws I believe, is unbalanced or used unfairly. We have so much at stake we need to go out of our way to not only understand the letter of the law but more importantly, wise enough to discern the spirit of the law.

We can't let this agenda pass. It is too hard to reverse any quick action or system once it is passed. Big government only costs the Tribe more money. Money taken away from our employees who earn it and still not paid a living wage. Just look at the GAO report for the U.S. Senate Committee on Indian Affairs.

Seeking Godparents

My name is Ree iikwa Starr. I'm writing this letter in hopes of finding my godparents. Their names are Mike and Debbie Cornelius. Mike is an Oneida tribal member. They met my parents in Chicago.

If anyone has information. Please write me back at P.O. Box 931, Red Lake, MN 56671. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,
Ree iikwa Starr

Tribal Voting Discipline

Now that our tribal elections have concluded, I have perceived from both primary to general elections that you, people are still selecting persons with a process as you have for twenty years. You have not become more knowledgeable as to what to look for to your selections. You are selecting people who you are acquainted with and while that is good, can also be detrimental to the tribe's welfare. You are not looking at their qualifications, which we greatly need in this age.

Most business type people enter dealings with Masters, Master of Business (MB, MBA's) or higher and we counter with lower degrees! People we cannot do that anymore. I know that when outsiders, cooperative type people deal with us, they do investigate the tribal person(s) they are to deal with. I have been employed in businesses where people do look at the DEGREES, believe me!

Our chairperson must have at least a Masters Degree and we have accomplished that at which I am proud to know! Our Vice should have similar qualifications as that person may have to assume the Chair position should the Chair become incapacitated temporarily or permanently and the Vice then would assume the position.

Similar action must be used when selecting our next president. The president must be native born, not naturalized. Saluting to the National Anthem and the Pledge of Allegiance was a dead giveaway that you should have been aware of, even fifth graders know that! Hand over the heart or a hand salute, a veteran may use if in civilian attire, and Never a crotch salute! Please know and be SMART!

Benjamin Jahn

Thank You For Voting

I would like to thank all those who voted for me in this years tribal elections, and though once again we came up short, I am greatly encouraged by your continual support. I know we can do good things if we all work together though that may be our greatest challenge. I am asking us to all try to come together and help our new Chairman Ed Delgado and incoming BC Members lead our Nation with better prosperity for members of the General Tribal Council. I will continually work for better ideas and incentives for the General Tribal Council, for employment, for better government, and Tribal Members, and to funnel as much prosperity to the General Tribal Council as possible. Lets start working together to implement the best solutions to our ongoing issues of governance and commerce. The resources ar there; they need to be harnessed by the General Tribal Council, and our money kept closer to our government so as so as to preserve our sovereignty more effectively. Perhaps then can the people better prosper and our relations improve with greater equality and monthly checks for the general Tribal Council.

Kerstetter remaking Iroquois pottery from shards of the past

A wall of Rose Kerstetter's apartment holds rows of shelves displaying samples of her Iroquois style pottery along with those of her students. When asked why she started making pots, she answered with a laugh.

"Oh, that's a long story."

Kerstetter explained she didn't have much interest in college until she moved out east with her husband Lawrence B. Kerstetter and they visited New York State museums.

"I saw my first Iroquois pot. I wanted to get it out of there and feel it, hold it, lift it, see how thick it was," she said.

"There were a lot of pots there, I couldn't touch any of them, so I had to make my own pot, but they didn't come out."

Kerstetter taught herself how to make pots from coils of clay, but couldn't master the round bottoms that she had seen in the museums. After she retired, Kerstetter and her husband moved to Santa Fe, New Mexico where she studied at the Institute of American Indian Arts (IAIA) in the late 1970's.

"When I went to school, I figured out what I needed to do. All I had to do was put it in a saucer," she said.

Kerstetter began to hone her techniques at the school as well as her curiosity.

"I was the only Iroquois person there. I began to wonder what other Iroquois potters were doing, and wonder if they would look at my pots. I wondered how they would rate my pots; I didn't know what I was doing. I just copied the old pots, I was afraid to make anything contemporary," she said.

According to Kerstetter, Iroquois pots are distinctive from other tribes due to their high collars and designs.

"In ancient times, the potters of the village, one village makes the same design, and then they changed. They moved every 10 or 15 years or so, and if they moved closer to another tribe, they would be influenced by that tribe's pots," she said. "Archeologists can follow migrations through the changes on the pots."

Oneida pots have a unique decoration that makes them easy to identify.

"Oneida has a documented pot that's says this is an Iroquois pot, this is an Oneida pot, and this is one with a little figure that looks like a man," she said, stating that the figure may represent a spirit helper.

Kerstetter graduated from IAIA in 1979.

"I knew what I wanted to do the rest of my life," she said.

In 1983, Kerstetter won a fellowship for the Southwestern Association and used it to gather information on Iroquois style pottery which had fallen out of practice around the time of colonization. However, she met with other Iroquois potters out east and was able to produce a book on the revitalization of the form.

Kerstetter has made hundreds of pots by her estimation.

"It's been fun learning, I'm still learning," she said.

By chance, one of her student works inspired a showing of Wisconsin Native American artists at a gallery at the Promega BioPharmaceutical Technology Center in Madison. Kerstetter got a chance to examine her earlier work - a southwest style seed pot.

"I stuck my hand in to see if I had smoothed it," said Kerstetter. "I could feel around, and sure enough, it was real rough," she said.

Kestetter has taken on apprentices in the past such as Oneida artists Ken Metoxen and Jennifer Stevens. She also has taught the coil technique to children in an after school program.

"I'm trying to get it going to where it will keep going. I don't know who to do that, but I think it's just teaching people," she said. "I'm looking for someone to be an apprentice, but they have to be a dedicated person, be willing to teach it to others."

In an email to a follow up question, Kerstetter wrote:

"At the age of 92, I remain devoted to strengthening and preserving the tradition of traditional pottery making here in my home community of Oneida,"

Oneida Safety Town Registration
August 15– 19, 2011

Did you know that unintentional injury is the leading cause of death in children? Did you know that ninety percent of these injuries can be prevented? Does your 4 to 6 year old know the rules that will keep him/her safe? Are those rules followed?

All very good questions. Not all children know the answers. But now, they can when you enroll them in the FREE Oneida SAFETY TOWN program. SAFETY TOWN is a 15 hour summer safety camp, designed for children ages four through six, to learn safety awareness and prevention in a fun and creative way. This is done under the guidance of certified teachers and trained safety professionals from throughout the community. Children are taught to evaluate "safe from unsafe" and learn how to react safely when confronted with potentially dangerous situations. This program offers children a classroom segment, as well as hands-on experience in Oneida's child sized SAFETY TOWN.

Safety topics in the week long sessions include: motor vehicle, pedestrian, bicycles, buses, safety belts, poisons, fires and burns, railroad crossings, playgrounds, animals, strangers, water, emergency 911.

When: August 15-19th, 2011
8:30-11:30a.m.
OR
1:00-4:00p.m.

Where: Recreation Center on County Hwy H in Oneida.

Children are enrolled on a first come, first served basis. Parents are responsible for drop off and pickup of children before and after class. Parents DO NOT need to stay with children during the session.

Oneida Tribal Judicial System

Quarterly Summaries for April – June 2011

Rule 9(D) – Criteria for Acceptance:
The Initial Review Body shall accept an appeal for appellate review if one or more of the following elements are sufficiently alleged to exist in the original hearing body decision by the Appellant in the Notice of Appeal:
(1) A violation of constitutional provisions;
(2) The decision is outside the scope of the authority or otherwise unlawful;
(3) The decision is clearly erroneous and is against the weight of the evidence presented at the hearing level;
(4) The decision is arbitrary and/or capricious;
(5) There is exhibited a procedural irregularity which would be considered a harmful error that may have contributed to the final decision, which if the error had not occurred, would have altered the final decision;
(6) There is a presentation or introduction of new evidence that was not available at the hearing level which, if available, may have altered the final decision.

To conserve time and space provided, the Oneida Tribal Judicial System will only put into print the Initial Review Decisions which have been denied. The cases that have been accepted at Initial Review will be published when the final adjudication has been entered.

Denied Initial Review Decisions

Mary Brocker vs. Anna John Nursing Home, Sheri Lansback. Docket No. 11-AC-007, April 7, 2011. Judicial Officers Janice L. McLester, Lois Powless, Stanley Webster presiding. Denied according to Rules of Appellate Procedure, Rule 9(E) Failure of Allegations. Appellant failed to sufficiently allege one of the criteria of Rule 9(D). This case denied.

Daniel and Judy Hawk vs. Village of Hobart. Docket No. 11-AC-008, April 18 & 29, 2011. Judicial Officers Lois Powless, Janice L. McLester, Stanley R. Webster presiding. Denied in accordance with RAP, Rule 9(E): Failure of allegations. If the appellant failed to sufficiently allege one of the criteria of Rules 9(D) such that the Initial Review body cannot determine the basis for the allegation or the issue within the original hearing body decision, the appeal may be denied. Failure to be in compliance with RAP, Rule 2(D)(1) In addition to the Notice of Appeal form and filing fee, the following information shall be provided upon the filing of the Notice: a copy of the written decision of the original hearing body. Denied.

Appellate Court Decisions

Michael J. Hurst vs. Oneida Gaming Commission. Docket No. 10-AC-030, April 20, 2011. Judicial Officers Janice L. McLester, Anita Barber, Lois Powless, Winnifred L. Thomas, and Stanley R. Webster presiding. This case was an appeal of an Oneida Gaming Commission (OGC) decision which granted Appellant a Conditional Oneida Gaming License, but denied him a full regular license. Mr. Hurst applied for a gaming license on August 10, 2010 which triggered a background investigation performed on applicants of Oneida Bingo & Casino. Mr. Hurst's termination of November 21, 2008, and the appeal of this termination was part of this investigation. On September 10, 2010 the OGC found Mr. Hurst ineligible for an Oneida Gaming License and revoked said license. He appealed and on November 3, 2010 the OGC issued a Conditional License to be reviewed in six (6) months. Mr. Hurst appealed to the Oneida Tribal Judicial System, Appellate Court on November 30, 2010. The Appellate body found the OGC decision to be reasoned based on facts and law and not to be disturbed. On April 20, 2011 the OGC decision was upheld.

Airport Road Child Care, Conrad King-Asst. Admin. III vs. Linda Koehler. Docket No. 10-AC-028, April 22, 2011. Judicial Officers Winnifred L. Thomas, Janice L. McLester, Lois Powless, Jennifer Webster and Stanley R. Webster presiding. This case was an appeal of an Oneida Personnel Commission (OPC) decision which overturned the termination of Respondent, Linda Koehler. On August 9, 2010, Appellant, Airport Road Child Care, Conrad King terminated Ms. Koehler based on three (3) upheld suspensions or warnings pursuant to Oneida Personnel Policies and Procedures, Section V.D.3(c) The accumulation of three (3) of any combination of upheld warning notices and/or upheld suspensions within any twelve (12) month period. (T) The third discipline was a termination, which was reduced by the Area Manager, Dorothy Skenandore to a three (3) day suspension. As part of this decision Ms. Koehler and Mr. King signed a Personnel Action Agreement which settled the parties differences and included language that the Agreement was a "full and complete satisfaction of the July 23, 2010 Area Managers decision with respect to the aforementioned June 23, 2010 disciplinary action." One week after the parties signed the agreement, Supervisor, Mr. King terminated Ms. Koehler's employment based on three upheld disciplines within a one-year period. The Appellate body found the Agreement to have satisfied that neither party would have any further obligation to the other with respect to the third reduced discipline. Ms. Koehler would not bring claims against the tribe for money or other relief and she had the benefit knowing the supervisor would not bring further claims or use the third discipline against her. However, one week later the supervisor terminated Ms. Koehler for accumulation, even though a corrective action plan was outlined by the area manager. Mr. King testified he never received supervisor training because it was not in his job description and yet he supervises employees. The OPC recommended this training and this Appellate Review body concurred. OPC decision upheld, termination reversed.

Timothy Danforth vs. Brad Skenandore, Oneida Bingo & Casino, Hard/Soft Count Supervisor. Docket No. 11-AC-004, May 23, 2011. Judicial Officers Janice L. McLester, Lois Powless, Winnifred L. Thomas, Jennifer Webster and Stanley R. Webster presiding. This case arose as an appeal by Timothy Danforth of an Oneida Personnel Commission (OPC) decision of January 31, 2011, which dismissed his employment grievance on the grounds of failure to appear. Mr. Danforth was terminated on October 27, 2010 for violation of Oneida Personnel Policies and Procedures, Section V.D.2.II Attendance and Punctuality and Section V.D.3 Accumulated Disciplinary Actions Warranting Termination. A hearing was scheduled before the OPC on January 31, 2011. Mr. Danforth failed to appear. Respondent motioned to dismiss in accordance with Section V.D.6.5. Dismissal was granted. Mr. Danforth appealed to this Appellate Review body alleging a procedural error, but failed to enter an Appellant's Rebuttal Brief for review. This Appellate body found no procedural irregularities and upheld the OPC decision to dismiss for failure to appear.

Oneida Bingo & Casino, Valet Department vs. Harry Martin. Docket No. 11-AC-002, June 1, 2011. Judicial Officers Janice L. McLester, Lois Powless, Winnifred L. Thomas, Jennifer Webster and Stanley R. Webster presiding. This case was an appeal of the Oneida Personnel Commission (OPC) decision which overturned the termination of Respondent, Harry Martin. Mr. Martin was terminated on November 5, 2010 for violation of Oneida Personnel Policies and Procedures (OPP&P), Section V.D.3, Accumulated Disciplinary Actions Warranting Termination (b): accumulation of two upheld suspensions within any twelve (12) month period (T). Mr. Martin had received two (2) upheld suspensions, one on February 5, 2010 for three days and a second on October 1, 2010 for fifteen days. OPC found the supervisor to have used the same incident twice in issuing the termination for accumulation and ruled the termination not to have been done in compliance with Section V.D.5.a thru f. The Appellate body disagreed with the OPC reasoning on two counts. First, the OPP&P manual specifically permits a supervisor to terminate an employee for two upheld suspensions within a twelve (12) month period. Second, the second incident for which Mr. Martin was suspended was severe enough (damaging a customer's vehicle and trying to cover it up) to justify progressive discipline. This Appellate body agreed. OPC decision overturned, termination upheld.

Trial Court Decisions

Daniel and Judy Hawk vs. Village of Hobart. Docket No. 10-TC-219, March 30, 2011. Judicial Officers Mary Adams, Jean M. Webster and Leland Wigg-Ninham presiding. This case arises out of Petitioners' claim that Respondent is unlawfully taxing Holy Apostles Cemetery. Petitioners' claim state law precludes the taxation of the cemetery. Because Petitioners' claims rest on state law, we declined to exercise jurisdiction. A Pre-trial hearing was held on February 1, 2011. Respondent stated the parcel of real estate is titled in the name of Episcopal Diocese of Fond du Lac. Michael Denor, as the Assessor for the Village of Hobart and other municipalities located within Brown County, made a determination that the majority of the parcel was subject to real estate taxes. Petitioners claim that no part of the parcel was subject to real estate taxes because it is exempt under state law as a cemetery. Respondent points out, although it is true that a portion of the property is used as a cemetery, the vast majority of the parcel is not. Respondent states Michael Denor only assessed taxes on the portion of property not currently used as a cemetery. The annual tax totals $489.60. Respondent argues this action should be dismissed because the Oneida Tribal Judicial System does not have subject matter or personal jurisdiction. As far as subject matter jurisdiction, Respondent recites the relevant federal cases which limit tribal court jurisdiction over non-Indians. Respondent notes that the land at issue is not trust land and that Respondent is of non-Indian character. Respondent argues at great length that the Oneida Nation Reservation has been diminished and therefore the Holy Apostles Cemetery is not even on the Oneida Reservation. We disagree, but disposition of that issue is not necessary for purposes of ruling on Respondent's motion. To be clear, we are not ruling on Respondent's diminishment and disestablishment arguments. We decline to rule out that the Oneida Tribal Judicial System may have subject matter jurisdiction over this parcel for certain claims brought in the future consistent with Oneida law and federal law, if applicable. The Court need not rule on the Village of Hobart's other arguments about subject matter jurisdiction, personal jurisdiction or the size of the Oneida Reservation. We simply hold that we do not have jurisdiction to hear a claim to enforce Wisconsin state statutes governing the taxation of a cemetery.

Marlo Webster vs. Dale Wheelock, Oneida Housing Authority. Docket No. 11-TC-051, April 28, 2011. Judicial Officer Mary Adams, Jean M. Webster and Leland Wigg-Ninham presiding. This case involved a request for a Temporary Restraining Order against the Respondent, Oneida Housing Authority. Petitioner currently resides at W1215 Beechtree, Oneida. On April 21, 2010 a hearing was held and Petitioner failed to appear. Respondent claimed Petitioner requested an extension of time to vacate premises and Respondent agreed.

The Court dismissed Petitioner's petition due to non-appearance in accordance with Rule 16 (c).

Julie Ann Mitchler vs. Oneida HRD – Benefits and Crawford & Company Docket No. 11-TC-038, May 12, 2011. Judicial Officers Mary Adams, Jean M. Webster and Leland Wigg-Ninham presiding. This case raised out of Petitioner Julie Ann Mitchler's claim for compensation for injuries which arose in the course of her employment. Respondents have provided partial coverage but not as much as Petitioner argues she is entitled to, such as mileage, dental and permanent partial disability. The Court denies Petitioner's mileage claim. Section 13.8-2 of the Oneida Worker's Compensation law is specific and does not allow mileage from the employee's residence or a deviation. To qualify for reimbursement, the ordinance is clear: the place of treatment must be more than 30 miles from the place of employment, not the employee's residence. The Court denies Petitioner's dental care and denture repairs. Section 13.9-3, limitations of claims does not allow a claim for benefits made after 180 days of the date of injury. Mitchler's claim was beyond the 180-day limitation as it was filed over a year after her fall. Furthermore, it does not appear the injuries at issue were caused by the February 2010 fall. The Court granted Petitioner's claim for 10% percent permanent partial impairment.

Complete copy of the decisions can be obtained at the Oneida Tribal Judicial System office and can be viewed from the Oneida Internet. Submitted by Janice L. McLester.

Oneida Babe Ruth closes out season with victory

By Kyle Casper
Recreation Supervisor

The Oneida Babe Ruth team closed out its season on a high note with a 6-4 victory against Bay Port Navy in Oneida on Thursday night. Ray King got the scoring started in the 1st inning with an RBI Double driving in Isaiah Charles who led off the inning with a single. Devonte Pointer and Brickman House were each 2 for 3 for Oneida with Devonte scoring 2 runs in the game and Brickman knocking in the final run in the game. Ray Danforth added 2 RBI's and Duwayne Matson knocked in one run. Brickman House struck out 6 batters in 3 1/3 innings of relief to earn the win.

The team finished the season with a 1-8 record but played some very competitive games this year. Although the final record didn't show it the team battled all year and could have easily finished with a few more wins. A few highlights from other games this year include:

Oneida lost a game 15-12 to unbeaten Shawano Black. In that game Oneida had fallen behind 10-2 after 3 innings but came back with 4 runs in the 4th and 6 more in the 6th highlighted by Brickman House's 3-run Home Run. Isaiah Charles tripled and Jesse Stevens had 2 hits.

Isaiah Charles and Joe Skenandore had 2 hits each and Ray Danforth struck out 4 hitters in 4 inning of work but Seymour scored 2 runs each in the 4th and 5th innings and went on to win 6-4. Oneida scored 3 runs in the 4th inning and was in position to score more with 2 runners on and no outs but a triple play ended the scoring threat.

Oneida rallied from a 5-1 deficit with 5 runs in the 4th inning to take a 6-5 lead but came up short in the end of a 9-8 loss to Bay Port Navy. Joe Skenandore and Bryce Hill each collected 2 hits and Isaiah Charles, Duwayne Matson, Isaac Reed, Ray King, Avery King and David Doxtater-Hill each added a hit for Oneida.

Oneida jumped out to a 5-0 lead after 2 innings but could not hold on during a 7-6 loss to Denmark Purple. Isaiah Charles and Brickman House had 2 hits apiece for Oneida and Ray Danforth struck out 8 batters in 5 innings.

NY begins tax collections on Indian cigarettes

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) – New York's renewed effort to collect taxes on cigarettes and tobacco products sold by Indian-operated companies has led to seizures of $1.2 million worth of untaxed tobacco products in the last three weeks outside Indian land.

Inspections at 357 retailers by state and federal law enforcement resulted in the confiscation of almost 20,000 cartons of cigarettes and nearly 25,000 cigars, Lt. Gov. Robert Duffy said Friday. The inspections included off-reservation Indian shops and non-Indians selling untaxed Indian tobacco products.

It's the first step in a new enforcement program that is expected to bring $27 million in tax revenue to the state this fiscal year. Enforcement will continue to include inspections of retailers and stopping vehicles carrying tobacco products.

Friday's announcement follows nearly two decades of failed efforts to tax Indian cigarettes, some of which led to violence. Gov. Andrew Cuomo promised to secure the lost tax revenue and create a fair market for non-Indian businesses operating near reservations.

Courts have sided with New York in its current effort to collect taxes from wholesalers and in distribution off the reservations.

Future steps could include trying to collect taxes on the growing trade in cigarettes manufactured by Indian-owned companies. Tribes, citing federal treaties guaranteeing their sovereignty, argue they are exempt from taxation.

"We will never take any action to collect state taxes or allow the state to do so on our territory. That is not something that's open for discussion," said Seneca Nation President Robert Odawi Porter.

Porter said the courts don't allow for taxation of tobacco products manufactured by tribes.

While the Senecas in Western New York are the biggest sellers of national name-brand cigarettes, the Oneida Nation in Central New York has turned to manufacturing its own brands and selling them in their stores and its Turning Stone Casino.

The Oneida Nation stated it won't interfere with the state's effort to collect tax from non-Indian cigarette manufacturers and sellers, but

Echo Hawk visits with wounded Marine at Bethesda Naval Hospital

WASHINGTON – Assistant Secretary-Indian Affairs Larry Echo Hawk visited Marine Corporal Phillip Baldwin of Ft. Hall, Idaho, today at the Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Echo Hawk, himself a former Marine and past resident of Ft. Hall, visited with the wounded serviceman, a member of the Shoshone-Bannock Tribes, who lost both legs in an Improvised Explosive Device (IED) incident on June 18, 2011. The incident occurred while Corporal Baldwin was on foot patrol near the Helmand Province in Afghanistan.

"It's remarkable the resilience this young man has, to go through the ordeal he did and to be in such great spirits during our visit is a tribute to him and his family," said Echo Hawk. "I wish Corporal Baldwin the best of luck in his recovery and for the future."

Corporal Baldwin is in the First Battalion, Fifth Marines, out of San Diego, Calif. He will be returning there on July 20 to continue his rehabilitation. Bethesda Naval Hospital is located in Maryland just north of the nation's capital.

Oneida Nation producing feature film in central NY

VERONA, New York (AP) – The Oneida Indian Nation is producing a $10 million feature film telling the story of its alliance with American colonists during the Revolutionary War.

Ray Halbritter, the Oneida Indian Nation representative and CEO of Nation Enterprises, said Tuesday that the movie will be shot this autumn in central New York. It will be produced by Alex Siskin, producer of "Mr. Deeds." The executive producer is Sid Ganis, former president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

Kees Van Oostrum, Emmy-nominated director of "Miss Rose White" and "Gettysburg," is the director.

The film, with the working title "First Allies," is based on the book "Forgotten Allies" by University of Houston historians Joseph Glatthaar and James Kirby Martin. Ganis said he read the book and thought it would make a good movie, so he got screenwriter Bob Burris to write a screenplay.

"It's historical, but it's really a movie filled with emotion and that's what makes good movies," Ganis said. "The emotion of making the choice between the British and the colonists, and then the family turmoil that will occur as that choice is being made. And, it was full of action."

Ganis pitched the idea to the Oneida Nation, which agreed to bankroll and co-produce the film.

"This is going to be along the lines of a 'Braveheart' or 'Last of the Mohicans,'" Halbritter said. "Very entertaining but with underlying historical accuracy."

The film will depict a period when the Oneida way of life was threatened by the growing conflict between the colonists and the British monarchy. When the Oneida leaders decided to end their neutrality and lend their tactical expertise and manpower to the colonists, it stirred conflict within the Iroquois Confederacy because the Mohawk, Seneca, Onondaga and Cayuga tribes remained loyal to the British.

Halbritter said scenes for the movie will be shot at the locations of key Revolutionary War battles in upstate New York, including Fort Stanwix in Rome and the nearby Oriskany Battlefield.

ND tribe getting $20M loan for infrastructure

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) – The Three Affiliated Tribes is getting financial help for debt consolidation and infrastructure projects on the Fort Berthold Reservation in North Dakota.

The Shakopee Mdewakanton (med-WAH'-kuh-tuhn) Sioux Community is providing a $20 million loan for the efforts, which include a building to house an Indian Health Service clinic, and road and utility work.

The Three Affiliated Tribes in 2009 received a $30 million loan for several economic development and infrastructure projects. The new loan will refinance the 2009 loan and provide money for additional projects.

The Shakopee Mdewakanton Sioux Community operates Mystic Lake Casino in Minnesota and other enterprises, and runs a charitable giving program.

From 13A/Tax Collection

cites federal law that prohibits taxation of cigarettes made and sold on a reservation.

The state appears to dispute the tribes over whether it can collect taxes on Indian-manufactured cigarettes, but Duffy wouldn't answer questions on whether the Cuomo administration will try. He said the administration will seek further negotiations with tribes.

The state's enforcement action also targets untaxed cigarettes from southern states and from Internet sales, but much of the most visible enforcement will involve the lucrative tribal sales in central and western New York. The tribes serve customers globally as some of the biggest sellers of cigarettes.

The seizures have been made since June 21, when a court lifted a temporary restraining order against the state's enforcement. Since then, Director of State Operations Howard Glaser says there has been an "uptick" in the distribution of properly taxed products.

"There clearly has been a division from unstamped to stamped products," he said Friday.

Glaser and Duffy, a former Rochester mayor, wouldn't discuss what the phase-in of more enforcement will mean or how it will be conducted.

"It would be bad for us to signal what will and won't be done," said Duffy, a former police chief. The plan is focused on enforcing the tax law at the distribution and retail levels, off reservations and Indian-owned land.

"I don't think anyone goes on tribal lands to take any enforcement activity at all," Duffy said, adding there is "great respect" for the sovereignty of Indian land.

Oneida Museum holds Summer Music event, Stevens performs

The Oneida Nation Museum held a musical event outside of the facility on July 21, 2011. Jennifer Stevens was the featured artist, displaying not only her skills as a Lyric Spinto Soprano singer, but also her sculptures, oil paintings, and jewelry. Stevens answered questions and spoke of her history, experiences, and influences of the art she creates. She also sang songs featured in movies and the audience member who correctly identified the movie the song was featured in earned a prize. The event was part of the Oneida Nation Museum's Summer Music Series. This series of musical events will be an ongoing event. The next museum music event will feature the Cherry Bounce Band on Thursday, August 18 from 4:30pm to 7:00pm.

More Than Fry Bread Film Seeks Finishing Funds

Website Helps Gather Donations $1 at a Time

PHOENIX — Holt Hamilton Productions, the producer's of hit Native American Films Turquoise Rose, Blue Gap Boy'z and Pete & Cleo move closer then ever in completing their fourth, and potentially biggest cult film, More Than Frybread!

The mockumentary film tells the story of the First Annual State of Arizona Frybread Championship between the 22 federally recognized Native American Nations within Arizona. Each Nation sends one person to represent their tribe and compete for the coveted 'Arizona Frybread Championship' title. The film follows five individuals from the Navajo, Hopi, Yavapai-Apache, Hualapai, and Tohono O'odham Nations as they journey from their homelands to the state championship that will be held in Flagstaff, Arizona.

The filming was completed in May of 2010 and has been in post-production ever since. "We are extremely excited with the receptions we've already received for this film! We want to get this film out to the people!" Director Holt Hamilton commented in an interview earlier. Hamilton also went on to say, "We also want to take our time and get this film right. We'll bring it to theatres when it is ready."

The film is seeking additional finishing funds through an online fundraising website at www.Kickstarter.com. "We are in need of a few more dollars to cover our extended time in post-production. Doing things right, isn't always the cheapest," stated producer Travis Hamilton. He continued by saying, "We want to let our audience know they can have a direct impact on the progress of this film by donating as little as one dollar."

Anyone interested is encouraged to go to the Kickstarter website and search for the More Than Frybread film project. Click on the green 'Back This Project' button and follow the fast and simple steps to donating your dollar (or more) to the films fundraising efforts to help "the movie you can almost taste" get made and into theatres. The $4,500 fundraising goal must be completely pledged by Monday August 15th at 10:30pm MST to be funded.

This will be the first feature film ever to include such a diverse variety of lead Native American actors from all reaches of Arizona. The film will include over forty-two speaking parts, nine of which include lead roles. "We held auditions for many months, all across the state and found amazing talented and undiscovered actors that only needed a chance to shine. There will be stars born from this film." Holt Hamilton stated in a previous interview.

Restoring Agricultural Land into Original Wetlands

Submitted photo

A panoramic view of the Suamico River Headwater Wetland area. The area has been restored from agricultural land to its original wetland form

Spotlight on Suamico River Headwater Wetland

This large 281 acre natural area consists of forest, hardwood swamp, wetlands and grasslands. A rough unimproved road accesses the site off of west end of Reformatory Road near County Y. The property was acquired in 2004 by the Oneida Nation. Tony Kuchma, Wetland Program Coordinator, began planning the transformation from agricultural fields back to restored wetlands. The wetlands on the property had been drained for agricultural use in a naturally wet area. This site has undergone massive restoration including moving of 3,250 dump trucks of earth and planting of 6000 trees! A unique feature is a stormwater area that treats water before entering the wetland.

One of the main habitat components of the site is a large open water area that waterfowl make home and you may find a variety of ducks, pelicans, geese, shorebirds, eagles, bobolink, meadowlark and other birds. Plants you may find here including spiderwort, common and marsh milkweed, chicory, bergamot, cup plant, mint and bulrush among others.

A constructed overlook is available for viewing the water and wildlife. The restoration goal was to restore the wetlands while allowing farming to continue on the surrounding land outside the wetland The Oneida farm still utilizes a field for crops at the site. The Suamico natural area meets up with Coyote Run Natural Area to the south creating an extensive area for wildlife habitat. Future plans for the site include improving the access road, establishing wild rice, a controlled prairie burn, and water drawdown to create habitat for migrating shorebirds. Both gun and bow hunting are allowed by Tribal members with a sportsman license during the appropriate seasons. For information on hunting and fishing regulations contact the Oneida Conservation Office at 869-1450. For information on the restoration, wildlife or plant life contact the Environmental Health & Safety office at 869-1600.

Concerns over local deer herd result in changes to hunting season

By Shad Webster
Natural Resources Director

The Department would like to update the Oneida Sportsmen of the amendments that Legislative Operations Committee (LOC) has approved for the 2011-12 hunting season. The following changes are a direct response to the Sportsmen's concerns about the current whitetail deer harvest rate and population density.

During the upcoming whitetail deer seasons the following rules will be in effect for harvesting a legal buck. All Oneida Sportsmen will be issued one (1) archery back tag for the harvest of a legal antlered whitetail buck or an antlerless whitetail deer along with one (1) firearm back tag to harvest a legal antlered whitetail buck. Oneida Sportsmen that choose to participate in the antlerless firearm drawing (Hunter's Choice drawing), may receive one (1) of the one hundred and fifty (150) available permits. Any unfilled back tags can be utilized during the muzzleloader season. Oneida Sportsmen are allowed to harvest a total of two (2) whitetail bucks, during the 2011-12 hunting season, with archery equipment, firearm, or muzzleloader during the established seasons. The seasons are as follows:

- Archery Season opens September 3, 2011 and continues until January 29, 2012.
- Firearm Season opens November 19, 2011 and continues until November 27, 2011.
- Muzzleloader Season opens November 28, 2011 and continues until January 1, 2012.

The definition of a legal whitetail buck is any deer with a total of four (4) antler points or more on one or both antlers. This can include any combination, example: left antler with an antler over three (3) inches in length and right antler with three (3) or more points, would be considered a legal buck. Whitetail bucks with an antler that is less than three (3) inches in length will be considered antlerless.

Oneida Sportsmen will be allowed to hunt for one (1) Oneida elder, or disabled member, during any of the established whitetail deer seasons. The elder, or disabled member, must notify the Department as to who will be hunting for them during the 2011-12 hunting season.

The Department supports the requests by the Oneida Sportsmen and feels the amendments are critical to the health of the deer herd. Department staff shares the concern for the substantiability of the whitetail deer herd and hope that the efforts will assist with increasing the deer population.

The proposed changes will allow the Oneida Sportsmen to experience quality hunting opportunities afield while creating a prime opportunity to harvest a mature whitetail buck.

SIPI and Oneida Nation High School are Featured Entries of the 2011 Indian Education Renewable Energy Challenge

Challenge promotes careers in the green, renewable energy professions

Oneida Nation High School, Oneida, Wis. was awarded the 2011 Indian Education Renewable Energy Challenge targeting college and High School age students sponsored by the Office of Indian Education, U.S. Department of Energy's Argonne National Laboratory and Indian Affairs Office of Indian Energy and Economic Development. Front Row, L to R:: Becky Nutt, David Santee, Larissa Lucus, Alexi Silva, Jade Doxtator, Brandon White Devan Little, Danny McKinney. Not pictured Charles Cook and Bradley Grandquist.

WASHINGTON – Assistant Secretary-Indian Affairs Larry Echo Hawk today announced that the Southwestern Indian Polytechnic Institute (SIPI) has submitted the featured entry in the 2011 Indian Education Renewable Energy Challenge targeting college age students and the Oneida Nation High School has submitted the featured entry in the high school-age challenge category.

The Challenge is sponsored by the Bureau of Indian Education (BIE) in partnership with the Indian Affairs Office of Indian Energy and Economic Development and the U.S. Department of Energy's Argonne National Laboratory. SIPI is a BIE post secondary school in Albuquerque, NM., and the Oneida Nation High School is a BIE funded school in Oneida, Wis.

"I am very pleased that this contest allowed the creativity of our BIE students to shine," Echo Hawk said. "Both SIPI and the Oneida Nation High School student's bio-diesel fuel teams were able to meet the challenge of designing an innovative process for converting biomass into diesel fuel. Projects like this demonstrate that our students can take on real world challenges with successes they can someday use to help promote tribal self-sufficiency."

This is the second year in a row that both the SIPI team and the Oneida Nation High School team have been the featured entries in the national competition. The SIPI wind turbine team was one of the top two national winners at the 2010 college level competition. Last year's competition ended in a tie with both SIPI and the College of the Menominee Nation from Keshena, Wis., sharing first place. In the high school level category, this is the second year in a row that the Oneida Nation High School has received an award in the renewable energy challenge.

This year the SIPI bio-diesel fuel team took first place for their process design to convert raw biomass material to diesel fuel. The team members are students Monique Mousseaux (Oglala Sioux), Felipa DeLeon (Oglala Sioux), John David (Laguna Pueblo), Josh Begay (Navajo), and Vernetta Long (Navajo), SIPI faculty members Dr. Nader Vadiee and Dr. Massoud Ahghar, and the teams' mentor from the University of New Mexico, Ralph Kelly.

"We had an excellent team of students working on this challenge," said Dr. Vadiee. "I am very pleased with their efforts and creativity in this endeavor. All of the students worked very hard and are extremely deserving of this recognition."

The Oneida Nation High School team used cooking grease to produce a usable bio-diesel fuel. Their project design, like SIPI's, was chosen as the best for the 2011 Challenge. The students working on the project included Devan Little, Larissa Lucus, Charles Cook, Alexi Silva, Danny McKinney, Bradley Grandquist, Jade Doxtator, and Brandon White. The eight-person group spent about 20 hours over three weeks building and developing the project before it was submitted for judgment. "It did feel good to get out of the classroom and come here to work on it," said White, a senior.

The focus of the contest was to promote renewable energy development for Indian Country among students and teachers at the high school and college level. Preparing a proposal, feasibility studies, background research and team work, time management, budget management, communications, and partnering with other research and development entities were some of the activities students practiced and learned.

"This is a great way for students to translate what they are learning in the classroom to real-world applications for developing renewable energy sources," said Andrew Skipor, who leads Argonne's educational programs. "We are thrilled to be a part of such an important program that provides the hands-on training and experience that will help increase the use of clean energy technologies and promote energy independence."

Both the SIPI and Oneida Nation High School bio-diesel fuel teams attended a BIE-IEED-Argonne Award Ceremony at Argonne National Laboratory in Illinois on July 14-15, 2011. They will have their project results prominently displayed at Argonne, which is located near Chicago.

Background:

SIPI is a National Indian Community College established in 1971 at the request of the 19 Pueblos of New Mexico and other federally recognized tribes in the U.S. to help train American Indians and Alaska Natives for employment. It is advised by a national, tribally appointed Board of Regents. SIPI provides career technical training and transfer degree programs to students from the nation's 565 federally recognized tribes. It offers competitive job training programs; granting of Associate of Applied Science, Associate of Arts and Associate of Science degrees; and opportunities to transfer into four-year degree programs. SIPI's fall 2009 enrollment was 657 students from over 80 tribes.

The Oneida Nation High School was established in 1995 as an expansion of the pre-existing Oneida Nation Elementary School. Enrollment is non-compulsory, and as a school of choice draws students from five adjacent school districts including Green Bay, West DePere, Pulaski, Seymour, and Freedom. It has a current enrollment of 84 students, most of whom are members of the Oneida Echo Hawk Announces SIPI and Oneida Nation High School as Featured Entries of the 2011 Indian Education Renewable Energy Challenge Nation, a federally recognized tribe. The school also draws students from approximately four other tribes, however, and has some non-member students as well. Oneida Nation High School adheres to the same standards as Wisconsin public schools, but offers the advantage of training in Oneida language and culture. It is funded through BIE grants and tribal contributions.

Argonne National Laboratory seeks solutions to pressing national problems in science and technology. The nation's first national laboratory, Argonne conducts leading-edge basic and applied scientific research in virtually every scientific discipline. Argonne researchers work closely with researchers from hundreds of companies, universities, and federal, state and municipal agencies to help them solve their specific problems, advance America's scientific leadership and prepare the nation for a better future. With employees from more than 60 nations, Argonne is managed by UChicago Argonne, LLC, for the U.S. Department of Energy's Office of Science.

The Assistant Secretary-Indian Affairs (ASIA) oversees the Office of Indian Energy and Economic Development (IEED), whose mission is to foster stronger American Indian and Alaska Native communities by helping federally recognized tribes with employment and workforce training programs; helping tribes develop their renewable and non-renewable energy and mineral resources; and increasing access to capital for tribal and individual American Indian and Alaska Native-owned businesses. ASIA also oversees the Bureau of Indian Education which operates the federal school system for American Indian and Alaska Native children from the federally recognized tribes. The BIE is responsible for ensuring the implementation of federal education laws, including the No Child Left Behind Act, in 183 BIE-funded elementary and secondary schools and residential programs located on 64 reservations in 23 states serving approximately 42,000 American Indian and Alaska Native students and employing over 5,000 teachers, administrators and support personnel. The BIE also provides resources and technical assistance to 124 tribally administered BIE-funded schools, 26 tribal colleges and universities and two technical colleges. It directly operates two post-secondary institutions: Haskell Indian Nations University in Lawrence, Kan., and the Southwestern Indian Polytechnic Institute in Albuquerque, N.M.

Schools are like shoes, find the one that fits you

By Jeremiah Powless
Oneida Higher Education Advisor

Jeremiah Powless

"Before anything else, preparation is the key to success." – Alexander Graham Bell.

Hello, my name is Jeremiah Powless and I am one of the Higher Education Advisors and I have been working in this department for almost three (3) years. I received my Bachelors Degree in Speech Communication from the University Utah.

The previous article talked about Career Exploration. Now that you may have a career in mind, my article will lead you into the process of selecting the right school for you.

What school is right for me?

I have a saying "Schools are like shoes, find the one that fits you." Unfortunately, we won't be able to go by our foot size to find the right school. Hopefully with some of the suggestions and tips I will discuss, they will assist you in finding the right school. Regardless if you are a traditional (high school) student or a returning adult student, to understand what school might be best for you, you need to understand the different kinds of school and what they offer. Here are some examples of different schools: Colleges, Universities, Community Colleges and Technical Colleges.

Below are some easy steps that anyone can do to learn more about a school(s) you are interested in attending:

- Web Searches – Use your favorite search engine (Google, Firefox, MSN etc.) to research information about schools you are interested in. Topics you may want to research about schools are: cost of attendance, admission requirements, and application deadlines for starters.
- College visits – Almost all schools allow you to schedule a campus informational visit that allows you to see what the school(s) you are interested in can offer you. College visits are a great way to learn about student services and resources that each school has to offer. Many colleges have specific dates that you can register college visits. Ideally, High School students should schedule this visit with their parent/guardian. College visits are also a great opportunity to ask current students about their experience attending that college/university. Below is a link to a list of other questions that you may want to ask during a college visit:

http://www.usnews.com/education/blogs/the-college-solution/2010/10/19/ 36-questions-to-ask-on-a-college-visit

High School and Adult College fairs – The Higher Education Dept. annually hosts two (2) college fairs; one (1) for High School student and the other for returning adult students. Approximately 40 colleges and universities attend each year. This event is a great opportunity for students to "one-stop-shop" many schools in one (1) day. Other benefits of attending are: meeting college recruiters face to face, getting answers to last minute questions and picking up brochures, applications, and financial aid pamphlets.

2011 USIG comes to a close

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

With over 1,200 young Native American athletes, the first ever United States Indigenous Games (USIG) will go down as a success.

The games ran from July 10 through July 14 throughout the city of Milwaukee and had teams from 14 states participating in nine sports.

For Art Skenandore, USIG Executive Director, a positive experience for the youth was on his front burner.

"We wanted to make sure the people participating had the highest level and most positive experience. Our team of people from around Wisconsin had a common goal, to make sure the athletes had a good experience. That's the strongest marketing tool you have for the future, making sure they had a good experience and want to come back," he said.

The five-day event took great coordination from a team of like-minded individuals who spent about 18 months preparing the execution of the USIG.

"The most important thing is to have a good team of people that have the same focus in terms of the best interests we wanted to accomplish," said Skenandore. "We also wanted to make sure we had the proper accommodations for the athletes and to be sure we had the best venues for competition."

USIG representatives also wanted to create an atmosphere that fostered friendship among the competitors.

"One thing we said early on was that our young people needed the medicine of relationship," Skenandore said. "It's not about winning or losing, it's about coming together and we feel we accomplished what we wanted to do."

Along with relationship building the USIG focused on creating healthy lifestyles and choices for young people by providing balanced meals everyday for the athletes.

Skenandore also felt a taste of college life with dorm living at Marquette University added to the athletes' experience.

The USIG did face some criticism for the abrupt loss of some athletic categories with much attention giving to lacrosse. Skenandore was aware and vowed changes in future games.

"Some of the challenging decisions that the sports commissioners had to make were to eliminate some competitions due to not being able to field teams. It was not done lightly and it was done with a lot of consideration and deliberation," he said. "We want to improve on this.

2011 USIG

We don't want to disappoint young people. We are going to do our best to make sure we have a full round of competition in all categories."

Skenandore is taking pride as he looks back at the USIG.

"I have a great satisfaction how it was produced with a lot of work and effort from the tribes in Wisconsin. I have a satisfaction seeing the young people enjoy themselves. My personal satisfaction comes from seeing those smiles on the young people," he said.

Team Wisconsin athletes John Powless IV and Devonte Pointer both enjoyed their time during the USIG as they brought home golds.

"The games were pretty good," sixteen-year-old Pointer said. "I liked the ceremonies, but the competition was a little too easy for us."

Pointer won gold as a member of the U16 boys basketball team.

For Powless, the opportunity to meet others from across the country stuck with him after the games. He won gold as a member of the 19 boys basketball team.

"I thought it was pretty fun and a good experience," he said.

Both plan on taking part in the 2013 games.

Wisconsin will again host the 2013 USIG but an exact location has not been determined.

"We have been approached by a couple of different sites to consider. We will go through a process in the next few months looking at the capacities and capabilities of those sites and that's a decision that will be left up to our board to make sometime this fall," Skenandore said.

Artstreet looking for Volunteers

Arts Events Inc. is hosting the 30th annual Artstreet festival of the fine arts in downtown Green Bay on August 26th, 27th, and 28th. It is the outstanding dedication of volunteers that makes the event a great success year after year.

Without their influence, Artstreet would not be possible. Individuals can receive a free commemorative Artstreet t-shirt by signing up to volunteer.

Volunteers are asked to work at least one (1) four-hour shift. They are are needed to assist with event set up, food and beverage operations, children's activities, artist relief, and souvenir sales.

Artstreet is a project of Arts Events Inc., a subsidiary corporation of the Northeastern Wisconsin Arts Council, whose purpose is to produce festivals that celebrate the arts, culture and community.

Artstreet is a designated project approved by the Green Bay Public Schools for service learning. To sign up to become a volunteer please contact (920) 435-5220 or intern@artseventsinc.com

What is Alzheimer's disease?

Alzheimer's is a disease of the brain that causes a steady decline in memory. This results in dementia – loss of intellectual functions (thinking, remembering, and reasoning) severe enough to interfere with everyday life. When German physician Alois Alzheimer first described the disease in 1907, it was considered rare. Today, Alzheimer's disease is the most common cause of dementia, affecting 10 percent of people 65 years old, and nearly 50 percent of those age 85 or older. An estimated 5.4 million people are living with Alzheimer's, a disease linked to aging: every 69 seconds, someone develops it. Alzheimer's is the sixth-leading cause of death in the USA, and the only one among the top 10 that has no prevention or cure, says William Thies, chief medical and scientific officer of the Alzheimer's Association. Alzheimer's disease usually begins gradually, causing a person to forget recent events and to have difficulty performing familiar tasks. How rapidly the disease advances varies from person to person, causing confusion, personality and behavior changes, and impaired judgment. Communication becomes difficult as the person with Alzheimer's struggles to find words, finish thoughts, or follow directions. Eventually, a person with Alzheimer's become totally unable to care for themselves. Come join me at the Support Group to learn more about the disease of Alzheimer's.

The Importance of Brook Trout

Three Brook Trout of various sizes that have found a home in the creeks of the Oneida Reservation.

Brook trout are an important indicator of the health of aquatic ecosystems. They require cold, clean water and a stream with a healthy invertebrate community and diverse habitats. Water quality in a stream has to be excellent if it is capable of supporting a healthy population of trout. The return of brook trout to Oneida's streams is a strong sign of improving water quality.

Historically, Trout creek was a healthy trout stream that contained a natural population of brook trout. Unfortunately past actions caused the condition of the stream to degrade significantly. Several large sections of the streambed were straightened (ditched) and an increase in agriculture and residential areas in the Trout creek watershed caused decreased flow, increased nutrient loading, the stream channel to widen, and increased water temperature.

Beginning in 1999, EH&S staff began partnering with other agencies to restore Trout creek with the goal of eventually reintroducing brook trout. First a manure containment system was installed at the State Farm on County Hwy U to prevent manure from running into Trout creek. Soon after a section of Trout creek between Olson and Cooper roads was restored from a straight ditch into a meandering stream. Additionally, habitat was improved by installing log jams at several locations in the stream. The combination of these projects and installation of buffers along tributaries has allowed both the stream and brook trout to make a comeback.

Monitoring before and after the projects discussed above showed that water temperature, habitat and the aquatic insect community were becoming favorable for the reintroduction of brook trout. So in the spring of 2009, 2010 and 2011 wild strain brook trout were stocked into Trout creek. Fisheries surveys conducted this past June found healthy trout from all three years. The presence of all three year classes indicates good survival and the fish were large for their age and have been growing rapidly.

In the near future two more large scale projects will be completed to further improve the condition of Trout creek. The main branch above County Hwy U will be restored by re-meandering the stream, planting a wooded corridor and grass waterways. Another project at the Brown county golf course will allow the stream to flow around a pond and significantly reduce water temperature.

The water quality and trout population of Trout creek have improved greatly over the last decade and the staff of the EH&S department will continue working to identify funding sources for projects and to coordinate with external agencies. Restoring Oneida's natural landscape and providing enhanced opportunities for tribal members to enjoy natural resources are our main goals. The EH&S will continue cooperative, best management practices to improve the water quality essential to a beneficial quality of life on the Oneida Nation Reservation.

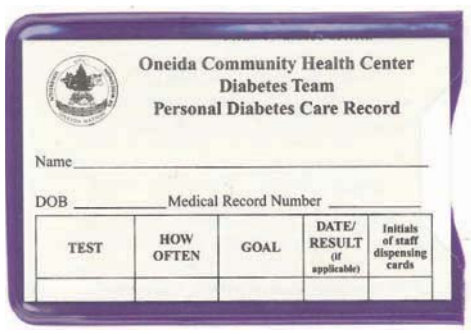
Students Interested in Science or Math Fields Invited to Apply for 'STEM' Scholars Program

Students interested in science, technology, engineering or math – fields of study collectively known as "STEM" programs – are encouraged to look into the STEM Scholars Program at the College of Menominee Nation (CMN). STEM Scholars participate in special educational opportunities designed to support their learning and increase their academic success. Financial stipends may be available for students who maintain high attendance levels.

The CMN program is open to new students at the College who are enrolled in any of the STEM majors: biological science, computer science, microcomputers, mathematics, natural resources or sustainable development. Those selected for the program form a "student cohort" and spend two semesters together taking the same classes in a pre-determined set of courses. The goal is to help the scholars build relationships while supporting each other in the learning process.

The program has been expanded this year to include both campuses: Highway 47/55 in Keshena and 2733 S. Ridge Road in Green Bay. STEM Scholar coursework is conducted during daytime hours Mondays through Thursdays.

Applicants need to achieve an Accuplacer score within a specific range, complete the CMN admission process and be enrolled in a STEM-related program. The College's selection team will consider prior coursework and grades, essay and interview results, and applicants' commitment to maintaining the schedule of STEM courses.



Applications will be available on Thursday, July 28, 2011 in Students Services at both campuses. For additional information regarding the program in Keshena, contact Becky Zimdars, Academic Advisor, at 715-799-5600, ext. 3021; 899-567-2344, ext. 3021, or e-mail, bzimdars@menominee.edu. For information regarding the program in Green Bay, contact Becky Edler, Academic Advisor, at 920-965-0070.

Personal Diabetes Care Record Incentive Program

The Personal Diabetes Care Record (PDCR) Incentive Program allows patients to earn five dollar gift cards for getting their diabetes checked. Any Native American who receives diabetes care at the Oneida Community Health Center is able to participate.

How can incentives be earned? First, request a wallet size PCDR from the Diabetes Team at the Oneida Community Health Center. Second, bring the card with you whenever you see your health care provider. Third, every time one or more of the items listed on the card has been completed, ask your staff member to record the date, results, and initials. Lastly, submit the card to the Diabetes Team, at any time, even multiple times, to receive your five dollar gift cards.

McLester-Heim, the new Ombudsperson

Dianne McLester-Heim

"I see my position as a neutral point for the community and employees to bring questions, concerns, complaints, as well as the positive things related to the services to make the needed improvements."

Dianne has been with the organization for over four months now. It has and continues to be her intent to improve the customer service for both employees and tribal members. Being an ombudsperson takes an understanding of people, process, and how those elements within the organization and community coincide. Dianne McLester-Heim feels serving all customers is key to inspiring the needed improvement in the services we offer. Although the position functions under the Comprehensive Health Division, and works with only those services within that division, Dianne looks to service all consumers. "I'm here for all parties," she says, "It's a neutral position, employed by the tribe but I'm here to service everybody."

Dianne believes in chain of command, and that policy is always followed in the process. Her goal is to educate the organization on the process of utilizing her service.

"Typically, people equate [this position] with dealing with problems," continues Heim, "and that is a lot of it, but it's really about what's going well, not so well, improvement opportunities, ensuring that managers are working to provide the best customer service to the organization, and that the best services are being offered to the community."

In any given situation, it is important that any employee, manager, etc., understand that process so they know the steps to take. "I help provide an informal way of resolving disputes and conflicts before they go to a more formal level," she states, "I provide a service of proactive mediation."

Again, understanding that process is crucial for an ombudsperson, but so is understanding the people. Dianne's background, including her education and professional experience, includes a deep understanding in both Social Work and Public Administration. This has allowed her to have that balance perspective in dealing with issues on all levels, i.e. human dynamics and organizational dynamics, low level policy up to federal policy, combining those various binary elements. "Creating that bridge so people understand policy, and help influence policy to better understand people and function. That is how I plan to improve how we serve in this capacity."

Crooked Arrows, the Lacrosse Movie Casts its Native American Team

Crooked Arrows, the first mainstream lacrosse movie, has found its team.

This underdog sports movie, which features a Native American high school team's unlikely run to the prep school lacrosse league championship, stars Brandon Routh (Superman Returns) as the head coach, Joe Logan, and Gil Birmingham (The Twilight Saga) as his father. The film is sponsored by Reebok and US Lacrosse, and endorsed by Inside Lacrosse, Major League

Lacrosse, National League Lacrosse, MetroLacrosse, and the National Indian Gaming Association.

The game of lacrosse was invented by the Six Nations tribes of the Iroquois Confederacy: the Oneida, Mohawk, Onondaga, Cayuga, Seneca, and Tuscarora. This will be the first film ever to showcase the game invented by these tribes, and now widely played by male and female athletes of all backgrounds all over the U.S.

The movie's Co-Producer Ernie Stevens III of the Oneida tribe will be coordinating the Crooked Arrows Native American community marketing, publicity and philanthropy outreach programs.

Stevens says of the team, "These guys are some of the best lacrosse players I've ever seen. Not only that, but casting Iroquois players was important because we invented this game. These young men are the spokesmen for their communities, their nations, their people. Overall, this is going to be a great movie."

In preparation for the production, which will be shooting this August in the Boston area, the actors are currently undergoing a demanding lacrosse training program under the supervision of veteran sports coordinator Mark Ellis of Sports Studio (Miracle, Invincible) and three-time All- American and former Iroquois Nationals Lacrosse team star Neal Powless of the Onondaga Nation. "It's great to be a part of a movie that introduces not only lacrosse, but the beauty of the rich tradition it represents to Native people", states Powless.

"This movie is meant to celebrate this great sport and its proud Native American origins," adds veteran producer film producer J. Todd Harris, who is producing the film with Mitchell Peck. "We hope that our film will not only appeal to existing lacrosse fans, but will inspire a new generation of lacrosse enthusiasts to understand the sport's history and significance".

To learn more about the movie, please visit http://www.crookedarrows.com and Crooked Arrows on Facebook @ http://www.facebook.com/crookedarrows.

Front Row: Tyler Hill, Mohawk; Derek Bennett, Onondaga; Orris Edwards, Onondaga; Miles Thompson, Onondaga; Lyle Thompson, Onondaga; Cree Cathers, Onondaga; Michael Hudson, Mohawk.

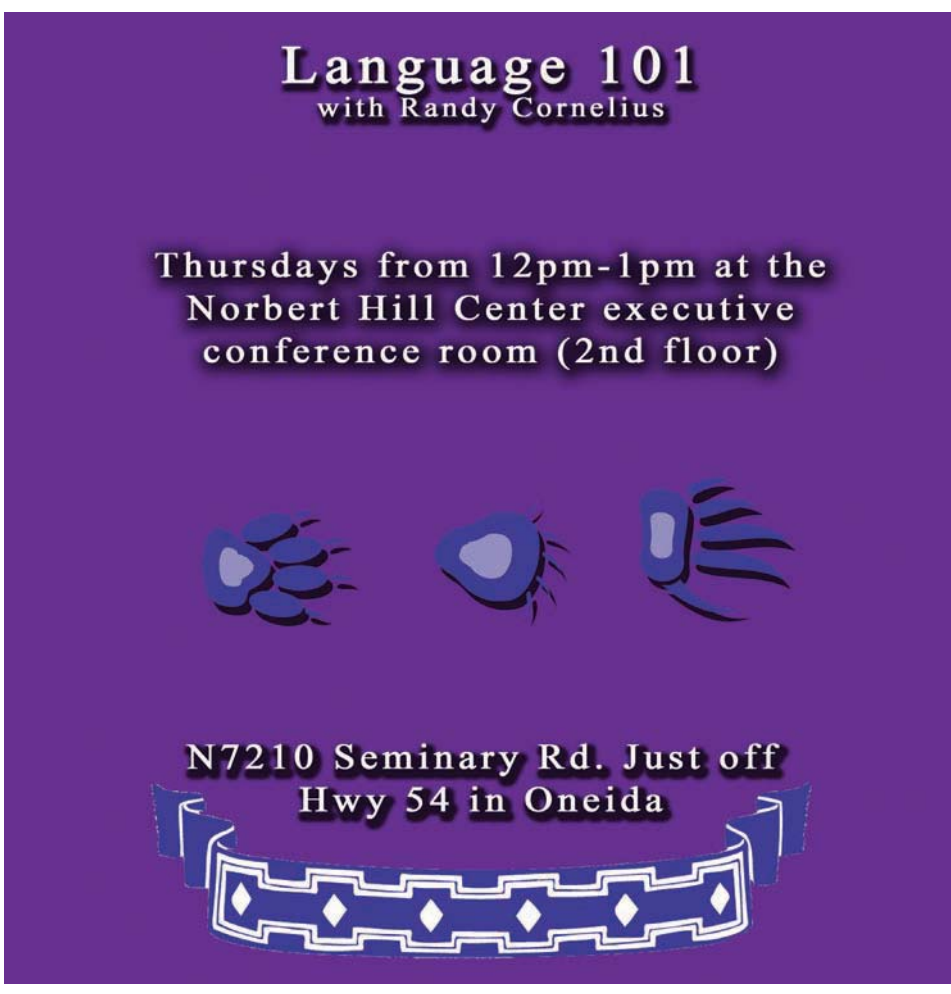
In the spring, the Oneida Nation Museum and the Flying Leaf Subdivision resource building collaborated to offer traditional clothing workshops to both boys and girls. A parent or guardian had to sign the child up and commit to attending the program with the child to learn traditional outfit making and how to smoke dance.

The classes are well attended. The girls' class is on Mondays, and the boys' class is on Thursdays, with lab time often offered on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, all held at the Flying Leaf Subdivision's building.

Adrianna and Kymberley Pelky attend the girls' classes. Kymberley said, "I've done repairs to clothing, but this class is actually teaching me how to sew and bead. And what better project could there be to learn with than a traditional outfit for my daughter. It is great quality time as she beads on her project, and works on her matching bag and helps me with pinning and fastening things. We're so glad we had the opportunity to take this class."

The classes will finish up at the end of June. The families will have a potluck and the children will also be performing their newly learned smoke dance in their new traditional outfits just in time for the Cultural Festival at the Oneida Nation Museum on June 30th 2011 and also the Oneida Nation Pow-Wow.



Have You Visited the Museum Lately?

I hope that you have taken the time to visit the Oneida Nation Museum Gift Shop recently. We have many new things in and more is on the way. To name a couple there are new hoodies, t-shirts, and more jewelry on the way. Take the time to visit the Museum and it's Gift Shop. Hopefully you come and find some things you cannot do without and learn more about the Oneida people and what we have to offer. Tours are $3.00 person and ask for two weeks in advance. We will work with you to reserve a time that works best for you and your group.

Delgado set to lead tribe for next three years

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

For Ed Delgado, newly elected Chairman of the Oneida Tribe, re-election is the ultimate validation of approval of one's job as a politician. Delgado must be doing something right as members of the General Tribal Council (GTC) elected him to a third term on the Oneida Business Committee (OBC), his first as Chairman.

"People approved of my work. To be elected as chairman was a reaffirmation to me that they approved of my work," Delgado said. "Next term I want to do work that people believe in and to make decisions that are good for the tribe and good for the people."

Delgado, 65, defeated Councilman Ron "Tehassi" Hill during the tribe's 2011 tri-annual election. Delgado served two prior terms as a Councilman on the committee.

At the age of seven, Delgado's family moved to Chicago. He eventually obtained his Bachelor's Degree from the University of Illinois and his Master's Degree from the University of Chicago. He moved back to Oneida 26 years ago after his oldest daughter discovered the tribal school on a visit to her grandmother's home.

Delgado brings to the chairman's office 17 years of experience as a teacher, four years of education and job training counseling along with three years as a Legislative Analyst for the tribe.

Delgado campaigned on his track record as a Councilman along with his assessment the reservation is lacking adequate housing.

"My record demonstrated that I care about the welfare of our people, our economic status, our need for housing, fair opportunity for jobs, and treating people with respect," he said.

Delgado also links his desire for more housing to the tribe's ability to develop and implement policy on the reservation.

"We are losing the battle to populate our reservation. That's causing us problems when it comes to exercising sovereignty over our own land. It

Cultural images to be intrical part of road construction

By Dawn Walschinski

Sherolle Benton unscrolled one of the three foot renderings of upcoming highway construction that litter her office at the Oneida Nation Arts Program (ONAP) cottage.

"When (construction crews) start moving up from Scheuring Road, and they start putting in those (Highway 41) ramps, you're going to start seeing the Oneida designs come in." said Benton who is the Media Arts Coordinator for ONAP.

Oneida departments such as ONAP and Oneida Department of Public Works (DPW) are working with the Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT) to bring Oneida images and art to bridges, overpasses and roundabouts on the reservation.

"We're going to make a step towards recognizing and seeing Oneida culture in the public space. Public space, public art is really important," said Benton.

The joint efforts began with a Sustainable Community Design team that looked at the needs and future growth of the Oneida reservation. Team member Laura Manthe stated the group gave input into the WisDOT's plans for roadways around and through Oneida.

"If we weren't involved, if we weren't at the table, decisions would have been made about our community without us having input like they were in the past," said Manthe. "Our relationship has evolved as our government has gotten stronger, and we've been able to flex our sovereignty muscle."

Relay for Life continues fight against cancer

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Nation hosted the 15th Annual Relay for Life of Oneida on July 29th through July 30th on the Powwow Grounds located behind the Norbert Hill Center.

The tribally sponsored event began with an opening ceremony that featured an opening lap that was lead by the Oneida AMVETS, followed by Oneida Royalty, cancer survivors, and the remaining participants in attendance.

After the opening ceremony, laps continued through the night until the next morning.

The theme for this years relay was Christmas in July, which had various tents decorated in Christmas lights, trees, and ornaments.

As participants began their long walks some fun events began such as the 4th Annual Ponytail Drive. This activity gave participants the chance to have their hair cut by a stylist at the event to donate to Pantene Beautiful Lengths. The hair donations are then transformed by HairUWear into high quality hand tied, real-hair wigs. The American Cancer Society, free of charge, then distributes the wigs to women who are in need of a wig.

Another highlight of the event was the luminaria ceremony held during the night. Luminarias were purchased in memory of a loved one, a friend, or an acquaintance that has passed away from cancer. Luminaria bags also honor those who have fought cancer and survived. During the ceremony the names on the glowing bags are read as a remembrance of the cancer victims and survivors, the balloons were then released into the air and an "Honor Lap" began.

Perhaps the most entertaining aspect of the event is the "Dude Looks Like a Lady" contest. During this contest men from different teams dress up as women and walk around the track collecting donations in their purses. The "Dude" with the most money collected wins. This year Harlan King won the contest in his Mrs. Clause attire by gathering a total of $257 for donation.

The event is an extraordinary one being that employees of the Oneida Nation are the main organizers of this event and work year round preparing and fundraising for Relay for Life. Proceeds of the event are given to the American Cancer Society.

Correction

Patty Hoeft was elected as Tribal Secretary, not the Tribal Treasurer. The Kalihwisaks apologizes for the error.

From 1A/Delgado, New Oneida Chairman

infringes on our ability to self-govern. We need to make sure our reservation is populated with as much of our people as we can," he said.

Delgado seizes the reins during an economic downturn that is rarely seen. With an already trimmed tribal budget, an adjusted frame of mind is what Delgado envisions to be successful.

"I believe that we have to change our thinking. Since the onset of gaming we've just thrown money in all directions hoping some of it will stick and create more job opportunities," Delgado said. "Most of that money we lost unless it was invested in gaming. We can't do that anymore. The economy has dried up and there is not a lot of money available. We have to be very careful on how we spend our tribal dollars."

Delgado does have advice for the newly inaugurated OBC. "Be who you perceive yourself to be. Read your materials and try to make wise decisions that are good for the people and try to be the person the people think you are," he said. "If you do that, it pays off for you as a councilman and our people."

Delgado admits an element of unknown will be present when he takes office but don't expect him to deviate from his past positions.

"I am not going to change. I haven't changed in the last six years," he said. "Hopefully during the (next) three years people can look back and say we moved forward, got along better, and the tribe got better and stronger."

Figueroa, Mildred
October 22, 1931 – July 30, 2011

Mildred Figueroa, 79, Green Bay, formerly of Stiles, died Saturday evening, July 30, 2011, at a local hospital. The daughter of the late Henry and Mary (Powless) Jourdan was born Oct. 22, 1931. She married the love of her life, Francisco Figueroa, on Feb. 14, 1952. He preceded her in death on Jan. 15, 1995.

Most of her life she worked in nursing and caregiving. Mildred will be remembered for her courage, humor, strength and elegance. She was audacious.

Survivors include her two sons, Frank, Jr. and Yvette and Rich; two daughters, Linda Figueroa, and Tina Figueroa and E.J. Williams; her eight grandchildren, Luke, Renee, Summer, Alex, Chandelle, Isaac, Antonio and Roman; seven siblings, Barbara (Jim) McKinzie, Yvonne Jourdan, Patricia Benson, Judith Jourdan, Henrietta (Tom) Daly, Henry Jourdan, Jr., Diane Jourdan, and countless nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her parents, husband, daughter, Merry; one son, Michael; her brothers, Virgil, Ronald, and Kenny Jourdan.

Celebration of the Mass of Christian Burial was held at 10:30AM, Wednesday, August 3, 2011 at Holy Apostles Episcopal Church, Freedom Road, Oneida. Father Robert Clarke and Deacon Deborah Heckel officiated with burial in the Church Cemetery.

Ryan Funeral Home and Crematory assisted the family wih arrangements. Please visit www.ryanfh.com to send online condolences to the Figueroa family.

Anderson, Laike Emily Lynn

Daughter of Mark Anderson and Emily Gutowski of Kiel, sister to Azia Zwart, Robert Anderson and Amber Anderson. She is also survived by her grandparents; Mary Ann Gutowski (Jeff Buechel), rural Kiel, Andy Gutowski, Chippewa Falls, Helen Anderson, Kelly Lake and great grandmother, Mildred Baird, Plymouth. She was preceded in death by her grandfather, Robert Emerald Anderson.

Lullabies

Daddy, please don't look so sad, Mommy, please don't cry.
I am in the arms of Jesus and He sings me lullabies.
Please do not question God, don't think He is unkind, Don't think He sent me to you and that He changed His mind.
You see, I am special and I'm needed up above.
I'm the special child you gave Him,
the product of your love.
I'll always be there with you,
so watch the sky at night.
Find the brightest star that's gleaming,
That's my halo's brilliant light.
So Daddy, please don't look so sad, Mommy, please don't cry. I am in the arms of Jesus and He sings me lullabies.

Watters, Helema
December 15, 1921 – July 28, 2011

Helema Watters, 89, of Oneida, formerly of Oak Creek, died early Thursday morning, July 28, 2011. The daughter of the late Hyson and Jennie (Skenandore) John was born December 15, 1921, in Oneida. She married Floyd Skenandore and he preceded her in death in 1965. She married Roy Watters in 1970 and he preceded her in death in 1998. Helema worked in Oak Creek for many years prior to retiring to Oneida. She was a Life Member of the VFW Auxiliary in Oak Creek and Oneida. She was a member of the Oak Creek Lionettes for many years.

Survivors include her three daughters, Beverly (Ronald) Yahnke, Janet Malcolm, Janice Hirth; one son, Floyd (Diane) Skenandore; her loving companion, Roy Huff; grandchildren, Mark (Barb) Yahnke, Steven (Lisa) Yahnke, Charlotte (Mike Majstorovic) Skenandore, Kristine (Paul) Tarczewski, Peter (Betsy) Malcolm, Amanda (Josh Gerzetich) Malcolm, Jessica (Jhon) Meristil and Catherine Hirth; and her seventeen great-grandchildren, and many nieces and nephews.

Preceded in death by her two husbands, her three sisters and five brothers, Reka Smith, Hilda John, Rena Denny, Isadore, Jasper, Irving, Hyson "Christopher" and Emerson John.

Celebration of the Mass of Christian Burial was held at 11 a.m. Monday, August 1, 2011, at Holy Apostles Episcopal Church, Freedom Road, Oneida, with Father Robert Clarke and Deacon Deborah Heckel officiating.

Ryan Funeral Home and Crematory of DePere, assisted the family wih arrangements. Please visit www.ryanfh.com to send online condolences to the Watters family.

In lieu of other expressions of sympathy, a memorial fund has been established for Holy Apostles Church.

The Watters family extends a special thank you to Deacon Debbie, Dr. Vir, Nurse Betsy, family and friends for all of your care and support.

Cornelius (Mistretta), Louise J.
deceased August 6, 2011

Louise J Cornelius, 86, of Gladstone Missouri died Saturday August 6 in the city of her birth, Kansas City Missouri.

Louise was the youngest of the three daughters of Lucia (Denti) and Giuseppe Mistretta, both of Sicily, who raised them in the vibrant immigrant North End community of Kansas City. She attended St. John's grade school and graduated from Manual High School. She moved her family to Gladstone in 1969.

Louise aided the WW II effort working the aircraft assembly line at North American Aviation.

She was proud of her 30 year career with the US Government, including the IRS, the Department of the Army, the US Weather Bureau, and the Executive Office of Economic Opportunity, the job she most dearly loved, serving with friends and colleagues in LBJ's War against Poverty.

Louise enjoyed her retirement years travelling the country, visiting in-laws and relatives in Oneida, playing Liverpool rummy and relishing the fellowship of her friends at the Don Bosco Community Center. She was always happy hosting large holiday feasts at her home for her entire extended family.

Louise married Harrison Cornelius of Oneida Wisconsin in 1947. He died in 2001 but his surviving siblings, Julie (Bob) Barton, Wayne (Cleo) Cornelius, Ronald (Rosalie) Cornelius, Roberta Anderson, and Charlene Cornelius remained beloved by Louise.

Also preceding her in death are her parents, and sisters Anna Suddeth and Congenta Schweiger. She is survived by daughters Pat Mangiaracina of the home, Linda Kirby of Mission, son Michael Cornelius (Maureen Scully) of Overland Park, granddaughter Anita Bryant, and grandsons Aaron, Ryan and Michael (Tracie) Kirby, great granddaughters Steffannie and Jo Marie Bryant. She is also survived by Cousin Louise (Louie) Monaco, and many other much-loved cousins, nieces, nephews and their families in Kansas City, Wisconsin and throughout the United States.

Visitation will be Thursday August 11th from 4:00 to 8:00 pm at Sebbeto Funeral Home in Kansas City. A funeral mass will be offered Friday August 12th at St Charles Borromeo Church, 900 NE Shady Lane, Gladstone, MO.

Oneida Business Committee
Wrap – July 28, 2011

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Debate sparked over endorsing a public statement supporting the Oneida Seven Generations Corporation's (OSGC) gasification plant at the Wednesday, July 27 Oneida Business Committee (OBC) Meeting held at the Norbert Hill Center. The letter was to be presented at a Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (WisDNR) public hearing held Thursday, July 28.

Present:
Chairman Rick Hill, Vice Chairwoman Kathy Hughes, Secretary Patty Hoeft, Councilmembers Melinda Danforth, Ed Delgado, Ron "Tehassi" Hill, and Brandon Stevens.

Excused:
Treasurer Tina Danforth, Councilwoman Trish King.

The OBC discussed cutting a paragraph from the public statement endorsing the efforts of the WisDNR to do due diligence on an environmental impact study on the gasification project. Hoeft argued that the study should be done by Oneida's Environmental Health and Safety Division (EHSD).

"They're asking us to make a declaration that it's safe, and I can't commit to that unless our own Environmental Health and Safety Division gives us that recommendation," said Hoeft.

However, Stevens countered that EHSD personnel had stated the division did not have the expertise to do the assessment.

"They actually referred Seven Gen (eration)s to go to the DNR for their expertise," said Stevens.

The OBC approved the public statement after deleting the fifth paragraph with Hoeft and Delgado voting against approval.

Oaths of office

The OBC gave oaths of office to John Johnson and Pete King III for the Bay Bank Board of Directors; Tonya Boucher, Melanie Burkhart, Julie Clark, Clifford Danforth and Eric Krawczyk for the Personnel Commission; and Bev Anderson for the Police Commission.

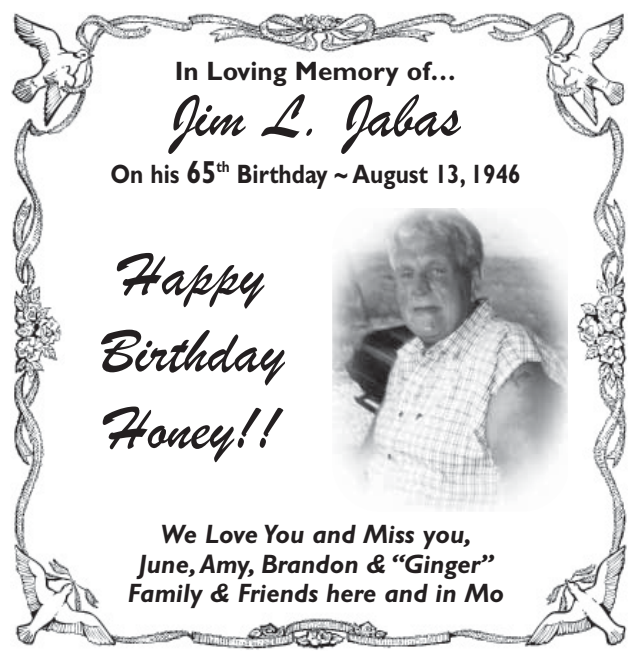
OBC Minutes

The Council approved minutes for July 13and July 29 OBC meetings.

Boards, Committee and Commission quarterly reports

The OBC accepted a report from the Oneida Library Board, Oneida Arts Board, Oneida Police Commission, Oneida Election Board, and Oneida Personnel Commission.

The representative for the Oneida Personnel Commission reported that there has been on ongoing problem with employees lacking an advocate at hearings, especially gaming employees.



The OBC deferred reports for the South Eastern Oneida Tribal Services Board, and the Oneida Powwow Board.

Standing Committees

The Oneida Business Committee approved the Finance Committee July 22 minutes, and Community Development Planning Committee May 5 minutes.

Artstreet is 30, exhibit opens August 20

Green Bay, WI—A colorful exhibition filled with posters, original artwork and nostalgic memorabilia opens at the Neville Public Museum of Brown County on August 20. Let's pARTy! Artstreet is 30 celebrates the 30th Anniversary of Green Bay's own vibrant outdoor arts festival—Artstreet. The pARTy continues through October 23.

pARTy guests will enjoy decorative posters from each of Artstreet's 30 years; a sampling of t-shirts and commemorative pins; scrapbooks filled with stories about people and activities; nostalgic photos; and about 40 pieces of original artwork—the Purchase Award Winners from previous decades. These artworks include paintings, photography, ceramics, glass, and more—selected by each year's Artstreet judge to become part of the permanent collection of Arts Events, Inc. A brief history of the festival will bring back memories of familiar names important to the success of Artstreet.

In 1982, the Northeastern Wisconsin Arts Council organized the first Artstreet in downtown Green Bay to move the visual and performing arts from inside galleries and concert halls (where they had limited audiences) into the city streets, for everyone to enjoy. Over the years, Artstreet thrived, adding new experiences each year. Today, it includes 200 visual artists; stages for the performing arts; a Native American area; children's activities; demonstrations; a Cultural Street for local arts-related organizations; the Edible Arts; and other surprises.

From 3A/OBC Wrap

General Tribal Council

The OBC scheduled a General Tribal Council (GTC) meeting for Monday, November 21 to hear nine petitions from Madelyn Genskow. The Council then cancelled an August 19 GTC FY12 Budget meeting and rescheduled it for Monday, November 28

The OBC adopted a resolution for programs to continue to operate at FY2011 levels until the FY2012 budget is approved. This led to some discussion as to whether the GTC mandated .75-cents-per-hour-raise for employees making $60,000 or less would go into effect October 1, 2011, or not until the FY2012 budget went into effect. Chief Council Jo Anne House stated the raises legally have to go into effect on October 1.

"It's simply going to happen October 1, that was directed," she said.

Follow-ups/OBC directives

The OBC approved a proposed 2011 orientation plan and transition schedule for newly elected Oneida Business Committee.

Hoeft moved to refer a request for an assessment of Behavioral Health operations to the Quality of Life Standing Committee, which was approved.

New business/requests

The committee approved Design Development phase and activation of FY2011 CIP funds amounting to $17,514,933 for the Oneida Resident Centered Care Community (ORCCC).

The OBC approved travel for chairman-elect Delgado or his designee to attend Regions V-VII Tribal Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) meeting August 16-17 in Minneapolis.

The Committee approved the recommendation of Charlene E. Cornelius and Janet M. Hill to the Oneida Library Board, and approved a research project request for the Tribal Finance Information Clearing House.

The OBC denied a request from tribal employee Shirley Hill for a trade-back for vacation/personal hours for cash as she had cashed in 80 hours this budget year. Delgado requested that the matter be referred to the Legislative Operating Committee (LOC) to see if there was a legislative fix for employees who are unable to use their vacation/personal hours due to staff shortages.

Additions

The OBC approved travel for Chief Financial Officer Larry Barton to travel to the Financial Executives International Forward Conference in Minneapolis from September 19-20, 2011.

The Council also granted a procedural travel exception for Indian Summer Fest in Milwaukee September 11-13.

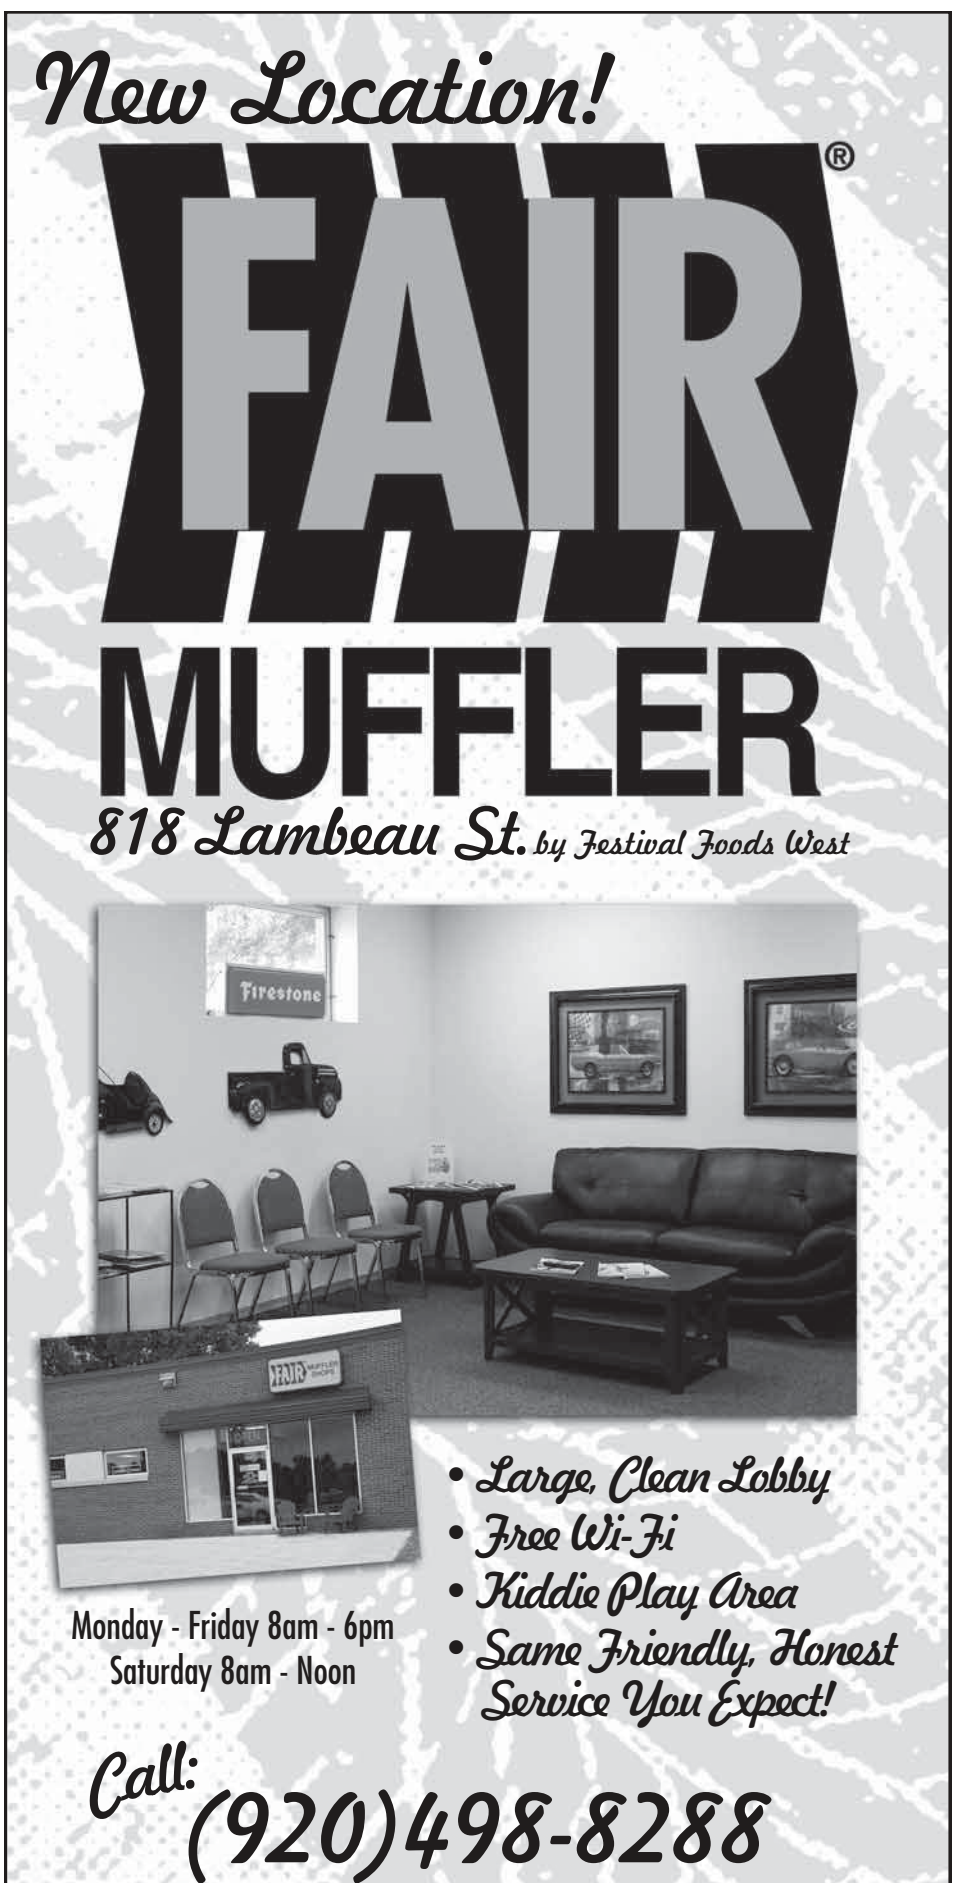
The OBC agreed to allow Oneida Retail and Radisson to use six of Oneida's ten Packer home game tickets as part of a scratch off promotion. The remaining tickets will be entered into a random drawing for tribal members.

The OBC approved a contract for $2000 plus incidentals for Willdan Financial Services for Arbitrage Rebate Services.

Action in open session on items from Executive Session Discussion meeting – July 26, 2011

Rick Hill recused himself at 10:59 a.m. from participating in any executive session actions.

The OBC accepted the Gaming General Manager bi-monthly report, and the Chief Counsel report.



Oneida Business Committee Regular Meeting DRAFT minutes July 27, 2011 (Page 10 of 11)

New Business/Requests

The OBC issued pardons for Jeffery Silas, Amanda Owens, Robintina Dickenson, and Patrick Mencheski Sr.

The Council deferred a Tribal member's complaint to the Police Commission, and sent a Vendor complaint to the Treasurer to bring back a recommendation to the Business Committee at the Aug. 10 agenda, seconded by Ed Delgado.

Meeting adjourned at 11:01a.m.

Fair Muffler and Brake Shop has moved

Fair Muffler and Brake Shop has moved to a new location at 818 Lambeau St. in Green Bay. (This is off W. Mason St. near Festival Foods – next to Verlo Mattress.) Fair Muffler was previously located on Oneida St. in Ashwaubenon. The phone number will remain the same: (920) 498-8288.

Owner Ross Rhode says Fair Muffler has been busy since opening the new location on July 18, and customers have given positive feedback. Compared to the previous location, the waiting room is four times bigger and there's more space in the shop area. The extra room allows technicians to work on more vehicles and long-term projects.

Rhode says he got the right offer for the Oneida St. location, so it made sense to move.

Echo Hawk, Laverdure Announce MOU With Harvard

WASHINGTON – Assistant Secretary-Indian Affairs Larry Echo Hawk and his principal deputy assistant secretary, Donald "Del" Laverdure, Monday announced that they have signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with Harvard University's Project on American Indian Economic Development whereby DOI and Harvard will collaborate on promoting tribal economic development through research, outreach and leadership education. The MOU was finalized July 12, 2011.

"Through this memorandum of understanding with the world-renowned Harvard Project on American Indian Economic Development, DOI has access to the best possible minds and expertise in the field of creating and promoting self-sustaining tribal economies," Echo Hawk said.

"It will be the tribes who benefit from the creativity of this collaborative partnership, and they will reap the rewards of its efforts," said Laverdure. "We are confident that the outcomes of this collaboration will spur greater economic activity and increase employment in all areas of Indian Country."

DOI and the Harvard Project have identified areas of possible collaboration:

- Research efforts that focus on improving economic opportunities in tribal communities, that facilitate tribal development of the legal and political infrastructure that will promote economic development in tribal communities, and that address disparities in economic indicators.
- The identification and development of outreach efforts having high potential impact on economic development initiatives in tribal communities, the capacity of those communities to promote economic development, opportunities for productive research and curriculum programs on economic development and tribal government management.
- Expanded outreach and recruitment opportunities for graduate education at Harvard University and its allied organizations in leadership, management and other professional fields relevant to Indian Country economic development policy, as well as the orientation and training of DOI and Indian Affairs managers to foster a climate of economic growth in tribal communities.

In addition to Echo Hawk and Laverdure for the DOI, the signatories to the MOU from Harvard University are Kennedy School of Government Dean David Ellwood and Harvard Project Director Joseph P. Kalt.

Founded in 1987, the Harvard Project on American Indian Economic Development is housed within the Malcolm Wiener Center for Social Policy at the John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University. Through applied research, teaching and service, the Harvard Project aims to understand and foster the conditions under which sustained, self-determined social and economic development is achieved through American Indian nations. The Project's core activities include research, advisory services, mid-career executive education, and the administration of a tribal governance awards program.

Reservation-based businesses could boost local economies

Flagstaff, Ariz. – Tribal economies could see a boost with a new rule that makes it easier - and possibly timelier - for some industrial facilities to obtain permits to do business on American Indian reservations.

The rule that goes into effect in late August covers permits for large and small emissions sources in Indian Country. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency outlined the rule earlier this year.

"In the past, sources may have avoided Indian Country because of uncertainty in the permitting process," said Janet McCabe, deputy administrator for the EPA's Office of Air and Radiation. "In other cases, states may have been issuing permits for areas of Indian Country, or sources may have been bypassing permitting altogether."

EPA previously had a rule for large sources of emissions in areas that meet national air quality standards.

But there was no permitting process for large facilities, such as power plants and cement plants that emit more than 100 tons of pollutants a year, as well as smaller ones - like gas stations, boilers at casinos and auto body shops that emit less than 100 or 250 tons a year - in areas where national air standards haven't been met. More than 77 tribes in the country are in those areas, according to the EPA.

The new rule lays out requirements for those sources and also requires that the smaller emissions sources register throughout Indian Country.

"You couldn't get a permit to do dry cleaning or to do some sort of rock quarrying - take your pick, all kinds of things." said Phil Baker-Shenk, an attorney who represents a handful of tribes on the matter. "You could not get a permit if you were in Indian Country, but if you stepped over the boundary, you could get one from the state."

completed turtle-shaped roundabout islands on Highway 172 at the entrance of the Oneida Bingo Hall and Casino, and at the intersections of Highways 54 and 172 and County Highway E now under construction.

"It was the easiest of the tribal identity to replicate and to engineer so you could see the concept when you were driving through," said Manthe.

DPW's Transportation Planner Mike Finn likes the iconic turtle islands.

"It defines us. I don't think there's any turtles anywhere else on any roundabouts, so I think it's awesome," said Finn.

The turtle represents one of the three clans of Oneida, and plays an important role in the Iroquois Creation Story.

The upcoming highway murals will be paid for by a WisDOT fund for community sensitive design, and the roundabout landscaping was paid for by the Bureau of Indian Affairs' (BIA) Indian Reservation Roads (IRR) Program.

"It's a program set up for tribes to maintain safety and construction on their roads on their reservation, so it's a great program," said Finn, who stated his salary is paid for by the IRR program.

"Anytime there's this nice, big project going around, people automatically assume that the tribe's paying for it. That's a really nice compliment, but it's not true," said Benton.

Murals featuring Iroquois images will be seen on overpasses at Highway 41 and West Mason and Larson Road, as well as on Highway 29 in Pamperin Park.

"We have very distinctly Oneida work on all of these structures," said Benton. Several Oneida artists such as Judy Jourdan, Kiona McDaniel, Sharon Sarnowski, Brenda John-Stevens, Scott Hill, Rob Hill, Colleen Bins, Dylan Benton and others volunteered their time to create the designs that will be pressed into the cement structures.

"The artists learned a lot of technical stuff … wing wall, parapet, there was a lot of orientation going on so the artists and architects could talk to each other," said Benton, whose department helped coordinate meetings. "The artists donated their time and services for this and the artists need to be thanked for their work and their vision."

Future road construction in Oneida includes another turtle roundabout at Highway 54 and Seminary Road, replacing the Duck Creek Bridge on Highway 54, and creating a trail system for pedestrians.

"The existing bridge that we have now is in such a state of disrepair and age that it needed to be replaced, so the DOT wanted to build a temporary bridge north of the existing bridge. So they were going to construct a temporary bridge and then fix the bridge on the alignment that they have now. So our team thought, well, if you're going to go through all that trouble of ruining the environment to build this temporary bridge, you may as well as keep that the permanent bridge site, and then we'll keep the current bridge for historical purposes and we'll use that for a trail system," said Manthe.

Manthe stated the roundabouts will help slow traffic through Oneida, and moving the bridge will improve safety for residents of Site I.

"Because we're taking the road traffic out of that little community, and we're moving it almost 200 feet north, so when the truck goes by, they'll be higher on the road than the library and the windows aren't going to rattle and shake," said Manthe.

Construction on Highways 41 and 29 will be ongoing through 2012. Construction on the Duck Creek Bridge will begin in 2013."

Zero Tolerance Code of Conduct

I'm sure most of you have heard the rumors regarding the incident that happened at the National Indian Gamin Association Conference held on Tuesday, April 5, 2011, in Phoenix, Arizona. The issue was brought up by a member of the GTC at the June GTC meeting and was quickly dismissed by the Chairman, which left many of us wondering what went on in Phoenix. Since then a three-page letter has been circulating in the community, which clearly outlined the unprofessional behavior of the Oneida Nation representative's wives upon our treasurer.

As an Oneida elder I am truly embarrassed by the behavior and actions of our elected officials. The business committee member and his wife and others who were involved in this public disturbance owe the GTC an explanation and an apology. I would ask that this personal apology be added as a new item to the agenda at the next GTC meeting.

In order to prevent further disgrace and possible legal action, I recommend the BC instruct HRD to create and implement a "zero tolerance code of conduct" ASAP to ensure that our representatives will not continue to make public spectacles of themselves on our behalf. This code should be applicable to anyone and everyone representing the tribe anywhere or at any time. The penalty for violation of this code should be immediate dismissal from employment and/or removal from any board, commission, etc. Also, is it necessary for wives and companions to tag along on trips with our representatives when they are supposed to be working? And who is paying for their travel and other expenses?

I continue to hear numerous stories of employees, board members, and commission members who engage in questionable behavior while on so called "business trips." It is my hope that this new administration of elected officials will be diligent and present themselves as professionals and adopt this "code of conduct" to restore our reputation as native business professionals.

Please call the BC at 920-869-4364 or 1-800-236-2214 for creation, implementation and enforcement of this code. Thank you.

WEWIN Conference celebrates accomplishments of Native women

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

It is said that a people are not conquered until the hearts of its women are defeated. This of coarse speaks of the strength and resolve of the female gender that is the backbone of a people. This is particularly evident in a culture that puts a strong emphasis on family and community, as Oneida culture does. For this reason the Oneida Nation was honored to host the seventh annual Women Empowering Women for Indian Nations (WEWIN) conference at the Radisson Hotel and Conference Center from August 1st to August 5th.

WEWIN is an organization that exists to provide native women with the knowledge, support, and resources necessary to achieve success in their personal and professional lives. WEWIN also encourages those serving as positive role models, educates about the history and culture of native people, and promotes honest and dignified tribal leadership.

During an honors luncheon held on August 3, 2011 Oneida's newly re-elected Treasurer Tina Danforth was awarded a Lifetime Achievement Award. Gwen Carr of the Cayuga Nation of New York introduced Danforth at the event.

"Looking at Tina's resume makes me want to lay down and take a nap because she has been what I call a woman of service. And in our tradition to lead is to serve. She has been on the council nine times, she's been Vice-Chair, she's been Chair, she has been a lead negotiator in Wisconsin Compacts for all the tribes, she has been on the Oneida Gaming Commission, and she is the newly re-elected Treasurer for the Oneida Nation. I am very proud of her and all of her accomplishments," Carr said.

As Danforth took the stage to a standing ovation from those in attendance she expressed her sincere thanks for being honored with the award in a brief speech.

"We lead by our actions and not always just our words. I am just very honored to be with such distinguished women here today. Yawako," Danforth said.

Another popular highlight of the WEWIN Conference was the Oneida Fashion Show and Benefit, which had a theme this year of Beauty Has No Face. The theme was based off of an idea by Kanatihal (Michelle) Hill who then asked her niece, Yutlatakwas Jessica Powless, to bring it to life. The show featured three categories of clothing type beginning with Traditional clothing, which was accompanied by a Smoke Dance performance. The second category was athletic clothing that featured models from the Green Bay Elite Cheer Team. The team also displayed their latest cheer routine at the show. The final style featured was a contemporary style, which consisted of modern fashion mixed with traditional designs and patterns. Leah Stroobants and Apache Danforth organized the Fashion Show, with the assistance of many others. All the proceeds of the show were donated to the Oneida Women's Domestic Violence Prevention Group and The Wilma Mankiller Foundation.

Selections from the Green Bay Art Colony exhibit opens August 13

Green Bay, WI—August 4, 2011—Fourteen original artworks done by members of the Green Bay Art Colony go on display at the Neville Public Museum of Brown County on August 13. Located in the Museum's Mezzanine, Selections from the Green Bay Art Colony continues through September 25.

The exhibition includes work done in a variety of media ranging from watercolor paintings to mixed media and hand-painted silk. It was juried by Kristy Deetz, Chair and Associate Professor of Painting and Drawing in the Art Discipline at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay. She selected the artworks on display because in addition to strong structural and conceptual qualities, they visually present a unique perspective of the individual artist.

Artists included in the exhibition are: Leah Broyde Abrahams, June Kashnig-Stubé, Sandy Melroy, Emily Walker, Jeannie Linzmeyer, Molly Legreve-Karjala, Karen J. Wieske, Teresa Ann Gifford, Nancy Pierce, Kathleen Jerlinga, Martina White, Jann Schonke, and Kathleen Erbeck.

The Green Bay Art Colony is the descendant of the former Green Bay Art Club. The Green Bay Art Club, in 1915, organized an exhibition of shawls, antiquities, and artworks that, over the years, evolved into the Neville Public Museum.

The art of canoe-making evident at annual event

By Sara Nemec
The Daily Press, Ashland

ODANAH, Wis. (AP) ~ Most folks are content to purchase a canoe, but not Patrick Mayotte of Odanah. After receiving a state grant last summer, Mayotte became carpenter Jarrod Dahl's apprentice and learned the ancient craft of constructing a birch bark canoe.

"It was always something I wanted to do since I was a little kid," he said. "But no one was knew how to do it. No one could teach me."

Mayotte built the 14-foot craft entirely from natural materials he collected in the forest, from its tamarack root bindings to its cedar ribs. A mixture of bear grease, pitch and charcoal keeps the canoe watertight.

"It floats right on top of the water like a leaf," he said.

Mayotte showed off his canoe at the "I Love My Lake" celebration held at the powwow grounds in Odanah. In 2004, the Bad River Tribe declared the third Sunday in July as Lake Superior Day. In keeping with the tribal resolution, the Natural Resources Department held the celebration, which was open to the public.

The event boasted boat tours, information booths, presenters, activities for kids and a picnic.

"We've (the tribe) been aware of our relation with Lake Superior for centuries," said Star Ames, who helped coordinate the event. "This is a formal celebration of that."

Ames also added that no one person could hold all the information about keeping the lake safe and clean, so the community benefits from banning together to share information and teach one another.

Water Walker Lori Lemieux of Odanah was on hand to share her experience with event goers. Lemieux was part of a group of Native American and First Nation grandmothers from the United States and Canada who took it upon themselves to point out the vital necessity of clean water. The results of that effort was the Mother Earth ``Turtle Island'' Water Walk, in which teams of volunteers hand-carried copper buckets of seawater from the Pacific and Atlantic oceans, the Gulf of Mexico and Hudson Bay, bringing those buckets of water to the Bad River Indian Reservation where they were mixed with the fresh water of Lake Superior.

"It was hard work, but it was worth it," she said, noting that she helped raise national and local awareness about water quality. "There's a real need to teach our children and our community that we live on a fresh lake and we take it for granted. Everybody needs water to live."

UW-Madison Environmental Historian Nancy Langston held a small group discussion on the taconite mine proposed to be placed in the local watershed. She said that according to the Environmental Protection Agency, 40 percent of Lake Superior's coastal wetlands were housed in the watershed and are critical for the health of local people and wildlife. Langston has researched water quality and chemicals throughout her career and said she was concerned about the chemicals used in the mining process.

"This had to become and environmental justice issue, that preserving the health of the watershed is about preserving the health of water and the human community," she said. "I personally feel as someone who's worked a lot on toxins that we need to really pay attention to even these really low levels of chemicals for what they do to fish and bird populations, because those are indicators of what they can do to human health."

Ten-year-old Alicia Mayotte visited the Natural Resources Department booth to learn more about how polluted wells can affect Lake Superior. Mayotte squeezed colored dye from a syringe and watched it seep through the sand on its way to the lake in a model at the booth.

Water Resources Specialist Naomi Tillison said she'd have to hire Mayotte to help her give demonstrations in the future. She also said that the day at the powwow grounds had been a success.

"We're just trying to celebrate Lake Superior and that it's a wonderful resource that we live by," she said.

Governor Walker approves improvements on WIS 54 in Seymour

(Green Bay) As part of his efforts to create jobs and make sure Wisconsin is open for business, Governor Scott Walker recently signed a $104,000 contract to improve 0.2 miles of WIS 54 from Circle Drive to County C in the city of Seymour. The work is beginning Monday, August 8 and is expected to be completed by August 26.

The general contractor is MCC, Inc. Appleton.

The work includes milling and resurfacing of the roadway. The road will remain open to one lane of traffic in each direction - though there will be flagging operations at times during the week day. Motorists are urged to use caution and remain alert when driving through this or any work zone.

Work will be completed by end of August.

Scams may target $3.4B Indian settlement

By Matt Volz
Associated Press

HELENA, Mont. (AP) ~ The Securities and Exchange Commission warned Native Americans on Friday against scammers who may be coming after their share of a $3.4 billion settlement with the U.S. government.

U.S. District Judge Thomas Hogan on Wednesday gave final approval to the settlement, 15 years in the making and meant to compensate for more than a century of government mismanagement of Native American land royalties.

The SEC issued an alert Friday to warn those plaintiffs to watch out for investment scams. Affinity fraud - scams that target particular ethnic or religious groups - usually involves somebody pretending to be part of that ethnic group, or enlists somebody from the ethnic group to help dupe the victim, according to the SEC.

"Anytime there's a lump-sum payout to a particular group, that can be a fairly attractive target for fraudsters," said Owen Donley, chief counsel in the SEC's Office of Investor Education and Advocacy.

One clue of a scam is the use of high-pressure sales tactics, such as being approached by a person who says he has a great investment but that a decision has to be made immediately.

The settlement is the result of a class-action lawsuit brought by Browning, Mont., resident and Blackfeet tribal member Elouise Cobell. Hogan OK'd the settlement at a fairness hearing in June, but his order granting final approval was not issued until Wednesday.

The settlement breaks the recipients into two classes. The first is a "historical accounting class" of people identified by the Department of Interior since 1994, just before the lawsuit was filed. The second, a still-undefined number of people in a "trust administration class," includes Indians with U.S. government accounts dating back to 1985 and those who can prove they owned land that was held in trust, regardless of the existence of an account.

Cobell was awarded $2 million, and the plaintiffs' attorneys will receive $99 million.

Young Oneidas dig into their history in upstate New York

By Chris Carola
Associated Press

ALBANY, N.Y. ~ Some young Native Americans are digging into their shared past while taking part in an archaeological project at the site of a once-thriving Oneida Indian village that stood on a New York hilltop more than four centuries ago.

Eight teenagers, most of them Oneidas, are participating in the Indian Nation's annual summertime Youth Work/Learn program. They're spending six weeks digging at an Oneida-owned wooded site amid the rolling farmland of Madison County, a few miles south of the tribe's reservation in central New York.

Jesse Bergevin, the Oneida Nation's historical resources specialist and field archaeologist overseeing the project, said Wednesday that the village was home to the Oneidas' main community in the mid- to late-16th century. It's the third summer program students have participated in the dig at the Smithfield site, where numerous artifacts such as pottery and animal bones have been found, he said.

Bergevin said they hope to uncover evidence of some of the many longhouses that housed about 1,500 Oneidas believed to have lived on the hilltop, along with remnants of the log palisades that typically surrounded an Iroquois village.

Tribal leaders say the project teaches young Oneidas about tribal history in a unique, hands-on way.

"By having the children do this, we thought they could get a better understanding of what our nation went through the past 1,000 years," said Clint Hill, a member of the Oneida Nation's Council, the tribe's governing body.

When the first archaeological excavation was conducted at another Oneida site 17 years ago, it was a touchy subject among some tribe members who were concerned that old burial sites could be disturbed, he said.

"We had to work through that," Hill said.

"We take care to make sure that we're digging in an area where there's zero chance we're going to find any burials," Bergevin said.

The Oneidas are part of the Iroquois Confederacy spread between the Hudson River and Lake Erie. The tribe was concentrated in an area encompassing today's neighboring Oneida and Madison counties, 75 miles west of Albany. Bergevin said the Oneida village in what became Smithfield was occupied for about 25 years until around 1575, when they relocated to a nearby site after extensive cultivation depleted the soil.

For young Oneidas such as Mandi Beauvais, 17, of Stockbridge, spending hours digging in the dirt amid the summer heat and bugs isn't considered a chore.

"Every new thing we find, it's like, 'Oh, wow, look at this,'" said Beauvais, a five-year dig veteran who plans to study anthropology in college. "It's something I'm really interested in and it's just fun."

New York Seneca Nation to discuss 1794 treaty payment

IRVING, N.Y. (AP) ~ The Seneca Indian Nation of western New York is marking the latest payment from the U.S. government under the 1794 Canandaigua Treaty.

Seneca President Robert Odawi (oh-DOW-wee) Porter and other tribal officials plan a news conference Tuesday to formally accept - for the 216th consecutive year - the payment. It consists of a piece of cloth and a share of $4,500 distributed each year to the Six Nations of the Iroquois Confederacy that entered into the peace treaty with President George Washington.

The Senecas say the annual payment demonstrates that in the eyes of the United States the provisions of that treaty still must be met.

The Senecas have been at odds with New York state over its attempts to tax Indian cigarette sales. Tribes say that violates treaty rights.

Cuomo says NY considering commercial casinos

By Michael Gormley
Associated Press

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) ~ New York may yet have commercial, non-Indian casinos as part of a comprehensive gambling plan, Gov. Andrew Cuomo said Tuesday.

The first mention in years of bringing traditional casinos to New York, like those lining Atlantic City and Las Vegas, comes after the state spent three years cutting spending on health care, education and most other areas to fend off deficits.

"It's a topic we are looking at actively," Cuomo said when questioned about commercial casinos.

Casino mogul Donald Trump has been a campaign contributor to New York Democrats for years, including donating at least $60,000 to the state party since 2008. Trump also donated $38,000 to Cuomo in 2009 and 2010, while Trump's daughter, Ivanka, donated another $8,000 to Cuomo.

The state has added Indian-operated casinos under the federal Indian gaming act and electronic slot machines at many horse racing tracks beginning shortly after the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorists attacks that plunged New York into then-record deficits. Cuomo wants to replace that piecemeal approach with a comprehensive plan.

"The gaming issue is an issue this state has to come to grips with," Cuomo said.

"Well, we have gaming in the state," he said. "So now you have to go the second step: If there is going to be gaming how do you do it. That question is something we are presently looking at."

Cuomo's statement reached casino operators quickly.

"Resorts World New York fully supports creating thousands of new jobs across the state by giving consumers more choices and look forward to working with those in Albany who want to do the same," said Stefan Freidman, spokesman for the casino developer.

Cuomo indicated casinos, long thought to be blocked by the state constitution, might not require a lengthy constitutional amendment process before they can be opened in New York. The constitution restricts traditional slot machines and other casino games, but electronic variations of many of the traditional table games and video slot machines appear to avoid the constitutional barrier.

Cuomo's comments drew immediate reaction from the Oneida Nation, operator of the Turning Stone casino and entertainment complex in Central New York.

The state can pursue a lengthy constitutional amendment, "or it can bring gaming to the state promptly and assuredly under already-existing laws by working closely with its in-state Indian nations to enjoy immediate revenue sharing which would benefit the entire state," said Oneida spokesman Mark Emery.

Powerful Assembly Speaker Sheldon Silver, a Manhattan Democrat, has often curbed efforts to increase state gambling beyond extensive lottery games, horse racing and video slot machines at race tracks. He has argued there is a social toll in problem gambling and oversaturation of gambling options.

There was no immediate comment from Silver or Senate Republican leader Dean Skelos of Long Island on Cuomo's comments.

SEOTS Mission…

Our mission is to strengthen our cultural connection and provide services and programs that enhance the well being of Onʌyote?a·ka in southeastern Wisconsin.

Reyes ends tenure as key board member

In 1992 a group of concerned Oneida Tribal members, residing in southeast Wisconsin, officially organized as the Oneida Indian Council (OIC). The OIC focused on improving conditions for Oneida elderly and youth. They coordinated events such as Bingo trips for the elderly, graduation banquets, and a learning center. They also educated membership on the services available to Tribal members. Ultimately, the volunteer work of the council placed a full-time staff person into an office rented on Milwaukee's Mitchell Street. The offerings for Tribal membership continued to grow and eventually the office became Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services (SEOTS).

During the entire existence of the OIC and SEOTS, there has been a Board of Tribal members that have provided guidance and leadership. Many Board members have come and gone but Kim Reyes has remained dedicated and committed throughout the years.

This year will mark the end of 20+ year's service as a Board member for the OIC and SEOTS for Reyes. Her original intent was to help bridge the gap between Oneida and Milwaukee for Tribal members. "Back then the Board was working more hands on with the community", stated Reyes. "It was an honor to assist people with whatever they needed." Many community members were not aware of the services available to them through the Tribe. Reyes and other Tribal members in Milwaukee took the time to learn about Oneida services and communicated those services to membership living in Southeast Wisconsin.

When thinking about the last 20 years, Reyes recalled that it was a lot of fun working with the community. At one time the SEOTS Board meetings were held at St. John's Church located at S. 26th Street and Mineral Street. A potluck meal was served and 50-60 people would arrive. The community would provide feedback on how to improve the community and the SEOTS Board would attempt to accomplish their requests.

Over the years Reyes has appreciated the opportunity to work for the community and meet so many new people. She has witnessed the growth from the small office on Mitchell Street to the current 7,000 square foot facility on Morgan Avenue.

Moving forward, Reyes hopes to see SEOTS move into a permanent home and to continue to add programming that will improve the standard of living for Oneida Tribal membership. She also hopes that more Tribal members will become involved in the SEOTS Board and volunteer through SEOTS for the betterment of the community.

What's next for Reyes? She will continue to work as an American Indian Advocate, focusing on the special education needs of children and employee rights. She will also continue to serve as a foster parent, which she has done for Native children over the past 16 years.

The SEOTS Board and staff extend a big "Yawʌko" to Mrs. Kim Reyes for her years of service to the Oneida community of southeastern Wisconsin. Her commitment has made a difference to countless families and other individuals and she will continue to be a beacon of light for the community.

5th Annual Woodland Indian Art Show and Market Gives Thanks

Art show marks another year of success

Like so many events in Oneida, the Woodland Indian Art Show could not have happened without a lot of people who gave of their time throughout this last year, and at the event, to make sure it grew and was successful. Thanks to the 2011 WIASM Planning Committee members: Loretta Webster, Beth Bashara, Susan House, Sherrole Benton, Susan White, Rae Skenandore, Betty Willems, Patrick Danforth, Becky Webster, Claudia Skenandore, Brian Doxtator, Stanley R. Webster.

We also had volunteers who provided endless hours (it seems) for the 3-day event which was held at the same time as the Powwow. Thanks to these volunteers who answered frequently asked questions, sold raffle tickets, assisted in setting up the juried art exhibit, put up signs and passed out flyers, helped produce a video for the Friday night reception, cooked daily, etc. etc.: Brickman House, Bryce Elm, Sherry King, David (Fleet) Jordan, Alyssa Krueger, Alexis Madrid, Nicki Corbeil, Trista Cornelius, Chris Powless, Lloyd Powless, Betty Willems, Stan Webster, Bear Paw Beading Circle, Tonya Webster, Bill Vervoort, Judy Dordel, Leah Baird, and all the Planning Committee members. You all were awesome!

The Silent Auction raised funds for next year's Woodland Indian Art Show. $801 were raised with donations from both artists and outside donors. Thanks for your donations for the silent auction: Kathleen Thomas, ONAP, Chicago Bears (yes that's correct), Wingate Wyndham, Betty Willems, Green Bay Packers, Nori's Trading Post, Oneida Museum, Sharon R. Cornelius, Cynthia Thomas, Bay Bank, Robyn Buschke, Norma Metoxen-Rammer, Douglas Limon, Calvin Stevens, Dawn Dark Mountain, Ken Metoxen

Thanks to all of our donors who financed the Woodland Indian Art Show: Carol Smart, Nori Damrow, June Cornelius, Oneida Tribe Finance Committee, Wisconsin Arts Board, 1st Peoples Fund.

Thanks to the OBC and all the tribal staff who made key decisions on behalf of the Woodland Indian Art Show and reception: Pogi , Norbert Hill Jr., Denise Vigue, Michelle Danforth-Anderson, Michele Doxtator, John Christjohn, Beth Bashara. We could not have done it without you. Those who moved the program for the reception forward handled their parts perfectly. Thanks to Norbert Hill Jr., Artley Skenandore, Stan Webster, Gavino Limon, Angelina & Brianna Hernandez, Bradley Granquist.

Thanks to all the family and spouses of our volunteers. We appreciate your patience and understanding during the times they were working to produce a fantastic 2011 Woodland Indian Art Show.

Map Spotlight on Coyote Run Natural Area

By Sylvia Cornelius

The Oneida name for Coyote Run is Ka?wathahyunislá Yotháha. The Coyote Run Natural Area is location number two on the "Oneida Reservation Parks, Trails, & Natural Areas Map." It consists of 283 acres and is located on Olson Road. The site also has access on the corner of Olson and Cooper road and further north along Cooper Road. The access on Olson Road area has open field areas and forest, food plots, constructed ponds and 20 acres of reforestation. This area is also being managed for the invasive species Buckthorn. There are hiking trails, abundant wildlife and ATV's are allowed at this location.

The site provides visitors with an opportunity to view an abundance of wildlife such as Mallards and Wood Ducks, Sand Hill Cranes, Great-blue Herons, Pheasants, Grouse, Deer, Turkeys and Coyotes. It is also home to many medicinal plants such as Wild Carrot, Wild Grape, Wild Bergamot, Wild Ginger, Blue Flag, Nettle and many more.

A highlight of this natural area is the access point on Cooper/Olson provides a trail to a tributary of Trout Creek that underwent a major project to restore the meandering shape of the creek in 2003. Environmental Health & Safety managed the restoration of 1850 feet of stream of the Trout Creek Tributary from Cooper to Olson Roads. The project included transforming a mud filled ditch in to winding, high quality habitat stream. The benefits of improving the stream are for fish and aquatic animal habitat, improved amount and duration of water flow and improved wildlife habitat along the stream. Nearly the entire project was funded with external federal funding.

Both gun and bow hunting are allowed by Tribal members with a sportsman license during the appropriate seasons. For information on hunting and fishing regulations contact the Oneida Conservation Office at 920-869-1450. For information on the restoration contact the Environmental Health & Safety office at 920-869-1600.

OSGC plant will have a minimal impact on environment says DOE

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Seven Generations Corporation (OSGC) proposed project to convert landfill waste into electricity got a favorable evaluation in a US Department of Energy's (DOE) Draft Environmental Assessment.

"Overall, impacts of the proposed project on the environmental and human health would be minimal," states the report.

The proposed OSGC facility will sort out recyclable material, and then process the rest of the mostly household waste by heating it to 1200 degrees Fahrenheit, a process called pyrolytic gasification. The waste will degrade into char and synthesis gas. The synthesis gas will be used to power three generators that will produce five megawatts of electricity which will be sold to the local electic utilities. The char could be put into a landfill, or used as a concrete additive. The facility could process 150 tons of trash a day.

The project has been criticized by individuals who fear the technology is untested and the plant will release toxic waste. The draft report states the 60,000 square foot facility will generate truck noise and odors, and produce emissions of sulfur dioxide and carbon monoxide, as well as pollutants like acetaldehyde and formaldehyde. However, none of the emissions would be excessive.

OSGC President Kevin Cornelius said in a written statement that his organization is pleased with the findings.

"We worked hard to met the goals of the DOE and the Oneida Tribe in making sure the project is safe for the environment, the Brown County community and our Tribal members. The Oneida Seven Generations Corporation is determined to make this project a success," said Cornelius.

The location for the proposed plant is in an industrial area of Green Bay on Hurlbut Street. The proposed facility will run seven days a week and will create approximately 30 jobs. The plant will be built with a $2 million loan from the Wisconsin Department of Commerce State Energy Program, $584,000 from the Department of the Interior, and may be able to tap a $19 million loan from the Bureau of Indian Affairs. However, the DOE still has to assess the facility's environmental impact before OSGC can access the federal funds.

The public is invited to comment by email at melissa.rossiter@go.doe.gov, by fax 720-356-1560 or by mail to Melissa Rossiter, NEPA Document Manager, Golden Field Office, US Department of Energy, 1617 Cole Blvd., Golden, CO 80401-3305.

All comments must be received by September 3 and must be labeled "Oneida Energy Recovery Draft EA Comments."

College and Education Partners Win Kellogg Foundation Grant

KESHENA, WI – Four tribal colleges are sharing in a $5 million grant funded by the W. K. Kellogg Foundation and announced this week by the American Indian College Fund. The College of Menominee Nation (CMN) and tribal colleges in Alaska, Washington and New Mexico will each receive $800,000 over a period of four years. Funded projects at all four of the award-winning schools will support early childhood education activities specific to their regions.

In making CMN's grant application, President Verna Fowler described the proposal as being "on behalf of the educational partnership of Menominee Nation Head Start, Menominee Indian School District Keshena Primary School (KPS), Menominee Tribal School (MTS) and the College."

She noted that the partnerships "date back to the founding of the College, and the development of the Early Childhood academic program focused on serving the professional development needs of local educators."

Dr. Fowler adds that the College is currently engaged in a collaborative effort with the two Head Start centers on the Menominee Reservation and KPS and MTS schools to ensure that teachers meet the higher education requirements of the Head Start Reauthorization Act. Nearly three dozen teachers serve at these schools, which enroll about 300 children each year. CMN is also actively engaging student from its teacher education programs in KPS and MTS elementary classroom.

The Kellogg Foundation grant is administered by the American Indian College Fund and is titled the 2011 Wakanyeja "Sacred Little Ones" Early Childhood Education Initiative. The Foundation was established in 1930 and supports children, families and communities in the U.S., Latin American, the Caribbean and southern Africa.

CMN's project under the Sacred Little Ones grant is called "We Will Make a Path for the Children". It is designed to develop an early childhood instruction model that will enable disadvantaged low-income students to gain the academic skills, motivation, support and confidence necessary to succeed in elementary school. To assure sustainability, the program will be developed within the College's existing infrastructure which includes Associate and Bachelor's degree programs in early childhood/elementary education teacher training. Cyndi Pyatskowit of the College's Education Program faculty will serve as the project director.

Richard B. Williams, President and CEO of the Fund, says, "The generosity of the W. K. Kellogg Foundation will help transform learning opportunities for young Native children who are vulnerable in Indian Country. By providing the opportunity for these four selected tribal colleges to focus on high-quality early childhood development, the Fund will pave the way for Native children not just to succeed, but to excel in K-12 and post-secondary education."

Selected along with the College of Menominee Nation were Ilisagvik College in Barrow, Alaska; Northwest Indian College, Bellingham, Washington, and Southwester Indian Polytechnic Institute, Albuquerque, N.M.

The College of Menominee Nation is an accredited institution of higher learning serving more than 650 students each year at campuses in Keshena and Green Bay. The College was founded in 1993. It offers more than a dozen Associate Degree programs, a Bachelor of Science in Early Childhood/ Elementary Education, and a number of technical and trades diploma programs.

Dr. Donna Powless Chosen For National Board Appointment

KESHENA – Dr. Donna Powless of the College of Menominee Nation has been invited to serve as a member of the State Network Executive Board of the American Council on Education (ACE). In issuing the invitation, ACE's Office of Women in Higher Education noted that the Network Executive Board supports a national system of state networks for women in higher education. Board members are appointed for three-year terms.

ACE, which has headquarters in Washington, D.C., was founded in 1918 to represent the interests of executives and other leaders who serve at accredited institutions of higher learning in the U.S. ACE engages in the development of public policy on higher education through advocacy, research and program initiatives. Its Network Executive Board serves as liaison to state planning boards, mentoring state coordinators, and advising the ACE Office of Women on issues relating to the identification, development and advancement of women in higher education administrative careers.

Dr. Donna Powless

Dr. Powless has a long career in all levels of education administration in Northeast Wisconsin, most recently as Vice President for Academic Affairs at CMN. She is an enrolled member of the Oneida Tribe of Wisconsin and holds a doctorate from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Dr. Powless is also currently a member of the Board of Wisconsin Women in Higher Education Leadership and serves on a U.S. Department of Education regional advisory committee on educational needs of the states. She resides in Keshena.

New Children's Book Opens Door to Environmental Education through Indigenous Prophecy

> "The time to empower our children with indigenous wisdom is now."
> – Gabriel Horn, A.K.A. White Deer of Autumn ***

Using oral traditions from the indigenous people of eastern North America, author Lisa A. Hart has woven the Anishinabe Prophecy of the Seventh Fire into a children's story titled Children of the Seventh Fire — An Ancient Prophecy for Modern Times. Children reading the story learn how to interpret the universal themes of each of the seven prophecies (or fires) as Native and non-Native children in the story listen to an Ojibwe elder's retelling of this ancient wisdom.

This children's book, which will be released in the coming weeks, explains the Prophecy of the Seventh Fire to the children as they visit a Native American reservation. Kinoo, an Ojibwe elder, teaches that we are living in the time of the seventh fire and in order to move into the time of the eighth (and final) fire, we need to live in balance and harmony in a world where Earth is treated with respect.

Children in the story learn ways to live an environmentally friendly lifestyle through recycling, energy conservation, clean energy creation, and legislative involvement. These lessons make environmental awareness and action accessible for children of all ages reading the story. They will also learn about the importance of living in peace, love, brotherhood, and sisterhood, and respecting other cultures.

Children of the Seventh Fire—An Ancient Prophecy for Modern Times is published by McDonald & Woodward Publishing and includes a glossary and a list of many relevant print and web resources. The Foreword was written by Edward Benton-Banai who is the Grand Chief of the Three Fires Midewiwin Society and author of The Mishomis Book: The Voice of the Ojibway. All illustrations are provided by well-known artist Joe Liles.

About the Author

Lisa Hart received her Bachelor of Arts Degree in Intercultural Studies from Warren Wilson College in 1985 and her Master's Degree in Medical Anthropology from The University of Connecticut in 1989. She taught English as a second language in American Samoa, and worked as a teaching assistant in grades K-8. She also interned at The Wittenberg Center for Alternative Resources, which hosted a wide variety of traditional indigenous elders who came to share their knowledge with the public. It became evident during her internship that the wisdom found in traditional indigenous people's cultures was lacking in teaching children from western society. One of those teachings—The Prophecy of the Seven Fires—inspired a 15-year project, her first book, Children of the Seventh Fire—An Ancient Prophecy for Modern Times.

Lisa grew up in rural Connecticut on 25 acres of fields, woods, streams, and a pond. She credits her father for helping her develop a positive and respectful bond with nature at a young age and her mother for creating ways to introduce her to diverse and interesting cultures.

Children of the Seventh Fire—An Ancient Prophecy for Modern Times, available in softcover with 40 pages of text and more than 50 color illustrations, also includes a pledge page for children to make the book more personal. A teacher's guide, published separately by the author, will be available upon release of the book. For more information about the book, visit McDonald and Woodward's website at www.mwpubco.com/titles/childrenoftheseventhfire.htm or contact them directly at 1-800-233-8787.

New Grant to College Will Engage Menominee Teens in History Project

KESHENA, WI – The College of Menominee Nation (CMN) is one of 23 organizations from 12 states recently selected for Native Youth and Culture Fund awards by the First Nations Development Institute. CMN was the only organization from Wisconsin chosen for an award.

The Institute, located in Longmont, Colorado, selected this year's winners from among 197 requests for support. After an initial review of requests, 47 organizations were invited to submit full proposals.

Institute representatives note that projects chosen for the coming year are innovative while still drawing upon traditional knowledge in the local Indian community. Many of the initiatives build relationships between youth and elders, while linking modern approaches with traditional practices and values in order to strengthen Native values. The College's project meets this measure by engaging young people and elders in preserving an important part of the Tribe's history through the use of modern technology.

With its award of $19,300, the College will work with a team of Menominee youth on the production of a video documentary that focuses on "Leadership in Crisis" during the era of the Termination Act. Approximately ten young people, ages 16 to 18, will be chosen for the project team. In work with CMN faculty, staff and students experienced in video production, they will learn interview techniques, video and audio equipment operations, film editing, and how to make DVD copies of the final product. Through interviewing tribal elders, the production team will learn how community members assumed leadership roles to address the loss of self-identity, language and culture resulting from the 1954 Termination Act. Upon completion of the project in Spring 2012, copies of the documentary will be made widely available in the community.

As award recipients, CMN representatives and other grantees will be attending a two-day capacity building training session in late October in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

The College of Menominee Nation is an accredited institution of higher learning serving more than 650 students each year at campuses in Keshena and Green Bay. The College was founded in 1993. It offers more than a dozen Associate Degree programs, a Bachelor of Science in Early Childhood/ Elementary Education, and a number of technical and trades diploma programs.

Native Youth and Culture Fund grants for 2011-2012 total $400,000, with awards ranging from $8,000 to $19,400. Since 2002, 179 NYCF grants have been awarded for programs throughout the United States, totaling $2.9 million in support. The program was launched in 2002 by First Nations Institute to partner with tribes, Native nonprofit organizations and Native community groups working in Indian communities with the intent to preserve, strengthen, and/or renew American Indian culture and tradition among tribal youth.

The NYCF program is funded by the Kalliopeia Foundation, The Susan A. and Donald P. Babson Charitable Foundation and individual supporters.

Oneida Museum holds Storytelling event

Oneida Cultural Heritage Historical Researcher Nicolas Reynolds presented information on Oneida life during the Great Depression. This was part of the Oneida Nation Museum's Storytelling Series. Reynolds highlighted reasons for the loss of Oneida land, the living conditions in Oneida during the Great Depression, and the aid that was given by the government to the Oneida people of the time period. Ways in which Oneida people earned money was also discussed during the presentation, trades such as lace-making, farming, and even baseball were presented.

Submit vets names for Wall of Honor

Indian Summer Festival Veteran's Photo Exhibit

Indians who have served, or continue to serve, our nation in the Armed Forces. As a tribute to these individuals, the Festival has created a special exhibit called the Wall of Honor featuring photos of Native Americans serving in the military.

The exhibit offers a wonderful opportunity to celebrate the service of Native Americans to their country and for family and friends to post and discover photos of their loved ones in uniform.

In addition to veterans, the exhibit also pays respect to Native American firefighters, police officers, Emergency Medical Technicians and other first response personnel in our Wisconsin communities. We are looking for more pictures to include in the exhibit.

Be sure to include:
- Name of person in photo
- Tribe
- Branch of Service
- Year(s) Served

All photos will become part of the permanent exhibit and will not be returned.

You can mail your pictures directly to:

THE L.R.C. CORNER

The Oneida Legal Resource Center

Attorney Charlene Smith, Paralegal Rena Brown, & Paralegal Tami Hill

Have You Been Disciplined?

Are you a non-Gaming employee who has received a termination, suspension or written warning? Now what? You've received a copy of the disciplinary notice and several attachments, but what do they all mean? You still have questions, like "Is there a certain form I use to file an appeal?" "Who should I file the appeal with?" "Is there a time limit to file the appeal?" "Can anybody help me?"

Yes, the LRC can help! If you are a non-Gaming employee, the attorney-supervised, certified paralegals of the Oneida Legal Resource Center (LRC) will answer your questions and guide you, step-by-step, through the entire appeal process, at no cost to you. This is a service of the tribe for tribal employees.

We've changed our case acceptance policies

In the past, in order to avoid the appearance of impropriety or conflict of interest, we only accepted front-line employees for representation. Case acceptance policies prevented us from representing supervisors and managers because it would inhibit our ability to represent any employees who worked under their supervision. Due to increasing interest, the LRC has altered the case acceptance policies in include upper level employees. Now, if you are a non-Gaming supervisor or manager who has been disciplined and needs help with your appeal, you can sign a Conflict of Interest Waiver Form with LRC and we can then help you, too.

If you are a non-Gaming employee, supervisor or manager that feels you have been unfairly disciplined and you need assistance filing an appeal, contact LRC immediately to schedule an appointment. Time is of the essence! You only have ten (10) business days to act.

Again remember, the best thing to do after you receive your disciplinary notice is to call the LRC for an appointment so they may assist you with the process. The following information is provided to help you better understand how to appeal an employment discipline.

For any of these disciplines; written warning; suspension; termination; you have ten (10) business days from the date you receive the Disciplinary Action form to file an appeal to your area manager. Day one is the following day from the date you received the action. For example, if you received the discipline on Thursday, October 1st, day one would be October 2nd. To figure out when the appeal is due to the area manager, you would count the week days (Monday through Friday (even if you work weekends). This would make the appeal due on October 15th. If there was a recognized holiday that fell in between those 10 days, the appeal would be due on October 16th.

The area manager you need to address your appeal to should be named on the form. It is important to file the appeal within the 10 days, or it's too late. Also, make sure you provide a copy of the appeal to the Personnel Relations Office (PRO) of Human Resources the same day you file with the area manager. The Personnel Relations Office is the area designated by the HR Manager to oversee the process, and will ensure timelines are followed by the area manager (and employee). The area manager has 10 business days to issue a decision on the appeal. Please note, the area manager may request an extension up to an additional 5 business days from the Personnel Relations Office. You will not be notified if the area manager receives an extension, so if haven't received their decision within the proper timeframe, you should contact the Personnel Relations Office to find out if the area manager received an extension, and when you could expect to be notified of their decision.

If your disciplinary action was upheld by the area manager, you may make an appeal to the Oneida Personnel Commission (OPC). Again, you have 10 business days to file your appeal, with day one being the day after you received the decision. The OPC will review your appeal and respond to you on whether or not your case will be accepted for a grievance hearing. If it is accepted, they will notify you of the next steps. If it is not accepted, you may appeal their decision to the Oneida Tribal Judicial System (formerly known as the Appeals Commission) within 10 business days.

The Oneida Legal Resource Center is available for assistance for all employees of non-Gaming programs and departments.

The Employee Relations Representatives are available for assistance for employees in Gaming areas. They can be reached at (920) 496-3749.

Stay tuned for future articles regarding other LRC services that are available to enrolled Tribal members for a nominal fee, such as; Last Will & Testaments, Name Change, Custody, Placement, Divorce, Eviction, Foreclosure, etc. We may be able to locate some forms you need and print them up for you at no cost.

The LRC Attorney also represents Tribal members in Civil and Criminal matters venued in Brown and Outagamie County Courts. Please call for more information.

LRC is located at Ridgeview Plaza, Suite 7, @ 3759 W. Mason St., Oneida, WI

Call 920-496-7897 or, 1-800-236-2214 for an appointment. Thank you.

Spending breaks record in five WI recall elections

By Scott Bauer
Associated Press

Spending in five Wisconsin recall elections shattered the previous record as unions, shadowy special interest groups and other pour millions of dollars into races that are proving to be battlegrounds in a national political fight over the Republican agenda.

The Wisconsin Democracy Campaign, a government watchdog group that tracks spending by candidates and other groups, said Friday that five of the nine recall races have exceeded the 11-year-old legislative race record of $3 million.

The Democracy Campaign estimated total spending on all nine races to be what director Mike McCabe called an "absolutely jaw-dropping" $31.5 million. That's nearly as much as the $37 million spent in last year's governor's race won by Republican Scott Walker.

"Candidates are barely being heard from," McCabe said. "They're being outspent on the order of 5-1 by interest groups that have a near monopoly on campaign spending."

Of the total, only about $5 million was spent by the candidates.

Walker and Republicans swept into office in November, capturing both houses of the Legislature from Democrats. The recalls were motivated by Republicans' passage of Walker's bill stripping nearly all collective bargaining rights from most state workers.

Democrats cast the elections as a referendum on Walker and Republicans, while the GOP has tried to hold its ground, vindicate its policies and show strength heading into the 2012 presidential election.

The most money to date in the recall elections has been spent in the Milwaukee-area 8th District race between incumbent Republican Sen. Alberta Darling and Democratic state Rep. Sandy Pasch. The Democracy Campaign put the tab there at $7.9 million.

The candidates, interest groups and others have blanketed the expensive Milwaukee television market with ads and filled mailboxes with direct mail in that race. Darling is one of six Republicans facing recall elections Tuesday, with two Democrats on the ballot a week later.

Democrats need to win five of the eight races to retake majority control in the Senate. One Democrat, Sen. Dave Hansen of Green Bay, won his recall election last month.

Total spending in Hansen's race, which he won handily with 66 percent of the vote, was just $1.1 million, the Democracy Campaign said. The only one with less spending has been the 2nd District, where the tab is at just $750,000. The Republican incumbent there, Sen. Rob Cowles of Allouez, is generally seen as being in a stronger position than others targeted for recall. His Democratic challenger is former Brown County Executive Nancy Nusbaum.

The third lowest spending was in the 22nd District, where Democratic Sen. Bob Wirch of Pleasant Prairie faced a challenge from Republican Jonathan Steitz, a Kenosha attorney. The Democracy Campaign said about $1.9 million had been spent on that race, which Democrats are expected to win.

Other spending outlined by the Democracy Campaign:

_ $5.5 million in the 14th District, where Republican incumbent Sen. Luther Olsen of Ripon faces Democratic state Rep. Fred Clark of Baraboo. This is seen as one of the most competitive races with Clark, in his second term in the Assembly, trying to knock off Olsen, a moderate who ran unopposed in his two previous races.

_ $5 million in the 10th District, where Republican Sen. Sheila Harsdorf of River Falls faces Ellsworth public school teacher Shelly Moore. The costs in this western Wisconsin race have been driven largely by advertising being run in the expensive Minneapolis television market. Harsdorf's race in 2000 held the previous record high for spending.

_ $3.2 million in the 18th District, where Republican Sen. Randy Hopper of Fond du Lac faces a rematch with Democrat Jessica King, the deputy mayor of Oshkosh. She lost to Hopper by less than 200 votes in 2008.

Farmers Market Season is Open

By Jeff Metoxen, Director
Tsyunhehkwa

Your Tsyunhehkwa program has been very busy this year. We wanted to use this time to provide a quick update on our Agricultural and Cannery components and what we have been working on and what is to come. We were able to plant 6 acres of our traditional White Corn again. We have it in two fields of about 3 acres each on site at our Certified Organic Farm. We are struggling like all the growers in our area with the excessive rain and heat that has been with us all year. However we are fortunate to have been able to plant and care for our corn and have our garden completed.

The Garden is working to meet the needs of our Cannery, and to help supply some of our food to the Tribal Schools and Elderly Meal Site. Being such a small program, we are not on the scale to provide all their food needs, but we work hard to supplement our organic vegetables into their meals for our children and elders. We have been working hard to maintain an excellent working relationship with the Kitchens at the Norbert Hill Center and the one at the Elderly meal site. The vast majority of our produce is for these areas, but we will again have small amounts available for community sales.

The Cannery completed their annual Open House in June, and we would like to thank all you who were able to join us in touring the updated Kitchen and processing areas. We were able to show off the self contained kettles that were purchased through a grant, and share some of the food that the Cannery makes and processes every year. We held a Strawberry Jam class in June that was well attended, and have Salsa and Pickle making classes coming up soon. Contact the Cannery to reserve your spot. I decided to start charging for our workshops this year. Like the financials struggles we are all going through, we continue to work on ways to reduce our cost. The small fee charged helps off-set the tribal contribution to our budget. With the growing season in full swing, please remember to make your appointments with the Cannery for your food processing and preserving needs. Appointments are required, and help all of us to stay organized and keep issues to a minimum.

Our Annual Community Harvest & Husking Bee is scheduled for October 8 – 14, Saturday – Friday, 9:am till 5:pm daily. Please come out and join us for the hand harvesting of the White Corn, we will be snapping, husking and braiding one of our sisters for the proper storage for the Winter. Our first Poultry run had all our free range chickens sold before processing and the same is for our second run this August. All birds have been sold into our Community, which is one of our primary goals. Many of you have heard discussions on our Grass Fed Beef. We have been supplying information to the tribal administration and our Business Committee on the process we follow and what would be required if any changes take place from any future General Tribal Council action. All the beef scheduled for processing this year have been spoken for, with the recent request we are looking at providing some of the beef in cuts for the future.

Two new projects we have been working on are a High Tunnel/Hoop House and Aquaponics. The High Tunnel will allow us to extend our growing season, either planting earlier in the Spring or later into the Fall. Aquaponics is raising fish in a tank that is set up below a structure that has plants/herbs planted on top of the tank in trays above the fish tank. The water is pumped from the lower tank up to the trays with the greens in, and the fertilized water from the fish supplies nutrients for the plants, and the water is returned back into the fish tank. This enclosed and recycled system provides fresh fish and greens for sale. We will be learning the proper use of each of these systems and sharing the knowledge with our community. The process will become part of our community building and sustainability goals from our program and the Oneida Tribe. Both projects are covered by grant funding, one from the NRCS office and another from the WTCAC. We want to thank all of you for your support and patronage of our products and services.

If you have any questions or comments on these areas and any part of our Tsyunhehkwa program please contact my office. Jeff Metoxen, Director 920-869-2141, Fax, 920-869-2147, or email: jmetoxen@oneidanation.org

"A Division investing in the future for our Nation and Our Community"

First in a series

Development Division: Behind the Scenes

The Development Division provides the services that a (responsible/responsive government) provides to its community. These services accomplished day-by-day are so much a part of life and the (Quality of living), they are sometimes taken for granted. Only in their absence, only in the break in their continuity are they suddenly missed.

The Development Division of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin provides services that are (on the outside) split between Federal, State and Local, governments. The common element is that we exist to serve public need. Water lines are built to provide safe, plentiful water for homes and businesses while providing fire hydrants to protect those same buildings. Sewer lines and treatment facilities are built for the protection of public health. Storm water installations are designed to protect the public from flooding and damage caused by the increased flows from urbanization.

The Development Division strives to provide excellent service through licensed professional; employees that make up a team of the most qualified group of licensed professionals in our jurisdictional area. We accomplish this by hiring licensed professionals and through continuing education we maintain a highly qualified staff of licensed professionals. This is an exercise of our sovereignty through public works operations as a responsible/responsive government operation. If we don't provide these services other entities (local governments) will step in and usurp Tribal sovereignty by providing these services.

Our managers not only know what needs to be done but also how to do it. The difficulty is trying to balance efficiency vs. effectiveness.

- Efficiency is the accomplishment of a job with a minimum expenditure of time and effort. It is a yield-based measure.
- Effectiveness is getting the job done and reaching objectives; efficiency is doing the job at the lowest cost.
- Effectiveness is often of paramount importance in the public sector. The public expect streets to be passable during snow storms, drinking water to be safe. Because of the cost of timely response or availability effectiveness is often more important than efficiency.

The Development Division invests in the training and hiring of Oneida Tribal members to the greatest extent possible. Oneida Tribal members have a vested interest in the advancement of their Tribe, Tribal Sovereignty, and their fellow tribal members. Our Licensed Professional Employee are our most valued asset and resource.

Who We Are…

When you come to work, your parking lots are free of snow, wastebaskets are emptied, water is safe and clean, and buildings are a safe environment to work in. If you are wondering who does this work, it is the many valued employees of the Development Division! The Development Division provides services 24 hours a day, 7 days a week with your buildings, homes, roads, etc.

Because we are a required governmental service, we are here to ensure that we provide excellent service through our licensed professional employees that are the most qualified licensed and certified professionals in our jurisdictional area.

Be aware of the signs of prescription drug abuse

Submitted by Sandy Schuyler, RN, BSN,
Director of Nursing at the Oneida Community Health Center

In a recent letter sent by Chief Medical Officer of the Indian Health Service (IHS), Dr. Susan Karol, she reveals the findings of an IHS review

"From 1997 to 2007, the amount of Oxycodone used in the United Sates increased by 1027 percent. (2) Americans are using 80 percent of the World's supply of all opioids and 99 percent of the world's hydrocodone…Findings from a study published in July 2006 showed that 9 percent of patients with chronic pain abused prescribed pain medications, and 16 percent utilized illicit drugs.(3)"

Prescription drug abuse means taking a prescription medication that is not prescribed for you, or taking it for reasons or in dosages other than as prescribed. Abuse of prescription drugs can produce serious health effects, including addiction.

Commonly abused classes of prescription medications include opioids (for pain), central nervous system depressants (for anxiety and sleep disorders), and stimulants (for ADHD and narcolepsy). Opioids include hydrocodone (Vicodin®), oxycodone (OxyContin®), propoxyphene (Darvon®), hydromorphone (Dilaudid®), meperidine (Demerol®), and diphenoxylate (Lomotil®). Central nervous system depressants include barbiturates such as pentobarbital sodium (Nembutal®), and benzodiazepines such as diazepam (Valium®) and alprazolam (Xanax®). Stimulants include dextroamphetamine (Dexedrine®), methylphenidate (Ritalin® and Concerta®), and amphetamines (Adderall®).

Long-term use of opioids or central nervous system depressants can lead to physical dependence and addiction.

- Opioids can produce: drowsiness, constipation and, depending on amount taken, can depress breathing to a dangerous level.
- Central nervous system depressants slow down brain function; if combined with other medications that cause drowsiness or with alcohol, heart rate and respiration can slow down dangerously. Taken repeatedly or in high doses, stimulants can cause anxiety, paranoia, dangerously high body temperatures, irregular heartbeat, or seizures.

The risks for addiction to prescription drugs increase when the drugs are used in ways other than for those prescribed. Healthcare providers, primary care physicians, and pharmacists, as well as patients themselves, all can play a role in identifying and preventing prescription drug abuse.

About 70 percent of Americans (approximately 191 million people) visit their primary care physician at least once every two years. Screening for prescription drug abuse can be incorporated into routine medical visits by asking about substance abuse history, current prescription and Over-The-Counter use, and reasons for use.

Doctors should take note of:

- rapid increases in the amount of medication needed, or
- frequent, unscheduled refill requests.
- those addicted to prescription drugs may engage in "doctor shopping"— moving from provider to provider—in an effort to obtain multiple prescriptions for the drug(s) they abuse.

Preventing or stopping prescription drug abuse is an important part of patient care. However, healthcare providers should not avoid prescribing or administering stimulants, CNS depressants, or opioid pain relievers if needed.

Pharmacists provide clear information on how to take a medication appropriately and describing possible side effects or drug interactions

Pharmacists can be the first line of defense in recognizing prescription drug abuse drug abuse by:

- monitoring prescriptions for falsification or alterations and
- being aware of potential "doctor shopping,".
- hotlines to alert other pharmacies in the region when a fraudulent prescription is detected.

There are also steps a patient can take to ensure that they use prescription medications appropriately.

Patients should always:

- follow the prescribed directions,
- be aware of potential interactions with other drugs,
- never stop or change a dosing regimen without first discussing it with their healthcare provider, and
- never use another person's prescription.

Patients should inform their health-care professionals about all the prescription and OTC medicines and dietary and herbal supplements they are taking, in addition to a full description of their presenting complaint, before they obtain any other medications.

Personal Diabetes Care Record Incentive Program

The Personal Diabetes Care Record (PDCR) Incentive Program allows patients to earn five dollar gift cards for getting their diabetes checked. Any Native American who receives diabetes care at the Oneida Community Health Center is able to participate.

How can incentives be earned? First, request a wallet size PCDR from the Diabetes Team at the Oneida Community Health Center. Second, bring the card with you whenever you see your health care provider. Third, every time one or more of the items listed on the card has been completed, ask your staff member to record the date, results, and initials. Lastly, submit the card to the Diabetes Team, at any time, even multiple times, to receive your five dollar gift cards.

As of April 1, 2011, the following changes will go into effect for the PCRD Incentive Program:

- Lost care records will not be replaced
- Patient will receive only one care record per fiscal year, which is April 1, 2011 to March 31, 2012
- Care records will only be kept by the patient

If you have any questions, please contact Mary Krueger, LPN of the Diabetes Team at (920) 869-4864.

ONHS preps for first full 8-man football season

Submitted photo

A Thunderhawk offensive lineman goes through agility drills during the opening week of practice for the Oneida Nation High School Thunderhawks.

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

Fielding a full defense and offense on the football field has always been a challenge for small school districts like the Oneida Nation High School. A new game format is allowing students to throw on the shoulder pads and strap on the helmet.

After a lack of numbers forced the cancellation of a full 11 on 11 football schedule last year, the school looked at other options available to get the kids on the field. The school implemented a short two game season of eight-man football.

"We had nine practices before our first game last year," said Bryan Peterson, Thunderhawks Head Coach. The T-hawks split a pair of games during their abbreviated season.

With a full schedule and ample practice time Peterson expectations for the season are high.

"The transition to eight-man went really well," Peterson said. "We have a lot better athletes than most schools so our speed really makes a difference."

Speed kills in eight-man football because field dimensions remain the same making more room available for an offensive player once the initial line of defenders is cleared.

One player expected to benefit from the open space is running back Jo Jo Santiago.

"He's our most dynamic player. He doesn't come off field unless I make him come off the field," said Peterson. "He is really quick and can stop on a dime and be at full speed again in two steps."

Peterson is looking for leadership from tight end Anthony Cornelius and middle linebacker/full back Tracy Stevens.

"Anthony brings leadership, he really pushes guys hard in practice," said Peterson. "Tracey brings the attitude to the team. He is mean and we need that."

Peterson also identified center/linebacker Fred Miller as a player with expected to contribute.

"(He) brings versatility. He played every linemen position on defense and linebacker. He is really good at snapping the ball and with our new offense he is going to be snapping to different locations not just straight back and he is the only one we trust doing it," Peterson said.

With the leadership of his four core players, Peterson is looking to keep pace with last season's defensive unit while developing a passing game with a new quarterback.

"Last year we scored a lot of points and had a pretty stingy defense," he said. "We found our quarterback but I don't think we have to replace our safety and I don't know if we found that guy yet."

The Thunderhawks have joined the Great 8 Conference this season and Peterson has set his team's sights on a conference title.

"My goal is for this team to be a team they are proud to play for and take the talent we have and win the Great 8 Conference," he said. "If we have fun we are going to win some football games."

The Thunderhawks open the season against New Auburn High School at the Norbert Hill Center on August 26 at 6 p.m.

Lacrosse teaching more than sport

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

Lacrosse is in an Oneida's blood. It teaches leadership, discipline, and focus. For a small group of Oneida boys, those traits were focused on during the LAX-4-LIFE Lacrosse Camp in Cloquet, MN.

The weeklong camp, held on the Fond du Lac Band of Lake Superior Chippewa Reservation during the last week in July, is strictly devoted to Native American youth from the Midwest. The camp is looked at as an opportunity to offer healthy alternatives and options instead of gangs, drugs, and violence.

Oneida Police Department Officer Matt Ninham hand-picked kids from Oneida to participate in the camp hosted by the Minneapolis Police Department, U.S. Marshals and Minnesota Swarm professional lacrosse team. Antonio Doxtator, the tribe's new Gang Task Force Coordinator, also joined Ninham.

"I picked up four kids from our neighborhoods because I thought they could be leaders and asked if they would be interested in going," said Matt Ninham, Oneida Police Officer. "We spent 24-7 with these boys. At first I thought it might not work but their leadership skills from the day we started to the end were phenomenal."

Eddie Powless, Daniel Arcee, Jonathan Danforth, and Dee Jay Baird also caught the eyes of staff overseeing the camp.

"They said there was something about them; their swagger, and they are leaders. They could see the other boys looking up to these boys," Ninham said.

Though the camp places an emphasis on building leaders in troubled neighborhoods lacrosse skills are also honed.

"They were some of the best, if not the best, players there," Ninham said.

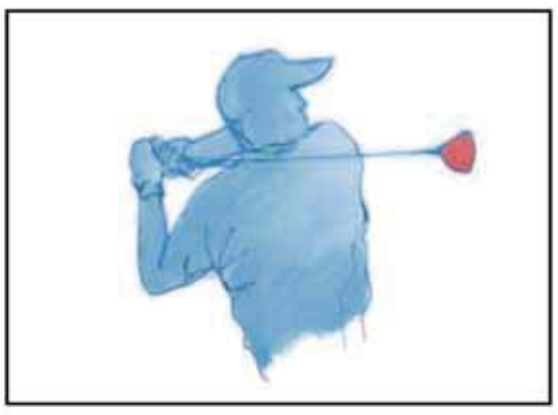
The Swarm staff took special notice and wants the kids to participate in their camps and clinics to further develop their skills.

"I told the kids this is a big deal and this is like the NBA seeing a high school kid and thinking he is really good." Ninham said.

Ninham plans on continuing to participate in the camp and bring other youth from the area to take part along with pursuing a chapter of the LAX-4-LIFE in Oneida.

"A lot of these kids come from rough neighborhoods and the four didn't let me down," Ninham said. "I was really proud of them. I told them I believed in them and I didn't have the words for how they made me feel."

Oneida's first baseball team?



Fred Bennett, third from left in front row, would see these young men play baseball, and one day decided to help them form a team. The photo was taken around 1924 or 1925. The player's names are unknown.

Bennett was the father of Prudence Bennett-Doxtator, grandfather of Alberta House-Metoxen. If you know who the players are, call 920-496-7316.

Out of the way church looking to make mark

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

Zion Lutheran Church is not visible from the road and many don't know it is even there but the church is looking to position itself within the Oneida community.

The church, located at 453 Rose Hill Drive, is just off of Riverdale Drive with a congregation size of about 225. It is lead by Reverend Mark Schumm who is in his first year at the church.

"We are a little off the beaten path," said Schumm. "We have a great base of people with very gifted people but we aren't very well known in the community. We've gotten comfortable doing what we do and (we) need to get more involved in the community and get connected to see people transformed by Christ."

With about 25 percent of the congregation being Oneida tribal members the church is looking to reflect the community more accurately. The church's atmosphere is often a selling point.

"We have quite a few of Oneida tribal members part of our congregation and their kids, and their kids, and their kid's kids," said tribal member Charlene Smith. Smith also serves on the church's council as its Financial Secretary.

"When I first came here I was greeted so warmly by the people here. I felt like I was home. I came by myself and wondered in," said Smith. "I had been to three or four different churches but felt like an outsider. When I walked in the people were so warm and kind."

"The congregation is a closely connected congregation. People come here and are treated very warmly. The congregation as a whole has a high respect for the bible and teaching from the word of god," said Schumm. "There is also a strong desire to see children and families sharing those kind of biblical values."

King earns Native American 40 under 40 honor

Mesa, AZ - The National Center for American Indian Enterprise Development (NCAIED) is proud to announce the recipients of the 2011 Native American 40 Under 40, who will be recognized as part of the 36th Annual Indian Progress in Business Awards Event (INPRO) on Thursday, September 08, 2011 at The Seminole Hard Rock Hotel & Casino in Hollywood, Florida.

The Native American 40 Under 40 recognition was incorporated in 2009 as part of the National Center's 40th Anniversary and highlights 40 existing and emerging American Indian leaders under 40 years of age who have demonstrated leadership, initiative and dedication to achieve impressive and significant contributions in their businesses, communities and to Indian country.

Pete King III

INPRO is a multi-faceted event, which will also include the American Indian Business Opportunity Fair, avenue where Indian businesses, Corporations, Tribal Enterprises, and Government Agencies can network and have face to face meetings.

The INPRO 2011 awards banquet, presented by Raytheon, is the oldest and most prestigious Native American recognition event honoring natives and businesses that support business development across Indian Country. Presentations will also be made to the recipients of the Jay Silverheels Achievement Award, the First American Corporation Leadership Award, the First American Entrepreneurship Award and the American Indian Fellowship in Business Student Scholarship Award.

Corporate sponsors include Raytheon, Lockheed Martin, IBM, Northrop Grumman and the Seminole Tribe of Florida.

INPRO 2011 will include an exciting host of events leading up to the formal awards banquet and presentations, which will include:

September 7, 2011

The INPRO 2011 Welcome Reception, hosted by the Seminole Tribe of Florida, Wednesday evening, at The Seminole Hard Rock Café, 6:30pm – 9:00pm

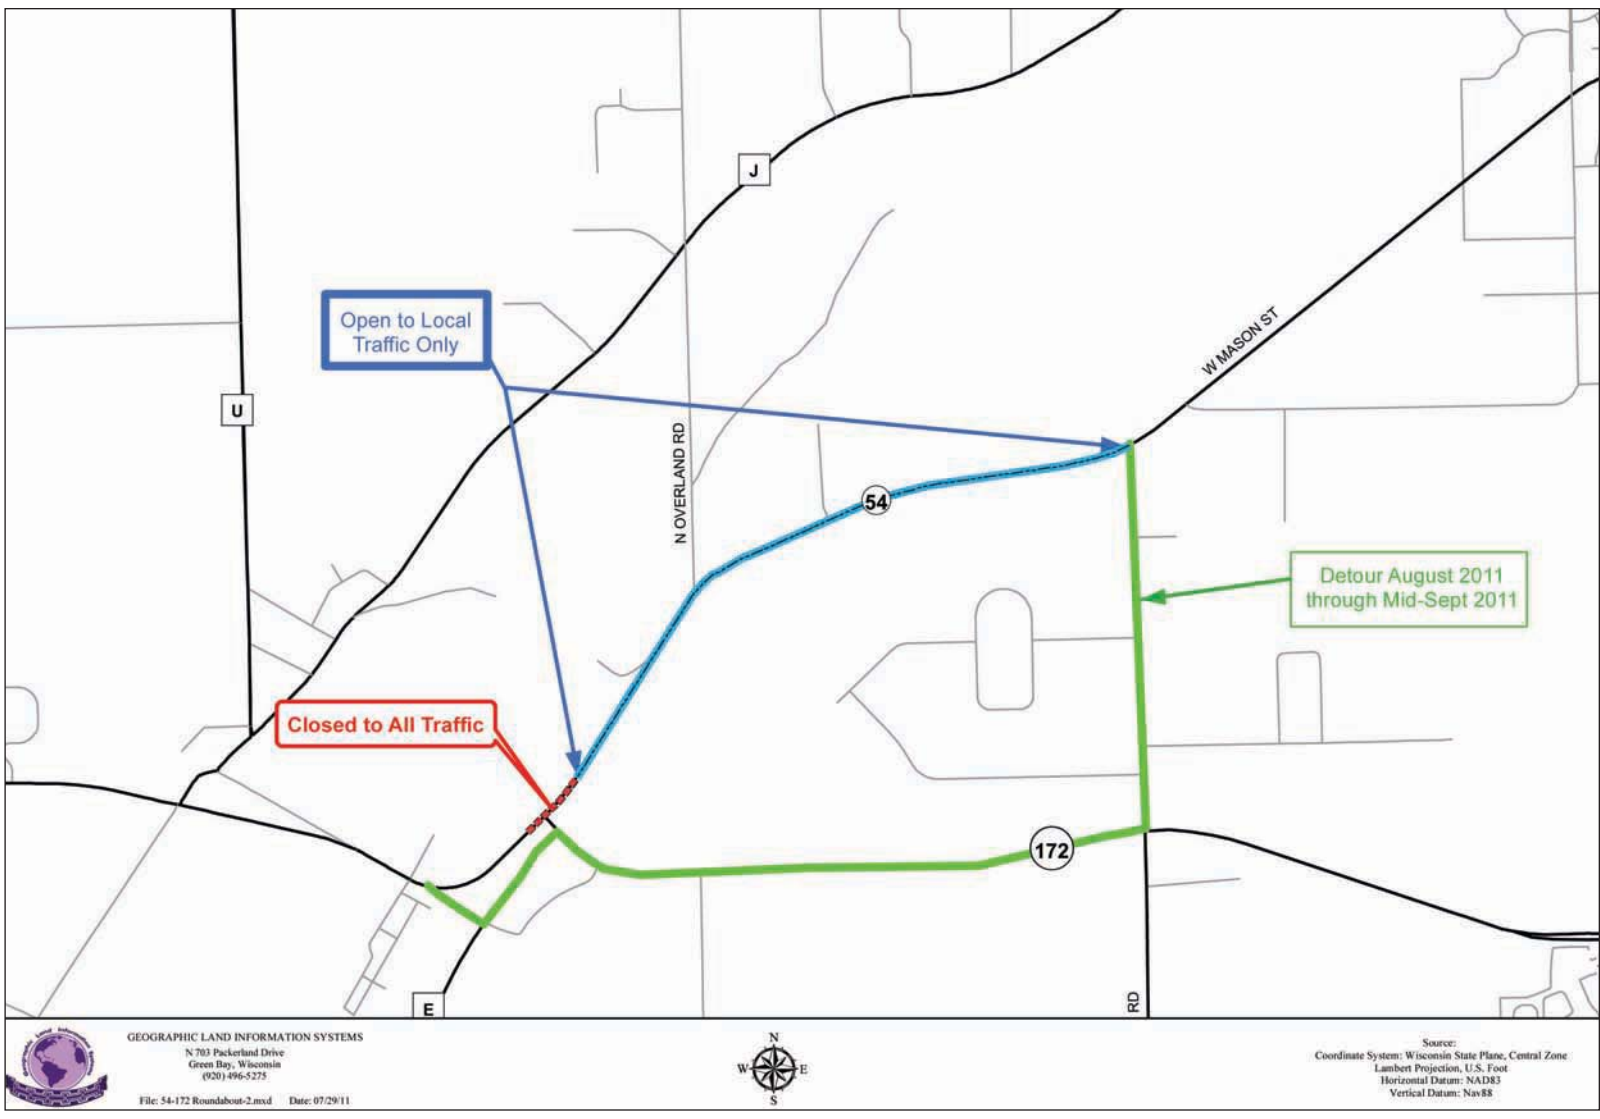
Highway 172/54/"E" Roundabout Construction Schedule

New Detour Information:



August 22, 2011–October 3, 2011:

Closure: Highway 54 will be closed to through-traffic at the intersection of 172 and Highway 54.

Detour: Traffic will be detoured onto County GE, to Highway 172, to County Road E to County Road U (East Service Road) and back to Highway 54 (from East to West).

Use the map from Oneida GLIS as a reference for the detour information during this phase of the project.

The Central Oneida Roadway Improvement Project Team wants to ensure that each business unit is sufficiently notified about these road closures. As the project nears completion, the DOT may refine the schedule. For more information contact Troy Parr at 920-869-4529.

New Oneida Business Committee Sworn In

Kali photos/Travis Cottrell

A new Oneida Business Committee took their oaths of office during an inauguration ceremony in the Iroquois Grand Council Ballroom at the Radisson Hotel & Conference Center on Thursday, August 11. They include above, (right to left): Ed Delgado, Chairman; Greg Matson, Vice-Chairman; Tina Danforth, Treasurer; Patty Hoeft, Secretary; Melinda Danforth, Councilwoman; and Councilmen, Brandon Stevens, Paul Ninham, Vince DelaRosa and David Jordan. Right, Chairman Delgado addresses those in attendance. The oath was delivered by Chief Judicial Officer Winnifred Thomas.

The incoming Oneida Business Committee took their oaths of office during a ceremony held on August 11, 2011 at the Radisson Hotel & Conference Center.

The Business Committee members were elected during the tri-annual election held on July 16, 2011.

Newly elected Oneida Chairman Ed Delgado delivered an inauguration speech at the event that highlighted a couple of issues that he would like to address during his tenure as chairman.

Chairman Delgado began by thanking his family, friends, staff, and supporters. He also reflected on his past and how he had never dreamed he would one day be elected as Oneida Chairman.

The chairman stated, "I have no big plans and no big promises, I think as big as they get is I would sure like to get some lights in Site II." Getting lights in the neighborhood would not only make it safer but also more attractive.

Another issue Delgado addressed is the relationships with neighboring communities and how positive relationships can positively contribute to the Oneida Nation.

Lastly, Delgado expressed how he would like the Oneida Reservation to be a home for all Oneidas.

He said, "Our reservation is 65,000 acres, every year we become more and more of a minority because our people can't find housing on our own reservation." Delgado believes that by making the Oneida Reservation a home, Oneida sovereignty will be strengthened and our land will be made more beautiful.

Vanden Heuvel, Gary R."Hoovie"
March 19, 1948 – August 20, 2011

Gary R. "Hoovie" Vanden Heuvel, age 63, of Gillett, passed away Saturday evening, August 20, 2011 with his family by his side. He was born on March 19, 1948, son of the late Orville and Gertrude (Kohl) Vanden Heuvel. Gary married his long time sweetheart Nancy Kelly and they were blessed with 45 years together and had four wonderful children. He was employed with L & S Truck as a diesel technician. Weekends were spent enjoying carpentry with his best friend Jack. He is survived by his wife, Nancy; his children: Lance Vanden Heuvel, Suamico; Todd Vanden Heuvel (fiancé Amber Parker), Oneida; Angie (special son-in-law Jamey) Sigl, Seymour; Sam (Margaret) Vanden Heuvel, Oneida; 11 grand-children: Devon, Landon, Kaden, Chaselyn, Roman, Kelden, Reese, Kennedi, Garret, Vincent, Owen and (baby); brothers and sisters: Donald (Sandy) Vanden Heuvel, Kimberly; Betty (Jerry) Behrens, Appleton; Jack (Sharon) Vanden Heuvel, Appleton; Pat (Scott) Gooding, Appleton; David (Char) Vanden Heuvel, Appleton; mother-in-law, Vermelia Doxtator Buchman, Oneida Friends may call on Thursday, August 25, 2011 at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Oneida from 9:30 AM until the Mass of Christian Burial at 11:00 AM with Father David Hoffman and Deacon Bobby Doxtator officiating. Muehl-Boettcher Funeral Home, Seymour is assisting the family. Online condolences may be expressed at www.muehlboettcher.com Our father was a strong, smart, caring, genuine and hardworking man. He loved his family and would do anything to make sure they were in good hands. He made us who we are today, to be genuine, family oriented and to be true to who we are. He was a true inspiration to all of us, we are very thankful for having such a great father. Dad loved the outdoors and taught us how to be sportsman. We learned so many valuable things from dad, such as: how to be strong, respect each other, hunt, fish, carpentry, mechanic and that anything is possible. We couldn't ask God for a better father and grandfather. Not only is he our dad, he is our hero. Thanks for everything Dad, you will be missed but never forgotten. Love you Dad. The family would like to extend a heartfelt thank you to all family and friends especially his brothers and sisters, also Milt and Yogi, Gary and Jean, Steve and Wallie for all their love, support and generosity throughout the past year.

Boone Botts, Dorothy
December 31, 1915 – July 31, 2011

Dorothy Boone Botts, of Broken Arrow, Oklahoma, member of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin, left us peacefully on Sunday, July 31, 2011. She was 95.

Dorothy was born, Friday, December 31, 1915, in Reno, Nevada, to Walker Lane Boone and Malinda House Boone. She grew up in Stewart, Nevada where her father was chief clerk of the Indian Agency and school.

She was preceded in death by her parents Walker Lane and Malinda (House), her loving husband Ellsworth (Bud) Botts and daughter-in-law, Lynette Botts. She is the last survivor of her siblings, sister, Margaret Frey, and brother, Walker Lee Boone.

In August, 1925, she moved with her family to the Seneca Indian School in Wyandotte, Oklahoma, where her mother was employed. She attended grade school and graduated high school in 1933. She attended Northeastern Oklahoma A&M Jr. College (NEO), in Miami, Oklahoma, where she was a member of the sorority Beta Upsilon.

While attending NEO she met Bud Botts, and they were married June 26, 1935, and resided in Miami, Oklahoma. Through the years she belonged to AAUW Mother's Club, Women's Pilot Club, the Miami Oklahoma chapter of Eastern Star as a Starpoint, Chaplin & musician; she was also a member of the White Shrine, Mother Advisor of Rainbow Assembly of Girls, Miami; President of the American Legion Auxiliary, Miami; and worked as co-owner with Bud operating Botts Wholesale Company until they sold the business in 1977.

After Bud's death in 1994, she moved to Broken Arrow, Oklahoma to live with her daughter, Dottie. In March 2007, she moved to the Village Health Care Center in Broken Arrow where she resided until her death. She was a member of St. Patrick's Episcopal Church which was instrumental in bringing her Holy Communion.

Dorothy was a friend to all and touched many lives while making many wonderful relationships along the way. Her happiest moments were with her family and watching them grow.

She is survived by her three children, Lee (Jean), George and Dottie (Richard); 6 grandchildren, Troy, Todd, Sean (Terri), Wade (Angie), Chelsey, (Jeremy) and Sasha (Mo); 10 great-grandchildren: Walker, Slade, Conor, Cade, Cole, Ashlynn, Talon, Ronin, Zana, Zane, all of Oklahoma. Chelsey and Jeremy are expecting Dorothy's 11th great-grandchild in December 2011.

The family would like to extend special thanks to The Village Health Care Center and Hometown Hospice of Broken Arrow, for their compassionate, professional and loving care of Dorothy until her passing.

A graveside committal service by All Saints Episcopal Church, Miami, Mother Susan Connell, presiding and Indian Burial Rites, by Shawn King of the Shawnee Tribe were held, August 2, 2011, at GAR Cemetery, Miami, Oklahoma.

You will be remembered...

You will be remembered…
When the flowers bloom in spring and,
In the summer time,
remembered in the fun that summer begins.

You will be remembered…
When the fall brings leaves of gold.
In the wintertime, remembered in the stories that are told.

And, you will be remembered…
Each day, right from the start, for the memories we once shared, forever live in my heart.

Oneida Law Office helps raise funds for local Domestic Abuse Program

The staff of Oneida Law Office and Legislative Reference Office recently teamed together to heighten the awareness for the Oneida Domestic Abuse Program by raising funds through a pie and ice cream sale, bake sale, raffle and clothing drive at the local Farmers Market. Their efforts garnered a truck-load of new and gently used clothes and raised the sum of $1,430 which will be used to purchase personal items (such as shampoo, toothpaste, deodorant, etc.) for victims of domestic abuse who need to flee their homes suddenly. "We saw a need and decided to set the example. Our message to the community is that each one of us should, individually and collectively, be asking what we can do to help our community, not what our community can do for us."

The Domestic Abuse Program's mission is to strengthen and empower Indian women and children to maximize their potential for physical, emotional, spiritual and intellectual well-being. Its philosophy encompasses healing the whole person. Some of the services provided by the Domestic Abuse Program are: Shelter referrals; safe and confidential advocacy; safety planning; information and referrals on financial help, where to go for help, counseling services and community resources; support groups; domestic violence education; a 25-week program for men to help them understand violence and alternative behaviors to replace the hurt and harm; children's programs designed to help children recognize the dynamics of domestic violence, preserve their safety and educate them in non-violent methods to resolve conflicts.

The Oneida Domestic Abuse Program partners with agencies from both Brown and Outagamie counties to develop plans and improve coordination of community resources to protect at-risk women and their children and hold the perpetrator(s) responsible for their behavior.

If you are a victim of domestic abuse and need assistance, please contact the Oneida Domestic Abuse Program at 920-490-3821 or 920-490-3822 (toll free: 888-490-2457). The Program is located at 2640 West Point Road, Green Bay. After hours, call Crisis Lines: Brown County 920-436-8888; Outagamie County 920-832-4646.

The Oneida Law Office and Legislative Reference Office staff would like to thank all the sponsors and members of our community for their support. By working together we make our Nation strong.

doors in 1925 at the current Elder Services location on Riverdale Drive before moving to their current location. Schumm took the reins of the church this year before stops in Madison and Tucson, AZ. He was a chemical engineer for 11 years before entering the seminary in Saint Louis, MO. He is married with one child.

With a goal of creating a bigger footprint in the Oneida community the church is formulating a plan and process to make itself more visible.

"The challenge is going to be in the next few years how we do that by using the gifts people have here and reach out to the community," Schumm said. "Everyone says we need to grow, that will happen as we look at ourselves and expand our influence in the community."

Service times during the summer are Thursday nights at 7 p.m. and Sunday mornings at 9 a.m. After Labor Day times shift to Sunday mornings at 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

The church will also be hosting their picnic on September 25 with music and outdoor service.

"Everyone is welcome. Come and see what the church is all about. Come to a service and enjoy it. They wont be disappointed," added Smith.

BACKGROUND ON BUSINESS

Making it a Family Affair

Get an oil change at Dipsticks

Brothers Chad Doxtator, left, and Derrick Doxtator opened Dipsticks, a drive-in oil change business, on the corner of Highway 54 and Seminary Road.

Ever since they were young, brothers Chad and Derrick Doxtator have wanted to own their own business. Considering the two are in their mid-twenties, they didn't wait too long.

"I've always thought about (opening a business), it just came sooner than I expected," said Chad, the elder brother.

If customers are surprised at the age of the owners of the new drive-in oil change business called Dipsticks, they don't show it.

"I don't know that they know that we're owners. I think they just think we're hired by someone," said Chad.

Both Chad and Derrick attended Northeast Wisconsin Technical College where Chad studied auto mechanics and Derrick went into the auto body program. Chad went on to work for Broadway's oil change garage for little over a year. He stated he wanted to open the business because he "didn't want to work for anyone anymore."

The brothers attended E-Hub classes which taught them about starting their business venture.

"They try to connect you with other small businesses throughout the community to help you start up," said Chad.

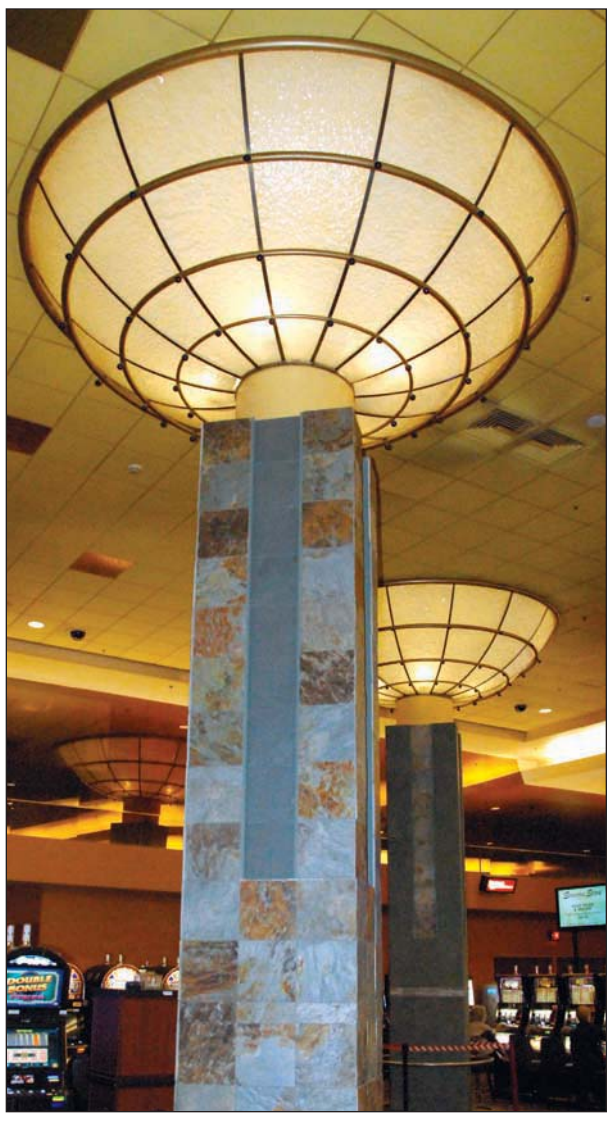
When the opportunity to reopen the J & A Quick Lube on the corner of Highway 54 and Seminary Road came up, the two went for it.

"It seemed like a good opportunity for us, so we took advantage of it," said Derrick.

Dip Sticks opened on August 8 to an oil thirsty community.

"We were surprised how busy we were the first week," said Derrick. "We didn't do any advertisement."

Down the road, the duo would like to add more services for customers.



"Eventually, we want to get into other things like tires and brakes," said Chad.

For now, the brothers are focusing on oil changes and building their customer base.

"I just would like to say thank you to the customers that already came and gave us the opportunity to open our business," said Derrick.

Dipsticks is open Monday through Friday from 8:00am to 6:00pm and on Saturday from 8:00am to 2:00pm, and closed Sunday. A full service oil change is $35. It consist of topping off all fluids, greasing grease fittings, checking lights, check and adjust air pressure in the tires, check all filters and wiper blades, and check the serpentine belt. If it's a 4x4 truck, it's an extra $3 for checking the two differential and transfer cases. Dipsticks located in the Highway 54 One Stop parking lot.

Casino Renovations

By Don Lilly
Casino Project Manager

Oneida Casino started renovations on the seven support columns located on the main casino floor. The plastic gem theme is being removed and replaced with slate tiles. The columns will better blend the entire gaming floor with the colors and textures used in the high stakes remodel completed June 2009. GTC voted to approve the project during the July 4th 2011 meeting.

Oneida Tribal member Karl Lusis of Standing Stone Design is the Architect behind the new look. Karl wanted to "Bring a warmer, more quality scheme, with a stronger, sculptural element". The use of low voltage LED lights on the columns represents the Tribe's commitment to saving energy and preserving the environment. Construction is expected to be complete by the end of September.

OBC Forum...

Sekoli,

I would like to take this opportunity to extend my sincere thanks and gratitude for all who supported me for Council in the 2011 election. I am honored and humbled to be serving my fourth term as a Councilman for the Oneida Nation.

To begin our responsibilities, the Business Committee is going through two weeks of transition. Here, we learn about the Tribe's financial, operational, and legislative status. This is also a good time for becoming familiar with other and share expectations. We will also share our general categories of interest that each Committee member will concentrate on, as well as decide who will represent as liaisons to governmental areas and who will participate in OBC sub-committees.

Each Committee member has been assigned to serve as a delegate liaison or an alternate liaison to specific legislative areas, and as a member of a sub-committee. I have been assigned to areas mostly involving environmental and land issues which I am very familiar with and are very dear to my heart. I will tag-team with my colleagues in several of these and other areas. Specifically, my liaison assignments are as follows:

Paul Ninham
Councilman

Delegate

- Oneida Environmental Resource Board (Alternate is Councilwoman Danforth)
- Oneida Nation Arts Board
- Department of Natural Resources (Alternate is Vice Chair Matson)
- Natural Resource Damage Assessment - Trustee Council

Alternative

- Oneida Land Commission (Delegate is Councilman Jordan & Alt. Councilwoman Danforth)
- Oneida Personnel Commission (Delegate is Councilwoman Danforth)
- Regional Tribal Operations Committee (RTOC) (Delegate is Councilwoman Danforth)

Sub-Committees

- Legislative Operating Committee (Member)
- Community Development Planning Committee (Member)

Again, the initial order of business is getting to know which tribal departments fall under these categories, as well as any federal, state, municipal, or non-tribal agencies that they interact with. As the Business Committee continues to learn about each other, my hope is that we will grow strong in order to make sound decisions for this great Nation.

Frequently Asked Per Capita Questions & Responses

General Payment Form Questions

Question:I didn't get a payment form.

Answer: Adult Payment forms were mailed on April 29th. If you didn't receive yours you will have to talk with someone in Enrollments.

Question: When must I return the per capita form and where?

Answer: ALL per capita forms MUST be stamp marked received by the Enrollment Department by close of business on Thursday, September 1, 2011.

Question: What happens if I miss the deadline?

Answer: Any forms dropped off at any other Tribal office OR received after Thursday, September 1, 2011 WILL NOT be paid until the next scheduled payment date. There will be no exceptions.

Question: How much is the payment this year?

Answer: Persons age 18 thru 61 before Sept 1st are eligible for $1200

Persons age 62 or over before Sept 1st are eligible for $1200 & $2000 = $3200

Persons age 65 or over before Sept 1st are eligible for $1200 & $2000 & $638.14 = $3838.14

Question: Where can I find a Notary Public?

Answer: Notaries are available throughout the tribal organization. You must provide a picture ID that reflects your signature (Tribal or State). Other places that might have notary publics are banks or law offices.

Question: What if I move before the checks are mailed?

Answer: You have until close of business on Thursday, September 1, 2011 to provide the Enrollment Department with a new payment form reflecting your address change. In addition, we advise you to complete a mail forwarding order with the Post Office. Please remember that forwarding may take up to one month.

Question: Can I have my monies mailed on my behalf to someone else or a vendor?

Answer: Short answer is Yes. Upon the receipt of a completed, signed and notarized payment form a check will be issued in the enrolled tribal member's name and mailed to the check address indicated on the payment form. HOWEVER, Checks can not be made payable to anyone other than the enrolled tribal member. Note: This applies to Guardians and Power of Attorneys (POA) as well.

Question: How will I know if my payment form has been received?

Answer: A Postcard Receipt will be mailed to the check address on your payment form. There are two (2) different receipts, one if you requested to have federal taxes withheld and one if you did not. Please review your receipt.

General Incarcerated Membership Questions:

Question: Can a person who is incarcerated get their form notarized?

Answer: Yes, there are Notary Public's available, upon request at their facility.

Question: Is it possible to have the per capita payment issued in money orders or cashier checks?

Answer: No. In situations where you require your monies to be sent to you differently than our standard process, you should assign someone Legally as your POA or Guardian. This way the POA or Guardian can handle your special financial needs or transactions. Please contact the Enrollment Department for information regarding Power of Attorney or Guardianship.

Check Attachment Questions:

Question: Can child support be taken from my payment?

Answer: Yes. A Child Support Agency has until June 30th to submit a request to the Appeals Commission. The Appeals Commission determines if an attachment will be applied to your payment. For more details contact the Appeals Commission at 497-5800.

Question: Can child support be taken from my payment even if I don't turn in a payment form to claim it?

Answer: Yes. This is supported in Per Capita Ordinance section 9.4-6 titled: Attachments.

Question: If an attachment for child support is applied to my payment can I request to have Federal Income Tax withheld?

Answer: Yes.

Question: Can Tribal debt be taken from my payment?

Answer: Yes. The Appeals Commission determines if an attachment will be applied to your payment. For more details contact the Appeals Commission at 497-5800.

Payment Refusal Request:

Question: I would like to refuse my payment. What do I need to do?

Answer: Contact the Enrollment Department. They can provide you with a Refusal form.

Prior Year Payments:

Question: Can you check to see if there are any other monies owed me?

Answer: Yes. The Enrollment Department will review your file to see if there are any outstanding payments due you. Note: only unclaimed 2010 payments will be paid out. This is according to section 9.5-3 (d) Request for Prior Payment in the Per Capita Ordinance.

Question: How do I apply for prior year monies?

Answer: By turning in your completed 2011 Membership Payment Form by close of business on Thursday, September 1, 2011. Any outstanding payments will be combined with your 2011 Membership Payment.

Question: What happens to the prior year monies owed me if I miss the September 1, 2011 deadline?

Answer: You will not be eligible to receive the prior year monies. This is in accordance to Per Capita Ordinance section 9.5-5 Pooled Account which states; upon failure to file a request within the time provided under 9.5-3 (d), the member's eligibility for the missed payment shall expire. Any unclaimed funds held in reserve for such claims shall be deposited in a pooled account to be used for a purpose designated by the General Tribal Council. Management of the pooled account shall be the responsibility of the Trust Committee.

Tax Related Questions:

Question: Can I have taxes withheld from my monies?

Answer: Yes. Federal Income Tax only. You will need to complete the Voluntary Tax Withholding section on the Membership Payment form and 20% will be withheld.

Check Mail Date:

Question: When will the check be mailed out?

Answer: 9/30/2011.

Question: Can I get my check mailed out sooner than 9/30/2011?

Answer: No. This date is defined in Per Capita Ordinance section 9.5-3 (c) and must be complied with.

Faxes or E-mail:

Question: Can you fax or e-mail me the payment form?

Answer: Yes, however, if you have access to the internet, you can print off a Membership Payment form (www.http:/oneidanation.org/enrollments). The Enrollment Department appreciates having the form printed on colored paper that matches the current year color (2011 color is yellow). This makes the form easier to identify.

PLEASE NOTE: No photocopied, faxed, or E-mailed Membership Payment Forms will be accepted.

Minor Trust:

Question: I didn't get a Minor Trust Account Payment form?

Answer: Payment forms were mailed on May 24th. If you didn't receive yours please call (920) 869-6203.

Reminder: Members applying for Minors Trust Account monies must submit a copy of their 2011 High School diploma, HSED or GED with their Membership Payment Form.

Legally Incompetent Adult Trust Accounts:

Reminder: Adult persons with Guardians/Conservators assigned will now have their monies placed in an Adult Trust Account. The monies will be managed by the Trust Department. Membership Payment Forms must still be submitted by the Septermber 1st deadline in order for the monies to be transferred into a Trust Account. Please contact the Enrollment or Trust Department if you feel this applies to you.

Opposed: Tina Danforth, Ed Delgado
Abstained: Brandon Stevens
Excused: Trish King
For the record:
Tina Danforth said I don't believe that this is a way to govern our tribe through a resolution that's being pushed through at the last minute with a lot of conflict of interest involved and that the duly authorized process has not been followed. That's for the record.
For the record:
Brandon Stevens said I abstained only because of the perceived conflict. I am representing a resolution, not my daddy. But I just wanted to make that clear that the resolution and why we did what we did was because the code of ethics and we were not displaying public confidence in the position of the tribe by resolution, not by opinion.
Motion by Patty Hoeft to ask the Law Office to bring back to the Business Committee at our next meeting a draft rule that would prohibit all e-polls and retro-active action by the Business Committee, seconded by Ed Delgado. Motion carried unanimously:
Ayes: Melinda Danforth, Tina Danforth, Ed Delgado, Ron "Tehassi" Hill Jr., Patty Hoeft, Kathy Hughes, Brandon Stevens
Excused: Trish King
For the record: Tina Danforth said I think this is a necessary action because we just did another irregular procedure. We just adopted a delegation change. We did not follow procedure. We did not rescind the former one and we did not do it by two-thirds and that's for the record, thank you.

5. Travel report to NIGA April 3-6, Phoenix, AZ
Sponsor: Tina Danforth
Motion by Ed Delgado to approve the National Indian Gaming Association travel report, seconded by Tina Danforth. Vote tied. Chairman voted in favor of motion. Motion carried with three for, two opposed and three abstentions:
Ayes: Tina Danforth, Ed Delgado
Opposed: Melinda Danforth, Ron "Tehassi" Hill Jr.
Abstained: Patty Hoeft, Kathy Hughes, Brandon Stevens
Excused: Trish King
Tie Breaker: Rick Hill voted aye
For the record:
Melinda Danforth said I am going to oppose this motion only because the report contained an accusation that somebody had physically accosted the Treasurer and I was not present nor was I in Phoenix when this happened and I think it's totally unprofessional and inappropriate to put it in a travel report. And none of the travel report contained or focuses on any activities at NIGA, especially any of the motions or any kind of information that would affect the tribe. So, I am going to oppose the motion.
Motion by Ed Delgado to file a complaint with NIGA regarding the lack of security at NIGA which caused one of our delegates to be harassed, seconded by Tina Danforth. Motion failed with two for and five opposed.
Ayes: Tina Danforth, Ed Delgado
Opposed: Melinda Danforth, Ron "Tehassi" Hill Jr., Patty Hoeft, Kathy Hughes, Brandon Stevens
Excused: Trish King
For the record: Brandon Stevens said there was security there and making that motion makes the assumption that the incident occurred as such. So I think there's an investigation of the incident that needs to happen first, so making a motion would be, I mean there was security there and there were other individuals that have not attested to the incident that ever occurring in the fashion that it did. So, until that happens then I think we should follow the process and then after that happens, then we should file a complaint with NIGA after an investigation has occurred. I don't think it's out of order. I think it's a good suggestion but I think it needs to follow the process to make sure that we process, you know, other things first.

Menominee Indian Tribe reaches settlement in lawsuit against the US

Keshena, WI – The Menominee Indian Tribe of Wisconsin announced today that it has reached a settlement of its lawsuit with the United States challenging the January 2009 rejection of the Tribe's application to acquire the Dairyland Greyhound Track for gaming purposes. The Tribe proposes to build a destination resort in Kenosha, Wisconsin which would include a casino, a hotel, and a 5000 seat multi-purpose facility. Menominee Tribal Chairman Randal Chevalier stated that "This is great news for our Tribe, Kenosha, and the State of Wisconsin. Settlement of this lawsuit allows us to move forward in our efforts to bring thousands of quality jobs and a huge boost to the economy of the State."

The settlement requires the Department of the Interior to withdraw its January 2009 denial letter and to review the Tribe's application based on the rules and regulations that were in place at that time. Within 45 days of today, the Department of the Interior must notify the Tribe of what additional or updated information may be necessary for the Department of the Interior to complete its review of the application. If after such review the Secretary of the Interior determines that the Tribe's planned casino and entertainment center will be in the best interest of the Tribe and not detrimental to the local community, it will forward that finding to Governor Walker for his concurrence.

> "Settlement of this lawsuit allows us to move forward in our efforts to bring thousands of quality jobs and a huge boost to the economy of the State."
> – Randal Chevalier, Menominee Tribal Chairman

The settlement agreement comes approximately two months after Assistant Secretary of Indian Affairs, Larry Echo Hawk, announced the withdrawal of the January 2008 "Guidance" on off-reservation gaming. This Guidance made it practically impossible for Tribes to acquire land and build casinos outside of their reservations. The now withdrawn Guidance had originally provided the basis for the Department of Interior's earlier rejection of the Menominee project. "We still have a lot of work to do" stated Chairman Chevalier, "but with the withdrawal of the off-reservation Guidance and the settlement of this lawsuit means that the Tribe will finally get the fair review that it has been entitled to all along. We are excited to see this project move forward and build a foundation to benefit both the Tribe and State of Wisconsin during these critical economic times."

The Menominee Tribe projects that construction of the entertainment complex will result in over 1000 construction jobs and at completion, the casino entertainment center in Kenosha will employ over 3000 full time employees resulting in a much needed economic boost for the State of Wisconsin.

Marijuana destroyed from Wisconsin National Forest

Milwaukee, WI – Authorities say they discovered and destroyed a large-scale marijuana growing operation in the Chequamegon-Nicolet National Forest in northern Wisconsin.

One man was arrested at the scene of the grow site, U.S. Attorney John Vaudreuil said, and four more were being sought. Vaudreuil said the site had thousands of plants over an area of several acres about 25 miles northwest of Park Falls, Wis., and included a camp for people who cultivated the marijuana as well as loaded firearms.

"Unfortunately, there are criminals who take advantage of the remote and heavily-wooded nature of our national forests to cultivate marijuana on a large-scale basis," Vaudreuil said.

Authorities said they were alerted to the operation after a tip from a hunter in November.

"This is the one we've been really focused on and working on," Vaudreuil told The Associated Press. "We had a grow operation that we took down almost the exact same time last year that looked the same. ... It's very similar. It's multiple plots. It's in thick woods. There's a camp that has a place to cook, live. There were loaded guns at the camp, which also is fairly typical."

Authorities did not identify the man in custody because he has not yet been charged. Vaudreuil said he did not have a total count of plants destroyed available yet, but "it'll be a chunk."

Last year, federal, state and local authorities raided a dozen grow sites they believe were connected to a ring of marijuana farmers using the sprawling, 1.5-million acre forest as its base.

WI apple crop expected to rise 17 percent in 2011

Madison, WI – Wisconsin's apple crop looks promising this year.

Weather issues weren't as severe this year as in previous years. That's part of the reason federal agriculture officials are predicting a 17 percent increase in the state's apple crop.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says the state is expected to produce more than 43 million pounds of apples.

The agency says spring frost was only a minor problem this year. It also says apple trees benefited from plenty of rain and sunshine.

Apple production nationwide is forecast to increase about two percent to 9.5 billion pounds. More than half is expected to come from Washington state, by far the nation's apple leader. The USDA says Washington is expected to produce 5.4 billion pounds, a three percent drop from last year.

Oneida Agricultural Director Jeff Scofield estimates that pick-your-own apples at the Oneida Apple Orchard will begin the second weekend of September, about a week later than usual.

USDA Announces Funding To Provide Growth and Improve Services for Tribes and Rural Communities

WASHINGTON– Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack today announced the selection of projects in 15 states to support small business and job creation opportunities, and train workers in Native American communities. In addition, Vilsack also announced grants to help bring transportation improvements to Native American communities. Janie Hipp Senior Advisor for Tribal Affairs made the announcement on behalf of Secretary Vilsack while attending an award ceremony with Tribal leaders in Miami, Okla.

"USDA is working to ensure that members of Tribes have the tools they need to expand economic opportunities and improve their quality of life," Vilsack said. "These grants represent USDA's ongoing commitment to strengthen Tribes and support sustainable rural business opportunities that will create jobs."

The announcement was made as part of the Obama Administration's week-long focus on the rural economy and the White House Rural Council, which is addressing key areas of need in rural America including helping rural small businesses access capital, expanding rural job search and training services, and increasing rural access to health care workers and technology.

For example, the Montana Indian Business Alliance in Great Falls, Mont., was selected to receive a grant to provide businesses training technical assistance to members of Indian Tribes of Montana. The funding will create an estimated 14 jobs. In Ukiah, Calif., Resource for Native Development was selected to receive a technical assistance grant to provide Tribal members with business and entrepreneurial training — including training that focuses on developing biomass-centered businesses and local food hubs. This project is expected to create 30 jobs.

The more than $3 million in grants announced today is administered through USDA Rural Development's Rural Business Enterprise Grant (RBEG) program. This program provides grants for rural projects that finance the development of small and emerging rural businesses, help fund distance learning networks, and help fund employment-related adult education programs. More information about this program can be found at www.rurdev.usda.gov/BCP_rbeg.html.

USDA has a long, positive record of supporting projects in Indian Country. One recent successful undertaking involved providing a grant to the Great Lakes Inter-Tribal Council, Inc. for its Awaken the Spirit III project. The goal of the project is to provide job skills, financial literacy and business training to tribal members. The Tribal Council is a coalition of 12 Indian tribes in Wisconsin and Upper Michigan. It used the grant to provide business assistance to the Native community. In 2010, the organization assisted 33 Tribal members and helped create 22 jobs.

Funding is contingent upon the recipient meeting the conditions of the grant agreement. The following is a complete list of organizations that have been selected to receive RBEG grants.

Alaska
- Alaska Manufacturing Extension Partnership, Inc. (AMEP), $200,000
- City of Tanana, $63,000

To improve transportation service in rural Native American communities, the Community Transportation Association of America (CTAA) was selected to receive $748,767 in grants to provide technical assistance to help organizations enhance passenger transportation service. The grants will help rural communities in five states.

A portion of the funding will be used to provide technical assistance, training and support services to transit systems in the rural communities of Roseburg City, Ore.; Cortland City, N.Y.; Stevens Point, Wis.; and Bluffton Town, S.C.

The remaining funds will be used to assist several Native American communities and tribal organizations with transportation improvements and planning in New York (Seneca Nation of New York), Oklahoma (Seminole Nation of Oklahoma) and South Carolina (Catawba Indian Nation, aka Catawba Tribe of South Carolina).

In June, President Obama signed an Executive Order establishing the first White House Rural Council, chaired by Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack. The White House Rural Council will work throughout government to create policies to promote economic prosperity and a high quality of life in our rural communities.

Since taking office, President Obama's Administration has taken significant steps to improve the lives of rural Americans and has provided broad support for rural communities. The Obama Administration has set goals of modernizing infrastructure by providing broadband access to 10 million Americans, expanding educational opportunities for students in rural areas, and providing affordable health care. In the long term, these unparalleled rural investments will help ensure that America's rural communities are repopulating, self-sustaining, and thriving economically.

USDA, through its Rural Development mission area, administers and manages housing, business and community infrastructure and facility programs through a national network of state and local offices. Rural Development has an existing portfolio of more than $155 billion in loans and loan guarantees. These programs are designed to improve the economic stability of rural communities, businesses, residents, farmers and ranchers and improve the quality of life in rural America.

August 6th, 2009, re-enactors dressed in time period clothing firing three musket shots in commemoration of those that perished during the Battle of Oriskany on August 6th, 1777.

On August 6th, 1777, one of the bloodiest battles of the American Revolution happened right in the heart of the Oneida Homelands. The American Rebels had a garrison of approximately 500 troops nestled safely in Fort Stanwix, protecting the portage between the Mohawk River and Wood Creek. The historic portage had served as one of the most vital trading routs in the history of North America and was called The Oneida Carrying Place by European settlers. Travelers could head west from the Oneida Carrying Place and by means of the Great Lakes and its tributaries reach most of the interior of North America. In the opposite direction, the Mohawk River carried travelers to the Hudson River and eventually to the Atlantic Ocean.

By the summer of 1777 many Oneida Warriors had decided to show their support for the Colonial Army as independents. The Nation as a whole had not swayed from a neutral position to a declaration of war on the British. When the British launched St. Leger's Campaign, they meant to capture the Fort and therefore obtain control of the portage. In addition, eliminating the Rebel Army in the heart of the Oneida Homelands would have sent a clear message to the Oneida. Laying siege to the fort on August 3rd, 1777, the British meant to starve the Continental soldiers into submission. Any attempts to destroy the fort by cannon fire were useless. Cannon fire could have managed to destroy the outer walls of the fort but the 12 feet of earth behind the timber walls was impenetrable.

General Nicholas Herkimer led a contingent of Continental Soldiers to aid the garrison in the Fort. On the way, the Pro-British Iroquois sprung a trap and ambushed Herkimer's Army. It is believed that more than 30 Oneida Warriors sacrificed their lives and more than 500 colonial troops died. General Herkimer was injured but requested to be propped up against a tree and continued to shout out battle orders for the duration of the fight. There was no clear victor in the battle. The British were unsuccessful in obtaining control of the portage, the Americans suffered heavy casualties, and the native allies lost large numbers of already depleted warrior base. Unable to linger in the area, the armies fled and the bodies of the soldiers lay on the battlefield for years, many of which were never properly buried.

Indian Summer to observe 25th anniversary

Scenic view from Milwaukee's Lakefront.

Festival will be held from September 9–11

Indian Summer Festival, North America's largest American Indian festival, celebrates 25 years at Milwaukee's lakefront Maier Festival Park (Summerfest grounds) from Sept. 9-11. The festival provides an entertaining, fun and educational experience with American Indian traditions joined by exciting features.

A number of festival favorites return to celebrate this landmark year. Brule performs Friday and Saturday with their powerful music, stunning showmanship and a cadre of traditional and fancy dancers. Joanne Shenandoah is a Grammy-Award winner that has been described as "the most critically acclaimed Native American singer of our time," known for blending traditional songs and melodies with Native and contemporary instrumentation. Eagle and Hawk bring their high-energy, interactive concert-style from Canada, hitting the stage with modern rock fused with traditional elements. Nick Hockings educates about Native American cultures, with the caring and compassion that result from his philosophy that there is "only one race – the human race."

Cultural demonstrators return to the front gate area of the festival, where they will showcase traditional skills and answer questions. The Native American Film Festival will once again be part of the festival, presenting work by up-and-coming filmmakers from the Native community.

New features this year include a special 25th Anniversary Opening Ceremony Spectacular at 6 p.m. Friday. The 9-11 Parade on Sunday at 3 p.m. commemorates the 10-year anniversary of that day with an honor guard, veterans, bands and first-responder vehicles.

Other must-see events include the 8th Annual Indian Summer Music Awards (ISMA) that draw some of the best American Indian entertainment from alternative rock to traditional drum and hip hop to flute. The Contest Powwow brings unforgettable sights and sounds to the festival with Grand Entry times at 7 p.m. Friday, 1 and 7 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. Sunday. East Meets West explores the contrast between the tribes of the east and those of the west in a lively, interactive format.

A spectacular fireworks display will be held Friday and Saturday evening featuring the grand Torch-lit Canoe Procession. There will be a special 9/11 commemoration on Friday and a festive nod to Indian Summer's 25th year on Saturday.

Contests that bring crowds to their feet include Indian Summer's wild (and wildly popular) Fiddle & Jig contest. A Hand Drum Contest follows Sunday's Powwow in the same dance arena. Entertainment includes contemporary performers Michael Jacobs, Morgan Creek Band, Flying Feather Band, October Soul and much more. Traditional dance troupes include Aztec dancers and a Navajo dance group. Eating is entertainment at summer festivals, and the options here include traditional fare such as Indian tacos, buffalo, venison, turkey, wild rice, corn soup and fry bread with a variety of toppings. "Fun food" finders will discover hot

Map Spotlight on Ducks Gathering Natural Area

The Oneida name for Ducks Gathering is Talu?kó· Thatiya?talohlókta?.

By Sylvia Cornelius

Ducks Gathering Natural Area is location number three on the "Oneida Reservation Parks, Trails, & Natural Areas Map." The site can be accessed on Trout Creek Road between N. County Hwy U and N. Overland Road. There is a small parking area and overlook for visitors. This natural area consists of 89 acres of flooded timber and native prairie nesting cover. You can't bring your ATV, however you will find hiking trails, ponds and abundant wildlife.

The site provides visitors with an opportunity to view an abundance of waterfowl such as Mallards and Wood Ducks, Northern Shoveler, Snipe, Swans and Canada Geese. Wildlife you may see here includes Skunk, Pheasant, Rabbit, Racoon, Deer, Coyote, Turkey and Black Bear. Plants you will find include Queen Annes Lace, Evening Primrose, Common Milkweed, Black Eyed Susan, Goldenrod, and Yellow Coneflower.

Restoration efforts include wetlands and ponds. Three acres of food plots have also been established at this site benefiting many wildlife species. A highlight of this site is the warm season prairie that is getting itself established after years of farming.

Funding was provided by Circle of Flight program, an external federal funding source.

Both gun and bow hunting are allowed by Tribal members with a sportsman license during the appropriate seasons.

For information on hunting and fishing regulations contact the Oneida Conservation Office at 920-869-1450. For information on the restoration efforts at this site contact Mike Troge the Environmental Health & Safety office at 920-869-1600. Household Clean Sweep Returns

By Amy Spears

Mark your calendars! Oneida Housing Authority and Environmental, Health and Safety Division are teaming up to bring you the semi-annual Fall Household Clean Sweep on Saturday, August 27th. This event, the same as the event last May, will collect:

- Household hazardous waste
- Tires
- Appliances and scrap metal
- Electronic waste
- Fluorescent lights, batteries, and mercury thermometers
- Goodwill Donations
- Overflow or oversize garbage (carpet, furniture, non-recyclable plastics, etc.)

This event will also feature a Green Cleaning Bag giveaway (while supplies last) and you can exchange your mercury thermometer for a digital thermometer.

Last May we collected over 45,000 pounds of material at the household clean sweep. This included over 11,000 lbs. of televisions, over 7500 lbs of paint and paint related material and 3.5 tons of tires! Most of this material was recyclable and because of this event it was kept out of the landfill. I challenge you to do even better this time let's collect over 50,000 lbs at the August 27th event!

The Household Clean Sweep will be held at:

Housing Authority Warehouse
N6824 Seminary Rd
Sat., August 27th
Hours: 8AM–Noon

This joint venture will take the place of the Oneida Housing Authorities semi-annual clean-up, so please plan accordingly. Please contact Amy Spears 920-869-4549 or aspears@oneidanation.org with any questions

New Residential Trash and Recycle Collection Coming Soon

The Tribe is working on a new contract with Veolia Environmental Services for trash and recycle collection. This new contract will not only upgrade our current service, but will include additional services not offered before.

Fully Automated Collection

The new collection will be fully automated pick-up. The trucks will be able to pick up the carts automatically from the curb. The carts will be picked up by an automated arm that will dump their contents into the truck. As a result of this update, we will now have a standard sized cart for both the trash and the recyclables.

Standard Size Carts

The new service will provide each customer with one 65 gallon wheeled cart for trash and one 65 gallon wheeled cart for recyclables. No more blue bins for recyclables! An additional feature with the carts is the color and logo, both the trash and recycle carts will be Purple! The carts will also include the tribal logo. The recycle cart will have a blue lid to distinguish the trash from the recyclables.

Appliance Pick-up

For an additional fee, Veolia will collect your discarded appliances curbside. This fee will be collected by Veolia prior to pick-up. There is an additional process required for the pick-up of Freon containing appliances such as refrigerators, air conditioners, and freezers. This will be explained by Veolia customer service when pick-up is requested.

The new service will begin this fall. Look for additional communications regarding the service update on your utility bill and in the Kalihwisaks. Please contact Amy Spears with any questions at 869-4549 or at aspears@oneidanation.org.

So Now What? Feeling comfortable in a college environment

A Beginner's Guide to a Positive College Experience

By Misty Herzog
Senior Higher Education Advisor

Hello Everyone! My name is Misty Herzog and I am the Senior Higher Education Advisor for the Higher Education Department. I have been with the Department for about twelve years now. I have my Bachelor's Degree in Psychology and Human Development from the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay and my Master's Degree in Training and Development from the University of Wisconsin–Stout. I am also certified as a Global Career Development Facilitator and as a Distance Credentialed Facilitator. I truly enjoy working with clients and helping them to identify and then accomplish their educational goals. Through my educational background, training, and many years of service, I have learned many helpful things along the way. Previously, my co-workers had shared information about choosing a career and then choosing a school. I would like to share with you some tips for the next step…you're in college so now what?

PART I: COMBAT HOMESICKNESS WHEN AWAY AT COLLEGE

"Acknowledge that homesickness is normal, others are feeling the same way and you just need to give yourself time to work through it. Staying in touch with family and friends back home can help. It's also important to get involved and enjoy your time there."(http://www.collegefashion.net/college-life/3-tips-for-dealing-with-homesickness-in-college)

PART II: MEET NEW PEOPLE

Throughout your college years you will have the opportunity to meet many people. Take advantage of this opportunity. Peer connections are very important, but don't forget the professionals that surround you every day. Get to know your professors. Make it a point to meet and have contact information for what I call, "your college life support team." This may include your academic advisor, school health center staff, tutoring staff, registrar, bursar, and financial aid advisor. If you are receiving the Oneida Higher Education Grant, you should also be familiar with the Higher Education staff and have our contact information too.

PART III: GET INVOLVED AND DO NEW THINGS

Find out what your school and new community have to offer. This may include student clubs and organizations, fraternities or sororities, sports, or even the school newspaper. You may want to consider a job or even a volunteer opportunity in your community.

You may have the opportunity to study abroad. This is a great opportunity to learn about other people, cultures, new places and even the differences in education around the world.

Internships are important. If you are interested in internships you should contact your college student services or career planning offices for more information. If you are receiving the Oneida Higher Education Grant, you may also be interested in our Higher Education summer internship program.

Just remember that balance is key. Use lists and a calendar to organize your activities and academic responsibilities such as exams and paper and project due dates. With a little planning and organization, you can be successful academically and still have a great social life.

PART IV: NON –TRADITIONAL STUDENTS (Adult Students)

A large number of our clients in the Higher Education Department fall in - [the non-traditional student] category. Many are finding that they need to go back to school for employment reasons. Some have lost their jobs due to the economy and need to refocus their career. Some need a degree for job advancement. Others have finally come to the point in their life where education is a personal goal. No matter what the reason, these students usually have a lot of other responsibilities on their plate and "balance" seems to be the key to success. If you fall in this category, you really need to sit down and examine your situation.

The University of Kansas Academic Achievement and Access Center lists twelve tips for non-traditional students. They are:

1. Keep your eyes on the prize.
2. Be realistic in your goals.
3. Enlist support from your family and friends.
4. Get to know other students.
5. Get to know your professors.
6. Make the most of every class.
7. Become an informed student.
8. Learn how to use your school Library
9. Visit your school's career center.
10. Brush up on your writing and study skills.
11. Ask for help when you need it.
12. Embrace technology.

Jeff Skenandore Memorial Donation Fund

Scholarship deadline set for September 14

The Jeff Skenandore Memorial Donation fund was established to offer financial assistance to those students who are pursuing a degree in the Criminal Justice or Police Science programs. The donation is meant to supplement grants and loans in the pursuit of completing a degree and embarking on a career in the Criminal Justice field. The donation funds are generated from fund raising activities of the Oneida Police Department.

There will be up to four (4) donations awarded.

Donation Amount:
$800.00

Donation Guidelines:
The student must be:
1. 18 years or older
2. An ENROLLED student at an accredited technical college
2. An UNDERGRADUATE enrolled at an accredited four year college (second semester freshman, sophomore, junior, or senior)
3. A Graduate or PH.D. student enrolled in an accredited college

Requirements: Must be an enrolled member of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin pursuing continuing education in the Criminal Justice field. Enrollment must be verified by the Oneida Enrollment Office.

Application deadline: September 14, 2011

Recipients will be announced at the Jeffrey Skenandore Golf Classic on Friday, September 30, 2011.

Please contact Higher Education at 800-236-2214, ext. 4033, or the Oneida Police Department at 920-869-2239 for an application.

dogs, chili, popcorn, ice cream and much more.

The Village Green is dedicated to ecological and environmental earth stewardship and the Natural Path offers an array of products and opportunities for relaxing massages. The Gathering Place shelters non-profit organizations with Native ties, the Mohican Nation Stockbridge-Munsee gathering area, Veterans Center and displays on historic repatriation. The Tribal Farmers Market will offer specialties from Wisconsin's tribes and more.

The Circle of Fine Art exhibition displays fine art with American Indian themes, with many of the country's best-known American Indian artists displaying works for viewing and for purchase. The Indian Summer Marketplace is one of the most popular areas at the festival. Vendors from throughout the U.S. and Canada offer an array of Native American-inspired crafts, artwork, books, music, pottery, regalia accessories, blankets, jewelry, toys and beads.

The festival is truly family-friendly, since part of the festival grounds are designated a traditional area, where alcohol is not allowed for sale or consumption. Education Day is held on Friday prior to the official opening at 4 p.m. The grounds are only open to school children and their teachers to provide them with a greater understanding of American Indian culture and heritage. Registration is available now.

There are special admission deals for the festival.

Friday, Sept. 9: Free from 4 to 6 p.m., anyone who donates school supplies to be collected by the Milwaukee Indian Education Committee. Sponsored by North Star Mohican Casino. AND free Friday from 4 p.m.-midnight for PANTHERFEST ticket holders.

Sunday, Sept. 11: Free to participants in Dylan's 5K Run & Walk for Autism with 2011 Run & Walk t-shirt. Sign up with the Autism Society of Southeastern Wisconsin at 414-427-9345 or visit assew@execpc.com. AND Active military, retired veterans, first responders and law enforcement with I.D. AND From 9:30 to 10 a.m., those attending the 10 a.m. non-denominational Indian Summer Prayer Ceremony. AND "Turn Back the Clock" admission is $6 on Sunday to anyone wearing an Indian Summer T-shirt.

Regular festival hours are 4 p.m. to midnight Friday, noon to midnight Saturday, and 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Sunday. Ticket prices are $10 (advance), $12 (gate) for adults and children 12 and under are free. Seniors age 60+ will be admitted for $10 at the gate. The Indian Summer office is located at 10809 W. Lincoln Ave., Suite #101, West Allis, WI 53227. For more information, phone 414-604-1000 and visit www.indiansummer.org to follow on Twitter and become a fan on Facebook.

Site II Community Lighting

I would like to thank Councilman Delgado for his article in the July 28. 2011 edition of the Kalihwisaks. The article, and Chairman Delgado's comments at the inauguration, has indicated a potential concern regarding community lighting at Site II was worth inspecting.

Oneida Housing Authority Mission Statement

The Oneida Housing Authority will use all avenues to remedy unsafe and unsanitary conditions and will promote public health and safety for the present and future tenants and homebuyers.

As noted in our mission statement, Oneida Housing Authority is committed to promoting public health and safety. Upon inspection by Oneida Housing Authority staff there are 18 community street lights in Site II. It was further noted that Site I has 16 street lights and Tall Feather has 11 street lights. Each housing unit has lighting at the front and back door and on the garage or shed.

I invite tenants that observe burnt our street lights or those needing replacement lighting in their unit to please contact Oneida Housing Authority directly, so a work order can be developed and the repair completed. Oneida Housing Authority prefers that tenants forward such concerns directly to our office so as to not burden the Oneida Business Committee with matters that can be easily remedied between the landlord (OHA) and tenant.

As tenants, please forward your concerns directly to Oneida Housing Authority so we can look into resolving your concern. We ask that concerns be forwarded in writing so we can develop a documented history of the concern, which will support the documentation required by HUD as we resolve tenant concerns.

Please forward your written concerns in care of the applicable person:
- Lisa Vega – 869-6191 - for all rental tenants
- Julie Ann Cornelius – 869-6190 - for all home owners

Dawn Dark Mountain works on a watercolor painting at her home in Milwaukee, WI.

The Bear Paw Art Gallery, 2667 W. Mason St. Green Bay, is excited to host the art exhibit "Children of the Earth, Images of Turtle Island" from September 15 to October 4, 2011. This exhibit is composed of art work by Dawn Dark Mountain, a member of the Oneida Nation in Wisconsin and renowned watercolor/mixed media artist, who annually attends dozens of Indian Art Markets and Shows around the country. Since June she has had successful shows in Madison; the Woodland [illegible] Indian Market in Chicago, and the Santa Fe Indian Market in New Mexico. Because of her busy schedule, the Bear Paw Art Gallery is honored to be able to host her exhibit of award winning art here in Green Bay.

Presently, Bear Paw Art Gallery has one of her pieces of art on display, and it typifies what is in store for the visitors to the "Children of the Earth, Images of Turtle Island" exhibit. You can see her framed sculptural watercolor/mixed media "Song of the Evergreens" on display at 2667 W. Mason St., Green Bay. Dawn Dark Mountain is a story teller who brings the spirit of all natural things to life in her artwork. As she explains her interpretation of "Song of the Evergreens:" It was the slender trees with the needle-thin leaves that remembered their promise to the Creator. They kept watch over all the living things through the long winters while the other trees slept. Thus, they were promised that while the other trees lost their leaves every autumn, they would be honored and allowed to keep their green color, the color of life, through all the year.

Dawn Dark Mountain will be available at Bear Paw Keepsakes on September 14, 2011 for an interview as she curates her exhibit. You may call 920-713-8030 for an appointment.

Dawn Dark Mountain will be available to open the exhibit at 2667 W. Mason St., on September 15, 2011 from 10am to 2pm. During this time she will be demonstrating and explaining her style of art, and will welcome visitors who want to meet and speak with her.

Mentorship Initiative to learn the Onʌyóte·aka language

By Laura Cornelius
Curriculum Specialist

We would like to introduce a new initiative to mentor people who would like to learn the Onʌyote?a·ká· language! This Mentorship program is an intensive program that will demand a great deal of concentrated time and effort on the part of the Mentee. We are looking for dedicated people to apply for participation in this program. Not everyone who would like to study their language is able to invest in the serious amount of time and effort required to participate.

If you would like to apply for this program you MUST contact the ANA Grant Creating Language Learning Environment by Friday, September 9, 2011. We are located at Cottage 2, 1240 Packerland Drive, Green Bay, WI 54304

The requirements of the mentorship program are:

1. You must have 3-5 years of previous language experience with (i.e. ONSS, Elder, Language classes) and/or ability to pass an oral assignment exam at interview using the Oneida Nation of Wisconsin language website Unit 1 - Level 1. Http://www.oneidanation.org/language
2. The Mentor/Mentee team will acknowledge their understanding and acceptance of the program expectations when they sign the Mentor/Mentee Language Learning Agreement.
3. Must be willing to commit to the Ukwehuwehnéha Aetwatwʌnu·táhkwe? Mentor/Mentee Model program for at least 1 year.
4. Mentee's will be required to spend a minimum of 20 hours a week learning and practicing the Onʌyote?a·ká· language.

Any questions or if you would like more information on this initiative please call:

"A Division investing in the future for our Nation and Our Community"

Second in a series

Development Division: Department of Public Works

Who We Are

The Oneida Department of Public Works includes the following Departments: Automotive, Grounds keeping, Facilities, Custodial, Plumbing, and Roads. DPW's primary function is to provide for the maintenance and care of the Tribe's vehicles, buildings, grounds, and roads. In addition, DPW coordinates their efforts with numerous other departments to accomplish work that is above and beyond their primary function of maintenance.

What We Do

The DPW Plumbing department and Electrical Department were sub-contractors for the constructed VFW post. Many of the labor hours to complete this project were donated by DPW and not charged to the project. DPW has performed work for several capital improvement projects including Social Services and NHC capital improvements, Radisson Hotel Remodeling, and the Thornberry Golf course upgrade. The Tribe realizes savings in construction costs, has quality work completed, and is able to employ and train Oneida members in the Trades. DPW continues to maintain the new VFW post which has already been widely used by the veterans and the community.

Over the past several years, DPW has been successful in completing numerous energy saving lighting projects including:

- The Turtle School corridor lights
- 172 child care rooms
- Health Center lobby
- Civic Center gym
- NHC High School
- Social Services Building cottages

In March of last year the Department of Energy awarded the Tribe a $324,700 Energy Efficiency & Conservation Block Grant. Applying for this grant was a concerted effort between the Environmental Resource Board, Environmental Health and Safety Department, and the Department of Public Works. As shown in the chart below, much of the grant will go directly to energy efficient lighting within tribally owned building, approximately $247,350. The DPW electrical department will be installing all of the new lighting fixtures and related equipment. In addition, the Turtle School fixtures to be installed have been funded through Bureau of Education funds. DPW makes every effort to secure and/or be reimbursed through outside funding sources whenever possible.

Savings In-house: Technicians, plumbers, electricians conduct routine tasks

In the year, there have many department moves from one office to another and/or one building to another. These moves are all coordinated through DPW and the physical move itself is carried out by DPW personnel. In addition to moving offices and personnel, DPW coordinates with various departments sponsoring major events for their specific grounds keeping, maintenance, custodial, and electrical needs. These major events have included the Taste of Oneida, Oneida Powwow, GTC meetings at the Turtle, and Relay for Life. Of major importance is supporting an event that is safe, secure, and has provisions in place if inclement weather occurs.

DPW has made major improvements over the past few years and especially the last year in the area of Fire & Life Safety. The documentation, scheduling, and communication on the maintenance and inspections have drastically improved. DPW coordinates the inspection and preventative maintenance for:

- Building sprinkler systems
- Fire monitoring systems
- Building security
- Elevator maintenance
- generators
- Boilers
- Back flow prevention devices

These systems are maintained to meet state codes, state permitting requirements, and all department licensing requirements as are needed for areas such as the schools, child care facilities, and nursing home. By coordinating the inspection of the life safety systems through one department, the Tribe incurs savings through efficient scheduling, volume discounts on supplies, and longer life of equipment. DPW technicians, plumbers, and electricians are able to perform installation and troubleshooting of many of the life safety systems also providing savings by performing the work without needing outside contractors.

Automotive Department

Who We Are

The Automotive Department works with 150 Tribal Departments. The Oneida Nation owns 199 vehicles. This department provides repairs and maintenance on Tribal owned vehicles and equipment.

What We Do

Just some of the services provided are:

- brakes
- tune ups
- oil changes
- tires (Repairs or Replace)
- suspension & drive lines services
- battery replacement
- electrical and charging system services
- many other services as required.
- 24-hour emergency repairs and towing service to all Tribal departments should an emergency occur during and after business hours.

There are also many duties and tasks performed from our DPW HVAC (Heating, Ventilating and Air Conditioning) technicians to keep our many facilities heating and air conditioning working properly: Working conditions for HVAC technicians are not ideal. Work may take place in cramped, cold, or hot conditions. We have many units located on roofs or outside. Here are some examples of what our DPW HVAC technicians do on a day to day basis:

- Some replacement installations of HVAC units, including electronic and mechanical components
- General preventative maintenance which includes changing air filters, belts and general system checks and lubrication.
- Clean evaporator and condenser coils.
- Troubleshoot and repair HVAC units including electronic and mechanical components
- Conserve, install and recycle CFC and HCFC (Chlorofluorocarbon family) refrigerants
- Troubleshoot, install or repair electrical connections to HVAC components
- Troubleshoot, install or repair HVAC system automation components DDC (Direct Digital Controls)

Who We Service

The Electrical Department has been pro active in self performing electrical projects. Our approach is to continually take on new challenges to expand the knowledge, experience and skill level of our Tribal Electricians. Some successful projects completed are:

- The Oneida Veterans Post
- Elderly Service Connector
- Numerous up grades at the Oneida Health Center in pharmacy
- Dental areas
- X-ray areas
- Installation of Fire Alarm and paging systems
- Electrical work at Skenanadoah and Thornberry Creek
- Several lighting efficiency retrofits

We also assist the Utilities Department for service calls at the Waste Water Treatment Plant and at lift stations. We have completed several initial contact work orders for Elderly Services and have now taken on data cabling duties at MIS.

Plumbing Department

Who We Are

The Plumbing Department has a combined 120 years of experience in this field and a staff that can do any type of plumbing work needed. Our staff is a Wisconsin State approved license to work on any projects in this field of work on the Oneida tribe's reservation. We have 2 Master Plumbers, 1 Journeyman, 1 Wells, 1 Restricted Journeymen, and 1 Apprentice Plumber. We also have other state approved licenses with some of our staff: 3 Wells, 2 POWT's Inspections, 1 Cross Connection, 2 Boilers, and 2 Commercial Inspectors.

What We Do

Oneida Plumbing is a department that can do it all in their field of profession. Most of our competitors only do their own type of plumbing, (Commercial, Residential, Septic's, and Service Calls) that leaves Oneida as your complete Plumbing Department. Plumbing work offered by the Plumbing Department includes:

- Commercial
- Residential,
- Septic System and Tanks
- Well Work
- Cross Connection
- Water Heaters
- Softeners
- Service Work

Who We Service

Oneida Plumbing is here to install and maintain plumbing to protect and serve our community. The Plumbing Department has worked on countless jobs in Oneida; they include all the Casino jobs, (Main and Imac, Westwind, West Mason, Double EE, and the Travel Center) Radisson Towers, The new Veterans Building, Parish Hall, Little Bear, the Turtle School, and Norbert Hill remodeling jobs. We also have worked on most of the Residential homes with Oneida Housing Authority in all of our sites. We have worked on all of the Tribes Septic and Wells Systems, Indian Health Service (IHS), Tribal Buildings, and do service calls ON and OFF the Reservation. We are also licensed to work Off the Reservation.

More to come in the September 8th issue of the Kalihwisaks!

Look for our 3rd part in this series, when we focus on the Engineering Department, the Oneida Zoning Department and the Oneida Geographic Land Information Systems (GLIS).

Elder Financial Abuse/Exploitation

By Joyce A. Johnson
Elder Abuse Prevention Supervisor
Oneida Elder Services

Elder Abuse is one subject that many of us do not like to talk about or even think about.

Unfortunately it is one of those sad truths that occur daily in our society and tragically even in our Indian Communities.

One form of elder abuse is Financial Exploitation. This means to obtain an elder's money or property by deceiving or enticing the individual, or by forcing, compelling, or coercing the individual to give, sell at less than fair market value, or in other ways convey money or property against his or her will without his or her informed consent.

In a few weeks many of our Oneida Tribal members will be receiving Per Capita payments. These Per Capita payments help our membership to purchase many necessities that we may have to go without. Many of our elders will use this extra income to buy furniture, clothing, and other items that their limited incomes may not allow at any other time during the year.

Our Indian culture and traditions have taught us the importance of respecting and caring for our elders. During the few weeks following this monetary disbursement many of us who receive this Per Capita will use the funds to pay bills and purchase some other nice things. For those few who might use this as an opportunity to "borrow" from your elder family members or friends, please respect their right to use their funds for their own needs. All elders have the right to stand firm and refuse to be enticed/coerced into lending funds or property at any time.

If you feel an elder community member is being financially exploited please contact the Oneida Elder Abuse Prevention Supervisor at (920)869-2448 x 6833

Time: 8:30 A.M. to 4:30 P.M.
LUNCH INCLUDED!!

We will be hosting an all-day event and will feature speakers from the different areas of abuse, the signs to look for if you suspect abuse of an elder, and how to protect yourself from physical and emotional abuse. Familiarization with the investigative process of abuse will be an additional topic and will help to alleviate some of the fear that elder victims may have about an investigation.
This event is intended for elders, caregivers, and anyone else who wishes to learn more about elder abuse.

We will have speakers:
• Oneida Police Department Detective, Ronald King Jr.
• Elder Abuse Coordinator, Brown County Sexual Assault Center, Bonnie Coonen
• A speaker for Domestic Violence
• A speaker for Financial Exploitation

The Effect of Per Capita Distributions On Public Benefits

As many of you are aware the Per Capita for 2011 will be distributed is a short time from now. This payment will generally affect only needs based benefits. Benefits not based on need should not be affected. The affect will be the same as in the past, needs based benefits will be cut off for a general time period (which will be sent in written notice to the recipient) in hopes to spend down cash/checking/savings account to the $2,000 limit for an individual and $3,000 for a couple. As in most needs based programs, the program recipient (tribal member receiving the Per Capita) has an obligation to report all changes in income, such as a Per Capita, to their case worker.

Programs that should not be affected by a Per Capita distribution:

- Social Security Retirement Benefits
- Social Security Survivors Benefits
- Social Security Disability Benefits
- Medicare (Part A, Part B, and Part D)
- Service-connected Veteran's benefits

These benefits are usually only affected by income earned from wages and not unearned income.

Needs-based programs that may be affected by a Per Capita distribution:

- Supplemental Security Income (SSI) based on age
- Supplemental Security Income (SSI) based on disability
- Need- based Veteran's benefits
- QMB, SLMB, and SLMB +(Medicare Buy-In Programs)
- Food Stamps
- Medical Assistance
- Commodities
- W-2, TANF
- Section 8 / Housing Assistance Voucher
- Title V

To those who do receive Supplemental Security Income (SSI) based on age or disability:

Spend your money wisely. Only spending your money on necessary items to sustain your household and living conditions will be your way back to getting benefits once your money comes to an allowable amount. Please save all the receipts of your purchases. This is very important.

Any questions contact Angela Ortiz, Elder Benefit Specialist at (800) 867-1551 or (920) 869-2448.

Per-Capita Time

When Per Capita payments are made some will have to spend the money within the month in order to maintain certain public benefits to keep below the asset limits.

Elder Services' budget does not allow for the purchase of household appliances. The Loan Closet may have some for emergency use only, but that is not a guarantee. Please take a moment to inventory your appliances and or furniture. Take the time now to take stock of your household needs and try to determine beforehand what you might need to purchase. Remember the lifetime expectancy of some items are 10-15 years, perhaps now is the time for replacement.

Some suggested items you may need to purchase for your home:

Appliances:
- Energy Efficient Appliances
- Water Heater
- Stove
- Furnace
- Refrigerator
- Freezer upright or chest
- Washer and Dryer
- Air Conditioner/Centr al Air
- Water Softener Unit
- Humidifier /Dehumidifiers
- Sump Pump
- Toilet—High

Home Improvements:
- Carpet
- Windows
- Weatherization
- Security System

Household Items:
- Mattress and Box Spring
- Dressers
- Furniture

Maintenance:
- Lawn Mower or riding mower
- Snow Blower

Other Suggestions:

- Auto Purchase
- Clothing—Seasonal
- Blankets—Sheets—Pillows
- Kitchen Ware
- Storage Bins
- Light Fixtures
- Large print telephones
- Coats
- Boots—slippers
- Special Shoes
- Medical Aids

Prescription drug abuse impacting Oneida community

Oneida Community Health Center addressing the issue

Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

When used correctly, prescription medicine can help people combat illnesses, ease aches and pains and help individuals maintain a normal life. However, when medicines are abused, the substances can reek as much havoc as any illegal street drug.

According to a 2009 SAMHSA National Survey on Drug Use & Health, 6.2 percent American Indians and Alaskan Natives reported that they engaged in a non-medical use of prescription drugs. This rate was more than twice the percentage for whites at 3 percent, and higher than all other ethnic groups in the survey.

Director of Nursing Sandy Schuyler says OCHC will be putting in processes that will attempt to curb prescription drug abuse.

"We've had numerous experiences that clearly indicate an abuse and addiction of prescription medications," said Schuyler. "Some of the things we've see are emergency room hopping, we've seen doctor shopping, we've seen frequent, unscheduled refill requests with multiple excuses why they have to have it refilled early: they lost it, it fell into the toilet, they left town without the bottle, somebody stole it or sold it."

Schuyler and OCHC Physician Dr. Edward Szabo agree that a health care provider's desire to help someone who's suffering might get that health care provider into trouble.

"There's a lot of docs that mean well, but they're inadvertently writing for things that maybe aren't right, and that gets doctors in trouble with the state. Doctors could lose their license," said Dr. Szabo.

Attempts by individuals to get prescription medications drain the resources of OCHC.

"A good percent of the day's practice is fielding phone calls from patients who want refills on their medication that shouldn't be refilled," said Schuyler.

"Each provider probably gets a handful, maybe a dozen requests a day, said Dr. Szabo.

If a person fails to get the drugs from the Oneida Pharmacy, they will attempt to get medications through an emergency room or another pharmacy.

Another area of concern is people who use other people's prescription drugs.

"My concern with elders is the elders who are on pain medication legitimately, and I have family members calling and saying 'my brother, my sister, my cousin is taking Mom's pain pills' or 'my child's Adderall,'" said Schuyler.

The OCHC is tackling the problem through education and changing the procedures where doctors and outside healthcare providers write prescriptions.

"We know that most people take their prescription medications responsibility, however, we are trying to attempt to curb the prevalence of this problem in the Oneida Community Health Center with our providers, nursing staff, pharmacy and other providers in our Behavioral Healthcare staff. We are looking for an approach to this problem that is systematic," said Schuyler. Schuyler stated the OCHC will communicate the with the Oneida community through posters and outreach such as hosting a booth at General Tribal Council meetings.

"We hope to increase the awareness of the consequences associated with the misuse and abuse of these medications," she said.

The OCHC will begin systemizing how prescriptions are written and increase tracking of prescriptions.

"When a prescription comes in, we without knowing any information, have to do due diligence. In other words, we have to pull the chart, research it, look how often the medicines have been coming in, how often the request are, are the patients coming in to be seen on a regular basis, has everything been tried to help," said Dr. Szabo. "When the provider gets the final boiled down request after all the research has been done, it's a much simpler, much easier, much thought out process."

Patients with chronic pain will be referred to pain management centers. Those who are thought to have a problem with prescription drugs can be referred to Oneida Behavioral Health.

"When you're in that situation of 'I just want a drug, I just want my alcohol' or whatever it is, that is a power greater than we are, so we're trying to get those folks help, too," said Schuyler.

OCHC will also work with outside health care providers to address attempt by patients to get excess medication.

In September, the OCHC will be bringing Prosecutor Arthur Thexton who wil be given a community wide presentation to all OCHC providers and pharmacists. The Health Center will invite the Oneida Police Department, other Oneida departments and other area health care providers, pharmacists, and law enforcement personnel to the event.

"We want everyone to hear this," said Dr. Szabo.

Coordinator looks to lead gang task force

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The Oneida Gang Prevention Task Force felt a link was missing between the community and themselves. Antonio Doxtator, Oneida Gang Prevention Task Force Coordinator, is hoping to be that link.

Doxtator was hired about three months ago to provide a critical voice to the task force that is working hard keep Oneida communities safe.

"For years the gang task force has had limited resources to carry out some of their ideas and follow-up on community needs," said Doxtator's supervisor and Assistant Chief of Police at the Oneida Police Department Eric Boulanger. "With the coordinator in place it gives (the task force) a voice to pass along those ideas and address the gang issues in our community by coordinating and actively involving our members through education, prevention and intervention."

The task force consists of roughly 20 members who are appointed by the tribe's Joint Executive Team along with community members. The group's goal is to eliminate gang related activity and to offer positive alternatives for the community.

According to task force member Julie Denny, the group formed in 1995 after a rash of gang related activity in Oneida Housing Authority's neighborhoods.

"At that time there were probably five to seven core group members," recalled Denny. "Site II was getting hit with a lot of new activity (like) graffiti and vandalism. When it was brought to the community I wanted to be part of it."

Doxtator was born and grew up in Milwaukee. WI. He has an Associate's Degree in Human Services from Milwaukee Area Technical College and a Bachelor's Degree in Community Education from the University of Wisconsin – Milwaukee.

"Coming from Milwaukee there is a serious gang problem. As a youth it affected my life. I made a list at one point where 20 American Indian youth that I knew died from gangs, drugs, and alcohol. That right there made me want to work in this area," Doxtator said.

Doxtator has been working with American Indian youth since 1996 by providing cultural and prevention activities with churches, organizations, and schools in the Milwaukee area.

"Antonio brings life experience, (he) grew up in Milwaukee and lived in an area affected by gang issues," said Boulanger. "In Antonio's years he has educated himself and dedicated much of his time to working with youth in gang prevention, not only by coordinating youth programs, but using Native American culture to promote his ideas. Antonio is now dedicated to bring that philosophy to our community."

Denny's idea that Doxtator will be that link between the task force and community is one close to her heart after her son was killed in 2000.

"All of those components involving gangs, drugs, alcohol, and violence took his innocent life," she said. "It is a driver for me to make sure no other family has to go through what we did."

Denny also feels that Doxtator will help the group become more proactive than reactive.

"We need to educate the community. We hold culture camps for the local youth and we just had our national night out," Doxtator said. "We are trying to have youth avoid looking at joining gangs. I can't do it all, but I can help."

Rockin' at Bradstock

Impact of prescription drug abuse felt by OBH

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Nationwide, prescription drug abuse has been a growing problem, and Oneida Behavioral Health (OBH) Manager Mari Kriescher says her department has seen a rise of addiction in the community.

"We have noticed an increase with the prescription drug use," said Kriescher. "Stimulants, people's medication for ADHD, people will either be abusing those prescription drugs or they obtain the drugs for themselves and sell it on the street."

Adolescents are most likely to use prescription drugs in a recreational manner.

"We've seen them as young as nine years old, but it's more the adolescent 13-14 see getting into other drugs," she said.

Often, youth obtain drugs such as pain killers or anti-anxiety medications through relatives.

"You're really seeing it from taking other people's medications. They can have access to it anywhere, if it's your grandma's house, if it's aunties, uncles, where ever there's somebody who take prescription medication, they have access to it," said Kriescher.

Youth will also abuse stimulant medication prescribed for the treatment of attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder (ADHD).

"It's a combination, for youth, you're going to see where they're abusing somebody else's (prescription drugs), unless they're prescribed stimulant medication. But if the parents are controlling it, you won't see it if the parent is actively involved in their child's treatment," she said.

Young people might increase the danger of using prescription drugs by mixing different medications.

"They actually have parties where … they do a pill dump and then people just take whatever, and that can be really dangerous."

The misuse of prescription drugs can affect anyone of any age, however.

"We're seeing it in the elderly, too. It's kind of like a … silent thing that's there that … society as a whole does not pay enough attention to the elderly and how many prescriptions elders actually get. They may not even realize it because they're prescribed it, that's the mistake that happens, is when people are on … 'the doctor prescribed it to me so I can take it,' but may not be taking it how it was prescribed, so some of our elders kind of get into that little trap," said Kriescher. "Addiction is pretty powerful, it can take a hold on you before you even realize it's happening."

OBH receives federal funding from Indian Health Services (IHS) and its programs are available to Native Americans enrolled in federally recognized tribes.

Oneida hosts Four Nations Elders Picnic

Kali photos/Travis Cottrell

Oneida hosted the annual Four Nations Elderly Picnic at the former Tower Foods building on August 26, 2011. The event hosted elders from the Oneida, Menominee, Stockbridge-Munsee, and Ho-Chunk nations. Elders took part in games of bingo, raffles, lunch, and jigging contests. Cherry Bounce provided the musical beats for the elder jigging contest.

Siblings hurt by powerlines

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Family members are pulling together in the wake of an accident that injured siblings Gerald and Kiana Williams of Pulaski.

On Thursday, August 25 Gerald, age 11, attempted to knock a ball out of a tree using interlocking tent poles. He accidently hit the electrical power lines near the tree. According to their aunt Rosemary Williams, Kiana, age 12, jumped into action.

"Basically, she saved his life. She grabbed the pole and pushed the pole away from the wire, and by doing that she got hurt along with him," said Rosemary.

The two were flown to Children's Hospital of Wisconsin near Milwaukee and put into medically induced comas.

"My niece is up, she's talking to people," said Rosemary in an interview on Monday, August 29. Gerald came out of his coma the evening of Wednesday, August 31.

Kiana and Gerald both suffered burns and will have to undergo skin grafts and physical therapy. Their mother Kelly has stayed at the hospital while their father Jerry has made the commute on the weekends.

"He's trying to work to make ends meet so he can come back and forth," said his sister Rosemary. "He got a vehicle from our cousin, and he lets them use it for basically as long as they need it."

The family needs financial help for travel expenses while Kiana and Gerald begin their long road to recovery.

"They're good kids and they need help right now," said Rosemary.

Donations can be made to the Gerald and Kiana Williams Benefit Account at any Associated Bank.

"We do the initial assessment and then we provide a treatment based on level of care," she said.

OBH offers intensive outpatient counseling and after care counseling to Native Americans who have been residents of Brown or Outagamie Counties for at least six months. OBH also has IHS funds for inpatient treatment for youth aged 21 and younger.

While OBH cannot offer methadone treatment for addiction to opates found in pain killers such as OxyContin, it offers treatment with the drug Suboxone.

"It is an alternative, they still need to get the assessment completed to determine if they're appropriate for the program or not, so there needs to be some motivation to really get clean," said Kriescher.

Unfortunately, the rise in prescription drug abuse comes at a time of shrinking resources for Oneida Behavioral Health.

"Our access to care has been an issue with getting people in. It's because the need keeps growing and we don't have enough resources to meet the need," said Kriescher.

To address access issues, the department has created Wellness Support Services which offers group counseling five days a week and is available to Native Americans enrolled in in a federally recognized tribes and their descendants , non-tribal spouses, and non-tribal foster or adopted children or stepchildren. It's also open to Non-tribal legal guardians of enrolled tribal members.

"We're really trying to insure wellness, that's the bottom line. How do we get people well, and it takes time," she said.

Passing On...

Hurst, Richard W.
January 23, 1931 – August 24, 2011

Richard W. Hurst, age 80, passed away Wednesday, August 24, 2011 at St. Mary's Hospital in Green Bay with Zelda, his ray of sunshine, at his side. Richard blessed his parents, Herbert and Marion Hurst, with his entrance to this world on January 23, 1931 and continued to enrich their lives in The Hollow on Beaulieu Hill.

A native of Kaukauna and long-time resident of Milwaukee, Richard was employed as a semi-truck driver for several decades until his retirement in 1991. After retirement, Richard moved to Green Bay and lived on the Oneida Indian Reservation until the time of his death.

A deft storyteller with no concept of time while spinning a tale, Richard is survived by his dear friend Zelda and his six children: daughter Vicki (Mark) Ott and his grandchildren Jason (Kim) Ott, Mandy (Mike) Wick, and Molly Ott; daughter Sandy (Jeff) Stumpf and his grandchildren Heath (Jill) Stumpf and Andrea (Reynaldo) Guerrero; son Daniel (Karen) Hurst and his grandchildren Rory (Kate) Hurst, Matthew (Mandi) Hurst, Abby (Nickolas) Davis, Hannah (Daniel) Knudsen, and Jordan Hurst; daughter Cathy (Glen) Hennes and his grandchildren Leah (Kevin) Micke, Theresa Jansen, Sam (Christine) Kilgas, and Charlie (fiancé Margaret) Kilgas; son Mike Hurst and friend Brandon; son Pat (Lisa) Hurst and his grandchildren Alex and Emma. His family tree also blossoms with 19 great-grandchildren.

The lifetime Baltimore Colt and Johnny Unitas fan is further survived by his sister Elaine Hungerford, his brother and sister-in-law Jim and Jane Hurst, and his sister-in-law Pauline Hurst. In addition, he is remembered by Zelda's children Roxanne, Gary, and Dale and her family.

A lover of coconut sticks from Hilltop Bakery and pro football, R.W. spent many Sundays wearing his Colt jersey while watching Packer games, which he never acknowledged as a contradiction because "They're in the other conference." He also enjoyed car rides with Zelda to visit with family members which included stops at the casino, once on the way there and once on the way back. In retirement, Richard referred to his time at the casino as "going to work!" A willing listener, Richard recognized only the good in the people he knew and loved. Laughter came easily and often to Richard and to those who shared in his company.

Richard was preceded in death by his parents, his brothers Gerald "Lanky" Hurst and Marvin Hurst, brother-in-law Marlyn "Mert" Hungerford, special friend Theresa Marquardt, childhood friend Billy Rogers and a slew of original "Beaulieu Hill Bandits," too numerous to mention here. In death as in life, Richard's final farewell would be "So long…"

Shekoli, Chief.

The Boettcher Funeral Home in Kaukauna, WI coordinated the funeral arrangements for the family. Funeral Services were on Monday, August 29, 2011.

In Loving Memory

In Loving Memory of...
John Powless Sr.

My memory of 9/11
is that next day my Dad passed on and went to heaven
I knew he wasn't going alone because all those souls were going home
I said so long Dad, but not good bye even back then Dad
I knew you would drop by to say hi
I know when i miss you Dad, it's when you're here
I know if i'm quiet pops, you'll whisper ...near whether a message for Mom or Mariea, it always feels good pops that I can hear ya
I always know you're not far away and when struggle sets in and my head's down to pray you're right by my side your hand on my shoulder
the reason I know Dad
it's your pipe smoke odor:)
it's not sadness or loneliness I feel it's a warmth in my heart that allows me heal it's the happiness in my spirit that I am blessed because my dear sweet Dad
you are the best nothing more could a girl ask for is a Dad like you that still loves ever after

♥ Love you Dad ♥

In Loving Memory of Angie Powless
on her birthday…

Mom,
Thanks for the memories.

Civil war lecture

Civil War Lecture Series: Oneidas in the Civil War, Presented by Loretta Metoxen September 28 6:30 p.m. Free

Join Loretta Metoxen as she discusses various aspects of the Oneida soldier's participation in the Civil War. The Oneida Indians, the first allies of the thirteen colonies during the Revolutionary War, were removed from their New York homelands to Wisconsin in the early 1800s. Despite the broken treaties, they eagerly volunteered for the Union Army during the Civil War. More than 10% of the Oneida community served and at least 46 of those were either killed, missing in action or died of disease. Thirty- two Oneida soldiers remain buried in the South and the Oneidas would like to bring their remains home.

These programs are funded in part by a grant from the Wisconsin Humanities Council, with funds from the National Endowment for the Humanities and the State of Wisconsin.

Greendeer uses nontraditional approach in Indian law focus

By David Ziemer
Up and Coming Lawyers, Wisconsin Law Journal

Attorney Samantha Greendeer's career has been focused from the start toward practicing Indian law, specifically preserving cultural resources.

Before attending law school, Greendeer, 37, worked for the Ho-Chunk Nation in Black River Falls as a researcher in heritage preservation.

In that capacity, she successfully fought efforts by Perrier to bottle water from a sacred Ho-Chunk site. Based on that experience, she decided to take the LSAT.

She specifically chose the University of Denver for law school, she said, based on its Indian law program and its emphasis on innovative ways to use traditional legal concepts to preserve sacred Indian sites.

After graduation, she was in-house attorney with the Ho-Chunk tribe, of which she is an enrolled member. Now, for the last five years, she has practiced primarily Indian law at Whyte Hirschboeck Dudek SC.

Attorney Samantha Greendeer

Her approach is not Indian law-based, however, as the traditional Indian law approach to tribal issues has been a losing one, she said. Instead, she has found success looking to traditional property law.

Among the projects she has worked on is a controversial proposal to install wind turbine generators off the coast of Cape Cod. The proposed project sits directly over a sacred tribal site of the Wampanoag Tribe of Gay Head, also known as the People of the First Light.

Members of the tribe, who have a tradition of praying at the site every morning at sunrise, object to the project because its turbines would block their view and permanently damage the tribe's ancestral burial ground.

Although Greendeer is not participating in the litigation to challenge the decision to go forward with the project, she handled the administrative proceedings for the tribe and said it is in an excellent position for litigation.

Twahwahtsílayʌ (Dwah wah jeeleye) – We All Are Family

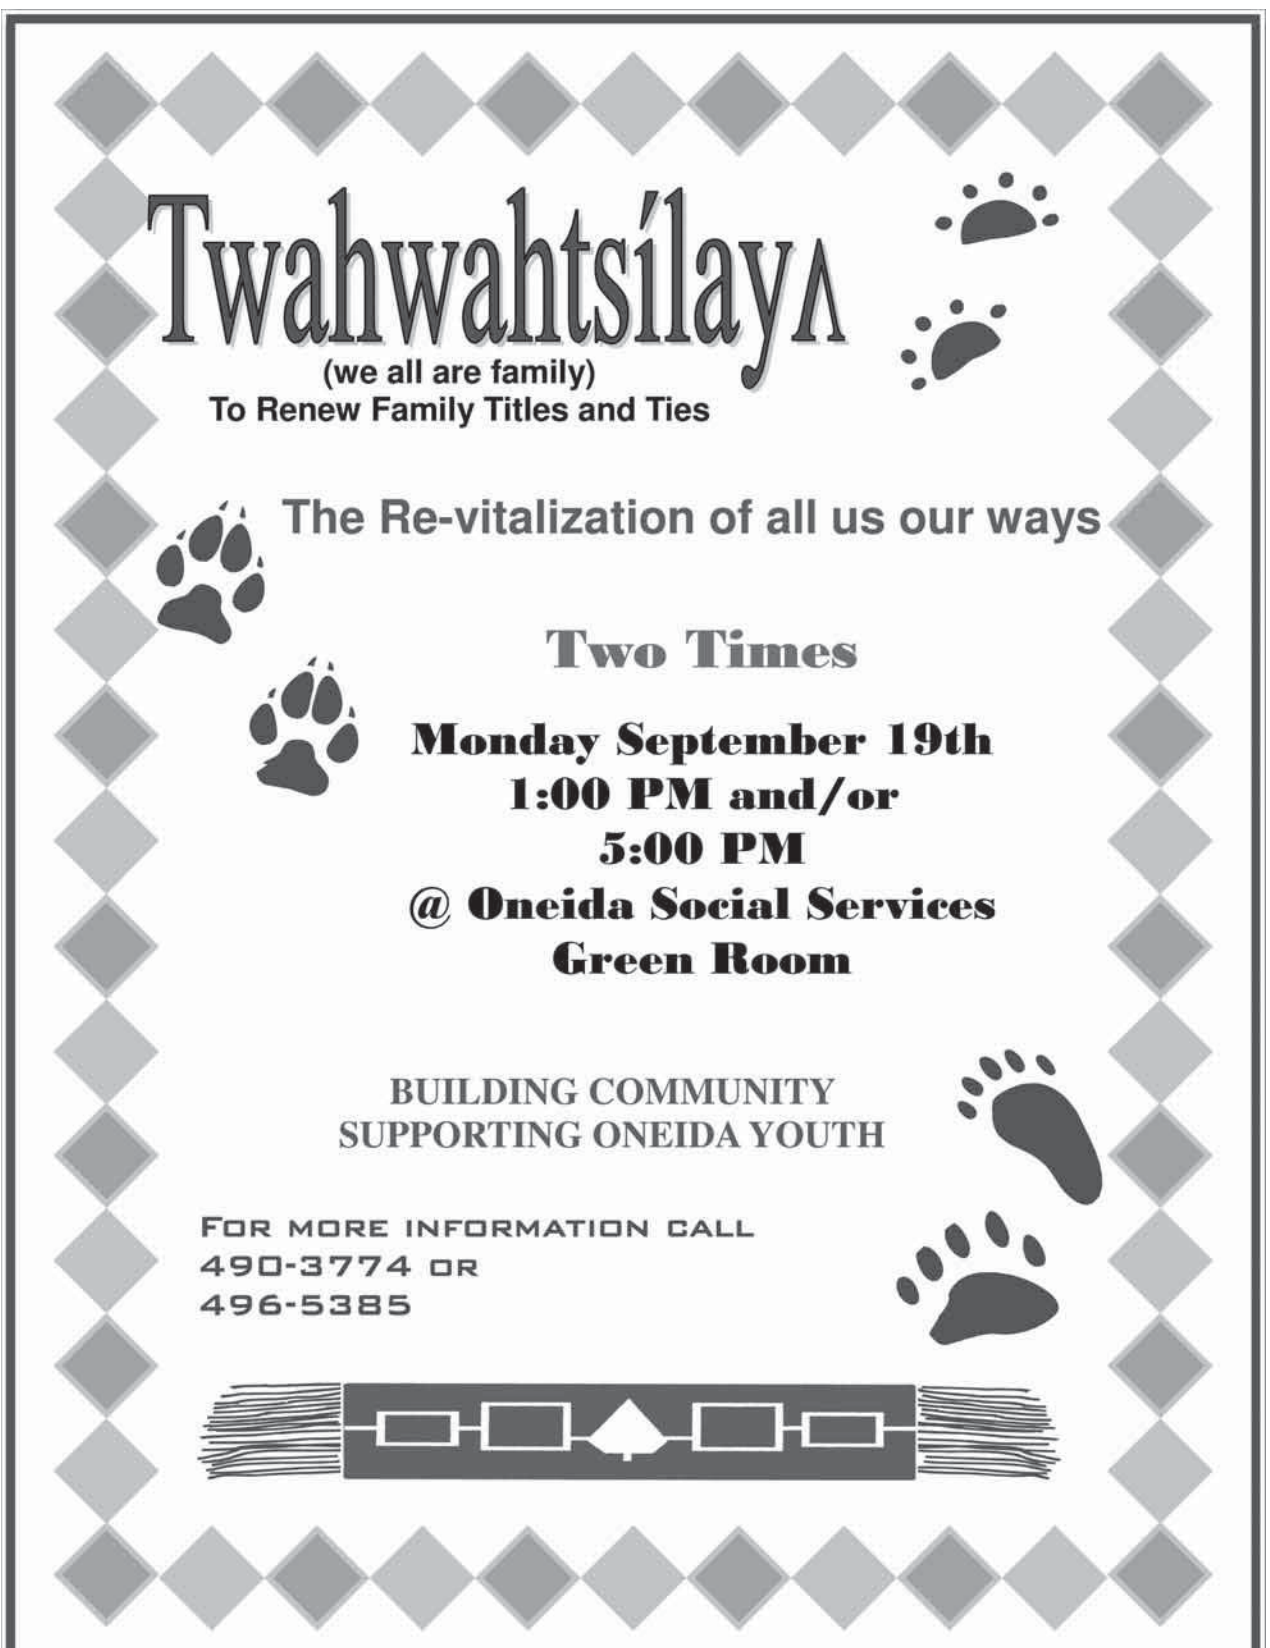
Come join us on September 19th

Everything is moving forward. A new school year has begun. New training opportunities are being planned. Twahwahtsílayʌ (Dwah wah jeeleye) begins its second year. It is time to come together and look at where we have been and where we are going. It is time to hear from the community and other stakeholders what they are looking for and where we wish to go. It is time to ask how can we come together to strengthen our youth, support our families, and build community.

For your convenience, we have set-up two meetings times on September 19th. The first will be at 1:00PM and the second at 5:00PM. Both will be held in the Green Room at Oneida Social Services. If you are coming to the 5:00 meeting, please fell free to bring a dish to share. If you are attending the 1:00 meeting, a dessert or snack is welcome.

There will be:



updates on the project and the three programs needs for the programs and youth requests for your opinions and suggestions

Please bring your good ideas and positive outlooks.

For more information please call Ron Hill at 920-496-5385 or myself Alex Lei-Nako at 920-490-3774.

BACKGROUND ON BUSINESS

Bear Paw Keepsakes to add Cafe

Cafe menu will feature healthy food choices

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

In the rear of Bear Paw Keepsakes' quaint shop sits a noticeably bare area where Duck Creek Coffee was once housed. A strange sight considering the tables, couches, and stools that once filled the area. Now the glaring question facing owners Stanley and Loretta Webster is, what to do with the space? Answering that question proved to be difficult.

"We knew we wanted food, we knew we wanted drinks back there because it was all set up for that. People are expecting it and it was an excellent compliment to the gift shop," said Loretta Webster

This is when accomplished chef Arley Doxtator brought forward an idea to transform the vacant space into a café-style eatery. Doxtator has over 25 years of experience as a chef, serving as an executive chef at The Wellington in Green Bay as well as executive chef at The Radisson. He has also owned and operated his own restaurant in Green Bay.

Arley Doxtator stands in the empty kitchen area of Bear Paw Keepsakes that will soon be transformed into Bear Paw Cafe.

"We're going to do a concept, which means basically were going to start with lunch service. Simple things like soups, salads, and sandwiches. Were going to do some cultural foods as well as expand on some different flavors," Doxtator said.

The area will be called Bear Paw Café, upon its opening will feature foods that focus on nutrition.

Doxtator explains his plans for the cuisine, "My cooking style is very simple. Very simple food but at the same time its going to be very nutritious. Health conscious, portion conscious, that's the way the food trends are going. The menu will reflect a lot of seasonality and we're going to use a lot of local produce from farmer's markets and Tsyunhehkwa. We will have some nice coffees and teas as well. It's going to be a place you can come to get a wholesome lunch but at the same time have something that is unique to Bear Paw Café."

Doxator intends to make the food he serves as creative and unique as the artwork that adorns the walls, counters, and tabletops of the store. The idea of art and food complimenting each other is an aspect the businesses aim to utilize.

"We don't want to take away from what keepsakes has going as far as their business, but rather compliment the gift shop by drawing in more people for lunch and giving them more foot traffic and the same on the other side, those visiting the gift shop can stop and buy a sandwich or a coffee," Doxtator said.

The Bear Paw Café is planning a grand opening for early October at their store located at 2667 W. Mason St., Green Bay, WI. The store will also put on events such as artist features or demonstrations where people can come in and visit with a featured artist see them work live, ask questions, and enjoy healthy food.

Big Brothers Big Sisters and the Oneida Community

You can impact a child's life by being the supportive and accepting mentor a child needs to succeed. By joining Big Brothers Big Sisters, you will be able to provide regular, consistent and meaningful contact to a child by doing activities such as academics, board games, sports, and arts/crafts at the Oneida Civic Center-Site 1 (2913 Artley St.)

Big Brothers Big Sisters will match you to a child based on your personality, preferences and interests. You will spend time with that child on a weekly basis throughout the school year at Site-1 on the day (M-F) and time (between 3:00-8:00 P.M.) that fits your schedule best!

As you can see, you don't have to change your life to change the life of a child. Just call to sign-up for an interview today, so we can match you to a child soon. Chairman's Corner...

Ed Delgado
Chairman

Sagoli.

This is my first Update to the Oneida people as Tribal Chairman. The purpose of the Updates will be to inform Oneidas about issues concerning our Tribe, our people. These Updates are also intended to let you the people know that I am trying hard to earn the money you pay me to serve you.

Issue 1.- Oneida Indian Resettlement Act Proposal

During the recent election campaign, I ran on my belief that it's of utmost importance that we, the Oneida survive as Oneida people and as a self-governing Tribe with the sovereign ability to regulate our own lands and our own people. I also expressed my concern about the ever increasing non-Oneida population on our Reservation and the negative effect that the population shift has upon our treaty rights to exist as a people and as a nation. Often, I said, "We are becoming more and more an insignificant minority in our own homeland." I feel that if this issue is left unaddressed much longer, we will not survive as a sovereign Tribe on to the next 7 generations.

As Oneida Tribal Chairman, I am proposing the development of a law I call the "Oneida Indian Resettlement Act." The primary purpose of the Act will be to provide more resources and/or land to Oneidas so that many more Oneidas would be able to live here on the Oneida Indian Reservation. For too long, our children have been forced to live off the Reservation because there is no housing available for them. As a result of the Oneida Indian Resettlement Act, within the next 20 years, I would like to see 10,000 more Oneida people living within the boundaries of the Reservation. Truly then, the Oneida Indian Reservation would again be Oneida Country.

Issue 2. - New Business Committee's Vision.

The newly elected Oneida Business Committee spent much of its first 2 weeks in Office in transition during which time we reviewed the functions of the many entities of the Tribe. We also developed our collective vision for this term. The Vision is, "In 3 years, this OBC will aggressively resettle the Oneida Indian Reservation as a beautiful and vibrant community where 1,000 additional Oneida people live."

Issue 3. – Assisted Living Facility Price Concern

At the most recent HALO (Hobart, Ashwabenoun, Oneida, Lawrence) meeting, Hobart official Elaine Willman reported that the Village of Hobart is building a 50 bed assisted living facility for approximately 6 million dollars. Our Oneida 48 bed assisted living facility is going to cost us 14 million dollars. In response to the disparity in pricing, my Office under the direction of my Senior Policy Advisor Diane House arranged a meeting with Mrs. Willman; our Chief Financial Officer Larry Barton; Community member Yvonne Metivier, Hobart's Developer for the facility Mr. Vince Cassiasni, Ph.D., and herself. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the disparity between spending 6 million and spending 14 million for what seems to be essentially the same type of facility. My Office will keep you the Tribal membership updated on this issue.

Thanks for reading.

Treasurer's Report

By Cristina Danforth
Tribal Treasurer

Sheku,

Fall weather and the changes of another season is upon us and I hope everyone is well. School is back in session and a newly elected Oneida Business Committee (OBC) is hard at work.

We have spent three weeks getting orientated and working on a collective vision and strategy. Some of the components we are considering are increased housing, improved services, job creation, revitalizing our enterprises, supporting quality education, streamlining the organizational structure and fiscal policy support. Our specific strategy is still pending final approval and it is anticipated that we will communicate this plan in order to keep everyone informed of our expectations.

As many of you may be aware we are going to move forward with a Continuing Resolution for the Fiscal Year 2012 operating budget. The new OBC shall be finalizing the currently proposed budget and has scheduled a November General Tribal Council meeting to approve the budget.

From a financial standpoint we are at the end of another annual budget cycle. Here are a few highlights from the Treasurer's report that was given at the July GTC Meeting. The proposed and approved budget for fiscal year 2011 is $479.1million. Our funding sources are as follows: 63% Tribal Enterprises, 13% Tribal Allocations, 11% Grants and 9% is Other Sources. Our Operational Budget is $367.4 million and its' expenses are Operations 46%; salaries and Fringe Benefits 39%; and Cost of Sales 15%. We employed 2,992 workers which is down from 3,127 from this time a year ago. For 2011 we secured a $30 million bond issuance that includes following CIP projects: Oneida Resident Centered Care Community, Elder Apartment Improvements, Social Services Building Remodel, Oneida Dental Reception Remodel, a Community Events Area, two Sewer System Improvements (Cora House/Aliskwet), Norbert Hill Center Remodel, Tsyuhenkwa Remodel, SEOTS New Facility, Community Park Improvements, Signage Replacements and the Ridgeview Remodel. We are fortunate to have this much activity and the ability to finance them through the municipal bonds.

The my office and Finance Department continues to strive for efficiency and will make recommendations for the Oneida Tribe and the OBC that afford the best possible decisions based on our size, location, demographics, revenue sources and community driven goals.

I would like to thank the Oneida community for their continued support and its commitment to strengthen the sovereignty of the Oneida tribe.

OBC Forum...

Vince DelaRosa
Councilman

I hope this report finds you and your family in good health and great spirits. I want to send a big thank you to the Oneida voters for their support this year. I am so honored to have another opportunity to serve the Oneida people.

Currently, my office is doing review work in over 45 areas of policy. I have made several site visits and I am working hard to make positive things happen for the Oneida people. My new staffer is Mrs. Cathy Bachhuber, I am very proud of her personal commitment to work for the Oneida people in my office.

I'd like to begin by disclosing the struggle we have in front of us as a tribe. Over the last few years, things have gotten out of control both fiscally and maybe even from a standards level. From a fiscal standpoint, we are overspending each day. We all have to answer the question, does it matter where our money goes? We have to address how we spend the people's money, that is one of our biggest challenges. Now, when it comes to standards, what are the standards here? That will be an important question as we move forward. Should we simply exist or should we really live as a people? Should Oneida be a beautiful place to live or is it okay to leave things as they are?

I see opportunity here, I really believe in the Oneida people. I just hope the new leadership is ready for the challenge of leading a dynamic nation! The hard task of changing the course of our nation must begin now and we must make some tough choices. This is a point and time where much is at stake; our tribe's chance for a prosperous future is on the line!

After the first few weeks of transition, it is clear many good programs and many good people have no hope for a future with this tribe. Jobs and housing are scarce and it is evident the needs in Oneida are overwhelming.

Today, we are a people full of potential, but we have yet to realize our best days. In order to realize our best days, we have to control spending and re-direct priorities to best serve the Oneida people. Vital tribal services and programs, important to the people, have been eliminated over the last few years, such as: pay raises, allergy and asthma services, driveways for our elders, Honor the Elder, Breakfast with the Bunny, an employee Christmas party, and field trips for our kids.

Part of the foundation of our culture is our belief in the quality of life that social justice and economic equality offers to all our people, not just a few! How is a nation like ours, with all this wealth, cutting vital services to the people, not giving pay increases unless directed by the General Tribal Council (GTC), and sending our homeless people to the Salvation Army? There are many homeless and unemployed Oneida people who need this nation's help. We must collectively make a diligent attempt to assist those in need in order to improve the overall wellness of all of our people.

I understand the Oneida people want the dignity of a good job, a good home, and the knowledge that the tribe is going in the right direction. I firmly believe that together, the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) and GTC can help build a stronger more progressive Oneida Tribe.

Here are just a few of the things I am working on:

Budgets

Financially, we are in a budget crisis and we are walking on thin ice. We must start making tough financial decisions; we cannot keep putting these decisions off to another day. Some things will have to go. We are overspending each year to run operations, and in some areas, management is overstaffed. Our projected revenues in Gaming and Retail cannot keep pace with the current expenses let alone the organization's continued growth and requested expansions. Efforts have been made to trim and reduce this upcoming year's budget but these reductions thus far are not a long-term solution. This year we have almost a $480 million budget and yet we are barely able to keep this size of an organization running. Indirect and fringe benefits, in other words payroll, are costs that are crippling us.

After reviewing the budgets and getting familiarized with the real numbers, I have confirmed that many of the resources and services of this tribe are being choked out, diminished and drawn-down! Just look at the last three years, important resources seem to be unavailable to fulfill the people's needs. Our priorities and spending must be realigned in order to take care of what is most important to improving the lives of the Oneida people.

In an effort to get things back on the tracks financially, my office is committed to completing the Budget Management Act (Act) as directed by the GTC. This Act will offer mechanisms for the proper monitoring and oversight of our financial resources. The Act will ultimately tighten-up the purse strings of the organization. In Oneida, we must create a financial safety net so we don't have to do things like borrow money to make payroll!

On the budget, I have requested that the OBC hold a few community meeting so we can have an open and honest discussion about what's occurring financially.

Wages

I have sent a memo to the OBC in an attempt to gather their support for the dealers to be included in the .75 wage increase. There is no legitimate reason not to add the dealers. I have a full memo on this issue to share with any tribal member who desires to read it.

On wages overall, I have several ideas, including making wages an open record and relooking at the Valiant work. I am conducting research and working on a report on this matter which I will have ready by this November.

Housing

Housing is a very serious issue for us. I have been working to ensure more viable housing options are available for the Oneida people. I am happy to report the OBC appears to be leaning favorably towards these efforts. We are continuing to have on-going extensive dialogue and I will keep you posted on the progress of this initiative.

Healthcare

Over the last few years, I have introduced several health ideas, concepts and approaches to be considered for aggressively treating and preserving the quality of life for our people. In general, our people have some of the most unique and complicated health conditions, partly based on genetics and partly based on lifestyle conditions. My goal is to extend the quality of life for all our people and to proactively address healthcare by tapping into the best medical ideas and practices. As a tribe, we have to intelligently advance some innovative new ideas which can eliminate the most debilitating conditions that confront our people.

Our clinic is possibly the largest distributing pharmacy of medication in the entire State of Wisconsin. Should we Letters & Opinions...

Thank You to the Community

My name is Taylor Oudenhoven-Skenandore, I am the son of Lisa & Butch Summers and Dawn & Arthur Skenandore.

I will be taking an educational trip to Costa Rica through West De Pere High School this spring. The cost of the trip was over $2,300. With the assistance of my family I held 4 fundraisers. The brat barn, raffle and rummage sales held would not have been possible without the help they provided.

I would like to thank everyone from the community for supporting me in my efforts to raise funds for this educational trip, and with that, a special thank you to the tribe for providing the initial payment of $500 and to my great-grandmother Josephine Oudenhoven, grandparents Henrietta and Francis Cornelius, family friend Sharon Corrosco, my uncle Wally Reed and auntie Amy & uncle Brandon Cooper for their continued support and guidance.

Thank You for the Surprise

I was met with a conspiracy. The secret was hidden. All I was told by my sister was to wash my face and brush my teeth, and wear something nice, and that she was going to surprise me. She took me to Bradstock. I thought she was going to take a picture of me, so I didn't think much about being there. And then, I was given the lifetime achievement award. I was very surprised. The secret was well hidden.

So, I would like to thank everyone for making this happen. I would also like to thank my mother and father. But, I should go back further and thank my grandparents. If it weren't for them, I wouldn't be here.

My involvement with music and theater goes back to the fifties. Ever since then I have been learning the experiences of my ancestor's, I have been sharing with everyone I meet. Which brings me back to a time when there was nothing here except the bars. A small group of people were concerned about this and they wanted to see the propagation of the old ways. Which brings me back to the time I was in Oneida Canada. I met one of the chiefs there. He was as big as a door. He was always as gentle as a baby lamb. His name was Hubert Buck and he looked very funny trying to hide something behind his back as we walked down this trail. He handed me a water drum and I was surprised that day. We did our show about the bear dance that was given by the creator to bring the people together again. The next day he comes again and tries to hide something behind his back. He handed me a turtle rattle and said, "You're going to need this too…"

So, when I got back to Oneida, Artley and Chaz sent Putski to me to use my drum and rattle for the longhouse… And, I never saw it since. That was my contribution for the long house.

So today we see a lot has happened since then. We have come a long way. We have housing, schools, leagues, medical center, and ceremonies. The young have much to learn. Everything is here like it should be.

I would like to thank the grand ones for giving me this gift to share with everyone. Since I was a kid, I was bound and determined to play anything with a string on it. And I was bound and determined to play anything I got my hands on. This was my life ever since. And so I would like to thank everyone for the recognition award I have received. It's been a long road. I wouldn't have it any other way.

I thank you all very much from my heart and for the people. Thank you!

Louis Webster

continue to manage disease through pharmaceuticals or get into the mindset of eliminating disease?

I have spent hundreds of hours over the years conducting my own research and some of my own money, in order to try to seek out the best and most unique health approaches. I have introduced a few proposals on these approaches, such as, a new dialysis center and a unique DNA health approach. Both of these proposals were rejected by the tribe's health area some six years ago. I am taking my case to the Oneida people, it's your health and it's your health center. Should we do more of the same or should we try some new approaches? These are the choices I speak of.

I support the very unique idea of utilizing our own DNA as a measurement tool to possibly offset some genetic/health deficiencies. The use of micronutrients and plant extracts are some alternative forms of treatment that can be used to enhance our health.

Tribal governments and health professionals around the country should rethink how health needs are treated because the benefits of these types of health proposals are extraordinary. Likewise, this model should be considered a new, unique, and innovative laser approach to positively advance our own health interests.

I have done much research on these matters and my research reveals that we can do more. I will continue to report to you on these issues. If anyone desires more information, please feel free to contact my office.

Restructuring Plan B

This tribe must change the way we do business, and this is true on so many levels. Even most in management agree that more of the same will result in nothing for the Oneida people. Without any achievements there can be no success.

Restructuring is needed here and in July 2000 the GTC approved Restructuring Plan B. Why this GTC plan has not been implemented is a question which needs to be answered by the new OBC. In accordance with our oath of office, Plan B must be implemented because the OBC has sworn to uphold the decisions of the GTC.

Plan B will save money for the tribe and it will create efficiencies. There desperately needs to be a balance reached between the legislative and executive functions of the tribe. Restructuring will establish important checks and balances while saving money in the long run.

It is clear that Oneida is full of dynamic people who want to see us forge new change. The Oneida people do not want to be stuck in old failed governing models or systems that have proven to be ineffective and only result in dead ends. It is not healthy to live under governing systems which do not serve the people properly.

In closing, I would encourage you to join my email list at Oneida2011@yahoo.com. Through this email I will send out updates and other forms of policy information, along with exclusive policy articles.

Thanks for reading my report and I will continue to provide updates in the next few months about how things are progressing. If you need any assistance or are interested in any released memos or reports, please feel free to contact my office at 920-869-4438 or email me at vdelaros@oneidanation.org.

Have a great day!

Foes make final try to stop UP nickel, copper mine

By John Flesher
AP Environmental Writer

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) – Opponents of a planned nickel and copper mine in Michigan's Upper Peninsula have mounted a last-ditch legal effort, asking a judge to put a state-issued permit for the project on hold ahead of initial blasting expected this month.

Four organizations filed a motion for a stay in Ingham County Circuit Court, where Judge Paula Manderfield is considering opponents' appeal of the Department of Environmental Quality's 2007 decision to grant Kennecott Eagle Minerals Co. a permit to build and operate the mine.

Kennecott Eagle, a subsidiary of the Anglo-Australian mining company Rio Tinto PLC, is targeting an underground ore deposit in northwestern Marquette County that is expected to yield up to 300 million pounds of nickel and about 200 million pounds of copper, plus smaller amounts of other metals. It would be the only U.S. mine where nickel is the primary target, not just a byproduct from extraction of other minerals.

The request for a stay was filed this week by the National Wildlife Federation, the Huron Mountain Club, the Keweenaw Bay Indian Community and the Yellow Dog Watershed Preserve. The groups say the company will begin blasting at the base of Eagle Rock, a 60-foot-high outcrop, around Sept. 14 - the day a hearing has been scheduled on their motion. They have requested an earlier date.

Kennecott Eagle spokesman Matt Johnson would not disclose exactly when blasting will begin. But he said the company has promised the judge not to begin "underground activities" before Sept. 14.

The Keweenaw tribe says the location has long been a sacred site for its members and their ancestors.

"My people have prayed and held ceremonies at Eagle Rock since time immemorial," Susan LaFerniere, a member of the community, said Thursday. "No one should be allowed to blast it apart. I hope the judge grants this request."

Kennecott Eagle says it will drill the mine entrance into the rock beneath the earth's surface but will leave the aboveground outcrop undisturbed and fenced off so tribal members can continue worshipping there. The entrance was moved farther from the rock after Kennecott Eagle learned of the tribe's objections, Johnson said.

"We're sensitive to their concerns and committed to protecting that rock," Johnson said.

Kennecott Eagle says it would protect the environment and boost the area's struggling economy. The mine would employ about 200 people and provide about 500 jobs for contractors during the construction phase. About 300 are already working after a year of clearing the 120-acre site and building structures including a water treatment plant.

Critics say the project would endanger air and water in a remote area prized for quiet forests and trout streams that flow into Lake Superior. They're particularly concerned because the nickel and copper are encased within sulfide rock that generates sulfuric acid when exposed to air and moisture.

In their legal brief, opposition groups contend the mine design is flawed and its rock ceiling, although nearly 100 yards thick, would be unstable. The underground mine would run directly beneath the Salmon Trout River, home to the rare coaster brook trout.

"In the likely event that the roof were to collapse altogether, the river would be sucked all the way down into the mined cavity itself, endangering the lives of those working underground and spewing pollution all the way into Lake Superior, along with unfathomable damage to the flora and fauna that depend on the river for habitat and sustenance," the brief said.

Kennecott Eagle has said repeatedly its design is sound. Adam Burley, its president, dismissed the request for a stay as the latest in a series of delaying tactics by anti-mining interests whose previous appeals to courts and regulators have failed.

"Kennecott plans a vigorous defense of our position, based on a solid foundation of extensive environmental and regulatory reviews by permitting agencies and authorities," Burley said.

The opponents accused the DEQ of ignoring warnings from its own experts about the mine's design in issuing the permit.

DEQ spokesman Brad Wurfel said the permit was approved during the administration of former Gov. Jennifer Granholm, but Gov. Rick Snyder's team believes it was the right decision.

"Kennecott has a solid plan that's been rigorously and publicly reviewed," Wurfel said. "We're satisfied they have met the conditions of the permit thus far."

Report recommends changes to UW System structure

MADISON, WI (AP) – The University of Wisconsin System can help absorb millions of dollars in budget cuts by transferring some of its authority to its 26 campuses and chancellors, according to a recent report commissioned by the UW System president.

The UW System must reduce its operating budget by $2.4 million per year and cut 51 full-time positions under Gov. Scott Walker's two-year state budget. In response, UW System President Kevin Reilly asked a committee to advise him on how to deal with the cuts.

The report's authors responded by suggesting a fundamental shift – distributing power from the UW System out to the campuses, according to a Wisconsin State Journal report (http://bit.ly/qrCYUu).

UW-Oshkosh Chancellor Rick Wells, who was on the advisory committee, said the move would help free the schools from bureaucratic burden.

"It's the most over-regulated system of higher education in the country, particularly at the state level down," he said.

The committee that prepared the report, which was released Friday, included members of the UW Board of Regents and campus representatives.

Reilly said he agreed with the report's suggestions. He outlined a number of steps to help incorporate the idea, in his own report that will be presented before the Regents at a meeting Thursday in Madison.

"Whenever you have to cut 25 percent of your organization's budget, it's a crisis by anyone's standards," Reilly said. "I do want this to be a transformative change in the way the system operates."

Reilly's recommendations include:

- Letting campuses and accrediting agencies, rather than UW System administration, take the lead on reviewing academic programs for quality assurance;
- Giving chancellors more authority by having them serve on Reilly's cabinet and help set the agendas for the Regents;
- Allowing campuses more flexibility in managing money.

The recommendations are subject to a review by the Regents. Regent President Michael Spector hinted that they would tread cautiously before making major changes.

"I think we are concerned that we not forego any oversight responsibilities," Spector said.

Reilly said he would eliminate the 51 positions by laying off eight people and eliminating vacant jobs.

US attorney: Eagle feathers in caskets were legal

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) ~ Native American police officers did not break the law by burying eagle feathers with two slain Rapid City officers in order to honor them, a federal prosecutor said, rejecting a call to bring charges by an American Indian group.

Representatives of the Black Hills Sioux Nation Treaty Council contend that the Native American officers had no right to possess the eagle feathers because they aren't enrolled members of a federally recognized tribe, Floyd Hand, a council delegate, asked Rapid City Police Chief Steve Allender to return the eagle feathers. Allender then asked the U.S. Attorney's office to review the situation. U.S. Attorney Brendan Johnson said the Indian officers who provided the feathers had the legal right to do so, the Rapid City Journal reported Wednesday.

"The Native American officers who possessed them were exercising their religious beliefs by having them buried with their fallen colleagues," Johnson said of the eagle feathers. "I think it's very clear that these officers were exercising their religious rights. It was a legitimate thing for them to do and there was no federal violation."

Native American police honored slain officers - J. Ryan McCandless and Nick Armstrong, who were killed Aug. 2 during a shootout - by putting eagle feathers in their caskets.

"That's really a violation," Hand said. "The family has no right burying eagle feathers. That's against the federal law," Hand said, adding that Johnson needs to "read his Treaty Council."

The Black Hills Sioux Nation Treaty Council is composed of 17 members who advocate for the provisions of the 1851 and 1868 treaties to be upheld by the U.S. government. Hand is one of three delegates from the Oglala Lakota tribe.

Johnson's legal interpretation of the situation includes the federal Migratory Bird Act, which has protected the bald eagle since 1940 and the golden eagle since 1962. The act permits tribal members to possess the feathers of eagles and other migratory birds for use in religious ceremonies, but they may not sell them. While there is no specific language in the act for giving the feathers as gifts to non-Native Americans, Johnson said his decision is based on the premise that honoring the memory of fallen colleagues with an eagle feather is a religious practice for Native American police officers.

Those who violate the act can face a fine of up to $5,000 or up to a year in prison, or both.

Seneca president to speak at NY gambling hearing

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP) ~ Seneca Indian President Robert Odawi (oh-DOW'-ee) Porter is set to go before a state Senate committee to weigh in on the future of gambling in New York.

The Senecas operate three casinos in western New York under a compact with the state that guarantees no competing casinos will be allowed to go up nearby.

The Senate Committee on Racing, Wagering and Gaming has a hearing scheduled in Canandaigua on Tuesday as it evaluates whether to expand commercial gambling.

Porter's spokeswoman says the Seneca president will urge lawmakers to uphold the Senecas' exclusivity rights. The Senecas say the compact has already been violated by the presence of "racinos" in Hamburg and Batavia. They've been withholding required casino payments to the state until the issue is resolved.

2 tribes get HUD grants worth more than $1M

MADISON, Wis. (AP) ~ Two Wisconsin tribes are getting more than $1 million in federal grants to help them develop their rural communities.

One grant is going to the Lac Courte Oreilles (lah COO' duh RAY') Band of Lake Superior Chippewa Indians. The Hayward tribe will receive $789,000 to encourage tourism by renovating a former school into a visitor's center, museum, and gift shop.

The other grant will go to the Ho-Chunk Housing and Community Development Agency in Tomah. The group will get $300,000 to fix up 21 homes in Indian Mission community in Black River Falls. The homes will get new basement insulation and geothermal heat-pump systems to help decrease energy costs.

The grants were announced Tuesday, August 23 by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Wise Women's Gathering Place receives grant

GREEN BAY, Wis. ~ The Women's Fund of Greater Green Bay, a fund of the Greater Green Bay Community Foundation, has awarded 10 grants, totaling more than $35,000, in partnership with other Community Foundation donors to local non-profit and school programs. The grants will support programs that foster self-esteem and leadership in women and girls.

The grants were awarded based on a competitive application process including a review by a grants team consisting of community volunteers. The grants awarded from the Women's Fund of Greater Green Bay are:

Boys & Girls Club of Green Bay: The STEM Career program received funding to promote the fields of Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) for girls. The Boys and Girls Club will launch Future Females in STEM Careers at Washington Middle School and offer weekly hands-on learning enrichment and job shadowing opportunities. An estimated 15 girls will participate in the program and work to develop positive attitudes, while participating in fun and exciting learning activities afterschool. The ultimate goal is to engage the girls and help them succeed in the future.

Freedom House Ministries: A grant will support a program for homeless and nearly homeless women to be mentored by formerly homeless or nearly homeless women in Brown County. This program will help empower women to persevere and grow into better mothers and role models for their children, as well as assist in breaking the cycle of poverty.

Greater Green Bay YMCA: Funding will support the Girls Night Out Program, which is designed to build a healthy spirit, mind and body in each middle school girl participant, fostering a strong sense of identity to lead to mature and safe choices throughout their lives.

Girl Scouts of the Northwestern Great Lakes: The Leadership Advisory Council received funding to assist in building girls' self-esteem by connecting them with positive mentors, adult role models, and peers year round. The goal is to serve 15-25 girls in fifth to eleventh grade, and 5-10 adult volunteers who will mentor them.

Literacy Green Bay: A grant will provide literacy and cultural classes for Somali women. The increase in the Somali population in Green Bay over the past year has been staggering, and many speak little or no English. Most Somali families in the area are low-income and headed by single mothers. Literacy Green Bay is developing a class geared to the specific cultural and educational needs of Somali women, including classes for beginning oral English and American customs and social norms, to prepare them for the workforce, and living in our community.

NWTC Educational Foundation: Funding will provide childcare assistance for low income, single mothers who are attending classes at NWTC. This program will give women access to higher education opportunities while allowing their children to have quality childcare opportunities. Finishing school will give these single mothers the self-esteem they need to exceed in the future.

Preble High School: This grant will fund a program aimed at stopping the cycle of truancy with a select group of at-risk African American and Hispanic female students. This program will engage these girls and help them increase their school attendance, the likelihood of their graduation, and access to post-secondary opportunities.

Washington Middle School: The HOME Girls Project has funding to engage female students in weekly groups to instill a value for education and personal resources (such as self-esteem and decision making processes). In addition, monthly service projects will be developed in partnership with Golden House, to help the girls develop awareness of and engagement in community issues.

Wisconsin Women's Network: A grant will provide a scholarship for a local Brown County woman to attend the Wisconsin Women's Policy Institute, a non-partisan, policy-based advocacy training program. This program will provide women attendees with the skills to advocate effectively for policies that ensure that all women throughout the state can age with dignity and stability.

Wise Women Gathering Place: A grant will support the Girl Power Empowerment Zone, a program of 11 monthly meetings that will engage twelve teams of Native American women mentors and girl mentees. Both Discovery Dating, a healthy relationship tool, and facilitation training will strengthen the mentor/mentee relationships, and help mentees develop better communication skills, build self-esteem, increase personal agency, and increase resiliency skill sets.

Since it's inception in 1995, the Women's Fund of Greater Green Bay has raised an endowment of almost one million dollars and has granted more than $140,000, in partnership with Community Foundation donors, to local programs that are making a difference helping women return to school, raising the literacy rate of women and girls in poverty, or guiding homeless women through self-esteem initiatives.

Mammograms come to SEOTS Office

By Carol Cameron

On Friday, August 19, Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services (SEOTS) hosted a mammogram clinic in their office parking lot. The Wisconsin Pink Shawl Initiative in conjunction with Columbia St Mary's and the SEOTS office teamed up to provide mammograms to local community women who otherwise may have gone unscreened.

Debra Ushakow, Pink Shawl President and SEOTS Community Services Specialist brought the Columbia St Mary's Mobile Digital Mammograms Coach to the office for a day of screenings. The coach is funded by Kohl's Department Stores and operated by Columbia St. Mary's. Appointments were scheduled the week prior to the event.

As an added incentive, Southeastern Wisconsin women benefited by attending Kohl's "Conversations for the Cure" prior to their appointment. A select group of Pink Shawl women were trained by the Susan G Koman organization on how to implement the "Conversations"". Women who participated in this program, once screened were eligible for a $50.00 Kohl's gift card. Women who are interested in participating in a conversation should contact Debra at the SEOTS office or Desiree at the Gerald L. Ignace Indian Health Center.

The Columbia St Mary's Mobile Digital Mammograms Coach stopped by the SEOTS office for a day of screenings.

Women were served beverages and healthy snacks while waiting for their scheduled appointment. After their appointments they were welcomed back into the office and received a thank you gift from the Pink Shawls. This was the second day of screenings. The week prior, the Gerald L Ignace Indian Health Center teamed up with the Pink Shawls and hosted the first Friday in their clinic parking lot. The screenings were such a success that the Pink Shawl team is currently working to schedule dates for this fall. If you're interested in participating in the next screening contact the office to be put on the waiting list or to take advantage of the Kohl's Conversation program.

What is That Sound in the Fall Air?

Submitted photo

As autumn approaches look for waterfowl to gather into large flocks where they practice landings and forge for food with offspring that have recently left the nest. The Oneida Reservation features several areas where these large flocks can be observed.

By Bill Koonz

The days are getting shorter, the kids are back in school, and the animals are beginning their preparations for the coming fall/winter season. That means it is molting time for most mammals including deer, rabbits, and furbearers, as well as for most bird species. It is also time for some of this year's offspring to get out on their own, test their wings, and gather together in large flocks. Waterfowl gather into large flocks (stage) where they practice landings and forage together in recently harvested grain fields. Soon migrating waterfowl from further north will join their locally nesting cousins in making use of local fields and water bodies for a few days/weeks before most depart for wintering areas further south where open water and warmer temperatures await them.

Fall waterfowl staging on the Oneida Reservation is spectacular. The sights and sounds of thousands of geese and ducks landing in an area can be unforgettable, and it is free for anyone who wishes to see and hear it! Pre-migration staging begins in early fall (mid-August), for some local waterfowl; other species will not arrive until just before freeze-up.

Why do abundant waterfowl use Oneida Reservation wetlands? Waterfowl (ducks, geese and swans) lose their flight feathers and are not able to fly for three to six weeks during the summer. Typically, that flightless period begins just after the broods hatch. Non-breeders tend to molt later in the summer (that is why flocks of Canada Geese are sometimes seen here in mid-June). During the molt/brood-rearing period, waterfowl are the most vulnerable to predation and tend to be very secretive. This is also the most stressful period for breeding females. They must brood their offspring, find food sources for them, and protect them from predation. Female waterfowl typically lose weight during the brood rearing time. Their breast muscles shrink to provide nutrients for other energy demands. Extensive marsh areas on the reservation provide the necessary food and cover requirements for both females and their offspring. Once the adults have regained their ability to fly and the juveniles have developed adequate flight feathers, the families often stay in family groups for some time. For geese that might be through the fall, winter, and into the next spring. Each fall, Oneida wetlands provide habitat for thousands of staging waterfowl of a dozen or more species.

Waterfowl require water to digest their food. Their daily fall routine includes flying out of the wetlands early in the morning to feed, then returning before noon to loaf on or near water. They then fly out again in the afternoon to feed, returning in the evening to roost and digest their food. The morning and evening waterfowl flights into and out of Oneida wetlands are spectacular. Goose hunting season begins here on September (1) so undisturbed viewing is best on areas restricted from hunting. One such area, open to community members but not for hunting, includes the Sanger B. Powers ponds near the corner of Olson and Cooper Roads. There is a small parking area on Cooper Road, and the old Conservation building site just north of Cooper on Olson also provides limited parking. At just about sunrise or sunset, one can see thousands of ducks and geese funneling into the wetlands. Not only waterfowl use this area, also watch for cranes, egrets, herons, northern harriers, and bald eagles. The sights and sounds of such a visit will remain with you for a lifetime. They are a product of Oneida's natural environment restoration initiative that helps make this area a preferred living place for both humans and wildlife.

Contact Bill Koonz at bkoonz@oneidanation.org (920 869 4569) for more information on Oneida's wetlands and waterfowl.

Map Spotlight on Osnúhsa? Kanya·tálayʌ?

By Sylvia Cornelius
Environmental Project Manager

Osnúhsa? Kanya·tálayʌ? is the Oneida name for Finger Lake, location number four on the "Oneida Reservation Parks, Trails, & Natural Areas Map."

The lake is part of a recreational area of approximately 57 acres and located on County Road FF next to the Oneida Cultural Heritage Department office building. The site can also be accessed from Hwy 54 at Pleasant Lane. The area features a 5.5 acre lake that has pan-fish, Walleye, Bass and Rainbow Trout. The trout are stocked annually prior to our annual Youth and Elder Fishing Day.

A highlight of this natural area is a picnic area and grills on the north side of the lake, as well as a canoe launch and wheelchair accessible fishing pier. The grounds surrounding the lake contain the Oneida Cultural Heritage Division office buildings, five restored WPA Era log homes, a culturally significant plant garden, long house replica, and wooden art statues.

In the past the lake has experienced fish kills and a non-sustaining fish community. Efforts to establish a sustainable fishery have been ongoing since this realization. An aeration system was installed in 1999 to prevent winter fish kills by keeping oxygen levels up through the winter. The aeration system was turned off four years ago because management efforts reduced the nutrient loading to the lake, this reducing the oxygen demand.

The lawn area around the lake is not mowed to discourage Canada Geese from residing around the lake. In 1999, shrubs species, which are culturally significant to the Oneida people and suited to grow around the lake, and grass that tastes bad to geese, were planted in a way that keeps them away from the lake. Geese droppings are absorbed by the shrubs and grass before reaching the lake. In 2000, a management plan was created to improve the lake ecosystem and in 2001 a BC resolution was passed to designate the land in conservancy. The benefits to improving the lake are a sustainable fish population and healthy ecosystem.

No hunting is allowed at this area. For information on hunting and fishing regulations contact the Oneida Conservation Office at 869-1450. For information on the restoration efforts at this site contact Jim Snitgen at Environmental Health & Safety office at 869-1600. This year, the Oneida Nation hosted the "Tribal Lands and Environment Forum" sponsored by the Institute of Tribal Environmental Professionals (ITEP) and the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), Office of Solid Waste and Emergency Response (OSWER). It was held at the Radisson Hotel and Convention Center, August 23-25, 2011. The conference was opened and closed with the Thanksgiving prayer by Councilman Paul Ninham and addresses by Councilwoman Melinda Danforth. Throughout the week, members of the Oneida Business Committee met with EPA and ITEP to discuss many issues.

Conference attendees included tribal environmental professionals from all across the nation, EPA staff, university staff from Northern Arizona University and Kansas State, and private consultants. There were 236 registered attendees who attended and took advantage of opening and closing ceremonies, a plenary session, 33 educational sessions, visits to the Fox River sediment treatment facility, and an evening movie that featured the documentary film "The Return of Navajo Boy".

The "2011 Tribal Lands and Environment: A National Forum on Solid Waste, Emergency Response, Contaminated Sites, and Underground Storage Tanks" was a joint effort between ITEP, The National Tribal Waste and Response Assistance Program (TWRAP) Steering Committee, and OSWER. The Oneida Environmental, Health and Safety Division assisted with the planning and arranging for activities for the attendees.

This was the second annual forum for environmental professionals from tribes, EPA, State/Local/Federal agencies, and other interested parties to meet, share knowledge and learn from one another how to improve management and protection of tribal lands and human health. Opportunities for discussion of budget and policy issues as well as technical updates and information were available throughout the conference. Additionally, training sessions, tribe-to-tribe sharing, educational out-reach projects, and many more sessions enhanced both learning and networking among attendees.

Many of the attendees took the opportunity to tour the Oneida Reservation and the local area. On August 24, 2011, a group of attendees traveled to Oshnusa to hear a presentation by the Water Resources Team Leader, Jim Snitgen about the tribe's activities to improve the water quality of lake and the "Youth and Elders" fishing event. After hearing about the lake, a visit to "Salt Pork Avenue" on the Cultural Heritage grounds was made. During this visit, Nick Reynolds – Tribal Historian gave a talk about how the tribe came to be in Wisconsin and the Tribe's experiences once arriving. The following day, Laura Manthe, Environmental Resource Board Director and Sylvia Cornelius, Community Outreach Coordinator, provided transportation to attendees who wanted to visit the Oneida Museum, tour the Reservation, and take a trip to Lambeau Field.

Staff from the Environmental, Health and Safety Division, Division of Land Management, Accounting, Oneida Housing Authority, Oneida Law Office, and the Environmental Resource Board took advantage of some of the sessions offered. This was multi-disciplinary event that addressed many issues the Tribe faces in managing its land.

The conference was well received by the attendees and many have provided some wonderful feedback about their impressions of the Oneida Nation and the conference itself.

"The Second Annual Tribal Lands Forum, hosted by the Oneida Tribe of Indians, was a very successful event. The Forum provided a broad range of opportunities to discuss current and ongoing land based contamination issues as well as network with other environmental practitioners. I personally enjoyed the open meetings I held during which tribal representatives raised their challenges, needs and opportunities. The Forum was highlighted by events such as field trips, a documentary film screening, and the closing luncheon and cultural presentation."

Mathy Stanislaus
Assistant Administrator
US EPA Office of Solid Waste and Emergency Response

"I enjoyed the conference presentations as they had a lot of variety and usable information that I can bring back to Lower Sioux. Oneida Nation is beautiful and the hospitality was top-notch! I hope you have more conferences in the future."

Jesse Anderson
Environmental Specialist
Lower Sioux Indian Community

"The Tribal Lands Forum was a great learning and sharing experience. The Oneida Nation provided a wonderful facility and hosted the event with welcoming hospitality. Thank you Oneida, for also sharing a part of your language and culture."

Virginia LeClere,
Environmental Manager
Prairie Band Potawatomi Nation
Division of Planning and Environmental Protection

"I would very much like to thank you and the Nation for a wonderful time in Oneida country. The facilities were nice, clean, and rooms were great. The tribal members I met during my stay were very helpful and nice. Thank you again for a wonderful experience and it is good to see a lot of your own tribal members working at your facility. Thank you Oneida Nation for stepping-up to host the Tribal Land Forum for 2011!"

Gayl Shingoitewa-Honanie, Director
Hopi Environmental Protection Office

"I found your hotel and conference facilities to be outstanding. The conference was a huge success and, as a big Packer fan, I took in a preseason game to boot!"

Bob Polasky, CEO
Sun'aq Tribe of Kodiak

"I was really pleased at the hospitality that the Oneida Tribe presented to all the attendees. The staff that I interacted with on a daily basis was outstanding and very informative as well as took the time to talk and make us feel welcome. The conference was a very warm and welcoming atmosphere, from the start to the great send off. I was pleased to see and have the Oneida Leadership present and interact with the attendees, they took the time out of very busy schedules and meetings to show their support to the conference."

Craig Graveratte,
Environmental Response Specialist
Saginaw Chippewa Indian Tribe of Michigan

"I just wanted to let you know that the "Tribal Lands and Environment: A National Forum on Solid Waste, Emergency Response, Contaminated Sites and UST's hosted by the Oneida Nation was one of the most organized and beneficial forums that I have attended. The Oneida Nation was very welcoming and hospitable."

CMN Students chosen for STEM Scholars Program

Special to Kalihwisaks

The College of Menominee Nation (CMN) have selected 13 students from eight high schools for the 2011-2012 STEM Scholars program at CMN's Keshena and Green Bay campuses.

STEM – which stands for the subject areas of science, technology, engineering and math – is a selective program designed on the cohort model in which students spend two semesters together in a set series of classes. Participants, who all expressed interest in STEM-related career fields, are chosen based on placement test scores, prior coursework and grades, an essay, and interview results. Beth Wochinski, program director, says the cohort model and enrichment opportunities provided to the group help participants build relationships and support each other in the learning process. The program has been offered at CMN's Keshena campus for several years and is new this fall at the Green Bay campus.

The STEM Scholars at CMN in Keshena and the high schools they attended are Andre James and Keith Kinepoway of Menominee Indian High School; Kayle Klitz and Kaleb Powless, Shawano Community High School, and Stacy Gracia, Ortega High School, California

Green Bay campus participants in the STEM Scholars program are Randall Denny; Iris Pena, who attended Shawano High School; Ashley Rice, Lac Courte Oreilles High School, and Green Bay area high school students Nicole Smith, East; Jennifer Penass, Southwest/West; Jesse Kaquatosh-Williams, Southwest; Brigitte Davis, West, and Amanda Sanapaw, Preble.

Wochinski assumed directorship of the STEM Scholars program this fall from Alphia Creapeau, who had provided leadership for several years. Creapeau remains at CMN as a member of the faculty. A welcome luncheon for the new Scholars groups included remarks by Dr. Verna Fowler, President of College, Dr. Diana Morris, Chief Academic Officer, and faculty members who teach in the program.

Beware and Be Aware of – For-Profit Colleges

By Norbert Hill Jr.
Area Director for Education and Training

For-Profit Colleges--Wolves in sheep's clothing? Being a discriminate shopper is critical when choosing an institution of higher education. Careful shopping is not only critical, but imperative. During the past 30 years, the Oneida tribe has provided very generous scholarship opportunities for its members. Tribal members should be discriminating shoppers for the colleges and universities they select. Beware and be aware of For-Profit Colleges sometimes known as "proprietary schools."

The landscape of higher education can be confusing and complicated. It is easy to be confused with the facts. Sophisticated marketing tools are used to persuade you to enroll. The commercials are slick and promise the moon. The consumer needs to evaluate and to verify and use knowledgeable advisors from a trusted place before signing any papers.

There are several types of post-secondary schools that students can choose: publicly supported colleges, i.e. state schools; private non-profit institutions, including. St. Norbert College, Lawrence University, Marquette University; vocational technical colleges, like NWTC; Tribal Colleges, such as the College of Menominee Nation; and private for-profit/proprietary colleges, i.e. the University of Phoenix, ITT, Globe and others.

It is easier to be admitted into a proprietary college than into a non-profit school. Admission standards may be very low. You need to make sure that your college is reputable and that the skills you learn really will transfer into the working world. Don't rely on the propaganda published by the college or the promises made by college recruiters who, in some cases, are working on commissions as a means of enrollment. Don't equate the terms "licensed" or "accredited" with "reputable." Be wary of high job-placement rates or guaranteed minimum incomes after graduation.

Proprietary schools survive by the generation of tuition dollars. Oneida scholarships are very easy to obtain. Schools just have to have a willing warm body to enroll. For-profit schools usually don't offer housing, meals, sports, student clubs, scholarships, or state funding, etc. If you choose to take advantage of a full and "real" college experience, you should look at schools that offer the full array of college services. On the other hand, if you have a job, a family, and you are not looking to jointhe marching band—you might bypass student life on campus.

The U.S. Department of Education reports that for-profit colleges utilize deceptive and questionable marketing practices including falsifying financial aid forms to qualify for federal aid. In most cases, the cost of attending proprietary schools is beyond the Oneida scholarship limit of $20,000 per year for undergraduate students. Many students are then burdened with student loans. Loan default rates are higher for minority students who attended for-profit schools.

Many schools offer on-line courses. This is good for some and disastrous for others. The student needs to be proficient in three areas to be successful with on-line instruction. These are; being computer literate, having competent writing skills, and being self-motivated. Deficiency in any of these skills will spell disaster. Part of the learning experience is the interaction between the teachers and students. Students should consider their individual learning styles when they consider a college program.

Transferring credits is a nightmare for most students. You need to know in advance if credits will transfer, should you decide to change schools or continue for a higher degree—(AA to a BA). The transfer of credits is a losing game for many students. The Oneida Nation will only provide funding for the equivalent of 10 semesters to complete an undergraduate degree. The students should get agreements in writing—colleges make promises and claims that are misunderstood later. Students need to be careful consumers.

In summary, I have listed examples of misconduct cited by the Government Accounting Office (GAO) report (August 2010), regarding for-profit or proprietary schools:

- Offered commissions to admission officers
- Employed deceptive marketing tactics by refusing to disclose total tuition cost to prospective students before signing a binding agreement
- Lied about accreditation
- Encouraged outright fraud by enticing students to take out student loans
- Promised extravagant, unlikely high pay to students
- Failed to disclose graduation rate
- Misled the amount of time needed to complete the program

Before diving into any college, you need to do some investigation. It is important that you select the right college for you; not just any college. Consult with the Oneida Higher Education staff. They are experienced and knowledgeable in the field and they will help you explore the pros and cons of post-secondary education.

Discrimination and careful selection is the key to a successful college experience. Indian students don't always end up where they think they're going. Be aware.

Gerald and Kiana Williams Benefit Account

Thursday, August 25th, was just like any other ordinary day for Gerald and Kiana Williams. Both children were playing in their yard in Pulaski when their ball got stuck in a tree. Gerald, being the adventurous and intelligent little boy he is, took tent poles and stacked them together to try and hit the ball out of the tree. That last attempt is when he inadvertently hit the electrical power lines next to the tree. His sister Kiana saw him being electrocuted. She ran towards her younger brother and pushed him, saving him from being further electrocuted and in the process put her own life in danger. The medics arrived on the scene to stabilize the siblings. The family soon learned that the pair would be flown to the Children's Hospital in Milwaukee.

Their Current Status

Both children were in induced comas and both were having breathing difficulties. Kiana has since then been awake, however, Gerald remains in a coma.

Their mother remains by their side at Children's hospital, while their father travels to Milwaukee daily to spend time with his children.

Community Support

To offset the expenses that have been incurred since the accident, a general fund has been set up at Associated Bank. If you would like to contribute to the fund to assist the family members with necessities, such as gas, lodging, food, etc., you can stop at any Associated Bank in the surrounding area to drop off your monetary contribution. The account is set up as the Gerald and Kiana Williams Benefit Account.

The Williams family greatly appreciates your support. Gerald had a birthday this week. He just turned 11 on August 29th.

Tribal college presidents seek more help from feds

By Dirk Lammers
Associated Press

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. ~ A group of tribal college presidents urged federal education officials to improve Native Americans' access to higher education Wednesday ahead of Education Secretary Arne Duncan's visit to South Dakota.

Cynthia Lundquist, president of Candeska Cikana Community College in Fort Totten, N.D., said tribal colleges and universities do their best with what they have, but could do so much more with additional funding.

"We do our best with the limited resources we have to have our students succeed," Lundquist told federal officials at Oglala Lakota College in Kyle during a discussion hosted by William Mendoza, deputy director of the White House Initiative on Tribal Colleges and Universities.

Duncan will visit South Dakota on Friday to host a rural education roundtable at Rosebud Elementary School in Mission. He and U.S. Rep. Kristi Noem, R-S.D., and Rosebud Sioux Tribe Chairman Rodney Bordeaux will talk to local teachers, students and community leaders about rural education issues.

Later that day, Duncan will deliver the commencement address at Sinte Gleska University, also in Mission, before attending the Rosebud Sioux 135th Tribal Fair.

There are 36 federally recognized tribal colleges and universities across the country, with most located in the Midwest and Southwest. They serve about 30,000 full- and part-time students and offer two-year associate degrees in more than 200 disciplines. Some award bachelor's and master's degrees, while about 200 others provide vocational certificate programs.

Thomas Shortbull, president of Oglala Lakota College, asked Mendoza and his director to urge President Barack Obama to sign an executive order that would fund tribal colleges and universities separately and not as part of a larger education order.

Mendoza said he thinks the order will be signed, but that it was important to hear from tribal members and those invested in educational issues. He said U.S. Department of Education officials have conducted many sessions to hear about the issues, consult and make sure the various perspectives are considered.

"We're working really hard to move that process along," Mendoza said.

Help Keep Children Safe As They Return To School

ONEIDA, WI — They're back. Children have returned to school. This means an increase in young pedestrians potentially wandering into road¬ways or darting from hidden places.

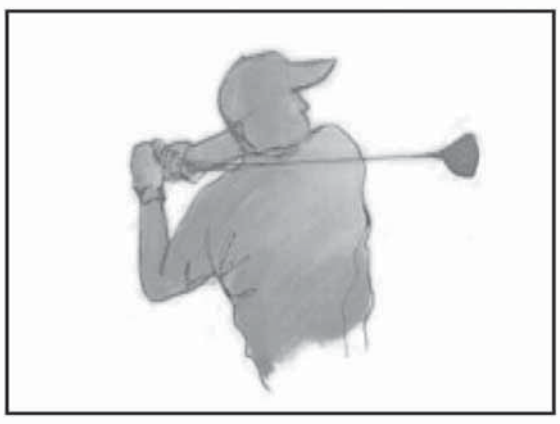
The Postal Service is asking moms, dads and school officials to remind children about taking extra precautions to avoid accidents while traveling to and from school.

"Our postal drivers plan on being extra careful when driving at or near schools or playgrounds," says Cheryl Koenig, Oneida Postmaster. "But we can't do it alone. We need the support of the local community to keep our children safe."

There are several precautions students can take to avoid potential accidents when near schools or playgrounds. These include limiting cell phone use and other portable devices as well paying attention to local street signs and observing the rules of the road when riding a bicycle.

Children should also never take mail directly from a letter carrier that is delivering from inside a vehicle.

"If children approach a vehicle, the letter carrier will get out and ask the children to move away," Koenig said. "The carrier will deliver the mail directly to the box."



Observing these tips will help keep children safe during the busy days of a new school year.

ONEIDA NATION THUNDERHAWKS

Struggle in season opener

Kali Photos/Travis Cottrell

The Oneida Nation Thunderhawks played their first football game of the season against New Auburn High School on Friday, August 26, 2011 at the Norbert Hill Center. The teams played using eight players on an 80-yard field, as opposed to the normal eleven players on a 100-yard field. The Thunderhawks struggled throughout the first half of the game which allowed New Auburn to gain a large lead. However, Oneida did show improvement in the second half and look to continue improving throughout the season. The Thunderhawks fell to New Auburn by a final score of 44-8.

Cardinals Defeat Hawks to Capture Little League Tourney

By Kyle Casper
Oneida Recreation Supervisor

Jesse Doyen and Ramon Neosh were the leading hitters in the Cardinals 6-4 victory over the Hawks in the Championship game of this year's Little League Tournament. Jaelin Moss, Ryan King, Floyd King, Crimsen Powless, and Aundria Hackett all collected hits for the Hawks. The game featured some good pitching as Justin Hill registered 8 strikeouts for the Cardinals and Nathan Danforth-Cutbank collected 5 strikeouts for the Hawks.

Bradley Skenandore doubled and the Bears took advantage of 14 walks in the first two innings for a 12-8 win over the Wildcats in the 3rd place game. Avery Gutierez and Kevin Cornelius each hit a double for the Wildcats.

"A Division investing in the future for our Nation and Our Community"

Third in a series

Development Division: Engineering Department

Who We Are

We are the Owner's Representative on Tribal projects, which means we manage the projects to keep them on scope, schedule and budget. Coordinating the input on project development from the numerous tribal departments is a critical task to ensure the Tribe's interests and laws are complied with.

The individuals employed to act as Owner's Representative and facilitate the coordination and development of these projects are titled Project Managers. Each Project Manager is assigned several projects for which they are responsible. They are to ensure the project: follows the Capital Improvement Process, receives proper approvals, moves forward in a logical manner, As well as, fulfilling the Nation's needs, budget expectations and schedule requirements.

What We Do

The services the department provides are mainly for the Tribe's Capital Improvement Process (CIP) Projects; however, we also provide these services for any non-CIP project the Tribe is developing. The services are also available to any Tribal department or corporation that can benefit from the Engineering Department's expertise.

On a typical project the Owner is responsible for:

- Project definition, including: objectives, schedule, space requirements, special equipment or systems.
- Funding overall project budget.
- Contracting for Architectural Services.
- Communication with the Architect and Contractor.
- Reviewing Construction Documents prepared by the Architect.
- Reviewing and certifying Architect's payment invoices.
- Receiving and reviewing bids.
- Oversee preparing and awarding of contracts for construction.
- Oversee administration of construction contracts.
- Visiting site at appropriate intervals to determine progress and quality of work.
- Reviewing and certifying Contractor's Application for Payment after Architect certifies.
- Reviewing Shop Drawings and product samples.
- Reviewing Change Order and Construction Change Directive requests.
- Ensure proper project close-out procedures.
- Oversee all project parameters from start to finish.

The listing of tasks associated with managing a CIP Project is far too numerous to list here, but the following are some of the more general services we provide for various projects:

Project Management:

- Bid Evaluation
- Construction Administration
- Construction Document Review
- Contract Administration
- Contract Preparation & Review - Design
- Contract Preparation & Review - Construction
- Project Budget Preparation & Monitoring
- Project Cost Estimating
- Project Expense Tracking
- Project Team Facilitation
- Report Writing
- Schedule Preparation
- Specifications Review

Architectural:

- Code Compliance Reviews
- Construction Document Preparation
- Space Planning & Programming
- Specification Preparation

Other:

- Building Inspections / Evaluations
- Technical Resource for design and construction
- Qualification Based Selection process administration

Engineering Licenses/Certifications Held:
State of Wisconsin, Licensed Architect (2)
State of Wisconsin, Commercial Building Inspector Certification (2)
State of Wisconsin, UDC – Construction Inspector Certification
State of Wisconsin, UDC – HVAC Inspector Certification
USGBC – LEED Accredited Professional (2)
UWGB – Project Management Certification (2)

Who We Service

The Engineering Department's responsibilities are great and have major implications for the Nation. Our staff is well dedicated to ensuring the best interests of the Oneida Nation are being addressed in all of the functions we provide

Oneida Geographic Land Information Systems (G.L.I.S)

Who We Are

The Oneida GLIS Department is made up of all Oneida, certified, and qualified employees. The department collects and maintains geographic data relating to many different aspects of the tribe and its reservation of more than 65,000 acres. This data is used to create maps and drive computer applications, which help inform decision makers, employees, and tribal members.

We are here to ensure that we provide excellent service through our licensed professional employees that are the most qualified licensed professionals in our jurisdictional area.

Oneida Zoning Department

Who We Are

The Oneida Zoning Department was developed in 1995 and is here to enforce tribal laws, codes, standards and policies

What We Do

The primary responsibility of the department is to assure compliance with tribal laws. A few of the tasks that the department performs are: plan reviews by the tribal inspectors and engineering department to assure plans are code compliant and issuing building and sanitary land use permits once all tribal laws are complied with. Zoning conducts building inspections that consist of excavation inspection, electrical, HVAC, concrete test reports, welding test reports, etc. This is just a short list of items that are looked at when conducting an inspection. When you enter a building that has been constructed through the CIP process that is implemented by the Oneida Engineering Department, you can rest assure that the building is safe and complies with code. The code of which we are speaking of for residential building construction is, the Oneida Building Code Chapter 66. This can be found on the Oneida Nation's Tribal Website under the Government Page under Laws and Policies. These inspections are completed twice a year and normally include the appropriate responding departments from the City of Green Bay, Village of Hobart, Village of Ashwaubenon, Town Oneida and Town of Pittsfield. A short list of items that are looked for during fire inspections are:

- Exit signs working
- Fire extinguisher up to date
- Emergency lighting operations
- Path of egress on blocked.
- Sprinkler system up to date

The code which regulates fire inspections is NFPA (National Fire Protection Association). The codes within NFPA number from 1 to 8506. Not only are these codes for building, but they are also for tents, special events, carnivals, fireworks stands, storage of combustible and flammables. The State of Wisconsin adopts NFPA 1 which is the Fire codes with some changes. Wisconsin department of Commerce Administrative Code COMM 14 Fire Prevention is the code which is used. Besides code COMM 14, 20, 25, 61 – 66 & 83, some of the other codes, standard and agreements that the Oneida Zoning Department enforces or adheres to is Services Agreements with local municipalities and counties (Ashwaubenon, Green Bay, Brown County) Intergovernmental Agreement with Outagamie County, Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin and the State of Wisconsin Gaming Compact of 1991 Second Amendment.

Each of the aforementioned codes exempt tribal lands in fee or trust owned by the tribe or tribal members in some way, each has its own wording. Service Agreements acknowledge the Oneida Tribes zoning authority and refers these matters to the appropriate tribal staff member. Any additional questions can be referred to the Zoning department at 920.869.1600.

More to come in the September 22nd issue of the Kalihwisaks!

Look for our fourth and final part in this series, when we focus on the Planning Department and the Oneida Utilities Department.

Oneida Youth earns 2nd Degree Black Belt

Oneida Martial Arts is happy to announce that one of its students Wesley Smith recently tested for his 2nd Degree Black Belt.
The Black Belt test was over five hours long.
Students do a series of blocks, kicks, forms, board breaks, and sparring to advance. Terminology was also part of the test so students could demonstrate their knowledge of Martial Art history, theory, and scientific approaches.
The testing was held in Wautoma, Wisconsin.
There was a total of 45 Black Belts on the floor testing that day.

Wesley Smith, age 12, has been training in Tae Kwon Do since the age of 6.
He started at the Oneida Family Fitness Center after his parents Wesley & Tammy Smith signed him up for the beginner's Tae Kwon Do class.

Congratulations Wes!

Child Safety Seats Save Lives

Submitted by Environmental Health and Safety Division

By Jennifer J. Jordan
M.Ed., CHES, Injury Prevention Coordinator

September 18-24, 2011 is National Child Passenger Safety Week. National Child Passenger Safety Week is an annual campaign to bring attention to the public about the importance of properly securing all children in the appropriate car seat.

What would the appropriate car seat be for your child? Well, there are a few things to keep in mind:

1. Select a car seat based on your child's age and size, and choose a seat that fits in your vehicle and use it every time.
2. Always refer to your specific car seat manufacturer's instructions; read the vehicle owner's manual on how to install the car seat using the seat belt or LATCH system; and check height and weight limits.
3. To maximize safety, keep your child in the car seat for as long as possible, as long as the child fits within the manufacturer's height and weight requirements
4. Keep your child in the back seat at least through age 12.

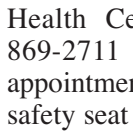
A REAR-FACING CAR SEAT



...is the best seat for your young child to use. It has a harness and in a crash, cradles and moves with your child to reduce the stress to the child's fragile neck and spinal cord. Recommended for children ages birth to12 months.

A FORWARD-FACING CAR SEAT

...has a harness and tether that limits your child's forward movement during a crash. Recommended for children ages 1 to 3 years.

A BOOSTER SEAT

...positions the seat belt so that it fits properly over the stronger parts of your child's body. Recommended for children ages 4 to 7 years.

A SEAT BELT

...should lie across the upper thighs and be snug across the shoulder and chest to restrain the child safely in a crash. It should not rest on the stomach area or across the neck. Recommended for children over the age of 8 and all adults.

Following these few safety recommendations could save your child's life if he/she was involved in a crash.

If you would like to know if your child's safety seat is properly secured in your vehicle, the Oneida Community Health Center has trained child safety seat technicians who are ready to help.

Or, if you are in need of a new child safety seat, please call the Oneida Community Health Center at 920-869-2711 to make an appointment for a child safety seat check.

Radisson celebrates 25th Anniversary

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The Radisson Hotel and Conference Center marked 25 years of business during a celebration on Monday, September 19 in the Three Clans Conference Center.

The Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin first broke ground on a $10 million Rodeway Inn in June of 1985 and opened the hotel a year later in 1986. The Rodeway was a 202-room hotel located in a wooded tract of land across from Austin Straubel International Airport.

In 1988 the franchise switched to Radisson. Since that time the Radisson has undergone two major renovations which included the Oneida Casino complex connecting the two facilities. The first major expansion was an $11 million project adding 99 rooms and the Grand Council Ballroom and Three Sisters Buffet. At the time the Oneida Casino also opened with 88,000 square feet of gaming housing 1,500 slot machines and 84 blackjack tables.

The next major expansion came in 1999. It was a $20 million project and added another 115 guest rooms and suites. The expansion brought the total conference space to 30,000 square feet, making the Radisson Hotel and Conference center the fifth largest in Wisconsin.

The Indian Summer Festival observed a milestone in 2011 – 25 years of existence. The annual event was held September 8–11, 2011 on the Henry Meier Festival grounds in downtown Milwaukee. Another milestone was observed as well, the 10th anniversary of 911. A parade commemorating lives lost on that fateful day, was held on Sunday afternoon down the midway.

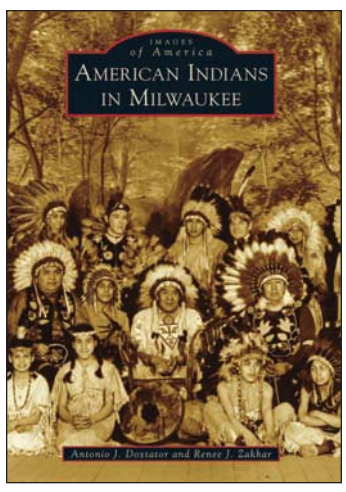
New book sheds light on Milwaukee Native Americans



By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

Milwaukee is home to a rich Native American history and Antonio Doxtator and Renee Zakhar made sure that story was told with American Indians in Milwaukee.

The book, published by Arcadia Publishing, was released on August 15 after six months of preparation work.

"The book is about the Milwaukee Indian community but it really covers everything prior to Milwaukee to today. Our point was to make people not think about Indians coming back to Milwaukee but it always was an Indian place," said Zakhar.

Arcadia Publishing specializes in photo caption books telling stories of rural and metropolitan communities.

"We saw that Arcadia (Publishing) has a lot of titles in Milwaukee with the other ethnic groups except Native Americans," said Doxtator. "We were surprised with all of the Native American roots the city has that they didn't have a title about Native Americans in Milwaukee."

Though photo caption books exist featuring Native Americans in the area the two wanted to take their book in a different direction than focusing just on the powwow life.

"I think we were trying to have it a little different, we really wanted to tell the social history, the leaders and the people that have really made a difference with programs started in Milwaukee," said Zakhar.

Both authors have spent most of their lives in Milwaukee and felt a sense of pride that compelled them to tell the story of natives in their city.

"We felt a need to have our history documented for Milwaukee Indians since it is a very interesting history," said Doxtator. "I think a lot of this is Oneida history. A lot of Oneidas have lived in Milwaukee and used the city as a resource for education and jobs. Now Milwaukee Oneidas are coming back (to Oneida) because most of the resources are here now."

"We were kind of hoping people would see that there was a role in Milwaukee. We just wanted to have it recognized. We have a part of the tribe's history," added Zakhar.

Oneida walks to promote diabetes awareness

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Members of the Oneida community turned out to enjoy a three mile walk for the Just Move It-Oneida (JMIO) kickoff event held Saturday, September 17 behind the Norbert Hill Center.

According to the Oneida Diabetes Program Supervisor Margaret VanDen Heuvel the event was held "to promote diabetes awareness, to prevent and control diabetes and just get the Oneida community physically active."

The event featured stations to check blood pressure, get feet looked at, and to learn more about stress reduction and eating healthy. Health Promotions Supervisor Tina Jacobsen stated the event was coordinated through a partnership between Oneida Health Promotion, Oneida Diabetes Team, Oneida Community Health Nursing, and Oneida Family Fitness.

"Part of the screening is to promote the diabetes prevention program which is a grant funded program through Indian Health Services," said Jacobsen.

Linda Nockideneh was one of 115 people who participated in the event.

"I want to jingle dress dance at 70," said Nockideneh. "If I don't get out here and do something, my body won't let me do it."

This event was made possible with funds from the Special Diabetes Program for Indians (SDPI) Community Directed grant through and the Diabetes Prevention Program & Health Promotion/Disease Prevention Cooperative Agreements

All participants received a t-shirt. Those who participated with the community screening booths received a pedometer. The JMIO Team recognized Raymond Elm, Charles John, and Adrian Barrett for participating in almost all events last year with a Nike jacket that was donated by Oneida Family Fitness.

The next event will be the Spooktacular Walk held October 29 at 10:00am at Oneida Family Fitness.

is notable, particularly given the economic climate of the past three years, I think what I'm most proud of is what we've established in those 25 years," said Broberg.

"The Radisson has employed thousands of local community members and provided opportunities to get started in the work force and to stay and grow within our industry. The Radisson has generated over $10 million in room tax and profit revenues for the tribe since 2002. The Radisson is also an important amenity to the tribe's major revenue generator, Oneida Casino. The Radisson enhances and completes the total gaming experience for those important customers."

The Radisson has been the recipient of eight Presidents Awards since 2000. This award is bestowed for excellence of service and hospitality 365 days a year. This is an outstanding symbol of quality for Radisson hotels world wide. In addition the Radisson has received awards and recognition for Focus on Energy Efficiencies and the Governor's Exemplary Employer Award for their willingness to hire people with disabilities. Most recently the readers of Meetings Focus Mid America magazine chose the Radisson as the best property in the Midwest. This was steep competition and was chosen by top national meeting planners as an outstanding meeting facility, with only 50 properties in the Midwest region selected for this award.

Broberg also takes pride in the conference center's ties to the Green Bay area.

"The Radisson has become a respected and vital member of the community. In 2010, the 1000th wedding reception was held at the Radisson. Many local community service organizations hold their most important fundraising events at the Radisson because of our expertise in service. Radisson isn't just a business located in Green Bay, it's part of Green Bay," said Broberg.

Passing On...

Dammerich, Jordan L.
August 5, 1991 – September 5, 2011

Jordan Lee Dammerich, 20, passed away unexpectedly on Monday, Sept. 5, 2011. Jordan was born on Aug. 5, 1991, in Appleton, son of Richard and Dawn (Schmidt) Dammerich. Jordan attended Freedom High School, graduating in 2009. While in school, he was involved in the VICA auto shop. He loved deer hunting with his family, and enjoyed working with salt water aquariums with his father and his friend, Brett. Jordan was an avid motocross racer, and was involved in racing for four years. He also enjoyed riding jet skis and snowmobiles. Most of all, Jordan loved spending time with his best friend, his dog, Bentley.

Jordan is survived by his loving family, his mother, Dawn Dammerich, Seymour; his father, Richard (Kari) Dammerich, Appleton; maternal grandfather, Clarence Schmidt, De Pere; paternal grandmother, Leona (Dick) Brandt; stepgrandparents, Gerald (Bonita) Eickert, Combined Locks; and many other aunts, uncles, cousins, relatives and friends. He was preceded in death by his grandmother, Marlene Schmidt; grandfather, William Dammerich; and a close friend, Dillon Landeau.

The funeral service for Jordan will be held at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 10, 2011, at VALLEY FUNERAL HOME, 2211 N. Richmond St., Appleton. Friends may call on Saturday at the funeral home from 9 a.m. until the time of the service. Entombment will take place at Highland Memorial Park, Appleton. In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions in Jordan's name may be made to a fund being established.

Powless, Marcella R.
December 8, 1919 – September 7, 2011

Marcella R. Powless, 91, of Oneida, passed away peacefully on Wednesday, Sept. 7, 2011. She was born Dec. 8, 1919, to the late Abraham and Caroline Sickles in Shawano County. Marcella attended grade school in Shawano County. She married Peter Powless in 1935 and worked as a seamstress for many years. Marcella was active in Oneida Elderly Services and L.D.S. Relief Society.

She is survived by her son, Matthew (Shelia) Powless of Bowler, and her daughter, Sharon Funmaker of Oneida. She has 15 grandchildren, 44 great-grandchildren, and 28 great-great-grandchildren, as well as her sister, Mildred Butler, and many nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her husband in 1972, her daughter Iris in 1991, and her son Kenneth in 2001.

Friends may call at the Ryan Funeral Home, 305 N. 10th St., De Pere, from 5-8 p.m. Friday.

The Oneida Hymn Singers will sing at 6:30 p.m. followed by a prayer service at 7 p.m. Visitation will continue after 9 a.m. Saturday at The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter--day Saints in Oneida until time of service at 11 a.m. with branch president Andy Summers officiating.

The Oneida Hymn singers will sing at the church at 10:30 a.m. Saturday. Burial will take place at 3 p.m. Saturday in the Roosevelt Cemetery, Shawano County.

Oneida Hip Hop artist earns NAMA nomination

By Travis Cottrell
Kalihwisaks

For Oneida hip-hop artist Wayne "Buggin" Malone music has proven itself to be a conduit for his experiences, opinions, and passions. Using his ability to articulate subjects into musical flows, Malone has created and released his fourth studio album entitled "The Rapture," which has been nominated for Best Rap/Hip-Hop Album at the 2011 Native American Music Awards (NAMAs) being held October 7, 2011 at the Seneca Niagara Hotel & Casino in Niagara Falls, NY.

Born and raised in Milwaukee, WI Malone's path to music was not an easy one. During his years as a teen Malone fell in with a bad crowd, struggling with gang activity on Milwaukee's eastside. It was during this time he ran into some trouble, finding himself incarcerated at Lincoln Hills Juvenile Correction School. It was during this time that Malone found his voice in music, discovering his ability to write songs.

Ten years later Malone released his first album "Birth of a Warrior," as the title suggests his music has a Native American focus.

"My music has a strong foundation in Native culture and political issues, especially issues that demonstrate Native American struggles in the past and present," Malone said.

This theme is prevalent in his most requested song to date, "Dedication to Leonard Peltier," in which he expresses his support of the Native American activist.

Aside from his focus of Native American politics Malone also speaks to Native youth.

"My focus for Native youth is to speak about suicide awareness and prevention because it is a growing concern with today's youth. I also speak about living in poverty, oppression, and inner city struggles."

Malone insinuates that today's hip-hop and rap music may play a role in these issues.

"Growing up I was influenced by Marvin Gaye and Motown music also 1980's rap was an influence on me. But I don't really listen to modern rap and hip-hop because it's all about making money, drugs, clothes, and degrading women. So I don't pay much attention to it," Malone said.

Malone, the grandson of Comey Denney Jr., currently resides in Wisconsin Rapids and hopes to pay a visit to the Oneida Reservation and perform his music.

Malone states, "I would love to return to Oneida and perform, especially since it is my Tribe and a lot of my music is focused on Native culture and youth. Hopefully in the near future."

Currently Malone's music can be found on iTunes, CDBaby.com, and YouTube. Malone has also started his own record company called Ancestor Records and hopes to expand his business by signing Native American musicians to the Ancestor label.

Voting has commenced for the NAMAs and listeners can visit the awards' website (http://www.nativeamericanmusicawards.com) to listen to nominees and vote for their favorites.

Doxtator also had a personal reason to ensure the history of Native Americans in Milwaukee was told.

"I was inspired by my grandmother, she was a part of a lot of our history (in Milwaukee). She made me realize how important it was to donate your time to make things happen. The health and education of Indian people in Milwaukee is a direct effort of people in the 60's and 70's," he said.

According to both, early reviews of the book have been positive. "A lot of people like to see their relatives and friends. I got an email about how important it was that Milwaukee's story won't be forgotten and is now documented," Doxtator said.

For Doxtator, who just moved to the Oneida area for employment, Milwaukee will always be called home.

"(Milwaukee) seems like one of our outposts. It's a place we could always call home. Oneidas are always going to have a place there because of (South Eastern Oneida Tribal Services) and because of the Oneidas that have always lived there. There is always a welcoming there," he said.

For more information about the book visit their Facebook page by searching American Indians in Milwaukee. To book is available at local Barnes and Nobles.

BACKGROUND ON BUSINESS

Doxtator finds niche in purse design

Purses with Native American designs grow in popularity

By Dawn Walschinski
Kalihwisaks

Stana Doxtator found her latest calling when she was given a Miche purse for St. Valentine's Day.

"I was having so much fun with it, (her boss Ron Neuman) was like 'You're telling everyone about it, why don't you just sell the things,'" she said.

Doxtator became a Miche representative selling the unique purses that feature interchangeable covers.

"They have a base, and then the outside … magnets on so you can change the outside. Instead of dumping out your purse and having to switch purses, you can just change the outside of your purse within a few seconds and you're off and ready to go. You can go from casual to evening in a matter of seconds. There are four different sizes, so there's something to fit everyone's needs," she said.

Stana Doxtator displays the wide variety of purses she has to offer. These Miche purses are available in four sizes that feature interchangable covers.

Doxtator sells the bags at purse parties, farmers' markets and at Joe BikeLer's Bike Shop in Shawano where she works.

"Some people really don't understand why there's purses in a bike shop. I convinced (Neuman) to let us bring them on in there because it's a bike accessory. It can be mounted onto the back of a bike," she said.

Doxtator enjoys the social aspect of organizing purse parties, which contrasts with her other business Avalanche Designs where she creates web sites.

"It's fun. I get to interact with people," she said.

Doxtator has also been able to use her computer expertise to custom design shells for the purses.

"Whatever you can imagine, I can put onto a shell," she said. "

Doxtator has found an untapped market for purses with Native American designs such as wampum belts.

"I've noticed the sales for those have increased since I started working with the tribe here," she said.

Vice-Chairman's Corner...

Greg Matson
Vice-Chairman

My 30 day strategic look at the organization and community thru the Business Committee transition and orientation….

The challenges are, understanding the relationship between the past, present and future…

Our collection of work should provide a sustainable Oneida community tomorrow and the days to come

After 30 days in office there have been many discussions in our transition and orientation to the business of the Oneida organization, corporations and community. Although we have finished our orientation it seems like there is still some things missing as we prepare to function in the manner of a good government in relationship to the membership, employees and community. That key connection between leadership in government elected officials, employees, enrolled members, and community members seems to be in need of a serious conversation about what we see parts of Oneida becoming and the foundations we will require to have a secure, strong and sustainable community in the future. The relationship of our vision, mission and core values takes us to very interesting places depending on who you have these discussions with in your daily path or your political thinking. I have had my own concerns for some time about the condition of our community in its relationship to our government structures. Now that I have another perspective in my Business Committee role I have additional information about what I saw explaining why things are the way they are and what we all need to do to change things when necessary, how to prevent other things from happening in the future which distract us from our path, and what we need to reassemble to address our present situation to get to that strong Oneida future.

The collection of our minds is referenced in a good mind and good words however our good actions seem to be missing at times, fractured at other times and almost there at other times.

I would see a necessity for coming together like never before to pool our resources to perhaps even revisit our assumptions about our understanding of our community and organization. Next our role in those assumptions will also require a deep hard look at not only how long we have been employed with the tribe or how active we have been in community work, but more closely at what have we done, as well as what we need to do to move to higher "tribal" ground for the community and the individual. Our interaction with the world outside of our Oneida world has been an interesting experience. The need is now to realize our relationship to that outside development and politics. This may bring us to some stark realizations about where our path has taken us and where we need to go into the future if our goal of maintaining our Oneida path/our ways is realistic. I welcome all of your voices in that discussion so that the 9 voices you have elected to represent you will be reflective of a larger community understanding of the value of the individual, the value of our special place and the unique systems we require to be all we can be.

The challenges for all of us;

- leadership of the Oneida Business Committee
- membership
- employees
- community
- corporations

This will require hard and soft discussions and decisions on small, medium and large levels. The opportunity for a positive communication relationship between all of the above for a better future for the Oneida organization, membership and community is before us once again. I pray we participate in a respectful, positive manner in our wise contributions to our future.

David Jordan
Councilman

Sagoli,

First of all I would like to thank everyone who supported me in the July election and look forward to serving your needs and the Nation for the next three years. Without your generosity and support this would not have been possible. Again, thank you.

During my first three weeks in office, I was in transition meetings learning the ins and outs and the complexity of running a huge organization such as ours. I have met many new people and learned quite a bit about how our Nation operates. Everyone should be proud of their accomplishments in their specific work areas and I look forward to working more closely with you.

One of our first orders of business is to tackle next year's budget. Right now there is a $9 million dollar shortfall and cuts will have to be made to accommodate this. To better serve our Nation and prepare for our future endeavors, the Committee is looking to possibly cut another $2 million from the current budget process. We need to look at doing this so we are better prepared to deal with problems that may pop up near the end of the fiscal year. We do not want to have to borrow money so we can meet our day to day expenses.

Currently the Anna John Nursing Home is in disrepair and deteriorating on a daily basis. With that in mind, I recently made a motion to activate $5 million dollars from the Oneida Resident-Centered Care Community CIP Project so this facility can begin the infrastructure phase. This project has been on delay now for 17 years and with the problems in our current nursing home, this needed to be done.

The Committee is looking for ways to reorganize the structure of the Tribe and possibly institute a different organizational chart called Plan B. This is a major overhaul and with it a reduction in the redundancies within the Tribe. It will streamline some operations and make the Tribe more efficient. I am onboard with this overhaul and with the help of the rest of the Committee I believe we can institute this new organizational structure.

In the July GTC meeting a motion was made to increase the salaries of our employees, making under $60,000 per year, by 75 cents per hour effective October 1st. However, further discussion exempted the casino dealers as it was explained their wages were capped. Last Wednesday the Committee took action to include all casino dealers in the October pay raise and to receive a long deserved increase to their salaries. We are also going to look into removing the cap on their wages bringing them in line with other employees of the Tribe.

This week the Legislative Operating Committee went back in session to deal with a host of new legislation for our entities. One of my main priorities will be to revisit the Election Law. I believe there needs to be some changes made to better serve our constituents and to make our elections more transparent. A couple of changes I would like to see is possibly videotaping the election, having individuals gain access to both the tallying of the votes in each election as well as being present at recounts. There are other areas that are also of interest and we will be working with the Election Board to secure these changes.

In early September I had the opportunity to go to Washington DC with Ed Delgado and Patty Hoeft. This was a follow-up with Vice President Biden on the re-election of the president. Discussions at the dinner included education, Obama's re-election and the jobs impact, tax breaks for small business owners as well as hoping to eliminate a suggested tax on education scholarships. While in Washington I went to Congressman Reid Ribble's office, toured the BIA with Director Echo Hawk and his assistant Brian L. Bowker and also stopped by the NIGA headquarters to observe their new expansion project. Patty and I also took a tour of the Capitol building and saw how Indian ancestry plays a major part in the architecture of the building. At the conclusion of this trip I also sat down to dinner with Tom Rodgers who is our legislative affairs representative and had a lengthy discussion about the future of Native Americans and the role he plays in bringing about change in Washington.

I want to introduce my assistant, Leyne Orosco, who has worked for the Tribe the past 17 years, most recently as the Clerk of Court with the Oneida Tribal Judicial System. He brings many years of experience and organization to the table and I look forward to working hand in hand with him to bring about a better place for all of us.

Lastly, I would encourage everyone to visit the Members Only area on the Nation's website to keep abreast of the latest happenings throughout the Tribe. If you haven't already obtained a login, please contact Enrollments to gain access.

Again, thank you for entrusting me to serve on the Business Committee and our Nation to make this a better place for all us to live and enjoy.

Melinda Danforth
Councilwoman

Shekólih,

The new term of the business committee is underway and I am excited to get started on the work before us. To start, I would like to formally announce I am the new Legislative Operating Committee (L.O.C.) Chairperson. [For those who may not be familiar with what the L.O.C. does; briefly, the L.O.C. is comprised of the 5 non-officer councilmembers who are responsible for the processing of laws on behalf of the Nation.] The L.O.C. began our three-year term by meeting as a body to determine how we will proceed in processing the requests before us. One of the main questions we will be determining the answer to is "How do we prioritize the items before us?"

This decision is necessary because the staffing levels of the Legislative Reference Office (L.R.O.) have been diminished through attrition. Some tough choices may be ahead of us and I have encouraged and asked the other councilmembers to engage in face to face and meaningful dialogue about the challenges before us; with that said, I do appreciated what we have accomplished to date and look forward to continue working with the new L.O.C.

Another component of our responsibilities as elected officials includes sub-committee & liaison work, and in addition to the L.O.C., I am participating on the newly formalized BC Subcommittee known as the "Quality of Life Committee." For my liaison assignments, I have taken responsibility for the following areas: Oneida Nation Commission on Aging (ONCOA), Personnel Commission, Trust/Enrollment Committee, Region 5 Technical Operations Committee (R5TOC) for the Environmental Protection Agency, WI Department of Corrections, WI State/Tribal Relations Study Committee, I.T.M.A, Office of Justice Assistance, and have taken alternate assignments for: Environmental Resources Board, SEOTS, MIS Steering Committee, Headstart Policy Council, IHS Tribal Advisory Board, and Department of Health & Family Services.

Lastly, I would like to briefly touch base with you all on progress being made on the views and platforms I shared with you during my campaign. As of 9/19, the BC has agreed to begin taking a look at the long-term planning needed to bring about strategically managed and comprehensive change in areas like budget, governmental and policy reform. It is my hope that throughout the next few weeks we will be able to accomplish gathering the necessary information to bring forth an action plan for GTC approval that considers the stakeholders' input/needs and balances those with government initiatives to enhance, maintain and foster growth and development. Please feel free to contact me or my Assistant Lisa Summers with any thoughts, concerns or concepts you want the BC to be aware of or would just like to share for our consideration as we begin planning. My office number is 920-869-4478 and my email is mdanforj@oneidanation.org.

New Business/Requests
1. Hiring freeze
Sponsor: Ed Delgado
Motion by Ed Delgado to reinstate the Hiring Freeze for entities under the General Manager until the General Manager can bring back a report on the number of non-grant required employees hired and the cost since the freeze was lifted, seconded by Tina Danforth. Motion failed with two for and five opposed:
Ayes: Tina Danforth, Ed Delgado
Opposed: Melinda J. Danforth, Ron "Tehassi" Hill Jr., Patty Hoeft, Kathy Hughes, Trish King
Excused: Brandon Stevens
Motion by Patty Hoeft to request the JET team to bring back in two weeks a report on the number of total employees that we started with at the beginning of this fiscal year and to date and the cost of the those employees and impact of severance plan, the first one and the second, seconded by Ed Delgado. Motion carried with two abstentions:
Ayes: Ed Delgado, Ron "Tehassi" Hill Jr., Patty Hoeft, Kathy Hughes, Trish King
Abstained: Melinda J. Danforth, Tina Danforth
For the record: Tina Danforth said I am abstaining because there is no real impact to generating a report and I think if we're going to look at what the hiring practices are, I would like to also include grant funded positions because we tend to hire people on a grant basis and then funding runs out and we retain them and then we retain the costs of those positions and I think we should be swapping them out with current people who are already employed by tribal contribution.

State tells Berlin High School to change nickname

BERLIN, Wis. (AP) ~ State education officials have ordered Berlin High School to change its sports nickname.

A Berlin alumnus complained to the state Department of Public Instruction about the use of the Indians nickname. That opened the door to the state ordering the school to change it.

DPI found the nickname is categorically race-based and held a hearing in August. School officials tried to convince the state the nickname was not race-based. The state has now denied Berlin's appeal.

The school district has one year to make the change. Superintendent Bob Eidahl tells WLUK-TV the district will likely form a committee of students and community members to gather ideas for a new mascot.

Oneida Business Committee Wrap: September 14, 2011

ORCCC takes center stage as newly elected OBC meets for first time

By Nate Wisneski
Kalihwisaks

The newly elected leaders of the Oneida Tribe took to the Oneida Business Committee (OBC) conference room for their first meeting on Wednesday, September 14. After a month-long absence of meetings the OBC faced a lengthy agenda.

Present: Ed Delagado – Chairman, Greg Matson – Vice-Chairman, Patti Hoeft – Secretary, Tina Danforth – Treasuer, David Jordan – Coucilmember, Vince Dela Rosa – Councilmember, Brandon Stevens – Councilmember, Paul Ninham – Councilmember, Melinda Danforth – Councilmember

Minutes

OBC meeting minutes from August 10 and minutes from special meetings dated August 11 and August 16 were approved.

Resolutions

A resolution withdrawing a request to the Bureau of Indian Affairs to place two properties into trust was approved. Additions and clarification will be done on the property's applications before they are re-submitted for processing.

The OBC passed a resolution identifying Councilmember Melinda Danforth as the tribe's representative to the Environmental Protection Agency Region Five Tribal Operations Committee.

Chairman Ed Delgado was designated the tribe's delegate to the National Indian Gaming Association through a passed resolution.

A resolution recommending Tamara Vanschyndel and Lorna Skenandore to the National Indian Gaming Commission Tribal Advisory Committee was passed.

Boards, Committee and Commission Quarterly Reports

Reports from the Southeastern Oneida Tribal Services and Oneida Child Protective Board were quickly approved with little discussion.

Finance Committee meeting minutes from September 9 were approved.

Travel

Melinda Danforth, Inter-tribal Monitoring Association annual board meeting, November 9 – 11, Las Vegas, NV. The travel request was approved.

Larry Barton and Tina Danforth, Native American Finance Officers Association conference, October 11 – 14, Uncasville, CT. The requests were approved.

Tina Danforth, Native American Bank, September 20 -22, Denver, CO. The request was approved.

Tina Danforth, Native American Bank annual shareholders meeting, October 18 – 21, Juneau, AK. The request was approved.

Paul Ninham, National Indian Gaming Association Mid-Year Conference and Expo, Ocober 17 – 19, Uncasville, CT. The request was approved.

Tina Danforth, retro-approval for Native American Bank meetings, July 13 – 15 and August 16 – 18, Denver, CO. The request was approved.

Ed Delgado, retro-approval for Tribal Consultation meeting, September 15, Washington D.C. The request was approved.

Brandon Stevens, retro-approval for Haskell Board of Regents Retreat, August 29 – 30, Lawrence KS. The request was approved.

Brandon Stevens, retro-approval for the National Indian Gaming Association Internet Gaming Sub-Committee meeting, August 22, Prior Lake, MN. The request was approved.

Linda Dallas, Great Lakes Inter-Tribal Council meeting, September 7 – 8, Milwaukee, WI. The request was approved.

New Business

A proposal was heard from the Joint Executive Team that would allow employees with more than 280 hours of accrued hours to receive the value of that time in Oneida retail gift cards. The voluntary program along with trade back for cash implementation were deferred to the September 28 OBC meeting.

Agreements for Oak Ridge Plaza was deferred until the September 28 OBC meeting. Oak Ridge Plaza is the property that is home to the Wal-Mart retail area.

A memorandum of agreement with Indian Health Services and the Oneida Community Well & Septic Department for $40,000 sanitation facilities construction project was approved. The money is projected to construct wells, water systems, community water and sewer service lines, and septic systems for two home sites.

An attorney contract between the Oneida Tribal School Board and the law firm Fredericks, Peebles and Morgan was approved.

Liaison assignments for the OBC were approved. The assignments align current OBC members with departments, boards, and committees within the tribe.

Retro-approval of an agreement naming M&I Bank as the tribe's new financial institution was granted.

The OBC approved clarification regarding a recent General Tribal Council directive that gave $.75 per hour raise to tribal employees making less than $60,000 annually. The raise is scheduled to go in effect October 1 but confusion set in if the raise applied to black jack dealers at the Oneida Casino. The OBC clarified that all dealers are to be included in the wage increase. They also directed management to provide a recommendation that brings dealers' base pay to market.

The OBC moved to create a sub-committee to exam, review and recommend cost reductions at the Oneida Resident Community Care Center. They also approved to release funds in the amount of $5 million dollars to start the project to avoid more delays and potentially higher costs.

Additions

A travel request for Ed Delgado to the Indian Land Tenure meeting in Minneapolis, MN was approved.

A sponsorship request for a possible LZ Lambeau reunion event on October 8 was discussed. The financial request will be discussed more as the OBC directed the Chief of Staff and General Manager provide recommendations on ways the tribe can provide support for the event.

The next OBC meeting is Wednesday, September 28 at the Norbert Hill Center.

Oneida Resident Centered Care Community Update

Community elders along with Oneida Business Committee (OBC) Chairman Ed Delgado, OBC Councilmembers Brandon Stevens, Melinda Danforth and David Jordan met on Wednesday, September 21 to discuss potential cost saving cuts to the Oneida Resident Centered Care Community (ORCCC).

Community members began expressing concern over a committee that was to be formed under the direction of the OBC to review and pass along any savings measures to lower the overall cost of the ORCCC.

Chairman Delgado expressed concern over the potential high operational costs the facility would have and its impact on the tribe's budget but assured the group the project will be completed without interuption.

The OBC released $5 million dollars for preperation work to begin on the facility and action to release the remaining funds will be taken during the September 28 OBC meeting.

Chairman Delgado went through a short list of the project's cost concerns and addressed how each one was resolved or relieved before saying the committee is no longer needed and no more delays are expected.

"We can't identify any money saving cuts we can do at this stage in the game," said Delgado. "I still think this is more than we can afford. It leaves a lot of questions and I have a very big fear that the operational costs are might be more than we might be able to afford."

The ORCCC will be home to 48 residential apartment complex that will offer a meal site, physical therapy and activity space

Letters & Opinions...

Concerned About Occurrence Within 2011 General Election

The Chairperson of the Election Board knowingly brought a recused Board member back on to work the general election in Milwaukee. This action taken by then Chairperson was never approved by the Board. The Oneida Election Law states in Section 2.4-3. Recusal. An Election Board member shall recuse himself/herself from participating as an Election Board member in any pre-election, election day, or post-election activities while he or she is a petitioner, applicant or candidate in any election or there is otherwise a conflict of interest. The Board also has a standard operating procedure titled "Alternate Board Members" outlining the process to fill temporary vacancies and how and when Board Members should recuse themselves.

A challenge was submitted and accepted by the Appeals Commission (Docket #11-TC-092). The decision of that challenge was: The Oneida Business Committee is directed to investigate the actions of the Oneida Election Board in its application of the Oneida Election Law regarding this matter. The petitioner has proven by clear and convincing evidence that the Election Law was violated by conflicts cited by the petitioner that may or may not have changed the outcome of the election. The petitioner has not substantiated the claim of personal harm as a result of the Election Board's activities in question. This decision was than upheld by the Appellate Court (Docket No.11-AC-019).

This decision seems redundant as it is unclear as to what needs further investigating when it has been determined the Election Law was undeniably violated. Thus, I strongly believe those individuals should be reprimanded and held accountable for their deliberate actions of violating the Election Law.

Anyone elected or appointed to any board, committee or commission takes an oath of office declaring the following:

I, NAME, hereby promise to uphold the laws and regulations of the Oneida Tribe of Indians of Wisconsin, the General Tribal Council, and the Tribal Constitution. I will perform my duties to the best of my ability and on behalf of the Oneida people with honor, respect, dignity and sincerity, and will maintain confidential information with the strictest confidentiality.

I will carry out the duties and responsibilities as a member of the BOARD and all recommendations shall be made in the best interest of the Oneida Tribe, as a whole.

The purpose of the Oneida Election Board is to serve the Oneida membership by conducting fair and orderly Tribal elections in compliance with Tribal law. Therefore, it seems only right and fair to ask those individuals who did not comply with the Election Law to remove themselves as Board members as they are in direct violation of their oath of office they took when being sworn in as Board members.

We are doing a major disservice to our elders who fought so hard to preserve our sovereignty and maintain our right to have Tribal laws. Tribal laws are only words if they are not enforced. There is no sense whatsoever to develop and maintain any Tribal law if there is no reprimand when they are not upheld.

Respectfully,

Racquel "Rocky" (Hill) Pamanet,
Election Board Member
2005-2011

Cage/Vault in Need of Investigation

The manager at IMAC does not listen to the front line employees nor does she back the employees up nor does she understand plain English. She only sees what she wants to see thus making her a type of person with tunnel vision, something or gaming enterprise does NOT need. Or maybe it's not tunnel vision but a reason for her to keep a job that does not need be.

In the Cage/Vault for all three locations (Main, IMAC, W. Mason) we have three (3) managers whom all work 1st shift all of whom have secretaries, three (3) supervisors (office supervisor, two floor supervisors) and a lead person (whom gets paid an extra $2) for under nine (9) front line employees per SHIFT. What the leads basically do for an entire shift is sit in the break rooms, stand/sit in the cage areas up until someone is about to close which is basically at the end of the shift then at the end of the shifts they are busy fro two hours. My question is "Why cant the supervisors do the leads job?" Why are we paying an employee an extra $2 to do what the supervisor can do? The only place I can see where there is a need for three (3) supervisors is W. Mason since they are responsible for the outlets. With only (9) employees per shift I really don't think three (3) managers are needed, nor three (3) supervisors per shift. I have worked outside of gaming and this is by far a big JOKE! Basically what we have going on is management collecting welfare checks.

Our tribe keeps talking about being in a budget crisis that we are overspending in management? Well how long has our tribe been talking about this now, when are we going to take action and do something about this? We have downsized in workers at the Casino in all departments for frontline employees but we still have the same amount of Management, for what? I mean if you're downsizing frontline employees wouldn't you do the same for Management. There are leads/supervisors making $14.96 an hour, plus they get the frontline cashiers tips, plus their differential for 2nd and 3rd shifts so what are they really making and what are they doing to deserve this pay amount? I know at IMAC, nothing! They have time to sit in the break room, smoke with management and visit, play cribbage, play on the computer and MAYBE help the cashiers out when needed. When will people stop being so spineless and speak up for the right of our business and not sell your soul for money. If more people stood up for what they believe in we could stop the wrongdoings our Managers do and work in a better workplace.

Someone PLEASE help this department!

Gladys Dallas

Troubling Social Media Activity

Today during the very first official Oneida Business Committee Meeting, held on Wednesday, September 14, 2010, a copy of Business Committee Councilman Brandon Yellowbird Stevens' FaceBook posts were handed out to everyone sitting in the meeting that wanted a copy. According to the information on the document … the day before the 09/14/11 OBC Meeting, Councilman Brandon YellowBird Stevens stated in his FaceBook post "First meeting of our new Business Committee tomorrow! Buy your tickets early and bring your popcorn." This morning, Councilman YellowBird Stevens posted again stating "The circus is in town! Lol" Councilman Paul Ninham posted comments stating "we could sell tickets to help the Oneida Nation girls basketball team!!!!!!!!!!!" Cher Stevens (Councilman YellowBird Stevens' mother … NIGA's Ernie Stevens, Jr.'s wife) chimed in and posted "We said almost the exact same thing in our staff meeting today …. Let's go to the meeting, who's bringing the popcorn!! Too funny!! And LC, same circus, but the clowns are new! :)" Then Oneida Communications Director Bobbie Webster also made comments on Councilman's Yellowbird's Facebook post. A little later, Councilman Paul Ninham stated "I'm sitting next to the Councilman.....all I need is good coffee!!!!!!!!!" Ryan Turriff wrote "Find a way to help the dealers out, please." Brandon YellowBird Stevens responded "We gotchu you dealers covered Turiff, don't worry about it. Just have to …"What does this say about Councilman Brandon YellowBird Stevens and Councilman Paul Ninham? What does this say about the employees who are "supposed to be" professional and ethical as employees of our tribe? The employees working in high paid positions that have time to be sitting in the Business Committee Meeting today during work hours? Poor, poor leadership, no morals, no ethics, immature, irresponsible, unprofessional, rude, disrespectful and uncooperative! First word that comes to my mind is SABATOGE … from the inside and from the top down.

Oneida Appeals Commission Resignation

Dear Oneida Voters and General Tribal Council Members:

Please accept this as notice of my official resignation from the Oneida Appeals Commission as an elected Oneida Appeals Commissioner. My resignation was submitted and effective immediately on Friday, August 12, 2011. In my resignation letter I stated that I resigned for reasons that include, but are not limited to, the following:

- The primary reason was the hostile work environment created by the Oneida Appeals Commissioners and its employees.
- The Oneida Appeals Commission's gross negligence and failure to protect my rights and interest as an Oneida Appeals Commissioners was unbearable any longer.
- The failure of the Oneida Appeals Commission to uphold the Oneida Appeals Commission rules and the laws that govern them and the Oneida Tribe of Indians as a whole contributed to all the unacceptable behaviors.
- The consistent and constant nepotism and conflicts of interest that are allowed to transpire involving both Oneida Judicial Officers and Oneida Appeals Commission employees became unbearable.
- The Oneida Appeals Commission's failure to take appropriate action to stop and prevent the actions listed above.

The Oneida Appeals Commissioners should be embarrassed and ashamed of all they have allowed to transpire since I took my Oath of Office on October 14, 2009. The activities are careless and reckless at a minimum.

In light of all these disgraceful acts and failures to act, I feel that there can be no trust by me or the people (employees/members) who bring their matters before the Oneida Appeals Commission for consideration and resolution. I have zero confidence in the qualifications, competence, capabilities and capacity of the Oneida Appeals Commission as it currently exists. I believe the Oneida Appeals Commission has abused the responsibility, authority, and autonomy that it was given to them by the Oneida people. I strongly believe the Oneida Appeals Commission authority, practices and rules need to be brought under close inspection, scrutinized, analyzed, revised and supervised by the Oneida General Tribal Council immediately.

Respectfully submitted as official notification to the Oneida Voters and Oneida General Tribal Council Members.

Linda S. Dallas

Campbell's Chunky Soup wrapped up its last Click for Cans Program by donating 5000 cans of soup to Green Bay area food banks on Tuesday, September 13. Packer's Free Safety Nick Collins accepted a trophy that commemorated Green Bay's nine-time dominance in the promotion where fans could visit a website and click on the team they wanted to win to earn the soup donation to their city. Over the 13 years of the promotion, two million cans of Chunky Soup have been donated to food banks across the United States. Oneida accepted a donation of 1000 cans which will be distributed to needy families through Oneida Social Services.

Ellis competes for strong Freedom CC team

Freedom High School junior Aliskwet Ellis approaches her daily cross-country practice with a singular goal, to push herself to run her best time. By bettering her running times she increases her chances of claiming the seventh and final position on a formidable Irish cross-country team.

Ellis has been running cross-country since her sophomore year at Freedom, where she previously participated in only track and field. "I started (cross-country) my sophomore year and then joined again this year. I was in track and had nothing to do in the fall so I thought cross-country would be nice to do," Ellis said.

As it turns out Ellis enjoys running cross-country more so than running track.
